A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c.

SETTLE TARIFF QUESTION BY COMMON SENSE.

Free Trade in Britain has Done More for Shipping Than Subsidies —Protection Arguments, He Says, Have Been Refuted Over and Over Again—Birmingham Meeting a Triumph for Free Speech.

London, Nov. 13. (C.A.P.) — Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Sunderland last night, declared: "The tariff question will be settled, not by the opinions of the dead, but in a practical common sense fashion by the Empire's workingmen. Night and day a tariff war against Great Britain wages ceaselessly in every country of Europe, and industrial spies are at work in England. The colonies look forward to everlasting life, and if England heeds their call that may be attained. Do not run away with the idea that America is the only rooster across the Atlantic. There is a young cock that can crow if needs-be just as lustily. After all she lost by the Alaska award, Canada still possesses 100,000 more acres than the United States. While Minister of Finance for Canada, I made one tariff, revised two, and I give my word that if England adopts protection it will be the foreigner and not the consumer that pays the tax."

Bulwark of British Shipping.

London, Nov. 13.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Edward Grey; speaking at West Bromwick last night, said: "We are not alone in the trade depression. Free trade has been a greater bulwark for British shipping than all the subsidies given by foreign Governments have proved. Remember that Canada has not asked us to abandon our free trade policy, and in Australia the vast body of public opinion is against it. The protection arguments have been refuted over and over again, and last, but not least, by two young Daniels who have escaped safely from the lion's den and gone back to London to support Premier Balfour just so long as he does not formally promulgate his fiscal policy."

A Free Speech Triumph.

London, Nov. 13.—(C.A.P.)—Moore Bayles, chairman of the Cecil-Churchill meeting, says: "The meeting was a striking triumph for free speech. It was essential that the Birmingham public should have the opportunity of hearing the Unionist views, adverse to the unadulterated protection advocated by Mr. Chamberlain. I am as great a Tory as ever, and my free trade instincts have been hardened like steel by the fire through which they have passed."

As to Prof. Ashley.

London, Nov. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily News says: "It is distressing to find Prof. Ashley a strong supporter of Chamberlain. His economic heresies, however, acquired were probably strengthened at Toronto University and further fortified at Harvard."

The Financial News says: "It is noteworthy that Prof. Ashley, who knows the Empire by contact with the chief daughter, and who knows the needs of the great manufacturing city of the Midlands, should break away from his theory-spinning colleagues. One wonders what would be the effect upon them of a trip round the Empire, shoulder rubbing with artizans and practical business men."

Hope in the Colonies.

London, Nov. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Express says: "The greater part of the enormous bill we incurred with foreign countries during the last three-quarters of the year was for goods that the colonies are as well capable of producing as foreigners, and if we had thought of the colonies instead, we would have increased the wealth and property of our kinsmen and the power of the British Empire. We did not do it because in the past we have ignored the great possibilities of the colonies and our capitalists have helped the foreigner to develop his estates."

More Education Needed.

London, Nov. 13.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Haldane, speaking at a Liberal meeting at Westminster, said that if the fiscal question was not for the party he would like to know what was. It was no new thing. Some industries were hit hard by foreign tariffs. During the last 25 years British exports increased 40 per cent., and population 25 per cent. More education was needed. In Germany manufacturers took their scientific problems to State institutions and had them solved at a small fee.

Joseph Arch's View.

London, Nov. 13.—(C.A.P.)—Joseph Arch, writing his birthday message to laborers, says: "This is my 77th birthday. Pray don't be deluded by Chamberlain's protection scheme or Balfour's retaliation dodge. Chamberlain's scheme is for rich men, not poor."

Is Too Preposterous.

London, Nov. 13.—(C.A.P.)—Robert Smillie, president of the Scotch Miners' Association, interview in London Wednesday, said: "The claim that Scottish miners are Chamberlain's converts is too preposterous for words."

Disparaging Goldwin Smith.

London, Nov. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Post makes an onslaught on Goldwin Smith in a recent article on Canada, the Empire, and Chamberlain.

STREET CAR STRIKE.

Desperate Onslaughts on Non-Union Car Workers by the Strikers in Chicago —Many Persons Injured.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Constant scenes of disorder over a district of approximately 50 square miles resulted yesterday from the inauguration of a strike on the Chicago City Railway, one of the two principal local surface companies. All along the lines, wherever cars were started, strike sympathizers made desperate onslaughts on the crews. The tie-up through the south side to the business district, where the company operates, was complete. A number of cars were wrecked, and that no person was killed was no fault of the rioters. One man had his back broken, and the first shot of the strike was fired at Wentworth avenue and West 69th street, where a mob of several hundred persons tried to hold up a train.

Many persons, chiefly non-union street car men, were injured by flying stones or splintered glass. Two women were among those hurt. Excepting a few dozen passengers who had to flee from the cars, 300,000 daily patrons of the company were forced to all sorts of vehicles to get down town and back. With faces and hands bleeding from the attacks of the strikers, motormen, gripmen and conductors tried to run trains, returned to the barns and refused to go out again unless the trains bore platoons of police or patrol wagons were alongside. Under orders from Mayor Harrison, whose announced purpose was to preserve an impartial attitude, the police confined their efforts to clearing blockades and crowds from the streets.

Before nightfall President D. G. Hamilton and General Counsel Bliss of the railway company, after endeavoring to operate cars in defiance of the strike, announced after a conference with Mayor Harrison that the attempt would be abandoned for the day. The railway officials declare that 80 per cent. of their employes are loyal, and if accorded sufficient police protection they will be able to operate their cars. A further effort to run cars, each car accompanied by a squad of police in a patrol wagon, will probably be made to-day. As a result of the tie-up of the surface lines, the elevated and steam roads traversing the strike district were taxed to their utmost capacity. 'Bus lines, hacks and express wagons also did a thriving business.

The strike is the outgrowth of persistent efforts for increased wages and exclusion of non-union employes. About 3,000 men, practically the entire force of the company's wage earners, are out. The company's stationary firemen, to whom the trainmen looked for assistance, declined to strike, although they have demanded higher wages. The firemen have offered their services to the company as mediators, but the company has announced no decision on the proffer.

The following notice has been issued by Mayor Harrison as a warning: Citizens should keep off the streets—that is, they should not congregate along the street car lines where there is apt to be trouble. It is generally in a crowd of curiosity seekers that difficulties start. For their own safety and to avoid disturbances they should stay away from places where there is a probability of a ruction. The street railway men have announced that it will be a peaceful strike and that the members of the union have been instructed to refrain from violence. Citizens should endeavor to make this possible.

When an attempt is made to resume operations to-day, each train will carry half a dozen policemen. Derogatory remarks regarding the union by an armed non-union employe of the company caused a riot at 36th and State streets last night. The man was chased into an engine house and a mob of 2,000 persons howled for his life. A squad of police finally quelled the disturbance.

THE COAL AWARD.

First Legal Decision Re. Finding of Anthracite Strike Commission.

Sunbury, Nov. 13.—Judge Auten has rendered an opinion that by law the decision of the Anthracite Strike Commission is not binding on either the miners or the operators. This is the first legal decision on the subject.

Mitchell Abides by It.

Boston, Nov. 13.—After reading the Sunbury, Pa., despatch concerning the court finding that the decision of the anthracite strike commission is not binding either to miner or operator, John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said to-day. "If the award of the commission created an implied contract that the decision would be lived up to, I cannot see why the finding does not bind parties to the proceedings." Mr. Mitchell did not wish to express an opinion on the question whether in fact an implied contract was created.

Coal Strike Unchanged.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 13.—The coal strike situation in Colorado is practically unchanged. Rumors of a conference between operators and union looking toward settlement, lack confirmation.

Great Reception.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Madame Adelina Patti, who sang in the Arena last night, received a great reception from a big audience and had to respond to repeat encores. The famous singer will leave to fill engagements in the States and will sing in Toronto.

THE WARD SYSTEM.

The city of Kingston has, five years after Peterborough, awakened to a realization of the fact it believes the abolition of the ward system would be a desirable thing. This fact causes the question to arise as to whether the present system in vogue here is a satisfactory one, and from the absence of any complaints to it, the conclusion must be arrived at that it is fairly satisfactory.

No doubt Kingston, with her characteristic "canniness," will be glad to learn of the opinions expressed by progressive towns where this modern method of representation is by election of the whole municipality, and the suggestion is made that should the Limestone City wish to learn further of the best methods of city administration, any information will be gladly accorded by those in authority in this, the most progressive town in Canada. The Whig referring to the ward system abolition says:

"It is proposed that the aldermen be elected by the whole city, and that so far as this section is concerned, ward divisions be abolished.

"Two great results will follow this change of procedure, if it takes place. There will be an end of canvassing. No person for a seat at the council will think of calling upon the electors and discussing his candidature with them. He must rest his case upon its merits.

"It may be said that this would operate against the modest man, the one who is not advertising himself, and the one who may, nothwithstanding, possess all the qualifications for useful service. The people are discriminating. They know the men of business, of energy, in the community, and they can, if they will, select those who by nature and education and experience, are fitted to serve them best. This is the first result.

"Then there will be an end of the quarrelling over ward expenditures. The aldermen who represent the whole city will be careful to know the districts in which public works are most required, and they will be prepared to act with the judgment which the circumstances warrant. There is no doubt that there has been some 'pull' in ward matters, and it has been exercised by the chairmen of these wards. The expenditure has been largely under their direction. The other members may have a 'say' upon the question but it is the 'say' of the members of the Board of Works that counts, and while ward limitations exist there will be dissatisfaction if one part of the city gets more than another, and more than its alleged share. A change in the mannor of representation would broaden men's vision. They would see farther than the boundaries of their immediate neighbourhood. This would be the second result, and it is worth working for.

"There are other considerattions, but the two herewith cited are sufficient in themselves for serious consideration."

THE WOOLLEN TRADE.

(Hamilton Times.)

The question of the tariff as it affects the woollen industry has of late been much discussed, and anything that tends to throw light on the situation is of interest to the Canadian people. A Montrealer, who is in close touch with the trade, contributes to the Witness a careful review of the field, which contains much that newspaper readers generally should know. He points out that in the New England States the textile trade is flat and curtailment is the order of the day. In England, he says, "scores of mills have for months past been running on short time. In Lancashire the situation has been going from bad to worse until it has culminated in a crisis that has closed hundreds of mills and cast thousands of operatives adrift on the pulic charity." Both cotton and woollen trade suffer from high prices of raw material. The odd situation is thus described:

"Cross-bred wool, which cost sevenpence a pound last September, costs at this moment a shilling, and the end is not yet. All this time the prices of finished goods in both cases have undergone no proportionate change. This is notably so in the case of woollens, which, outside of merinos, have hardly at all participated in the raw advance. The situation in Yorkshire, as compared with Lancashire and Canada, is anomolous, and would be perfectly inexplicable save on the supposition that the Yorkshire men, with more pluck and greater resources, covered themselves twelve months ago on a market at zero, with raw material, which is not yet exhausted, while Lancashire men and Canadians contented themselves to buy from hand to mouth and take the risk of being left out in the cold."

Canadian cotton men were more fortunate, or more enterprising, and were not caught short of raw material. In woollen trade the trouble is aggravated by over stocks of manufactured goods that concessions will not sell. The situation, it will be readily admitted, is unfortunate, but it is no sense due to the tariff. The writer from whom we have quoted says:—

"The original tariff of 1878 was, under the circumstances, a fair measure of protection, till encumbered with those specific duties which levied an extra 40 per cent. on the labouring classes, and finally drove the country to revolt. If any trade in this country has been pampered it is the woollen trade. Indeed, there is some reason to fear that the coddling it has received has emasculated its stamina, and rendered it unfit to stand the bracing and invigorating brush of a healthy competition. To-day imported woollens in the net cost fully 30 per cent. to lay down. There is the duty, 22 per cent.; packing charges, inland carriage, handling to Liverpool, marine insurance, freight, interest on cash outlay on the various items aforesaid enumerated, all of which cost nearer 35 per cent. than 30 per cent. to the person who imports the goods. On certain classes of goods it can be verified that the packing charges are 2 1-2 per cent. of the value of the invoice; and those same, bulky goods, carried by a measurement and not a weight standard, must cost for freight alone five per cent. more. There is no romancing about this. It is all a question of figures, and all things considered, it seems that an importer, to be sure he is on the right side should not charge himself less than 35 per cent. to lay down British goods."

If the industry has now an effective protection equal to about 35 per cent. against Great Britain—and it is not contended that United States competition presses—it will require some very cogent reasons that do not lie on the surface to get the Government to impose further taxes on the people to aid it. After half a century of experience, during which time it has had little to complain of as to Government favours, it should have pretty well got hold of the trade, if it had studied to meet the demands. Government has all the country's interests to consider; all are equal before it, and it cannot guarantee any business against mistakes in management or failure to grasp golden opportunities.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

Good News for Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 12.—After being idle for six months the ground wood pulp mill started at full capacity yesterday and shipments of pulp are being also resumed. The saw mill and the veneer plant may re-open shortly.

Advice to Women

STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.

This is a very important consideration in a woman's correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. It is a great satisfaction to feel that one woman can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only,—a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and with a knowledge of woman's ills greater than that possessed by any other person.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent and often by special request of the writer.

The reason Mrs. Pinkham is so amply qualified to give advice in cases of female ills is for the reason that over one hundred thousand cases come before her each year,—some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day. Twenty years of constant success,—think of the knowledge thus gained. Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

As an illustration of the good coming from such advice we herewith publish two letters of Mrs. E. F. Hayes, the reading of which should give every sick woman confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's ability to help them. These are only two of thousands of the same kind of letters which Mrs. Pinkham has on file.

Mrs Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describes my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 253 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice — although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine — which she knew would help her — her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"Your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 253 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness thus gained by Mrs. Hayes.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends. Do not be persuaded that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who suggests something else has no interest in your case. He is seeking a larger profit. Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that the thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by GOVERNMENT ENTERPRISE.

Winter Will Bring no Cessation of Colonisation Road Works.

In conformity with the aggressive development policy of the Ontario Government, the Department of Public Works has decided this year to go right ahead all winter with road making in the Temiscamingue district, and tenders have been called for, for the clearing of upwards of fifty miles. It will of course be impossible to complete the work in the winter, but it will be carried as far as possible, and completed in the spring. Tenders are to be in by the 23rd of November.

The most of the new roads will be a continuation of the main road running northwest from New Liskeard. It is hoped that by the end of next summer the main road will be completed to the height of land, a distance of from 100 to 125 miles from New Liskeard, just beyond the height of land is the Abitibi District, in which new townships have been surveyed this summer. When the Abitibi and Temiscamingue districts are connected by a roadway it will be an epoch in the development of the country.

INLAND CANALS ARE SUCCESSFUL.

The Mersey-Weaver Canal to be Extended.

For the benefit of those "doubting Thomases," who continuously express their opinion that inland canals are a failure, the following from the Winnipeg "Free Press," may be quoted:

"The success of the Manchester ship canal has given rise to a still greater canal scheme for the English Midlands. It is proposed to extend the Mersey-Weaver canal, which runs from the Mersey estuary to Winsford, Cheshire, so as to admit of the passage of steamers of 300 tons to the Potteries, Wolverhampton and Birmingham. There is a small canal already existing, which only carries barges of from 25 to 50 tons, and china and earthenware manufacturers are enthusiastically in favour of a waterway which would enable them to secure their china clays in larger bulk and export ware without transhipment, and consequently at much less expense. The local Chambers of Commerce are expected to furnish substantial aid to the enterprise."

IN DEFENCE OF CANADIAN GIRLS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I read with interest, but not approval the harsh and unwarranted criticisms made on Canadian girls, by an English writer, the article being in your issue of yesterday. Now, sir, I cannot agree with the writer. I have travelled in different countries, and an Englishwoman, least of all should make use of such remarks referring to Canadian girls as this writer is reported to have made.

If there is one thing, and I say this after having seen the girls of other countries, that Canada can be justly proud of, it is her fresh-cheeked, clear-eyed, winter girl. Our invigorating climate has done much for our girls.

In no country in the world will you see so many healthy, well-formed girls as on the streets of our Canadian cities—and Peterborough is in the van of them all.

Their outdoor life is largely responsible for this. The Canadian girl is not a frail hot-house flower, sitting in the house protecting herself from every draught, every breath of air. Not a day passes that she does not have her walk, or drive or skate.

By the way, what a boon the skating rink is to the girl who is confined in a place of business all day. Go to almost any one of our rinks and you will find them crowded with the young women who all day have stood behind the counter, or been seated at the typewriter, or before a set of books. The cold air, the motion, the invigorating exercise, fairly puts new life into them, and tones up bodies and spirits that are sadly in need of those most excellent tonics, fresh air and exercise.

An American who was recently visiting in our city said to a man friend: "By Jove! What complexions your women have! How do they manage it?

The Canadian said:

"Oh, just plenty of God's out-of-doors, walking, instead of street cars, and less of pastry than your American women indulge in."

Perhaps it was not exactly the retort courteous, but for all that it was very true.

Our girls recognize the value of physical culture. They know that good complexions are born of strong nerves, healthy constitutions, good circulation, and so they learn much of the pure joy of living.

It is a goodly thing to be a Canadian girl in the twentieth century.

AN ADMIRER OF CANADIAN GIRLS.

TAINTED MILK AND ITS CAUSE

A Specific Case Attributed to Beet Sugar Tops.

A milk man who for fifteen years has supplied his patrons with first-class milk,—milk, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion — encountered a wail on Monday and Tuesday from his patrons, the milk being simply unusable. On being spoken to on the subject, the hoteal merchant explained that the only reason he could think of for his milk going bad, was that recently his stock had had access to the leaves of the sugar beet, and had, presumably, eaten freely of the leaves, with an injurious effect upon the milk. Unless the cows had eaten some noxious weed to produce the result complained of, it is possible that the beet leaves may have had a bad effect. Farmers state that while turnips may be judiciously fed to cows, without impairment of the milk quality, the feeding of the leaves or "tops" destroys the palatability of the milk entirely. It is known that the pulp of the sugar beet is fad to stock without any unsatisfactory result, but the leaves may possibly do the mischief.

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throb. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

UNITED STATESERS DENOUNCED.

Colon, Nov. 13.—The Royal Mail steamer Orinoco arrived here yesterday morning, bringing news of General Torres and the Colombian troops she took from here after the proclamation of the Republic of Panama. On the arrival of Gen. Torres and his troops at Cartagena the news of events on the Isthmus quickly spread, and the general and his officers were threatened with arrest as traitors. The threat was not put into effect.

The populace, greatly excited, soon crowded the streets, crying "Down with the Americans." United States Consul Ingersoll, fearing violence, remained in the consulate. The excitement at Barranquilla increased with the spreading of the news of the secession of the Isthmus, which was supplemented by exaggerated accounts of the alleged part played by the United States. Panama's declaration of independence was read from a newspaper by the prefect to a crowd in the Plaza, and was greeted by furious outcries and shouts of "Death to the Panamanians" and "Death to the Americans." The prefect followed the reading by a speech in which he declared that the Colombian Government would never permit the secession of the Isthmus and would win back the lost territory at any cost. The crowd in the Plaza indulged in many extravagant threats.

United States Vice-Consul Lovelace was sitting on a balcony of his house at Barranquilla last night when several stones were thrown at him. He went inside and was not further molested. The people of Barranquilla seem to have been swept off their balance by the suddenness and seriousness of the news.

BROCKVILLE HAT CASE.

Evidence Against P. Quigge, Said to Have Done the Damage.

Brockville, Nov. 13.—F. Quigge, an ex-employe of the Union Hat Works, who was remainded to jail last week, appeared before the magistrate yesterday, and was committed for trial on a charge of destroying the property of his former employers.

Two witnesses gave evidence for the Crown. Their evidence went to show the prisoner confessed to them that he had been paid $45 by C. J. Altman, an ex-member of the Union Hat Works Company, to arrange for the destruction of hats by tampering with a finishing machine, causing it to punch a hole in every hat. In this way about $4,000 worth of hats were perforated.

The prisoner had confessed to seeing C. J. Altman mix up the dyes with malicious intent.

C. J. Altman, who is also under arrest, will appear before the magistrate to-day. The case is creating a great deal of interest, as the Hat Works Company was given a bonus only a year ago, and left St. Johns, Que., to establish a factory here.

THE STRENUOUS LIFE

A Great Strain.

No one disputes the fact that we are living in a "rapid" age; it is rush, rush, rush, from morning until night, and competition is so fierce that the struggle does not cease until the machine is worn out.

Women, too, even when surrounded by every comfort, become infected with the common spirit, and what with social clubs and many social duties, there is no time to give thought to their physical well-being, until they are suddenly brought to a sharp realization of the fact that nothing is so important as attention to correct or rational living.

It may surprise the reader to learn that women are more prone to piles than men, and in most cases because it is difficult to impress upon them the importance of regular movement of the bowels; irregularity means straining at stool, and straining means piles, with the certainty, under the usual methods of treatment, that the sufferer will "have them always with her;" by "usual methods" is meant the application of salves and lotions, or (as a last resort) a surgical operation.

If there is a complaint which entails more distress and suffering upon those afflicted than piles or hemorrhoids, it is not known to the writer; fortunately however these are learning that there is a remedy that effectually cures all forms of piles; it is known as the Pyramid Pile Cure, is in suppository form, is applied directly to the parts, and does its work quickly and painlessly; it is sold by druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mrs. L. M. Joliff, Pharisburg, Ohio, says, "I feel it my duty to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of Pyramid Pile Cure. For several months I suffered untold agony from the bleeding piles and was finally advised by a Columbus doctor to get Pyramid Pile Cure at once, which I did, and one box completely cured me. I advise all sufferers to use it." Write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles.

Bondites Beat Britons.

Cape Town, Nov. 13.—Elections Wednesday for members of the Legislative Council passed off quietly. The elections were the first trial of strength since the war in South Africa between the progressives, or British, and the Bondites, or Dutch. The results will not be known until to-day, but the indications are that the Bondites will be victorious.

FELL UNDER A TRAIN

RUNNING TO BOARD TRAIN.

He Missed His Footing and Fell Under the Wheels—Unfortunate Man's Body Was Horribly Mangled, Besides Being Cut in Two—Popular in Athletic Circles—Leaves Wife and Two Children.

London, Nov. 13.—Harold Southam, son of Richard Southam of the Southam Printing and Lithographing Company, met a terrible death last evening about 8 o'clock at the Grand Trunk depot. He had been saying good-bye to some friends, who were going west on the Pacific Express, and as the train began to move rushed for the door of the car. In some manner he tripped on the steps, but clung to the railing. He was dragged for some distance in full view of a number of spectators, when he swung under the car, the wheels passing over his body, cutting it in two and mangling it fearfully. Death was instantaneous. Mr. Southam was one of the best known and most popular young men in London, and was known in all branches of amateur sport from one end of the province to the other. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Russell Bryce Killed.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Killed by a train as he was crossing the tracks at Dunn avenue late yesterday afternoon, the body of young Russell Bryce lay for five hours within ten yards of the sidewalk unnoticed, until found by his grandfather and another anxious searcher.

Russell, who was the fifteen-year-old son of Mrs. Bryce, widow of the late J. W. Bryce, 48 Cowan avenue, was last seen alive by his cousin, Mearns, by name, whom he met on Dunn avenue shortly after 5 o'clock. Young Mearns had some errands to do for his father, the Queen street florist, and Russell volunteered to go down to Starr avenue while his cousin went in another direction, agreeing to meet again as soon as possible in front of the Home for Incurables.

Mearns returned, but saw no signs of Bryce, and thinking that he was late for the appointment, went home to tea, but in the evening went over to his chum's home on Cowan avenue. Alarm at his absence then became acute, and Mrs. Bryce communicated with ex-Ald. Thos. Bryce, Russell's grandfather, who, with H. W. Gain, instituted a search that resulted in finding the body about 9.30 lying beside a post, against which he had apparently been hurled by the 5.20 C.P.R. express. His head was badly broken and marked, but the extent of his other injuries will not be known until the inquest to-night.

An Engineer Killed.

Petrolea, Nov. 13.—James Northcott, an employe of the Ontario Land and Oil Company here, met with a terrible death Wednesday morning. He was employed as night watchman on a pumping rig, and worked alone at the engine house from midnight till noon. When his relief arrived at the enginehouse at noon he discovered Northcott's lifeless body lying beside the big driving belt, with the neck and right leg broken and head and body terribly crushed. It is supposed he was fixing something about the belt, when his clothes were caught and his body drawn in between the pulley wheel and the husk block.

Struck by a Train.

Ingersoll, Nov. 13.—A democrat wagon was demolished, the occupant, Albert Copeman, a young man probably 24 years of age, was hurled a considerable distance, sustaining a fracture of his left collar bone, and severe bruises, by an engine of a freight train at the Wonham street crossing of the G. T. R. Wednesday forenoon. The horse escaped uninjured.

A Boy's Awful Death.

New York, Nov. 13.—A despatch from Forest, Miss., says that Henry Bailey, son of a well-known planter, has been killed by being packed in a bale of cotton at a ginnery near Lemons, having in some manner fell into the press without being noticed. The tragedy was only discovered by a shoe heel seen protruding when the bale was removed.

Helpless, She Drifted.

Parry Sound, Nov. 13.—The crew of the American steam-barge Seattle arrived here last night after a rough experience. The Seattle left here Wednesday morning laden with lumber and bound for Detroit. When about 40 miles out the engine broke down. The vessel, then in a helpless condition, drifted ashore on Green Island, about 20 miles from Red Rock Light. It was blowing a heavy gale from the southwest and the crew had an uncomfortable experience. Half of the deck load was carried away. The steamer and cargo will probably be a total loss.

To Call the Legislature.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 13.—The Government members held a meeting yesterday to consider the advisability of calling a special session of the Nova Scotia Legislature to consider the divorcing of the two big Cape Breton companies, but no date was fixed. Premier Murray stated that the Legislature would be called at an early date.

Urged to Open Speedily.

London, Nov. 13.—The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent says the United States Minister at Seoul, Corea, has presented a note urging that Corea speedily open the port of Yongampho.

A Wonderful Book.

As a work for family reference there was probably never compiled a more useful book than Dr. Chase's Receipt Book. Besides containing the symptoms of diseases, their cause and cure and the great prescriptions gathered together during a half century of medical practice, it his book is replete with receipts for cooking, and has a complete department devoted to the care of farm stock, bees, domestic animals, etc. For full particulars write Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WRENCHED A BOY'S TONGUE.

Female School Teacher Says He Made Faces at Her.

Rochester, Nov. 13.—Justice Tucker of Albion yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Miss Hettie Bodine, who teaches in West Barre, Orleans County. Leonard Standish, a ten-year-old pupil, did something to annoy Miss Bodine. She commanded the lad to put out his tongue, and when he complied she took hold of it and gave it a jerk, wrenching it loose. The boy fell in a faint and blood gushed from his mouth. He was immediately carried home and attended by Dr. Ogden, who found the tongue loosened at the roots. Parents of the injured boy lost no time in securing a warrant. Miss Bodine's defence, it is said, is that Standish made faces at her and she took this method to stop him. There is great indignation in the neighborhood.

ANCIENT CONCEPTION OF SYSTEM OF THE UNIVERSE.

Every seat in the Y.M.C.A. Hall was taken last night, when Professor Baker, of Toronto University, delivered an interesting, if somewhat technical lecture, under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club, the subject being "The Beginnings of Astronomy."

The evening was opened by a piano solo, by Miss Alice Roger, the selection being Mendelssohn's prelude in E minor. The piece is a very difficult one, filled with passages which can only be interpreted by a good musician, and was excellently translated by the player. Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot sang "Can I Forget?" by Reginald Grove, which was encored, Mrs. Wilmot in answer graciously singing "A Sweet Wild Rose." Her voice is a charming one, and displays at once the delicate touches of excellent training. It can with sincerity be remarked that a great drawing card to any concert will be the presence of her name on the programme.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, the president of the club, in a few appropriate words, introduced the speaker.

On rising, Professor Baker said: "I propose to sketch with what measure of fullness the compass of an hour affords, the successive steps by which man advanced from his primitive conception of the universe, to the theory at present held. Especially do I wish to point out how naturally and necessarily, almost, the advance from one step to the next, in this process of scientific evolution, was made, until the truth was finally attained. The solution of no other problem has been attended with such prodigious results. In the beginning man thought himself and his little world the centre of the universe, which revolved about him and was subordinate to his world. At last he knows that the world revolves about and is subordinate to the sun, which, in turn, is but one of the countless millions of stars that throng the infinite depths of space."

The lecturer attributed this advance in knowledge to the genius, devotion and toil of man. Astronomical study, he said, consisted in observation, and in the framing of hypotheses to explain the result of that observation. He pointed out at some length the difficulties the earlier astronomers had to contend with, the appearances they had to explain, and the degree of closeness with which some approached the truth. These early scientists first noted the result of the revolution of the earth on its axis every 24 hours, and the rising of the sun, moon, planets and stars in the east, and their journey across the sky, setting finally in the west. Their second observation would be the appearance resulting from the revolution of the earth and planets about the sun. Thirdly, they would observe the appearance resulting from motion in an ellipse; the planets moving about the sun in ellipses, not in circles. They would also note that the moon varied in size, from which they would infer that its distance from the earth varied. This change in size was due to that orb having an elliptical motion, which at times would hide portions. Such appearances would need the closest attention of the early observers, with the use of such rude instruments as they possessed, to detect. Professor Baker enunciated the four following observations apparent to the ancient astronomers:

1. The daily motion of the whole heavens from east to west.
2. The annual motion of the sun, and the monthly motion of the moon, amongst the stars from west to east.
3. The continual change in the rate of these motions.
4. The progressive, retrograde and stationary appearance of the stars.

They were quite unconscious that the chief cause of these appearances was the motion of their own earth, which they firmly believed to be at rest. They believed the sun at setting went under the earth, and then round to the east by way of the north, on the River Oceanus, which latter they thought surrounded the flat earth. They theorized that night was caused by the elavation of the northern part of the earth intercepting the rays of the sun during this northern transit.

The first real theory of the system of the universe was that the stars were fixed in a crystaline sphere, which during the day revolved once about the earth. For the fixed stars the idea was complete and satisfactory but as observation continued it was noticed that besides moving from east to west the sun and moon had a motion among the stars from west to east accomplished in a year and a month respectively. As this did not fear out the theory, the spheres were multiplied. There were, however, somewhat later, other theories offered, which were remarkably close to the truth, but these were discredited. Aristarchus of Samos, who lived in the first half of the second century, B.C., is reported by Archimedes to have taught that the earth turned on its axis, that it revolved about the sun and further that the distance of the sphere of the stars was so great that the radius of the earth's orbit was evanescent compared with it. Later ancient astrologers observed that the moon seemed to move faster at times than at others, thus the theory of the crystelline spheres was abandoned for that of eccentrics and epicycles. "An eccentric," said the speaker, "is a circle capable of moving about a point not its centre, or which is viewed from a point not its centre, while an epicycle is a circle carried on another called the deferent." In some cases in the explanation of inequalities in the moon's motion eccentrics and epicycles were combined in a wonderfully ingenious and complex manner.

The Ptolemaic system placed the earth at the centre of a universe and the other planets in the following order. The moon, Mercury, Venus, the sun, Mars, Jupitor, Saturn. Ptolemy belonged to the second century of the Christian era. His system continued to be received until the beginning of the sixteenth century when the system now universally accepted was discovered.

The lecturer then minutely dealt with the theories put forth by Kepler and Newton. Having shown the progress of mankind from his earliest conception of the cosmos, to the theory as at present received, Professor Baker turned back and carefully, and with impression, contrasted the earliest notions of the world itself and its relation to the space in which it was supposed to rest, with the immensity of the universe as at present understood, later dealing in turn with the distance of the sun from the earth, and the reckoning of stellar distances in light years.

In conclusion Prof. Baker spoke of astrology as the science of the future, considering it one of more scientific import than any of the other sciences. He touched upon the question as to whether the millions of worlds in the sea of space around us, are inhabited or not, suggesting if that is the case, to what length these other beings may have penetrated the secrets of the universe.

A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Dumble, and seconded by Mr. H. Burnett, was suitably responded to by the lecturer. Mr. A. P. Poussette also added a few words of appreciation of the most interesting and thoughtful lecture. The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

PUBLIC LIBRARY WAS INSPECTED

By Dr. May, Superintendent of Libraries and Art Schools

Dr. May, Superintendent of Public Libraries and Art Schools, for Ontario, visited Peterborough last night for the purpose of inspecting the Peterborough Public Library. Dr. May was met by Dr. Burnham, President of the Library Board and Messrs. J. English and R. Robertson, members of the Board, who took him through the library and reading rooms.

The superintendent expressed himself as being highly pleased with the condition of the rooms and library, and intimated that his report to the Government would be favourable.

He found that the management of the institution compared very favourably with similar institutions in much larger cities. The library is kept supplied with the best of the newest literature, and the quantity of periodicals upon the reading room tables would do credit to any city library.

Dr. Burnham, President of the Board naturally feels a degree of satisfaction at the expressions of approval given by the superintendent, as he has taken a deep interest in the welfare of the library, and it is largely due to his efficient management that the library is in its present splendid condition.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR BOYS' CONCERT.

A Good Programme to be Rendered To-night.

The concert to be given to-night by the Choir Boys of St. John's Church promises to be a great success. The programme will be almost identical with that presented at the last concert given by this organization, and so popular was it that numerous requests have come from those who heard it then, for its repitition. This, the management has consented to, and those who were fortunate enough to hear it at its first rendering will again have the privilege of enjoying it.

The programme, as before, will be under the direction of Mr. Jos. Halpany, to whose energetic work its first success was largely due.

The programme to be presented in St. John's School Room at 8 o'clock to-night will be as follows:—

Chorus—When the Band Begins to Play
Solo—"When the Sunset Turns Ocean's Blue to Gold" ... Mr. Haque Sawers
Duet—"It was the Dutch" ... ... Frank and Carl Halpany
Solo—"I will Help the Maple Leaf to Live" ... ... Roy Dixon

MYRA FALLIS DIED AS RESULT OF BURNS.

Second Victim of Manvers Sunday Night Fire.

Word has been received in town of the death of little Myra Fallis, who, with her brother, Newton, was burned on Sunday night in Manvers. It will be remembered that the two children went to the barn with a lantern on Sunday night, when, the lantern exploding set fire to the barn, and burned the boy to a crisp. The little girl was also very severely burned, but hopes were entertained for her recovery. She was so badly burned, however, that she died from her injuries.

THE DREDGE "TRENT" TO RESUME WORK.

Will Dredge Tail Race to the Cereal Company's New Power House.

The dredge "Trent," which for some time has been working down the river at the "Yankee Bonnet," has returned, and will resume work below the Cereal Company's dam, dredging the tail race for the new power house. The dredge was taken under the C.P.R. bridge this morning, by sinking her and taking off all the top fittings. It is expected that there will be sufficient work to be done to occupy the entire winter.

"DOING GOOD BY STEALTH"

Letter From Anonymous Writer Which Cannot be Used.

The Examiner has received an anonymous communication purporting to have been written by a member of the medical profession, calling attention to the unsanitary condition of the town, and, incidentally, mentioning the fact that in the writer's belief the plumbing of a certain local firm is of a good quality.

The attention of the writer is called to the fact that it is contrary to newspaper usage to publish unsigned letters, and, in any case, the advertising columns of the Examiner are the proper place for epistles of this kind.

CALLAGHAN REMANDED.

Told the Magistrate he Wanted Time to Consider Before Pleading.

W. H. Callaghan, the jailed author of the Crossin Piano stock ghost story, was arraigned in the Police Court, Toronto, yesterday, charged with having stolen on October 19th last, $180 from the Crossin Company. Callaghan appeared very ill at ease.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked Colonel Denison, after he had read over the charge to the prisoner. "Or do you want time to consider?"

Callaghan replied after a little hesitation that he wished to consider and intended to get a lawyer to defend him.

"How long time would you like?" questioned the Magistrate.

"To-morrow, I guess," was the reply, and he was remanded for a day. As he was going downstairs Callaghan asked if he could not have bail.

"You'll have to consult the Crown Attorney about that," said Colonel Denison.

EXTENSIVE FIRE AT BUCKHORN

Old Hall Saw Mill and House Destroyed This Morning.

Mr. J. W. Irwin, of Harvey, was in town to-day, and brought word that the remains of the old Hall mill at Buckhorn, along with a rough cast house adjoining it was on fire and totally destroyed. The fire started at 3 o'clock this morning and its origin is unknown. A portion of the bridge and wooden dam was burning, but it was not thought that they would be destroyed. The mill had not been used for some years, and was practically of no value, while the house was also unoccupied.

DESCRIPTION OF LIFE AT BLACKFOOT.

Interesting Letter Written by Miss Alice Scott.

The many friends of Miss Alice Scott, both those connected with St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary and others will doubtless be interested in the following letter written by her and read at the last meeting of St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary.

It was not written for publication, but the subject matter is so interesting that at the request of the Examiner, Mrs. McGregor, to whom it was addressed, has consented to its publication. The letter follows:—

Blackfoot Hospital, Oct. 23, 1903.

My dear friends of the Senior and Junior branches of St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary,—Knowing how interested you all are in the work here, I am going to tell you something about the Indians themselves and also about my hospital duties. The majority of them are lazy, dirty and indifferent, roaming here and there just living in the present with no hope, and no particular aim in life; but when you meet an Indian never judge by his outward appearance, for there is much and I might say very much in him which draws us toward him. God gave them the bright sun to shine over them as He did us, and He also gave His dear Son, who died for them as well as us.

Their dress is very amusing to us and in fact the Indian possesses a certain sense of humour which reveals itself now and again. There are some, outside of the Home, who wear civilized dress but as soon as they leave, the old garb is again resorted to, especially the women who love the gaudy colours, beads, bracelets, rings and large leathern girdles. The men wear their hair in two long braids, a shirt of some description, a pair of blanket trousers, moccasins (very seldom stockings,) and a bright coloured kerchief knotted about the head. A large blanket sets off the dress and it is very hard sometimes to tell whether a man or a woman is coming towards you. The old men and very often the babies are painted a dark reddish colour.

I will now tell you a few things, for there are only a few things, which constitute a woman's wardrobe. We will begin with ornaments first. Bracelets of brass, leathers and bones six or seven on each wrist, beads around the neck and a wide belt studded with brass and very often beautifully worked with small beads, from which very often hangs a knife enclosed in the same material. Their dress, all in one piece and cut very loosely falls to the ankels and from there down moccassins.

I am now coming to the hospital work. At present we have three patients, a man who had his thigh broken, a boy who fell in front of a reaper and had his leg badly cut, and a little chap who I'm afraid will not be able to sit up for years, as he has a curved spine. His name is Pat. Pat and I are great chums, as he speaks a little English, and I a little Blackfoot, so between the two we have a great time. The other little boy, a heathen, so I will give you his heathen name, Natokstope, (Nah-tok-a-tope, accent on second syllable), is a very good little chap, and is very patient when I am dressing his wounds. Samson, the man, is an Indian who would impress you very much at first. He is easy to wait upon and very patient, a characteristic of the Indians. His wife, Martha, also a Christian, lives here too. She is full of wit and fairly bubbling over with mirth. So things are kept very lively, and we enjoy a good laugh more than once a day. I must say that although the work is hard yet it is made easy by the thought that we are working for Him whom we love, and for His children. We really need another nurse to assist Miss Johnson, and myself, and we hope and pray that someone will soon come. Each morning at half past ten the children who are able to go to school, come over to the hospital to have their wounds dressed. This is my work, and the patients always have a smile, from the tiniest tot, whom I have to lift on to the chair, to the largest boy or girl who comes in. I know that kindness and pleasant smiles for all goes a long ways, as Archdeacon Tims warned me in regard to such, and I guess that is how I got my Indian name, Matsuaps, (Mat-suo-ah-pa), which means very gentle and kind, and also something else which I will not tell you, for my modesty will not allow it.

The Indian is friendly. For instance to-day I was out walking and sat down upon a log to read. I did not hear anyone approaching as the prairie ponies wear no shoes, until a shadow fell across my book. I looked up, and beheld an old wrinkled and painted Indian, sitting upon his pony. He silently dismounted and walked towards me holding out his hand, and speaking in Blackfoot. We had a good handshake, but as I pointed to my lips, the sign that I did not understand, he immediately began talking by signs. We carried on quite an interesting conversation, and then he took his departure, as silently as he came. I thank you all, dear friends, for your good wishes and prayers, which are a source of great strength to me.

ALICE L. SCOTT.

Ever yours in His love.

SUFFERING FROM THROAT TROUBLE.

Rev. A. H. Langfeldt Has Been Forbidden to Preach by Specialist.

It will be with deep regret that the parishioners of St. Luke's will learn that the rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, has been prohibited by a throat specialist from preaching or taking part in the church services for some time, on account of a serious throat trouble. Mr. Langfeldt has been preaching under difficulties for some time, and has used every effort to continue his work, but the throat specialist whom the rector consulted, positively forbade him from preaching or engaging in lengthy conversations, and in view of this he has found it necessary to relinquish charge of his parish, so far as preaching is concerned. He will be in attendance upon the services but the pulpit will be occupied by clergymen from the surrounding parishes

THE "ROB ROY" TO BE ENLARGED.

Mr R. M. Roy Will Place New Machinery in His Private Yacht.

The engine and boiler of Mr. R. M. Roy's yacht, "Rob Roy," have been taken out and sold to Mr. Douglas Simpson, of Birdsall's Landing, Rice Lake, to which point the machinery is being shipped to-day by steamer "Rainbow."

Mr. Roy has given the contract for the enlarging of the "Rob Roy" to the Peterborough Canoe Co., and when the navigation season of 1904 opens the yacht will be 40 feet long, fitted up with luxurious staterooms and cabins, and a new propelling equipment. The yacht will still be used strictly for private purposes, and Mr. Roy and his invited guests will enjoy the increased comfort and convenience which the newly fitted up craft will afford.

PARK STREET CHURCH QUARTERLY MEETING.

Statement Presented Shows Condition of Finances Satisfactory.

The quarterly business meeting of the Park street Baptist church was held last night, Rev. A. H. Brace in the chair and a good representation of the members present.

The church clerk reported a substantial increase in baptisms and a steady growth in membership, and also an increasing attendance at church services.

The treasurer reported the finances in a satisfactory condition, there being an average increase of $3.19 per Sunday during the quarter.

The Sunday School was also shown to be in a prosperous condition.

A report of the Harvest Home offerings to have netted a total of $177 for the day.

On Sunday Nov. 22nd services will be held in connection with the Lord's Day Alliance.

It was decided to hold watch night service the last day in the year.

A SHORTAGE OF CARS FOR MANITOBA WHEAT.

The Toronto News has a special despatch from Winnipeg in which the statement is made that a shortage of cars exists. The article is as follows:—

Winnipeg, Nov. 12.—Within a week Warehouse Commissioner C. C. Castle has received complaints that the grain movement was in a more or less congested condition. The points affected were Virden, Boissevain, Nesbitt, Kemnay, Pierson, Glenewen, and from several points west of Melita. On Tuesday, Mr. Castle received a wire from the Virden Board of Trade stating that there had been a great scarcity of cars at that point, and that it was imperative that something should be done at once to relieve the congestion. Mr. Castle brought the matter before the Canadian Pacific here, with the result that five cars were despatched to Virden on Tuesday night, and more will be immediately sent.

ELEVATOR MEN COMPLAIN.

While the railway companies claim they are handling all the grain offered with ease, elevator men have another story to tell. Mr. Phillips, of the Northern Elevator Company, says that from the elevator point of view things could not be much worse. The Grain Act hampers and restricts trade, and the elevator men cannot get cars. At one point seventy farmers are registered ahead of the elevators, and the country elevators are rapidly filling up. He does not think the C. P. R. has any more cars than last year.

Mr. Thompson, of Thompson & Muir, grain dealers, says they have heard comparatively few complaints regarding cars, nothing like last year. Their clients are not in the elevator business.

Mr. Robert Muir thinks that, in view of the constant traffic westward on the C.P.R., they wish to make the westward traffic spin out over the season, and are not anxious to rush grain forward. He does not think the car supply increased. The grain men seem to think that the farmers are much better off, and that the kicks are coming from elevator men.

A special from Oxbow says: "The reason for closing the elevators is stated by authority to be owing to the scarcity of cars. December delivery being higher than May, dealers who are unable to ship before the close of navigation have closed their deals to protect themselves at present prices. This means an enormous loss to farmers and business men of this district. The farmers, being late in getting threshed, are unable to meet their obligations. The scarcity of cars is the root of the trouble."

Mr. R. J. Waller, who has just returned from Manitoba, in an interview with the Examiner stated that these facts were substantially correct. He cited instances where elevators had been filled for two weeks and no cars had been obtainable, to convey the grain away. The conditions in Manitoba, however, Mr. Waller says, are not as bad as in former years, because of the fact that the crop has not been as heavy, and the railway is in a better position to handle the traffic offering than it has ever been before. But the fact remains that farmers are being handicapped because they cannot get their wheat shipped promptly.

TO ENLARGE "DIAMOND HALL."

Ryrie Bros. Purchase Building in Rear of Present Store.

Messrs. Ryrie Bros. have just concluded a purchase of the property on Adelaide street west, immediately in rear of their present premises, on the corner of Yonge and Adelaide streets, Toronto. The building on this property is at present occupied by the Map and School Supply Company, and is to be vacated by them on January 1st when, Messrs. Ryrie Bros. will thoroughly overhaul the building and add it to their present establishment.

This will give them some 10,000 square feet for show rooms, exactly doubling their present ground floor space, and is to be utilized largely for the extension of their fine china, art goods, and optical departments. The first floor is to be added to their mail order department, which has grown so rapidly during the last few years as to make the increased space a necessity. The upper floor will be devoted to manufacturing, and will be furnished with the most improved appliances.

When completed this will make "Diamond Hall," with perhaps one New York exception, the largest and best-equipped jewelry establishment on the continent.

CANADA'S EXHIBIT AT ST. LOUIS FAIR.

Will Send a Mammoth Tree From British Columbia.

The Vancouver World has the following item referring to one of the evidences of Canada's richness of resources:—

"Canada proposes to make a sensation at the St. Louis exposition. And British Columbia is to supply the means.

"For some time cruisers have had their eyes open for a tree from which could be cut a toothpick of suitable size for display on so important an occasion, and Mr. Leamy, the Dominion Crown Timber Agent at New Westminster, made a special trip to Sumas to inspect a certain monster of the forest. It proved quite satisfactory, being 27 feet across the stump. The tree is a fir, a cedar, and it is hollow, but this is all the better since it is to be used as an office in the Canadian building.

"Solid timbers, too, are wanted, and the big fir near Lake Beautiful, on the McNair Limits, is scheduled to fall before the axe. The section to be shipped to St. Louis measures 11 feet 10 1-2 inches across.

THE NEW TRANSVAAL

BRITAIN AND BOERS REPAIRING THE RAVAGES OF THE WAR.

What, of the Task, Has Been Already Done—The Reconstruction as It Is Proceeding—People Are Fairly Careful—There Are, However, Two Classes of Dangerous Dutchmen Among Them.

A repatriation officer, whose duties have taken him to all parts of the Transvaal since the close of the South African war, writes as follows in the London Times concerning his observations:

"In a little over twelve months no one can expect the ravages of a nearly three years' war to be thoroughly repaired; but to one like myself, who traveled over the country immediately after the declaration of peace, who has been continually traveling over the country since, watching the progress of the work of restoration, and who has been over it once again quite recently, the extraordinary rapidity with which the recovery has been made is astounding. The first trek revealed nothing but devastation, desolation, blockhouses, and barbed wire.

The Reconstruction.

"The last trek revealed houses built up; cattle, horses, and live stock of all descriptions grazing on the veldt; immense tracts of ground ploughed up; roads and drifts repaired; outlying towns, formerly in ruins, now not only rebuilt and prosperous, but growing with extraordinary rapidity. One found all the paraphernalia of local Government—police magistrates, and officials of all kinds. One found everywhere prospectors and others bent on the development of the country, no doubt for the sake of their own and for their principals' pockets, but at the same time benefiting the State. One saw schools full of happy children. One came across new settlers, full of courage, enterprise, and hope. One visited settlements of Dutch and British side by side, determined to take their part in the building up of successful communities. There was the country, hardly free from the visible signs of war, and in spite of all the setbacks and difficulties encountered since its conclusion, beginning to assume the aspect of a flourishing colony inhabited by a hopeful and determined people.

"The policy of looking upon the Boer as a British subject from the moment he became one has been carried out from the beginning. Great Britain, at any rate, can rest content with her work of resettling the former inhabitants of her new colonies.

"But there is still another side of the question to be considered. How do the Boers themselves look upon what has been done for them and what are their feelings toward their new Government? The answer to this question must to a very great extent guide our future policy in the new colonies.

The Boers Grateful.

"Personally, I believe that the average Boer has a distinct feeling of gratitude for what has been done for him, and that he is fully aware of the magnanimity of his new Government. But his gratitude is to a degree discounted by the uncertainty of the future. The great majority are in the Government's debt; and it is the doubt as to how far their share of the free gift of £3,000,000 will get them out of debt which looms largely in their minds.

"To my mind the hardest task is still in front, namely, the collection of debts, the just assessment of claims, and, above all, the fulfilment of promises made. It is the manner in which ehis work is carried out which will determine the attitude to be adopted by the greater proportion of the Boer population. It must be carried out with the most scrupulous fairness and the utmost tact, and no promise made by us must remain unfulfilled.

"The Boers do not accept the new order of things without considerable misgiving, and the hurt to their national pride cannot be at once healed; but I fully believe that for the most part they have faith and confidence in their new Government, and that their confidence will be kept so long as we carry out our professed principles of integrity and fair play. But, if once lost, it will be well-nigh impossible to regain. It is a difficult task which faces the Administration, but one which, if carried out well, will have a lasting effect on the future of the country.

They Wear a Mask.

"What I have stated above applies to the average country Boer; but there are two other classes still to be considered. First, there are the 'temporary irreconcilables,' and these. I am afraid, exist to a very considerable number. They are led by clever men, and their attitude is hidden by an outward mask of passive acceptance. So long as anything can be got out of the Government their true feeling will be kept in check, but when once they have obtained all they think possible they may be expected to show their hands.

"This class requires governing with the greatest firmness, and any indication of sedition or open disloyalty must be instantly suppressed. It is only by firm, though scrupulously just, handling that these quondam irreconcilables will in time fall into line with the rest. But if they are allowed a free hand, and open sedition is winked at, they will become a source of considerable political trouble in the future.

"There is yet one other class, although but a small one. These we may call the 'permanent irreconcilables.' And it is from these that the chief danger may arise. They still share with their cousins of the Cape Colony the aspiration of some day seeing a great Afrikander Republic in South Africa. The idle dream of obtaining this by the sword has been put aside; but the dream remains, and the manner in which it is to be realized is by Political Intrigue.

These dreamers have already begun to sow the seed of discontent among the otherwise well-disposed inhabitants; but whether it germinates or not must depend upon the future policy of the Government.

"At the present moment sufficient labor is not available in the country, although in a few generations the natives, having been educated in the value of money, may in sufficient numbers offer their services in order to obtain the same. But the necessity is urgent from both an economic and a political point of view. It is apparent to almost every thinking man that the whole future of the country depends upon its instant prosperity.

"The very first thing which the Government should do in South Africa is to permit and offer every facility for the importation of Asiatic labor. The second requirement is capital for the development of the agricultural possibilities."

GRIP CONVALESCENCE

There's nothing better than Scott's Emulsion after the grip. When the fever is gone the body is left weak and exhausted; the nervous system is completely run down and vitality is low.

Two things to do: give strength to the whole body and new force to the nerves. Scott's Emulsion will do it; contains just what the worn-out system needs.

Rich blood, healthy flesh, resistive force, more and better nourishment are what Scott's Emulsion supplies to the convalescent.

LONDON IN STATISTICS.

Rate of Increase in Population is Slowing Down—From Death Point of View London is Fair.

The Birmingham Daily Mail makes some significant comments upon London life as reflected in "London Statistics, 1902-1903." The weighty volume, says the reviewer, "can scarcely be described as a record of London life. Great as is the volume of 800 and odd pages, it would not be big enough to notice all the romance—the comedy and the tragedy—the light and the shade of that wonderful city. Nevertheless, this book, prosaicly named, gives us some interesting and at times unexpected information with regard to the life of the people in London in the years 1902-1903. While one is prepared to be told that the population of the administrative county is 4,536,541, that of 'Greater London,' which includes the area of the city and metropolitan police, and 'every parish of which the whole is within 15 miles of Charing Cross, or of which part is within 12 miles of Charing Cross,' is 6,581,402—a rather disappointing figure, one's ideas on that subject being nearer ten millions than six.

"Yet another mild surprise awaits us in the statement that the rate of increase of the population appears to be slowing down, having been only 16.8 per cent. in the ten years 1891-1901, a smaller percentage of increase than has ever been previously recorded. From a health point of view, again, London is a great deal better than most people would imagine. The death rate in 1901 was 17.1 per 1,000, as compared with 18.6 in the previous year. Thus it appears that the London death rate was lower than that of any of the great cities of the kingdom, except Bristol and Leicester, and lower also than that of any foreign capitals, except the small towns of Amsterdam, Brussels and Stockholm. In that same year—1901—there were fewer fatal street accidents than in any year since 1886—namely 302. The smallness of this figure is an eloquent testimony to the skillful manner in which London traffic is regulated. Some of the metropolitan streets are the most congested streets in the world, yet the traffic goes on without many accidents.

"Another curious fact brought out by this record is that there are over a quarter of a million more women than men in the County of London, there being 1,118 females to every 1,000 males. This excess of females, it is explained, is due to the large number of female servants, who are estimated to number 234,398, against only 15,425 males similarly employed. London, it is interesting to know, has 130,000 aliens, of whom 80,000 are males. On the housing question, the report throws a singularly effective light. The County Council, we learn, has completed six schemes of clearing unsanitary areas, and has seven more in hand. The number of persons affected, however, is only about 16,000 altogether, though over £1,000,000 sterling is involved—which shows what an expensive business this is! No one with a knowledge of London will be surprised to hear that the County Council keeps open 91 public parks and open spaces, with a total acreage of 3,852. But most people will wonder why the queerly named gaces of 'shinty' and 'tambourello' are provided in some of these parks at the expense of the County Council. That body, by the way, takes considerable credit for having secured improved workmen's train services. The number of single journeys made by passengers at workmen's fares is about 75,000,000 annually."

During the South African campaign the British soldiers discovered a new and extraordinary form of intoxication. They found that they could get all the excitement of a powerful narcotic by eating a cordite charge of cartridges, each of which contains sixty strands of cordite, and is very similar in appearance to vermicelli.

The British Medical Journal gives particulars of this form of intoxication. It says that Major Jennings, on learning that the men had been eating cordite, made experiments himself. On sucking a strand he found it sweet, pleasant, and pungent, but it resulted in a headache which lasted for thirty-six hours. Dissolved in tea it produces almost immediate exhilaration, "inciting almost demoniacal actions," followed by a heavy sleep and stupor of from five to twelve hours, according to the quantity taken. Added to beer it produces the worst effects, exciting a quarrelsome and destructive mania, and producing the most rapid intoxication.

Appearances Not Deceptive.

Miss Elderly came from a very old family, didn't she?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, she looks it."

A Japanese Custom.

In Japan the well to do have almost always in their houses one room called the "chamber of the inspiring view." Its essential is a beautiful view, but taste is catholic in Japan, and the delightful view may be a blossoming cherry tree, a glimpse of a river, a miniature garden or only the newly fallen snow. In this delightful country they get up parties to visit the maple trees in the glory of autumn color or the fresh, untrodden snow, as in this country one gives theater parties and dinners. Mushroom hunts are a fashionable diversion, and verse writing and harp playing are occupations which, in the estimation of these eternal children, befit the gentlewoman when she is within doors.

About Fishes.

Fish are nearly the same weight as the water in which they live, so that they can move in it with great ease. The majority of them also have an air bladder inside of the body, which enables them to go up or down in the water at will. When a fish desires to go down deep it can press the air out of this bladder by means of certain muscles and thus increase the weight of its body, and when it wishes to rise again it takes off the pressure, the bladder fills with air again and its body becomes light enough to rise.

An Egyptian Scorpion Hunt.

A scorpion hunt in the Nile delta is thus graphically described by a recent traveler, R. Talbot Kelly: As we were sitting on our doorsteps in the cool of the evening, we saw queer looking dark spots moving up the walls of the houses. Presently a man appeared with a lantern on his head and a rapier-like weapon in his hand, and fell to attacking the spots. Coming nearer, we saw that the spots were scorpions. The man neatly spitted them, one by one, each new one shoving its predecessors up the blade, until the weapon was full to the hilt. Then the man drew the rapier through his fingers, wiping off the dead scorpions into a bag, which he subsequently emptied into the canal."

Helplessness is more to be dreaded than any amount of pain or suffering. It is helplessness that makes the approach of old age so much regretted. In the great majority of cases helplessness of mind or body is the result of a Wrecked Nervous System.

You cannot meet a person having the first symptoms of Nervous Exhaustion, such as irritability, sleeplessness, neuralgic pains, loss of energy and vitality, without calling to mind many terrible examples of paralysis, locomotor ataxia, prostration, insanity or some form of helplessness and suffering.

On account of their gradual and insidious approach nervous diseases are most liable to be neglected. But they never wear away of themselves. The nerve force that has been wasted must be replaced. The most effective means of creating new nerve cells and building up the nervous system is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Natural and gradual in its reconstructive effects and truly marvellous in its curative influence, this great food cure promptly arrests nervous waste and sets in action the process of restoration.

MR. BRADT.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can be certain that new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body. This is one of the most satisfactory proofs that the whole system is being benefitted.

Mr. E. C. Bradt, 51 West Avenue N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago I was a physical wreck, unable to work and of no material use to myself, family or friends. I could not sleep well, was tired in the mornings, had no appetite and had severe neuralgia pains through my body. Though I consulted five city physicians, at considerable expense, they could not help me and gave me no hope of recovery.

"Being strongly advised to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I did so, and before I had used three boxes I was much stronger and better. I then resolved to give this treatment a thorough trial and continued using the food until I had taken twenty-four boxes. To-day I am a well man and in better physical condition than ever since my birth. My weight increased from 135 to 153 pounds and I am feeling splendid. I am firmly convinced that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food saved me from a lingering death from nervous exhaustion, and gladly recommend this great medicine to others suffering as I did."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Is sold by all dealers at the advertised price, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, or mailed postpaid on receipt of price by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

☞ To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of his remedies.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

CURES

Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pain in the Chest, Croup, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsey, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It is pleasant to take and is soothing and healing to the lungs. There is nothing so equal it for stopping that tickling sensation in the throat, and the persistent cough that keeps you awake at night.

Price 25c. at all Dealers.

QUICKEST AND MOST EFFECTIVE.

I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in my family for the last six years, and have found it the quickest and most effective medicine for all kinds of coughs and colds I have ever used. My little boy had a severe attack of bronchitis, but before using half a bottle of the Syrup he was completely cured. I cannot praise it enough.

RUNNING of A MUDLARK

By Curran
Richard Greenley

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"Mudlark" Jim resented the derisive title and was filled with a longing to fall upon and rend the line of grinning stable boys who yelled and hooted as Joe led Bareshanks out for his exercise. The shabby blanket flapped around the gaunt legs, and the bald Roman nose was stretched to its farthest as Bareshanks sniffed at the wet morning. Out in the east a rim of sickly yellow barred the sky. Jim scrambled up, and they went slowly out on the track to the accompaniment of "Hayrack!" "Ki-yi! Get on to de moonshine tru his ribs!" "Three legged skate!" and a chorus of groans.

Jim's thin little arms went around the bony neck, while a tear trickled a white line down the grime on his cheek. The keen wind cut through the lad's jacket, and the little hands that gripped the bridle were blue with cold. Underneath the track was already sticky. As Jim turned into the field, where later the little red flag would mark the course from one ugly ditch to another, Bareshanks laid down to his work. The slippery turf slid away from under his great hoofs in a green glimmer as they rose from hurdle to hurdle.

Over and over the course went Bareshanks and Jim, while at the stables, in the doorway of Mayer Bros.' quarters, a man stood peering through field glasses at the brown blur that swept around the field.

Jim slipped to the ground, the sweat pouring from horse and boy alike. Joe, his sulky face hid under the peak of his cap, gave him a sly glance as he blanketed the horse and led him inside. Jim turned with a question in his eyes to the man who stood pulling his gray mustache and looking away into space. Jim twitched his sleeve, and he looked down into the small, pinched face, its very eagerness rendering it thinner and more pathetic, and answered the unspoken query.

"Yes; he'll do. In for a penny, in for a pound; but if he falls I'll see that you get back to the old farm, all right."

The man laughed shortly. "A bullet through his ugly head." The boy shrank back and slipped through the door. Unperceived, he curled down in the straw almost at the feet of Bareshanks, who munched contentedly at his provender.

Other eyes had watched that morning gallop. Joe, the groom, had finished the rubbing down when, with an eye on the silent figure outside the door, he snatched from its nail the bridle that Bareshanks must wear in the coming race, drew a bottle of colorless liquid from his pocket and poured a few drops over the bit. Bright eyes watched from the shadow of the feed box, and when Joe, his work done, disappeared Jim jerked the bridle down and smelled it. There was not the slightest scent. He hung the bridle back again and resumed his place between the horse's legs, a look of owlish gravity on the queer, puckered, old young face.

The hours wore on. Over on the track, where a drizzling rain fell steadily, men went up and down in mackintoshes. Women in short skirts gathered in knots upon the grand stand, their eyes fever bright with excitement. The crowd grew steadily. Out there, where the little red flags, like points of flame, marked the zigzag of the hurdles, the old wagon drawn by the gray work horse stood loaded with the net, and a scurry of boys blew hither and thither in the wake of the different owners.

There had been wild work when Joe essayed to lead Bareshanks out. An old rope halter hung where the bridle should have been. Joe turned ashy. Jim stuck like a bur to Bareshanks and trailed at his heels in his patched and stained jacket, a mere apology for owner's colors. Neither horse, owner nor jockey was a favorite on the Downs. True to the primeval instinct, the rout was hostile to the shabby entourage. Nevertheless there was no open affront. Landon evidently possessed some kind of a pull with Mayer Bros.: hence his occupancy of one of their stalls and the grudging attendance of Joe.

Jim was ready to mount Bareshanks when the bell tapped, but as he passed the grand stand, still clinging to the old rope halter, the crowd yelled and rose as a man.

Off with the saddle and the weighing done, they were mounted again and filed before the grand stand, Bareshanks' ugly head reared above his fellows. Then as they would have passed into the field a voice from the judges' stand halted them: "What's the matter with that boy on No. 5? That's no bridle. Where'd he get that halter?"

All eyes turned on Jim, who wheeled Bareshanks and rode to the front of the judges' stand, while up in the front row a man shook his fist at him and cursed savagely. The small figure straightened in the saddle and, with an appealing glance at the wall of faces, pulled a bridle, bit and all, from the breast of his jacket. An intense silence fell as the childish treble rang out: "Boss, here's the bridle right enough, but I'd ride him with nothin' but a rope halter to Jericho before I'd let it go in his mouth. You can't smell nothin', en you can't see nothin'. But I was settin' down in the corner en a-sayin' nothin' when that black devil poured somethin' out of a bottle all over it, en when he was gone I just up en swiped it, en I hain't let go of it since. You can see for yourself." And with a sure aim he bunched the bridle and flung it to the judge.

At the lad's first word there had been a commotion down there among the crowd of grooms in the paddock. A lithe, black form darted across the course and made for the outer gate. A dozen men seized him at once and then held their breath for the next move in the play.

Old Colonel Cantwell, the judge, stood up and waved for silence. "Bring him another bridle. I'll take care of this one. Now get to the post."

Jim settled in the saddle. Ahead of him the little flags danced in the wind and rain. Garrison's Black Seraph wheeled into Bareshanks, and at the end of the line Morgan's Timber Wolf plunged and reared. Three times the red flag fell, three times they struggled back to the post. Then red down, yellow down and a whir of black, bay sorrel and gray swept away, nose and nose, with the rain adrip on flesh of scarlet and blaze of gold.

"Mudlark!" "Old Skate!" It rang in his ears on the whistle of the wind. The first hurdle—Jim felt the long body gather itself, and they were over, leaving the Black Seraph a balker adrift in the field. Timber Wolf led by a head. There were only four now. Jim grinned and lurched a little forward as Bareshanks' great hoofs gripped the slippery grass. Grant's Derrydown was second, the long stride of English hunters showing its mettle from great-grandsire to son, Maxton's Red Ruin and Long's Wild Irishman nose and nose with Bareshanks. Up the slope and over the second hurdle, the great shoulders working with a mighty come and go, Bareshanks forged on, while the Wild Irishman dropped in a heap to scramble out with a wrenched fore leg. Jim laughed aloud as they swept the turn. The third—he had studied it well and knew the rotten bank, where the Timber Wolf landed, struggled a moment and slid down, his fore legs fighting the air. They were close together now, Derrydown first by a shoulder length, Bareshanks next, his ugly, lean head stretched out, with red nostrils wide afare, and Red Ruin straggling a sorry third.

Over—over again. They had made the round once and for the second time had passed the first three hurdles. Bareshanks crept up a few inches on the home stretch, Having Red Ruin a dozen yards in the rear. The last hurdle lay before them, osage and blackthorn, with an ugly stretch of water beyond. Jim's tense little hands crept up closer to the bit as he poured God knows what prayers and promises into the two ears that lay to the big, ugly head. He felt the great muscles stiffen, the bunching of those awkward looking legs, the surge of the heart beneath the gaunt ribs—up—over—flash—whir—and the sea of faces rose and surged in the billow of sound as the bald Roman nose was thrust under the wire, winner by a neck's length.

From the stand above men came down hand over hand, men poured in from the pit, and the shrill clamor of excited women's voices shrilled above the dull roar of the crowd. Jim slid from the saddle and went to the block, staggering under its weight, his slender body all a-quiver, then back to sit motionless, enduring, until the moment when Bareshanks, swathed in his shabby blanket, stood the center of the stables' attention and envy, and he awoke and lived again, his arms around the brown neck, his face buried in the scanty mane. There could be no question of a bullet in the head of the winner of the Montgomery steeplechase.

WAS TROUBLED WITH PAIN IN HER HEART FOR SIX YEARS.

Expected Her Friends Would Find Her Dead.

Mrs. C. Bondreau, Campbellton, N.B., was completely cured by MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

She tells of her experience in the following letter: "I was troubled with a pain in my heart and weakness for six years. Most of the time I could not lie on my left side. I consulted a doctor but got no relief and was completely discouraged. I did not think I would live long and expected my friends would find me dead. A friend brought me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I took them to please her, not thinking they would do me any good. I had not used half the box when I commenced to feel myself getting better and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers from heart trouble."

It's Impure Blood.

"What is it?" asks the mother as she notices the smooth skin of her child marred by a red or pimply eruption. It is impure blood, and the child needs at once to begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best and surest remedy for impurity of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which corrupt the blood and cause disease. It cures scrofula, boils, pimples, eczema, saltrheum and other eruptive diseases which are the direct result of impure blood. It enriches as well as purifies the blood.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly, but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Gladdening a Humorist.

The financial burden which Mark Twain carried some years ago weighed on his mind heavily. In these moments of despondency there was one tactful friend who could make the humorist forget his troubles. This was Dan Beard, the artist, who illustrated some of Twain's books.

"Dan Beard, there is no tonic that can equal the company of a cheerful man," said the humorist as he entered the artist's studio.

"Ah, but I have such a pleasant subject to work upon that I am not in need of either man or tonic for my cheerfulness," retorted the artist.

"Beg pardon, it is I that need the tonic, and that is why I am here," said Twain forlornly.

"Then allow me to prescribe a dose of your own medicine." And Mark was handed a copy of his book which Beard had been studying.

"I thank you," replied the humorist. "It took me a year to get that medicine out of my system, and I do not propose to imbibe it again."

A discussion of the book was followed by a hearty dinner, and Twain left his friend, having received the cheer that he needed.

He Obeyed Orders.

Old world domestics make the best possible servants because they work like machines, never forgetting an order and doing exactly as they are told, without presuming to think for themselves. But once in awhile this literal adherence to duty produces some awkward results. An American woman living in India, with native servants, once told her butler to see that there was always a napkin at the bottom of the fruit dish, cake basket, etc., when these were brought to the table. The napkin was thereafter always seen in its place. But one day a tureen of vegetable soup was served, and the hostess began to wield the long, old fashioned silver ladle about in it. Something very like a fringed rag made its appearance in the first plateful. The butler was summoned to remove the dish. "It cannot be that the mem sahib found no napkin at the bottom," he hazarded, much distressed because of this unexplained disapproval, "for I myself placed there the largest one I could find."

Plant That Feigns Death.

In South America there is a plant, a species of mimosa, which resorts to death feigning, evidently for the purpose of preventing grass eating animals from eating it. In its natural state this plant has a vivid green hue, but directly it is touched by a human finger or by any living animal it collapses into a tangle of apparently dead and withered stems. Among British wild plants the most sensitive to touch is the insectivorous sundew of English bogs.—London Globe.

On the Duties of Parents.

"Tommy," asked his grandmother, "why would you rather be a little boy than a little girl?"

"Because, grandma," replied Tommy, "I'd rather be a papa than a mamma. The mamma has to take care of the children, but the papa just goes to the office."

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

THE STATELY STORK.

His Immense Power on the Wing and His Lack of Voice.

In Holland the nests of storks are generally on the summit of a tall post, put up on purpose for them, on which is fixed an old cart wheel. Says an English writer: "A Dutch gentleman of my acquaintance has one such post in his grounds within sight of his library window, but he improves on the cart wheel by having an iron framework for the reception of the nest. The first year it was put up, toward the end of June, a solitary young stork used to come daily and inspect this framework. I saw him there myself one day, standing in the empty receptacle exactly like a would be Benedict inspecting an empty house, contemplating the view and wondering if the drains are all right. The verdict was apparently favorable, for next season saw the nest occupied by the newly wedded pair. Their power of wing is very fine, and on hot days I have watched them ascending spiral circles, hardly moving their broad, black wings, till they have looked no bigger than flies. After the young are hatched they appear to be suspicious of one another and unwilling to leave the nest unguarded."

Storks have no voice. The only noise they make is "klappering" (snapping their great red mandibles rapidly and loudly). Thus they greet one another, generally by throwing back the head until the upper mandible rests on the back, but occasionally "klappering" is performed with the head and bill in the former position.

A Practical Demonstration.

"See this valve," said the officer. "You will always have to open that before turning the faucets for the shower. Should you fail to open it you will get no water."

"Aye, aye, sir," said the sailor, standing at attention, with a solemn look.

The officer, fearing that his explanation might not be understood, stepped under the shower and turned on both faucets.

Some one had opened the lower valve, and when the young officer opened the faucets the water came down through the shower in a deluge, soaking his uniform.

Still standing at attention and with the most respectful look of interest in the proceedings of his superior officer, the sailor watched the practical demonstration of the working of the faucets, never allowing a smile to cross his face.

"I think I understand the workings of it now, sir," he said.

Shoes.

Considerable difference will be found in the wearing qualities of two pairs of shoes of the same quality and make worn by different persons. Shoes worn continuously in the house and outdoors will never give as much wear as if worn one day and left to rest a day. It saves money to wear cheap house shoes within doors and let the shoes worn outdoors rest and get into shape. Keep an old pair of shoes to wear under rubbers. The perspiration of the feet which india rubber excites ruins good leather. Select strong calfskin and keep it well oiled in winter for outdoor wear. Low shoes are better for house wear, because they permit of ventilation. The hand is free from many of the ills of the foot partly because of its continuous exposure to the air.

Peculiarities of Worms.

Many creatures supposed to have some of their "senses missing" are not so insensitive as people often think. Worms have neither eyes nor ears and yet are sensitive to light and music (vide Darwin's "Earthworms"). A bluebottle, in spite of not having a nose, finds out a piece of bad meat easily enough. In short, many of the lower animals contrive to see, hear, taste or smell sufficiently for their purpose, and often in a high degree, without being able to point to any special organs of these senses in their bodies, and to suppose they are devoid of a sense because we are unable to discover it is frequently to confess our ignorance.

Wash greasy dishes, pots or pans with Lever's Dry Soap a powder. It will remove the grease with the greatest ease. 36

WALL STREET NOTES.

Thw Wall Street Market was again bearish this morning, particular bear pressure being brought to bear on St. Paul, which fell to 134 7-8. Other issues showed weakness, although there were fractional rallies throughout the morning.

There have been almost daily conferences recently of leading bankers and capitalists of street. Money market has been under constant study. Stock market is being allowed to take care of itself for present, hence temporary power of bear leaders who seem just now to predict with almost unerring accuracy just what the market will do from day to day and even how far special stocks may be expected to move each day.

New York, Nov. 13th.—President Jas. J. Hill of Northern Securities, says the public is satisfied as to soundness of financial institutions and the fact that depositors show no uneasiness is manifested by the way in which money is pouring into banks. The west is full of money. Collections are good and railroad earnings keep up. Northern Pacific showed last week increase of 39 although comparison is made with unusually large volume of traffic handled a year ago. Development of Pacific trade is worth watching and western conditions generally are encouraging.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

In its Monday's issue the Peterborough Examiner, always a bright, well-printed, readable paper, devoted a page to an illustrated history of the game of rugby in Peterborough, and a sketch of the present team, of which Mr. E. S. Clarry is president, Mr. C. G. Graham secretary, and Mr. W. Crowley, captain. The article is ably written and a credit to the Examiner.—Toronto Star.

* * * *

Every member of the Peterborough rugby team is urged to turn out to practice to-morrow afternoon at 1.30 o'clock sharp. A practice game will be played on Nicholls' oval and Capt. Crowley has picked the teams for the occasion. The boys are determined to win out in the Intermediate series and they know that nothing but good hard practice from now on will enable them to do so.

* * * *

Never was football in Canada in such mixed-up shape in regard to rules as at the present time. The O.R.F.U. plays snap-back, down east they play Quebec rules, in the colleges they play intercollegiate rules, the Argos play all three kinds, and there is an agitation in Montreal for a league to play English rules. Too many rules seem bound to spoil the game, but, strange to relate, the present season has been one of the most successful in the history of the game in Canada. While each union has changed its rules to suit itself, each change has been in the direction of making the game more open, consequently each move has been in favour of the spectators who have shown their appreciation. Of course, the splendid weather this fall has also helped the gates. There hasn't been a dirty Saturday since the football season opened.—Telegram.

* * * *

The following members of the Rugby Club and all others are asked to turn out on the oval at 1.30 to-morrow so as to have a good practice before the City League Game:

Morgan, Lee, Crowley, Paschal, Graham, Hurtubuise, Craig, Dillon, Noble Meagher, Cameron, Rickey.

HOCKEY.

Oshawa is going right in for the game this winter. Gorrie formerly of the Marlboroughs of Toronto, will guard the flags. Denison, of Port Perry, is anotherone mentioned for their line up. As there are two hockey players from Port Perry by this name it is hard to say which they have captured. It will be remembered that there was a Denison played quite a game at the rover for Lindsay two years ago and a brother played point for Port Perry last year. There is Roy Raymer of Orillia, who played lacrosse with Oshawa two years ago. Degan of Ottawa, who was the star of the lacrosse team this year, is also on the line up. Then Hagan of St. Catharines, the husky home player of this year's lacrosse twelve is still in Oshawa and will chase the puck. But then where do they intend to play? According to the rules of the O. H. A. their old rink will not answer and it is not likely that the other teams would agree to play on it. However, they may be enlarging it and we hope they are for we would like ver ymuch to have them in this district.—Port Hope Guide.

* * * *

As the time is drawing near when the water begins to have a thick crust and the coal man wears his smile of prosperity, the one great topic among the town's sporting fraternity is "What kind of a hockey team is Port Hope going to have?" Although the team will be composed of homebrews the outlook was never more satisfactory. The defence of last year will remain intact, with Jack McMillan spare man. Mercer will, in all probability get the nets, although Teddy Jackson will be tried. The forward line will be picked from Court Boney, Billy McMillan, Walter Lawrenson, Cully Brown, Phelix Sowden "Dumps" Boney and Billy Lawrenson, of the old Midland League winners. Sandy Lockington will be in the game with the Victorias shouldi they enter the Trent Valley League. A few weeks' time will show the line up on the ice.

Oshawa has organized a hockey club and like all their other sporting organizations it will be composed of ringers. There is a residence rule of the O. H. A. however, and that organization will hardly stand for Oshawa's breaking the constitution by importing players so late in the day. Anyway their rink is far smaller than the regulation and the chances of entering the O. H. A. are about as bright as Cobourg's chances are of having a team.—Port Hope Times.

* * * *

Galt has caught the senior idea. Now let Paris and Stratford get into line in the west; Peterborough, Port Hope and Kingston in the east; Cornwall, Brockville, and Smith's Falls farther east still, and then with Argos, Wellingtons, St George's and Marlboroughs in the city, the O. H. A. will have twice as much senior hockey as any other hockey association on earth.—Telegram.

* * * *

The Kingston News says: "The proposal to form an Eastern Ontario Hockey Association seems to be gaining ground, and Brockville is taking active steps to bring it to a head. The proposal is a good one, with one exception. It implies a breaking away from the O. H. A., which, under the direction of Mr. J. Ross Robertson, has stood for cleanness in hockey, and more effectively than any other Canadian organization put a ban on professionalism. Such is being its late record, and the prospects being that this will be maintained, the O.H.A. should be kept intact. A better plan would be to form an eastern division of the O.H.A., with separate officers, some place of meeting, Brockville perhaps, and a schedule drawn up by representatives of the clubs in the division. But in addition to this the league should be affiliated with the other O.H.A. divisions and be adequately represented on its Executive Committee. The name "Eastern Ontario Hockey Association," is objectionable; call it, rather, and make it in reality, "The Eastern Division of the O. H. A."

* * * *

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Wellington Hockey Club was held last night at the residence of Mr. Arthur Ardagh, when the prospects for the forthcoming season were discussed. It was finally decided that the club should reorganize, and the annual meeting will be held at an early date, when officers will be elected and programme for the season mapped out. The Wellingtons have for four consecutive years won the senior championship of the O. H. A., and are determined to make another effort to hold the honours they have so gallantly won on the ice. The Iron Dukes also intend to challenge for the Stanley Cup, now held by the Ottawa City team, and have strong hopes of bringing the hockey championship of the world to Toronto. The Wellingtons are the only team in Ontario eligible to play for this much-prized trophy. It is expected that the Wellingtons will have their customary strong team this season, and if reinforced by some recent arrivals in the city, it will prove to be the best that ever played in this section of the country. Worts Smart, who for years was the mainstay of the defence at point, has retired from the game, and "Jimmy" Worts, the dashing forward, may also be an absentee. For these two vacancies on the team though there will likely be an abundance of candidates.—Toronto Star.

TURF.

Bowmanville, Nov. 11th.—Mr. Robert Beith, M.P., will try conclusions again next week at the National Horse Show in Madison Square, New York, with his young hackney stallion, Smylett Performer three years old. He has entered him for the championship of America, an honour that has come to Canada the past two years with horses shown by Mr. Beith. Smylett Performer has a very hard class to compete in this year, including Gribthorpe Playmate, hackney champion in 1902, and Robin Adair II, champion in 1901; also Gentleman John Saxon and other previous winners. Mr. Beith returned to-night from the Northwest Territories, with four hackneys, a stallion and three mares, bred on a ranch, to add to his extensive hackney stud here.

CRICKET.

Cookstown, Australia, Nov. 11. The all-England cricket eleven, under the captaincy of P. F. Warner, of Middlesex, has arrived here from London and will play their first match against an eleven of South Australia at Adelaide. There are five championship matches in the programme, when all-England will play all-Australia.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G. T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c.

140 Ladies' and Children's Short and Three-quarter Length Winter Coats, black, grey and other colours; will be sold at ONE-THIRD regular prices.

Ladies Wool Silk and Lustre and Sateen Waists in great variety, all sizes and colours at less than one-half price.

Piles of MEN'S CLOTHING, TAM O'SHANTERS, BOOTS, ETC., LADIES' and MEN'S RAINPROOF COATS, Etc.

GLORY WHALEN'S MURDERER FOUND.

Man in Manchester Confesses to Having Taken Her Life.

Held Presently in England for an Unnatural Crime, He Will be Extradited Under the Fugitive Offenders' Act if Possible—Detective Greer may be Sent to Bring Him Back.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Information was received at the Department of the Attorney General yesterday, that William Joseph Cary Sparks, now on trial at Manchester, England, for an unnatural offense, has confessed that he murdered Glory Whalen, near Collingwood, in June last.

Steps are being taken to have Sparks held for extradition should the charge against him in Manchester fail, and Attorney General Gibson will do everything that can be done to have him brought to Canada to answer for his crime.

The information came to Ontario through the Dominion Government. It was very meagre, merely stating that Sparks had confessed his crime. It is taken for granted that he is the man wanted in Collingwood for no man would lay himself open to conviction of murder just for the fun of the thing.

The Attorney General has already cabled to Scotland Yard asking the officers there to communicate with the police of Manchester with the aim that Sparks will be held. It is probable that it will be necessary for an Ontario detective to cross the sea to bring Sparks back.

At the Parliament buildings yesterday it was said that William Greer, who has had whole charge of the case since its inception, would likely be chosen for this task.

Chief Detective John W. Murray is out of town on an important case and could not be reached last night.

A despatch from Collingwood says that Chief Wilde, although instituting a vigorous search around town, making inquiries at hotels, boarding houses, and at the various places where such a man might seek employment, could find no trace of a man by that name having been in Collingwood. It is thought by the chief that Sparks was a tramp and committed the deed while wandering through the country. After he had accomplished his fiendish purposes he hastened out of the country. The offence with which he is charged in Manchester would argue that he is a degenerate, and just such a man to kill little Glory Whalen.

PROGRESS AT WORLD'S GREATEST LIFT LOCK.

Hopes are Entertained that it Will be in Operation This Autumn.

A visit to the lift lock confirms the reports to the effect that work is being pushed forward at a rapid rate, and, by those in charge, the hope is confidently expressed that the lock will be in readiness for practical operation this fall. This will be accomplished, if the present weather continues. A large staff is still at work, and they are being rushed in an effort to have the practical opening, if not the official opening, this fall.

There remains only a small amount of new work to be done. All the rivetting has been accomplished, and when one sees the amount of this that has been necessary, it is a matter of wonder that it has been completed in the length of time that has been given to it. The only work remaining to be done now, before the lock will be in readiness for operation, is attending to minor details of completing construction; work of such a nature that if the weather continues favourable for a few weeks, can easily be done, when the construction of one of the greatest, if not the greatest, engineering work ever attempted in Canada, will have been an accomplished fact. The official opening, it is believed, will not take place until next year, when appropriate ceremonies will be held.

The residence of the lock master is now under construction, and is being built on a commanding position to the east of the lock. It will be a pretentious building, serving the double purpose of office and dwelling house, the residence being above the office. The grounds, too, have been receiving considerable attention of late, and everything around the lock is neat and tidy.

On the centre pier is being erected an operator's cabin, from which the operations of the lock will be controlled. From the cabin, which will be encased with plate glass and covered with copper, an extensive view of the surrounding country may be had.

Mr. W. J. Francis, C.E., who courteously gave the above information, states that the work is progressing very favourably, and to his entire satisfaction, and that the many hundreds of visitors who each week visit the immense works, express great interest and wonder at the workings of the lock as they are explained by those in charge.

FATHER AND MOTHER NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

Two and Six Year Old Girls Left Utterly Destitute in Belmont.

Mr. George Cochrane has returned from the township of Belmont, where he has been investigating a number of cases on behalf of the Children's Aid Society. He brought with him two children, girls, aged two and six years, who had been left in a pitiable condition by their parents, and were utterly destitute. Their parents, John and Hannah Clarke, who live about 12 miles from Havelock, have deserted their children, the mother going to live with another man, and the father paying no attention to his children, and, it is said, has done nothing to support the family for five years.

The case was reported to Mr. Cochrane, who immediately conducted an inquiry, with the result that he brought the children away from the miserable hovel, which to them was home. Sufficient clothes could not be found in the house to cover them with, and they were taken to Havelock wrapped in blankets. At the village proper clothing was purchased by their new protector, and they were brought to Peterborough. The change from their miserable surroundings, in which they were not only homeless but practically orphans, to the comfortable home to which they were taken, was almost paradise to them, and they showed their unmistakable pleasure at the welcome change.

Mr. Cochrane states that there are other cases of a similar, though of a somewhat less pitiable character, in which action will be taken in the near future.

The district from which these children were taken has been a prolific field for the benevolent operations of the Children's Aid Society, as sixteen children have been brought to the shelter from within a radius of ten miles in this township.

NO REASON FOR THE SHUT-DOWN KNOWN.

Cordova Situation as Explained by a Special Dispatch.

The Examiner has a special despatch from Cordova dealing with the situation at the gold mines, about which so many sensational reports have gone out, since the closing down of the mining operations.

The despatch referred to confirms the report that the mines have been closed, this action being taken in response to a cable message from the head office of the Company, in Hebburn-on-Tyne, England. As to the reason for this apparently unwarranted shut-down, whether it is to be permanent or temporary, and if the latter, for how long, no one at the mines knows, and nothing definite will be known until after the arrival of the English mail, which will probably be next Tuesday. In the meantime, the only thing to do is to wait, and this, those who are interested are doing, with as much patience as possible, under the circumstances. The feeling, however, is that there is too great wealth of gold in the mines to believe that they will be closed permanently.

DR DRUMMOND ON THE "HABITANT"

Has Been Secured to Lecture in George Street Church on November 30th.

What will undoubtedly be the treat of the winter will be the lecture, "An Evening with the Habitant," to be given by Dr. Drummond, of Montreal, who has been secured by the George street Young Men's Guild for the evening of Monday, November 30, in the church. This will be a rare opportunity to hear one of the most entertaining public lecturers in Canada to-day. In his tour in the west Dr. Drummond has been greeted with crowded houses, and his visit here will be a distinct literary treat. The admission fee has been set at 25 cents.

WEST INDIAN TRADE.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has supplied figures to the New York branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, setting forth the rapid increase in Canadian trade with the West Indies, summarized by the Globe. The statement deals with Canada's extensive and growing commerce with the islands in hay, oats, and dairy products. The leading manufacturers of the Dominion are directing their attention specially to the West Indian markets at the present time, and many of them have opened accounts there within the past year. The chief lines which have found a market are boots and shoes, brooms and brushes, rubber goods, ready-made clothing, biscuits, furniture, soap. The return trade in fruit is estimated at $25,000, and in cocoanuts $35,000 for the year. Of 950,000 bunches of bananas imported into Canada last year the United States handled 850,000 and the balance came direct from the West Indies. This has moved the Manufacturers' Association to suggest that a duty of ten cents per bunch be imposed on bananas not imported directly from the place of growth. This would imply that the association knew the most expedient route for carrying the bananas better than the people actually engaged in the business. The main purpose of those in the trade is to move the bananas to Canada. They do not adopt circuitous routes, scale mountains or explore valleys by the way for the fun of the thing. They adopt the cheapest available route. In shipping some lines of goods the vagaries of freight rates make it profitable to unnecessarily cross the continent or the ocean. Next to tariff schedules railway freight charges are the most absurd complications in the world. But the men engaged in shipping bananas to Canada can be trusted to unravel the puzzle sufficiently to discover the cheapest route. Why we should put up a tariff obstruction, after they have done so, to make them adopt some other route, is one of the things the Manufacturers' must explain.

The statement also deals with the growing importations of sugar from the West Indies. Of a total importation of 181,000 tons last year, Germany contributed 87,000 tons, and the British West Indies 34,000 tons. The tariff on sugar varies from one-half to one cent per pound, and a general average of three-quarters of a cent would be reduced to half a cent by the British preference, and increased to one cent by the German surtax. The association has advices from the West Indies to the effect that the surtax has resulted in a large increase in the exports of sugar to Canada. From Demerara for the first six months the Canadian imports amounted to over 10,000 tons, as compared with 700 tons for the corresponding period last year. While the growth of this trade is gratifying it cannot be attributed to the surtax, for that did not come into effect till after the returns were compiled. On the contrary, the approaching imposition of the surtax naturally stimulated the importers of German sugar to hurry their trade and obtain the benefits of any subsequent advance in price. If the West Indian trade in sugar increased with no advantage other than the preference, it should be still more successful with both preference and surtax. There should be scope for much profitable trade between some parts of Canada and the British West Indies, and it will be necessary to avoid injury or obstruction by tariff meddling. The Manufacturers' Association might consider the effect on German exportation of sugar of the withdrawal of the bounty stimulus as a result of the Brussels Conference.

SUCCESSOR TO J.K. STEWART

Will be Appointed Shortly—Mr. Saunders Doing the Work.

An order in Council has been passed giving Mr. Eudo Saunders, Superintendent of the License Branch of the Provincial Secretary's Department, the powers of the Provincial License Inspector, formerly held by the late Inspector J. K. Stewart. Mr. Saunders, however, will only do the work until the department appoints a successor to Mr. Stewart. It is understood that the appointment will be made shortly, and that the person selected is one who stands very high in the esteem of the people of the province, and who will perform his duties most satisfactorily.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Canada's Financial Solidity.

London, Nov. 13.—The Financial Times, re. the incorporation of fresh banks in Canada, says Canadian banking has been developed on such conservative lines that the formation of new banks is most unusual, and that power should have been taken to form eight new banks speaks volumes of the financial activity prevailing in this country.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

DR. JOHN C. MITCHELL

Appointed Head of Woodstock Epileptic Hospital.

Will Visit Hospitals of Europe and the Old Country to Equip Himself Thoroughly—Building to be Ready Early Next Year.

Dr. John C. Mitchell, of the Toronto Asylum staff has been appointed by the Ontario Government medical superintendent of the new Provincial Epileptic Hospital now under course of erection at Woodstock, it is expected, will be completed early next year. The appointment has been made now to give the Superintendent an opportunity of visiting some of the best institutions in other countries before it is necessary to undertake the duties of the opening of the new hospital.

Dr. Mitchell will be allowed leave of absence from his present position from time to time during the coming winter to enable him to better equip himself with the full knowledge and experience to be gained by visiting similar institutions on the continent, and in the old country. He will at his own expense spend three months in Europe gathering information as to the most modern methods of treatment for epileptic patients.

Dr. Mitchell has been connected with the Toronto Asylum for over two years, and is a Past President of the Ontario Medical Association.

UNFIT FOR WORK.

After Years of Much Distress Mr. W. F. Kennedy Has Been Restored to a Life of Activity.

There is probably no man in the township of Pelham, Welland County, better known than Mr. Wilber F. Kennedy. He is a prosperous farmer and the owner of a large cooperage, and is held in the highest esteem by all who have his acquaintance. Mr. Kennedy is now seventy-two years of age, and is as active and rugged as many a man years younger. For years, however, he was a great sufferer from kidney trouble and he cheerfully gives credit for his present good health to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Kennedy says: "Ten years ago, as the result of exposure, I think, I was stricken with kidney and bladder trouble in a severe form. The complaint at times caused me most intense suffering and great personal discomfort as I would often have to arise a dozen times in the night. I tried many kinds of treatment and some of the best physicians, but their skilled efforts were unavailing, and as a result I lost in flesh, grew very weak, and was troubled also with insomnia. I grew despondent and felt that I was doomed to a life of suffering, if not an early death. At this stage I was prevailed upon to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. After using four boxes I could see a distinct improvement in my condition, and I gladly continued the use of the pills until all the symptoms of the trouble had passed away, and I was again strong and healthy. It is no exaggeration to say that at the time I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was so weak that I could not lift twenty-five pounds, while now I am quite sure I can lift as much as any man of my age. I believe the pills not only released me of the misery I suffered, but have added years to my life."

Anaemia, rheumatism, kidney trouble, heart ailments, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, and the many ailments peculiar to women are speedily cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, simply because these pills make new, rich red blood, and thus reach the very root of the trouble. There are pink coloured imitations of this great medicine but the buyer can protect himself against these impositions by seeing that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is printed on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all dealers in medicine or direct by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Fight on in Africa.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—A despatch from Swakopmund, in German Southwest Africa, says that 300 men, with five guns, under the command of Col. Fiedler, on the march from Keetmanshoop, Goobon, Rehoboth and Windhook to Warmbad, have been joined by 115 of the Witboi Patrols and another division of Boer volunteers, in the approaches to Warmbad to Uukamas. The position of the enemy is unknown.

Germany's Elections.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—The returns from 280 districts show that the elections Thursday of the electors who are to choose deputies to the Lower House of the Prussian Diet resulted as follows: Conservatives 103, Free Conservatives 33, Clericals 78, National Liberals 60, Richter Radicals 20, Barth Radicals 6.

Slaughtered Diseased Hogs.

Windsor, Nov. 14.—Dr. Perdue, Government veterinary inspector, has been called to the farm of L. Wright, South Colchester, to inspect his hogs, which were suspected of being affected with hog cholera. After a thorough investigation the doctor ordered ninety-six of them slaughtered.

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throb. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

GRANARY OF THE EMPIRE.

London Mail's Correspondent Convinced by Seeing.

Impressed by the Breadth of the Canadian view of the Question of Imperial Preference—Admires Canada's Attitude Towards Award.

Montreal, Nov. 10.—"I have found that Canadian opinion is strongly favourable to the Chamberlain policy, in both eastern and western Canada," said Mr. Edgar W. Wallace, special correspondent of the London Daily Mail, who has just concluded a tour of Canada, made for the purpose of gauging public opinion on the proposed fiscal proposals.

Mr. Wallace has had excellent opportunities of estimating the trend of the public mind, and the information which he furnishes readers of the Daily Mail will play a prominent part in the great campaign.

What struck Mr. Wallace particularly was the broad standpoint from which Canadians of all classes are prepared to view the question.

"It astonished me," he said, "to find that nearly all those I met were ready to look at the question from not only a Canadian standpoint, but through English eyes.

SHOWS BROADNESS OF VIEW.

"This broadness of view speaks well for them," he added. "In eastern, in central, and in western Canada I found a strong feeling favourable to Chamberlain's policy; and this is true of all classes."

"What part will Canadian opinion play in the settling of the question?" Mr. Wallace was asked.

"An important part," was his reply. "British newspapers are paying very strict attention to all things Canadian, and as Canada is so very important a factor in the Chamberlain scheme of imperial unity, naturally Canadian public opinion will weigh heavily with the people of the old land."

"What do you think of the Dominion as the granary of the empire?"

"Canada can give Great Britain all the wheat she will need," said Mr. Wallace enthusiastically. "Manitoba is a wonderful bit of country for wheat production. I consider the possibilities of the west to be boundless in this respect; and it is not only probable, it must come to pass, that Canada will be the granary of the empire."

BRITISH SETTLERS IN THE WEST.

Mr. Wallace saw something of the late British arrivals in the west, and in his opinion they will make good settlers. He paid a compliment to Canadian women when he said that he thought the Dominion's prosperity was largely due to them.

Referring to the Alaska award, he expressed admiration for the toleration shown by Canadians upon receipt of what was a bitter pill.

"Aside from a few newspaper writers, I found that people took it with equanimity, though with deep regret," he said. "I do not think that in future controversies preference will be shown by Great Britain to the United States, as has occurred sometimes in the past."

Mr. Wallace is the war correspondent of the London Daily Mail, and saw service in South Africa. When asked what the prospects were in the Far East, he was reticent, but he apparently thinks that there will be no outbreak of hostilities.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c. If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

A Wonderful Book.

As a work for family reference there was probably never compiled a more useful book than Dr. Chase's Receipt Book. Besides containing the symptoms of disease, their cause and cure and the great prescriptions gathered together during a half century of medical practice, this book is replete with receipts for cooking, and has a complete department devoted to the care of farm stock, bees, domestic animals, etc. For full particulars write Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A BROOKLYN BELLE THREATENED WITH CONSUMPTION.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Saved Her Life.

Miss Alice O'Neil, 312 Adams street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot say too much in favor of Peruna. About a year ago I was completely worn out, had a serious cold and a hard cough which seemed to be in danger of affecting my lungs. If my system had been in a stronger condition it would have been much easier to throw off this cold, but I could not seem to get my rested until I took Peruna, and I must say that it did the work thoroughly. Within a week I could see a wonderful improvement, and I took Peruna four weeks and am in perfect health now."

ALICE O'NEIL.

Miss Alice O'Neil.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

About Pe-ru-na as a Remedy for All Diseases of Winter, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

That Peruna cures catarrh, coughs, colds, is well known to both the medical profession and the people generally. It is undoubtedly the most popular remedy for this class of diseases in existence. Read the following letters:

Pe-ru-na Cures a Cold at the Outset.

Miss E. M. Isaacs, Armstrong, Pa., Vice-President of the Fortnightly Club, writes:

"No one who has tried the comforts Peruna brings would ever be without it. I used to dread the slightest cold, as its consequences were so lengthy and so unpleasant, and the catarrhal condition which invariably followed so hard to get rid of, but since I have known of the blessed relief secured through the use of Peruna, I am free from all this unpleasantness and suffering.

"A few doses never fails to cure me of a cold and I keep well through its use."—Miss E. M. Isaacs.

Hon. W. J. Purman, ex-member of Congress from Florida, writes from 1426 Q street, N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"From representations to me and my own experience I feel justified in recommending your Peruna to any and all persons suffering with catarrh, nervousness or stomach troubles. I regard it as a great tonic and remedy for such afflictions. I, and others to whom I recommended it, are using it now with beneficial results."—W. J. Purman.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The Whole Family Can Enjoy It.

Unless you hear it you cannot possibly conceive its most wonderful power. Whatever your age or mood—old or young, grave or gay—you will find that the Berliner Gram-o-phone will humour your caprice. It talks, sings, reproduces piano, violin, banjo, cornet or trombone; full brass band or orchestra, church choir or chime bells. It will play for you to dance to. It will sing hymns or repeat sermons. "A child can operate it." It is not only a source of pleasure, but of profit. It teaches you to appreciate and familiarizes you with the latest and best in music. All this in your own home and at a merely nominal cost. It would cost a fortune in time and money to hear in person one-tenth of the great artists who have made records for the Gram-o-phone—their voices and styles are yours, true to life, on the Gram-o-phone. Every tone and note perfect.

HOW TO GET ONE. Fill out the Coupon and send it to us with one dollar, and we will ship the Gram-o-phone to you. Enclose two dollars extra if you want spun brass horn. Send your order for extra records at the same time and save extra expressage. Almost any vocal or instrumental music you wish can be had—or we'll send complete list of records.

QUESTION OF COAL.

Constitutes the Real Danger in Chicago Street Car Strike.

POWER HOUSE FIREMEN OUT

Arbitration of All the Demands of the Men Except Recognition of the Union Will Be Conceded—Officials View Friday's Running of 35 Cars Successful—No Rioting, Only Jeers.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Twenty-five cars, run on the Wentworth avenue line, without damage to the cars or injury to the non-union employes operating them, was what the Chicago City Railway Company was able to accomplish with the assistance of the police department. While there was no active interference with the handling of the cars, such as attended the attempts to run them Thursday, the crowds that lined the streets jeered and hooted the police and the non-union men almost without intermission. But two stones were hurled at the cars during the day. At nightfall the officials of the street car company were inclined to view the day's work as successful, and on the whole satisfactory.

The situation was complicated for the company by a sudden strike yesterday afternoon of the firemen in all of the power houses. The Firemen's Union made an agreement two days ago with the company, which was to last for a year. There was a clause in the contract which gave the firemen the discretion to go on a sympathetic strike if the company declined to arbitrate with the employes now on strike, and the officials of the Firemen's Union declared that they had ordered the strike because the company had declined their offer to mediate between the company and the employes now on strike. The calling out of the firemen involves oilers, water tenders, coal passers, ash handlers and coal handlers, two hundred and fifty in all.

The real danger in this last strike lies in the attitude of the teamsters. They may decline to deliver coal to the company if non-union firemen are employed, and the company has but three days' supply on hand. On this point General Manager McCulloch was undisturbed.

"We will get all the coal we need," he declared, "and we will run right along. We have shown to-day that we can operate the cars if we are given proper police protection. As long as we are given that we will be able to conduct our business as usual."

During yesterday afternoon the members of the State Board of Arbitration called on Mr. McCulloch, and on the latter's suggestion went into conference with E. R. Bliss, counsel for the company, with the hope of arranging a settlement. Another meeting has been arranged for to-day, and one of the Arbitration Board said that the indications were that the management of the company would agree to arbitrate all the demands of the men except recognition of the union.

Sympathy With Strikers.

Boston, Nov. 14.—The American Federation of Labor yesterday passed a motion expressing the good wishes of the convention to the striking street railway men in Chicago, and hope for their success and for an early settlement.

Will Affect 10,000 Men.

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—Officials of the Builders' Exchange League announced yesterday that the lockout of all the building trades in the city affiliated with the Building Trades' Council would go into effect last night and would continue indefinitely unless all sympathetic strikes are called off. About 100,000 men will be affected.

To Return to Work.

Louisville, Col., Nov. 14.—As a result of the concession of an eight-hour day by the operators, all of the striking miners in the northern coal fields will return to work on Monday morning.

Fielding in Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 14.—Hon. W. S. Fielding arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and was enthusiastically greeted by a large number of prominent citizens. He says his visit is in connection with the department which he represents. He will visit other parts of the province, including Cape Breton, before returning to Ottawa.

Brakeman Hurt.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—A C.P.R. brakeman named Leahy, running on the east-bound Soo train missed his footing and was thrown heavily against the platform, breaking a leg in two places. He was taken to Almonte, where the fracture was reduced, and later in the day came to the city and is at St. Luke's Hospital.

Car Went Too Fast.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Miss Mabel Coombs, Sherbrooke, who was injured in a collision between a street car and a wagon, died here Thursday night. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict holding the car company and motorman responsible, as the car was running at too great a speed.

Election Trials

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The Dominion election trials in North Grey and North Ontario will go on to-day. Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice McMahon will hear the North Grey case at Owen Sound, and Mr. Justice Street and another judge will hear the North Ontario case at Whitby. No particulars have been filed, and the cases will, therefore, be dropped.

Land for London Asylum.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—The Ontario Government has purchased the Trebilcock farm of 235 acres, the price being $100 an acre. This land has been under lease and cultivated in connection with the lands of the London asylum.

MAJOR PORTEOUS KILLED.

Sad End of a Leading Military Man of Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Major Porteous, customs house officer, and one of the oldest military men in Montreal, was run down by the Notre Dame Hospital ambulance at the corner of St. John and St. James streets, the shaft striking him. The major, who was too deaf to hear the ambulance approaching, died a short time after being brought to the hospital. Major Porteous came to Canada 39 years ago, and he has been in the militia 28 years.

$50,000 SECURED.

Train Held Up in the Transvaal and Treasure Looted.

Pretoria, South Africa, Nov. 14.—Two men yesterday boarded a railway train as it was ascending a steep grade between Pietersburg and Nylstroom, overpowered the guard, looted the treasure car and made their escape. The robbers, it is reported, secured $50,000, which was consigned to the Standard Bank of Pretoria.

Killed in London.

London, Nov. 14.—A car builder named Harry Dundas, employed at the Grand Trunk shops in this city, met with a fatal accident yesterday afternoon. Dundas was engaged operating a machine through which he was running a stick of timber, a piece of which either broke or was thrown back with great force, striking him on the head and inflicting injuries which resulted in his death in a short time.

Borneo Joins Us.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—The Postoffice Department has been advised that British North Borneo has joined in the arrangement of the Imperial penny rate on newspapers, as initialed by Sir William Mulock. The complete group in the arrangement are as follows. United Kingdom, Bahamas, Barbadoes, Bermuda, British Honduras, British North Borneo, Ceylon, Falkland Islands, Gambia, Hong Kong, Leeward Islands, New Zealand, Saranak, Sierra Leon, Transvaal, Turks Islands and Zanzibar.

Found Dead on C.P.R. Tracks.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 14.—The badly mangled body of a man was found early yesterday morning on the C.P.R. track at Bruce Mines. He was about 30 years of age, but there is no means of identification, unless by cheque for $100 drawn on Feb. 27, 1903, in favor of Willard B. Dashee by Paul E. Neal on the People's Bank, Brooklyn. Coroner McCuaig of this city, investigated and found death to be accidental. The man evidently fell from a freight train. He was buried at Bruce Mines.

Marching on the Isthmus.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Both Secretary of State Hay and Gen. Young, the chief of the staff of the United States army, had retired when the bulletin announcing that an army from Colombia was marching against the Isthmians, came, so that it was impossible to learn what action the department might take to meet the issue which had been raised.

Mr. Duff in New York.

New York, Nov. 14.—Lyman P. Duff, K.C., who was the only legal representative of British Columbia, before the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal in London, is at the Hotel Imperial, on his way to his home in Victoria. "The hearing before the tribunal," said Mr. Duff, "was conducted with the most perfect reciprocal courtesy and harmony. There was not an inharmonious note in the proceedings from start to finish."

Lord Roberts Has Pneumonia.

London, Nov. 14.—Lady Roberts yesterday morning said that the condition of Lord Roberts, the Commander-in-Chief, was quite satisfactory, that there were no complications, and that he was making favorable progress towards recovery. Lord Roberts is suffering from pneumonia, which developed from a chill contracted at the unveiling of the memorial to Prince Christian Victor at Windsor last Friday.

I will absolutely stand all the cost if it fails. If you say, "It did not help me," that ends it as far as cost to you is concerned. Do you understand me? I am telling it as plainly as I can. I want you to know absolutely and without doubt this offer is made on honour. I have the prescription that cures. My only problem is to convince you that Dr. Shoop's Restorative will cure—is an uncommon remedy. A common remedy could not stand a test like this. It would bankrupt the physician making the offer. And I am succeeding everywhere.

Thousands are accepting my offer and only one in each forty writes me that my remedy failed. Just think of it. 39 out of 40 get well, and these are difficult cases too. And the fortieth has nothing to pay. That is a record I am proud of. It is wrong to stay sick when a chance like this is open. If well, you should tell others who are sick, of my offer. Tell him. A PUBLIC CALAMITY.

A. H. Green, Father of Greater New York, Killed by a Negro.

New York, Nov. 14.—Andrew H. Green, known as the father of Greater New York, was killed here yesterday by a negro named Cornelius M. Williams. Williams was paying attension to a negro girl in Mr. Green's employ, but the latter would not let her marry him. When Mayor Low heard of Mr. Green's death he ordered the flags to be hoisted at half-mast, saying that Mr. Green's death was a public calamity. The negro assassin was arrested, but expresses no regret for his crime. Mr. Green was 83 years old, and was the originator of the plan for the consolidation of the several boroughs comprising the city of Greater New York.

$12,000,000 FOR SOO WORKS.

Rumor That Mr. Clergue Has Interested English Capitalists.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—It was said yesterday that F. H. Clergue, who is in England with Senator Dandurand, endeavoring to interest capital in the Sault Ste. Marie enterprise, had been successful in securing $12,000,000 to carry on the works. The solicitor to the Lake Superior Consolidated, H. C. Hamilton, was seen in reference to the rumor, but was unable to confirm it.

Cotton in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 14.—Sir Daniel Morris, the Imperial Agricultural Commissioner to the West Indies, addressed a large gathering of planters Thursday, strongly urging the importance of establishing the cotton industry on an extensive scale in Jamaica. The address made a deep impression, and it is believed that many planters will follow the advice of the Imperial Commissioners. There is a general movement in the British West Indies looking to the supplying of cotton to the British manufacturers, so as to make them less dependent upon foreign sources.

Three Years at Kingston.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—No half measures nowadays. Magistrate Denison yesterday sentenced Milligan and Murphy of the "Gay Cats" to three years in the penitentiary for holding up Thomas Norton in a lane and robbing him of $2.

Canadian Camp.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—A site for a permanent training camp for Canada's militia was selected yesterday. It is at Kazubazua, in the Gatineau district, and comprises 30,000 acres. A permanent barracks will be built.

Shipping Demoralized.

Port Arthur, Nov. 14.—Shipping is almost demoralized at the head of the lakes because of a fierce storm prevailing on Lake Superior.

For a Bad Cold.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. A Torpid Liver.

A clogged condition of the system is one symptom of a liver out of order. Here is as good and simple a remedy as any I know, writes a physician: Get a nice lemon and cut it in half. Take one-half in a tumblerful of cold water the last thing at night and the other the first thing in the morning. Half a pint of very hot water with a squeeze of lemon or lime in it before breakfast is also good. Both remedies are well worth trying.

By-law No.——

A By-law to Provide for the Construction of Sewers in the Village of Ashburnham and to Authorize the Issue of Debentures of the Said Village for the Purpose of Raising the Sum Required Therefor.

Whereas it is desirable to construct a system of sewers in the village of Ashburnham according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esquire, and adopted by the council of said village and to purchase land required therefor and to raise the sum of $15,000 to be applied for the said purpose.

And whereas in order thereto it will be necessary to issue debentures of said village for the said sum of $15,000 and interest as hereinafter provided (which is the debt to be created by this by-law) the proceeds of the said debentures to be applied to the purpose aforesaid.

And whereas it is desirable to issue the said debentures at one time and to make the principal of the said debt repayable by yearly sums during the period of thirty years, being the currency of the said debentures, said yearly sums being of such respective amounts that the aggregate amounts payable in each year for principal and interest in respect of the said debt shall be equal to the amount so payable in each of the other 29 years of said period.

And whereas the total amount required by the Municipal Act to be raised annually by special rate for paying the said debt and interest as hereinafter provided is $867.50.

And whereas the amount of the whole ratable property of the said village according to the last revised Assessment Roll thereof is $452,576.

And whereas the amount of the existing debenture debt of said village is $19,680, and no part of either principal or interest thereof is in arrear.

1. The sum of $15,000 shall be expended by the said village in constructing a system of sewers and acquiring such lands as may be necessary for such purpose according to the plans therefor prepared by W. Chipman, Esq., and adopted by the council of the said village and for the purpose of raising said sum debentures of said village shall be issued within two years after the passing of this by-law.

2. The said debentures shall be 30 in number and shall be each for the sum of $867.50, being the amount of the several annual instalments including principal and interest, and shall be payable one in each year on the 21st day of December in each year for 30 years, the first of such debentures being payable on the 21st day of December, 1904.

3. Each of said debentures shall be signed by the Reeve and Treasurer of the said village and sealed with the corporate seal of the village.

4. During the currency of said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the ratable property in the said village the sum of $867.50, for the purpose of paying the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of said debt.

5. The by-law shall take effect on the 21st day of December 1903.

6. The votes of the duly qualified electors of the said municipality shall be taken upon this by-law, on Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1903, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day and at the places and before the deputy returning officers following namely:

South ward—At the council chamber, Mark street, before John T. Wright, hereby appointed such deputy.

7. The 25th day of November, 1903, at 8 p. m., and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time and place respectively for the appointment of persons to attend the various polling places and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk of said municipal council, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the passing of this by-law respectively and the 27th day of November, 1903 at 12 o'clock noon and the said council chamber are hereby appointed the time when and the place where the said clerk shall sum up the number of votes given for and against the by-law.

NOTICE

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law which has been taken into consideration and which will be finally passed by the council of the municipality (in the event of the assent of the Electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication in the Peterborough Examiner newspaper, the date of which first publication was Saturday, the 31st day of October, 1903; and that the votes of the electors of the said municipality will be taken thereon on the day and at the hours and places therein fixed.

JOHN WOOD, Clerk.

RESOLUTION

Of the Municipal Council of the

VILLAGE of ASHBURNHAM

RESOLVED:

1. That the annexation of the village of Ashburnham to the adjacent Town of Peterborough, upon such terms as shall be agreed upon by the councils of the said village and said town respectively, is expedient.

2. That the votes of the duly qualified electors of the said village shall be taken on this Resolution on Thursday, the 26th day of November, 1903, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the places and before the deputy returning officers, following, namely:

South ward—At the council chamber, Mark street, before John T. Wright, hereby appointed deputy returning officer.

3. On Wednesday, the 25th day of November, 1903, the reeve of the said village of Ashburnham shall attend at the said council chamber at eight o'clock in the evening to appoint persons to attend at the polling places aforesaid, and at the final summing up of the votes by the clerk, on behalf of the persons interested in and promoting or opposing the approval of this resolution by the electors.

4. The clerk of the council of said village will attend at the said council chamber on Friday, the 27th day of November, 1903, at twelve o'clock noon, to sum up the number of votes for and against this resolution.

Dated October 27th, 1903.

NOTICE

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the resolution adopted by the council of the municipality and that the votes of the electors of the said municipality will be taken thereon on the day and at the hours and places therein fixed.

A DRUG STORE FOR NO. 1 WARD.

Mr. G. J. Reilly is Opening One in that Section of the Town.

Progressive No. One Ward is to have a drug store along with its numerous growing industries. Mr. G. J. Reilley, son of the late M. Reilley, is opening out in the new Reilley Terrace, corner of Bethune and King streets, opposite G. T. R. station. The handsome new fittings for the store are of a suitable city design, and were made by the Peterborough Canoe Company. The stock of drugs, chemicals, toilet articles, etc., is brand new and is now being placed in position. Mr. Reilley's new drug store will be a great convenience in this busy section of the town, more especially as he intends to make it an "all-night" drug store, so that persons can procure medicines any hour of the night as well as the day. Mr. Reilley is well known in town, having taken his final examinations for entrance to the ranks of qualified druggists while in the employ of the late John McKee.

SERIES OF PAPERS ON CHURCH HISTORY.

First Was Given Last Night at Meeting of St. Peter's Ladies' Literary Association.

The Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S., held their regular fortnightly meeting last evening, at which there was an unusually large attendance.

The first of a series of papers on Church History, was introduced by Miss Casey in an excellent paper on the "Introduction of Christianity into Europe." Although the subject was a most interesting and instructive one, it was also very comprehensive, but the different steps were clearly portrayed in concise and beautiful language. In the introduction of the essay, the mind of the listener was carried back to the days previous to the dawn of the Christian era, when the human soul longed for a Redeemer. The universal commission given to the Apostles, to preach the Gospel to all nations, and finally their dispersion to various countries, was also carefully brought out. The religious, social and moral condition of the Roman Empire, in all its horrible phases of Paganism, formed a very interesting portion of the reading. The writer then dealt with the numerous difficulties under which St. Peter was obliged to labour; his reception among the various classes of Roman Society, gradually leading up from the down-trodden slave even to the haughty Senator, where for ages Paganism had reigned supreme. The triumphant victory of St. Peter in planting the Holy Standard of the Cross in Pagan, Rome, together with a special mention of the various monuments of his zeal, which are still to be seen in the Imperial City, formed a splendid conclusion to the paper of the evening.

Miss O'Connell occupied the chair during the evening and introduced the following programme:—

Instrumental duet...Misses McCabe and Lewis
Vocal solo... ... ... Miss May Clancy
Recitation ... ...Miss Carrie White
Vocal solo ... ...Mr. Frank Pope

On Friday, Nov. 27th, Miss Fannie Holmes will read a paper on "Early Christian Martyrs."

A social evening will be held on Thursday, Nov. 19th, at which members are requested to present their tickets.

SPLENDID WEATHER FOR OUTSIDE WORK.

Every Outdoor Occupation Favoured With Serene Skies.

This year winter is having a hard fight for his rights, and the hoary old fellow is getting it back for so often lingering in the lap of spring. With pansies blooming in the open air in the middle of November, it is no wonder that the weather has been favourable for outside work. For instance: the immense new buildings of the Canadian General Electric Company, covering about a square acre of ground, with walls nearly thirty feet in height, contain over a million of brick. It is a remarkable fact that the bricklayers employed in raising these cyclopean walls lost only three hours working time through weather conditions during the progress of their work.

CONCERT IN ST. JOHN'S SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOM.

The Choir Boys Give a Delightful Entertainment.

Under the Direction of Mr. Jos. Halpany—The Programme.

The St. John's church Choir Boys, under the able direction of Mr. Jos. Halpany, gave a delightful concert in the Sunday school room last night, the auditorium being well filled. The concert, which was first given last spring, was repeated by request, and on this occasion was a pleasant surprise, the boys singing with more confidence and vim than on the previous occasion.

The chorus, composed of Charlie Dean, Freddy Seymour, Roy Dixon, Frank Halpany, Jack Seymour, Karl Halpany, Claude Bartlett, Arthur Sawers, Charlie Kingscote, Hugh Wallace, Charlie Ray, Eric Weller, Vernon Morphet and Evans Bradburn opened the concert with "When the Band Begins to Play." This selection, which evoked considerable applause, was followed by a vocal solo by Mr. H. Sawers, entitled, "When the Sunset Turns the Ocean's Blue to Gold." The third item on the programme was a duet by Frank and Karl Halpany, entitled, "It was the Dutch." This song was a very funny one and was heartily applauded. Little Roy Dixon next sang, "I will Help the Maple Leaf to Live." He has a sweet, clear, if not strong voice, and when older should make his mark. This solo was followed by some military drill and choruses, which, as were all the selections, were performed in costume. Next on the programme was a quartette, "When Reuben comes to Town," by Freddie Seymour, Charlie Dean, Evans Bradburn and Arthur Sawers. Following this was a pretty trio "Daffo Down Dilly," by Charlie Ray, Frank Halpany and Vernon Morphet. "I have Something to Tell You," a duet by Charlie Dean and Freddie Seymour, was well received. The next number was a sextette, entitled "Eva," by Hugh Wallace, Karl Halpany, Claude Bartlett, Freddy Seymour, Charlie Dean and Frank Halpany. The last two numbers were "Boys will be Boys," Vernon Morphet taking the solo part, and "When a Lady Leads the Band," by the chorus.

During the evening the orchestra played the following numbers:—Overture, "Danse D'Armour," Clark; Poem, "Sunbeams and Shadows," Kelser; March, "Whistling John," Asher. Mrs. Halpany acted as accompanist during the evening.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

TO BE OR NOT TO BE annexed, that is the question. On Nov. 26th the "duly qualified ratepayers" of Ashburnham will vote upon the question of the union of the municipalities of Ashburnham and Peterborough. At one time Ashburnham voted with both hands for the consummation of this union, and Peterborough, like Barkis, "was willin';" but through some neglect, delay or bungling, no action was taken to bring about the fusion. Now the question has come up again, and it is important enough to deserve some attention, and a consideration of the reasons for and against will, if not convincing, be timely, at any rate.

OF COURSE there are two sides to the question as there are two sides to the river that separates us. Those in favour of union urge their points with a good deal of energy. While some of the reasons advanced are, to a certain extent, sentimental, those who employ them hold that they have also a practical side. It is held by these favourable to union, that Peterborough and Ashburnham united would warrant incorporation as a city, and that being a city would be not only a sentimental but a practical gain. It would be a source of pride; for then a Peterboroughnian would be a citizen of no mean city. But this would have its practical side. We—and when "we" is used it means both the people of the town and village for in the case of union there would be no distinction—there would be no more village—its place would be taken by the "Fifth Ward" of the City of Peterborough — we would rank with the best of the minor cities. Then when the "City" of Peterborough with its 15,000 of population, and its thriving industries and unexcelled traffic connections were mentioned it would mean something to the outside world and elicit a feeling of respect and a consideration which would make the "town" of Peterborough and the "village" of Ashburnham seem small in comparison. And an announcement that the "city" of Peterborough was a most inviting centre for the establishment of industries, with abundance of cheap power, unsurpassable railway facilities with numerous sites available and procurable on liberal terms and liberal municipal treatment to industries establishing themselves here—such an announcement would command a respect, which the name "town or "village" no matter how intrinsically good, would not secure, and be attended with corresponding results.

SPEAKING OF SITES for manufactories suggests another argument of those favouring annexation. Ashburnham has many admirable sites for industrial establishments, but the "village" hasn't the "pull" necessary to secure them; and if Peterborough wants to help a factory which might find the desired site in Ashburnham, nothing can be done—the statute law forbids the town to take any action in that direction outside of the municipality. But the friends of union say that if the two places were joined, the "city" would have a greater influence and would have more available and in some cases better sites, and could offer substantial inducements, which the village, by itself, could not give. It is claimed that that of itself would be a great advantage to Ashburnham, and tend to develop it in a way impossible under existing conditions; would establish industries, which would give employment, and give added value to real estate, and boom things generally. The "city" could then legally take steps to establish industries in the "Fifth Ward." The annexationists claim that union will lift the village out of the hum-drum, easy go-as-you-please, dolce far niente hamlet stage of its existence. Such are a few of the considerations which influence those favouring the union of the two municipalities.

AS TO THE OPPONENTS — their objections seem to be confined, so far as can be learned, to a single idea, the very practical idea involved in fear of added expense and increased taxation. In answer to this, the friends of union say that the Ashburnham tax rate is bound to increase anyway. It is pointed out that for several years past there have been no permanent improvements, in the shape of walks, etc., and a new sewerage system is to be built, which will necessarily cost something. The payment for fire protection is an item which union will remove, and, in general, it is claimed that the additional expense consideration will be amply compensated for by the substantial advantages which may be set against it.

THEN, PERHAPS, the sentimental idea enters into the feeling of opposition. The very word "annexation," as between Canada and the United States, stinks in the nostrils of every Canadian, and the loyal people of the village may be unconsciously affected by the repellant sound of the word "annexation," which is, after all, only another word for "union."

IF THE TWO corporations are united they will necessarily be one—there will be no village, no Ashburnham, no Peterborough, as contrasted with Ashburnham, but the people of both places will have a common interest, a common aim, a common ambition—all fellow citizens of the best place in the Dominion. Then we should have weight and influence, and "be somebody" in a civic sense. That is the view of those friendly to union, and the foregoing are an indication of the general trend of the reasons for and against the union of Ashburnham and Peterborough. There is doubtless much that can be said on both sides, and considering the importance of the interests at stake would it not be wise to have a public meeting called, when the whole matter could be amicably discussed and effectively thrashed out?

HUNTERS RETURN FROM THE NORTH.

Irwin Party Were Very Successful and Secured 19 Deer.

The Irwin hunting party, composed of Messrs. Ed., James and J. W. Irwin, of Harvey, C. V. Covert, Eugene Ferree, and J. J. Marshall, of Lockport, N.Y.; W. Green, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., W. Hickson and J. Reid of Bobcaygeon, and Herb Haynes, of Cavendish, have just returned from their annual deer hunt at Union Camp, No. 1, Pencil Creek, Cavendish, and report that luck has been with them, having secured 19 fine animals of fair size.

They report that the weather has been very fine, if anything a little too mild, however, but judging from their record they have nothing to complain of.

The members of the party from Niagara Falls and Lockport came to town on Friday and left for their homes highly pleased with the successful outcome of their hunt. The party went into camp on Saturday, October 31st, and by November 11th had secured the number of deer, and broke camp. The best day's sport was on Saturday, Nov. 7th, when 6 deer were shot. No casualties are reported by this party, and the trip in its entirety was a most pleasant one. The weather was evidently too mild to induce the deer to go into the water, consequently only still hunting was possible. Some remarkable shots were made by some members of the party. One deer was shot at a distance of 500 yards by the oldest member of the party, while Mr. Jas. Irwin shot one in the water at 700 yards.

IN THE FAR EAST.

Russians and Chinese Reported to be Fighting at Shan Hai Kwan.

Tien Tsin, Nov. 14.—It is reported here that Russian troops, marching towards Shan Hai Kwan, encountered a force of Imperial Chinese troops, and that fighting ensued. the Russians, it is asserted, pretending that the Imperial force was a band of Chinese robbers. Altogether over 10,000 Imperial troops have crossed the frontier into Manchuria.

Czar Prepared for War.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—There is much satisfaction here at the result of the Czar's visit abroad. It is believed that a complete understanding was reached with Germany and France regarding the Near and Far East, making for peace and rendering Russia's rear secure in the event of future hostilities with Japan. While the danger of hostilities is considered over for the present in spite of the warlike tone of Eastern despatches, it is realized that the settlement is merely patch-work. A high official said: "Russia wants peace, but she is ready for war. Japan, finding us prepared, fears the test."

Russia's ally Dodge.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 14.—A letter received here from Shanghai states that Russia is constantly changing the names of her warships to create confusion and uncertainty concerning the movements of the ships.

ASSASSIN'S FUTILE ATTEMPT.

Two Shots Fired at the Treasurer of Osprey Township.

Collingwood, Nov. 14.—A most dastardly attempt was made to murder Thomas Scott, clerk and treasurer of the Township of Osprey, at his home near McIntyre on Thursday night. Mr. Scott, who was alone, his family having gone to the Orange supper at Badjeros, was sitting at a table opposite a window in his dining room when a bullet pierced the glass and passed a few inches from his head. He immediately went to the window to ascertain whence the shot came when a second report rang out, the bullet, however, fortunately going wide of the mark. Mr. Scott secured his gun and made hasty pursuit after the would-be murderer, whom he saw crossing fields. He fired at his assailant, but missed him and he escaped. Mr. Scott has no clue to the man, but believes it was some person who knew he was alone in the house, the object doubtless being to kill him and steal the township funds.

GET OFF THE EARTH.

U. S. Law Bears Harshly on the Industrious Heathen Chinee.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—The United States Court Commissioner has handed down a decision in the case of Lin Lung Wong, a Chinese merchant, who acted as foreman in his own fruit packing establishment, to the effect that a Chinese manufacturer who engaged in any kind of manual labor about his factory, even for the purpose of instructing his employes, is a laborer under the meaning of the Exclusion Act, and, as such is not entitled to enter into or remain in the country as a merchant. This opinion, if adopted, as a rule of action by the Chinese bureau, will lead to the deportation of a large number of Chinese proprietors of cigar factories, clothing shops, broom factories and other establishments.

Receiver for Gaynor and Greene.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE

The Increase is $22,000,000 For the Last Four Months.

CANADA'S SPLENDID SHOWING

The Aggregate Volume of Our Foreign Trade for the Four Months Ended 31st Oct. Was $179,234,645—During the Period Mentioned Imports of Free Goods Amounted to Half the Aggregate.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—An increase of over $22,000,000 in aggregate foreign trade for the four months ending October 31st, as compared with the same period of last year, is the splendid showing which Canada makes. The aggregate for the four months was $179,234,645. For the four months ending October 31st, 1902, the figures were $157,230,902. The total imports were $85,652,235, showing an increase of $15,918,713. Of this sum imports of free goods amounted to nearly one-half. As these consist of raw materials for factories, it indicates a brisk condition of manufacturing. Exports of domestic produce amounted to $93,384,191, being a gain of $2,150,845, as compared with exports for the same four months of last year. The increases were: Products of the mine, $1,126,762; animals and their produce, $1,592,614; agricultural products, $1,640,714, manufactured products, $840,974. There was a falling off of $1,519,860 in products of the forest, $995,710 in products of the fisheries and $34,649 in miscellaneous products.

The Railway Commission.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—It is rumored here that the Railway Commission will consist of Hon. A. G. Blair, Mr. A. B. Aylesworth and Mr. C. W. Spencer. These names are talked of, but the Government has not yet seriously considered any appointments.

TOTTENHAM BANK SUSPENDS.

Prolonged Illness of G. P. Hughes of Tottenham Caused a Run.

Tottenham, Nov. 13.—The private banking house of G. P. Hughes has suspended business pending a readjustment of affairs consequent upon the continued "run" that has been going on for two months past, and which shows no sign of subsiding. The withdrawals followed the beginning of a severe illness of Mr. Hughes, and has not been due to any apprehension of unsteadiness. Mr. Hughes has been private banker for forty years. Ten years ago the opposition from the Bank of Hamilton branch here ceased, and since then Mr. Hughes has carried on business with that bank. A year ago a branch of the Traders' Bank was placed here and divided custom. There are some 125 depositors, and it was thought by Mr. Hughes that a meeting of creditors had better be held and matters arranged. The meeting will be held on Saturday. Mr. Hughes is a large property holder in the town, which can be easily realized on. He is now 70 years of age, and has the confidence and respect of the entire community.

THE SENSIBLE MOTHER.

When little ones are ill the sensible mother no longer doses them with nauseous, griping purgatives, nor puts them to sleep with the so-called "soothing" preparations which always contain harmful opiates. Baby's Own Tablets have been used by thousands of mothers who heartily testify that they are gentle in their action, absolutely safe, and make little ones sleep sound and naturally, because they remove the trouble that makes baby irritable and wakeful. On this point Mrs. T. Watson, Sarsfield, Ont., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and find them a very valuable medicine for young children. When baby is cross or fretful I give her a Tablet and it soon puts her right."

These Tablets cure all the minor ailments of little ones. They are good for all children from birth onward. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TWO AND TWENTY KILLED.

Boris Sarafoff Does Not Seem to Be Very Dead Yet.

Salonica, Wednesday, Nov. 11.—During fighting in the village of Tirnova, in the Kaza of Mevrokoj, twenty-two persons were killed. It is reported that Boris Sarafoff, leader of the Macedonian revolutionists, arrived here to-day, for the purpose of planning fresh outrages. The police are searching for him.

Must Be Accepted.

Constantinople, Nov. 13.—It transpired yesterday that the latest Austro-Russian note to the Porte contained a specific declaration that a further refusal to accept the reform school will expose the Ottoman Empire to great danger and that the proposals of the two powers must be accepted entirely and without delay.

The Case of Mrs. Gould.

Whitby, Nov. 13.—Mystery veils the transactions of Mrs. Gould, wife of Rev. Matthew Gould, retired Baptist minister, who has become insolvent, having dissipated her private fortune, amounting to about $40,000, and contracted debt aggregating about $16,000, though this sum may be augmented when the creditors have all been heard from. The fact that Mrs. Gould was insolvent only came to light a few days ago when her solicitor, J. B. Dow, B.A., LL.B., advised her to call a meeting of her creditors. Mrs. Gould had long been regarded the wealthiest woman in Whitby. It is thought she spent the money in charity and in assisting poorer relatives.

Imperial Cable.

London, Nov. 13.—Premier Seddon cables that the Imperial settlement bill is now law in New Zealand. It is regarded as a complete proof of that colony's attachment to the Empire. Australia has been invited to tender for sending troops to the troops in Malta for a year.

Specialists in the Treatment of Nervous, Blood, Private and Sexual Diseases of Men and Women. 25 Years in Detroit.

No Names used without Written Consent. Cures Guaranteed.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Chas. Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, burning sensation. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."

READER—We guarantee to cure you or no pay. You run no risk. We have a reputation and business at stake. Beware of frauds and impostors. We will pay $1,000 for any case we take that our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will not cure.

FAVORS HIS POLICY.

Hicks-Beach Declares His Agreement With Mr. Balfour.

THE ADDRESSES AT BRISTOL

Premier's Carriage Was Unharsed, and a Long Line of Men Pulled Him Two Miles Up the Hills to Clifton House —A Mile Long Procession—Mr. Balfour Reiterates His Views on Retaliation.

London, Nov. 14.—Premier Balfour received a great ovation on his arrival at Bristol yesterday. On a crowded platform, Sir Charles Cave, president of the West Bristol Conservative Association, read an address assuring him of the loyal support of the party for his statesmanlike attitude on fiscal reform. Premier Balfour, replying, said he was not bound by any worn-out formulas which had meaning and reality sixty years ago, but which had been changed by the changing circumstances of time.

In Vast Crowds of Enthusiasts.

London, Nov. 14.—(C.A.P.)—Bristol over-run with political excitement yesterday. Premier Balfour found himself in the midst of vast crowds of enthusiasts. His carriage was unhorsed and a long line of men pulled him two miles, up hills to Clifton. He was escorted by a bodyguard of medical students and a mile long was the procession. The streets were lavishly decorated with flags, through the generosity of a Bristol millionaire. At the hall the galleries and the balcony were filled with 500 ladies in evening dress, while every one of them waved a Union Jack.

Premier Balfour made it clear that his sympathies lie in the direction of retaliation and fiscal reform. The country, he said, had arrived at the opinion that certain changes were needed in their fiscal system to enable them to deal with the situation. Our opponents spent a great deal of time abusing Chamberlain, to whom they attributed sinister motives, far-reaching scheming and unavowed ambitions, and failed to see that this man who occupied such great space in the eyes of his countrymen gave up all for what he believed to be the good of England and the Empire.

It had been said that they would offend great powers if they adopted any change, but did a nation exist on sufferance? Tariffs might be misused and used provocatively, but because of that were they to be debarred from trying to use them wisely? He objected to the charge, that the only persons he thought of were consumers. It seemed to him little short of lunacy not to prepare for foreshadowed dangers.

Hicks-Beach was received with tremendous enthusiasm. He said: "Free trader as I am, free trader as I have always been, I am prepared to support the policy Premier Balfour laid down at Sheffield and also in his speech to-night. That position I understand to be: Foreign countries through protective tariffs have seriously injured our home industries and both our export and home trade. The matter has been made more seriously by the unholy modern institution of trusts and combinations."

He thought the Government should be armed with weapons by which they could say to protectionist countries: "Unless you treat us in a fair way, we will penalize you in a way to be disagreeable to yourselves." The Prime Minister knew that on this or any other subject, if he cared to seek his opinion, that opinion was always at his command.

Reciprocity With Cuba.

The Daily Mail refers to Hicks-Beach following at a distance, adding: "As if to reinforce Balfour's speech, the news comes that the reciprocity treaty with Cuba has been approved by the House of Representatives. If carried it means a loss to English trade of £2,000,000 at the very moment when free traders are murmuring that we have the best fiscal system and the wisest course is to do nothing."

Bristol's Approval.

London, Nov. 14.—(C. A. P.)—The Times says the reception given Mr. Balfour was extraordinary for its significant cordiality. Bristol's enthusiasm meant encouragement to Mr Balfour to go on, and approval of his policy. The paper says he actually announced that the Government has convictions, and they were clearly enough indicated Thursday by Mr. Balfour. He showed a recognition of the real situation, declaring that as far as lies in his power the unity of the great party he leads shall not be broken up.

Chamberlain's Resonator.

The News styles Balfour Chamberlain's resonator, and says Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's address weakened the doctrine of empty form of temporary truce which has been declared between free trade and protectionist-unionism, which neither party means to keep.

The Post says Sir Michael's speech will no doubt be a realization to the Unionist party, that complete unanimity of desirability for an Imperial policy is important to secure.

The Leader calls it "Peace without honor."

To Hold Their Votes.

London, Nov. 14.—(C.A.P.)—Hon A. Eglfows, Junior Lord of the Treasury, advises electors of North Huntingdonshire to abstain from voting for or against Chamberlain's policy until its effects on agricultural interests are better known. He would like to know how farmers can get more than a temporary rise in prices for their products, in view of the fact that the supply for the colonies will be largely stimulated.

Draw a Larger Circle.

London, Nov. 14.—(C.A.P.)—The Duke of Marlborough addressed a meeting of Conservatives at Carlisle last night. He said: "We must draw a larger circle round ourselves, which will encircle not only Great Britain, but all the colonies and dependencies and make their resources greater than even the largest Empires of the past."

Colonial Section.

London, Nov. 14.—Arrangements were completed Thursday for the formation of a colonial section of the Tariff Reform League to insure the co-operation and consolidation of all distinctively colonial interests, both over the sea and at home. It will support the objects of tariff reform, Imperial reciprocity and union. The annual subscription is one guinea. On the committee are Sir Charles Tupper, Barlow Cumberland, Donald Baynes, Hon. George E. Foster and twenty others.

Party Will Shelter Malcontents.

London, Nov. 14.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has made it clear to the country that he will not throw difficulties in the way of the Premier. The existence of the Free Food League he adorns becomes more unintelligible now unless to shelter malcontents, whose differences of opinion are greater than those existing between its founders and the Government.

Winter of Discontent Past.

London, Nov. 14.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Henry Fowler was escorted to the Liberal Anchor Club at Bristol yesterday, where he was entertained at luncheon, and said the winter of the Liberal party was now past and they could look forward to a united, vigorous and advancing party.

Fowler's Contribution.

London, Nov. 14.—Sir H. Fowler, speaking at Bristol, said of the purified Cabinet: Protection up to the hilt, and that a vote for Balfour meant a vote for Chamberlain and a vote for Chamberlain meant a vote for Balfour.

Endorses Chamberlain

Ottawa, Nov 14.—The Ottawa Board of Trade last night passed a resolution endorsing the tariff policy as communicated by the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

To Call on Chamberlain.

London, Nov. 14.—Lord Strathcona and the Agents-General of the Colonies on the 18th will call on Mr. Chamberlain to express appreciation of his work as Colonial Secretary.

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, as a rule, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness. The healthiest woman must wear out under such a strain. What can be expected then of those women who are weakened by womanly diseases?

Women who are weak, worn-out and run-down will find new life and new strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I suffered with female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. John Green, of Danville, Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles and I feel like another person."

Refuse all substitutes.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

Ferrol Fattens Faster than any other emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, for the following good and sufficient reasons:

It is a perfect emulsion of the finest Cod Liver Oil that can be obtained, and is, therefore, very easily assimilated.

It is the only emulsion which contains Iron, which is absolutely necessary for the production of rich, red, healthy blood.

It contains Phosphorus in proper quantity, and is, therefore, an admirable nerve and brain food.

Besides supplying the necessary food for Tissue, Blood and Nerve, it acts as a splendid tonic, and enables the system to make proper use of the food thus supplied.

For the treatment of Consumption, Anæmia, General Debility, or wasting diseases of any kind, Ferrol has no equal.

Try it and be convinced.

50c. Bottle Free.

When Medicine Fails, Try Liquozone—We'll Pay for it.

Medicine must fail in a germ trouble, because medicine never kills germs. Any germ-killing drug is a poison to you, and it cannot be taken internally.

Liquozone—liquid oxygen—is the only way that any man knows to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Its results in a germ trouble are absolutely certain, for it always destroys the cause of the trouble. To prove this—if you need it—we will gladly pay for a bottle and give it to you to try.

Only Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making every bottle, but the result is liquid oxygen—a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill.

Oxygen is a tonic to you—the most essential element of life. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. Nothing else is so good for you. But germs are vegetables; and this excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter.

We Paid $100,000

for the rights to Liquozone for America. We did this after testing it for two years in 3,000 difficult cases, and proving that the results were inevitable. We state this price to show the value of Pauli's discovery. To-day the best physicians, the world over, use Liquozone alone in any germ disease. If you suffer from a germ trouble, you must use it, too; else rely on Nature alone to get well.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Pandora Range.

Broiler or Toasting Door.

A broiler or toasting door, to be of any practical value in a range must be so constructed that the steak or bread can be placed immediately over the live coals—broiling and toasting should be done quickly to be done well.

Broiling door in the Pandora is so constructed that a broiler can be placed almost on the coals if desirable, and the door is large enough to admit any style of broiler—a thick, juicy steak can be broiled to retain all its rich, natural flavor and bread can be toasted with that appetizing brown, so hard to get just right, if done in the ordinary range.

Pandora range is fitted with enameled reservoir, triple triangular grates and steel warming closet, features found on no other range.

FOR AN IMPROVED TRAIN SERVICE.

Letter Making Suggestion to the Board of Trade

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There has been considerable newspaper talk of late about the efforts of the towns along the main line of the Grand Trunk to secure competition in railways by inducing the C. P. R. to build either a branch line, or deflect the main line, so that it would give the towns connection with Toronto and Montreal, in the fond belief that if this connection were made they would secure a better service.

I have followed with considerable interest, the articles published in the Examiner dealing on this question, and more than that I have taken pains to enquire as to the relative merits of the service given Peterborough, with connection with both lines of railway, and the towns on the front, with only one line, and the only conclusion I can come to, at least as far as the mail and passenger service, is, that it is this town that should do the agitating. What do I find the facts to be? Port Hope with one railway gets the Toronto morning papers and mail about 10.15 in the morning, while Peterborough with two railways has to wait until 11.35 to get the papers which are printed in Toronto and on the streets early enough for the man who goes to work at 7 o'clock to buy one to read on his way.

It does seem to me that a town of the size and importance of Peterborough should be given a little better service in this respect than it is at present receiving, and I think this might well form the subject for discussion by the Board of Trade, and from the consideration of which more real good to the town might result than dealing with such matters as Preferential Tariffs and Alaskan Boundarys with which the Board has nothing to do, and whose opinions on which are neither sought nor considered. I hope the Board will come down to earth and deal with practical questions, such as securing better mail and train service, and building up the town, leaving such weighty subjects as those which engrossed their attention at their recently held meeting, to higher bodies to settle.

RUGBY.

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that eight out of the 12 players on the Peterborough Rugby team are employees of the Canadian General Electric Company.

* * * *

The papers throughout the province speak in high terms of the Examiner's illustrated write-up of Rugby in Peterborough.

* * * *

It is not unlikely that Murray Kennedy, who has been a resident of Peterborough for the past year or more and who left at the opening of the School term to attend the Ridley College at St. Catharines, will figure on the Peterborough half-back line in the game against the Victorias of Toronto next Saturday. Kennedy is in the pink of condition and would easily be a help to the locals.

* * * *

The boys will put in some good hard practice next week. An effort will be made to have a full practice on the Nicholls Oval on Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

* * * *

The Britannias have withdrawn from the City League, that club finally seeing that there was no chance for victory and wishing to shorten the season.

HOCKEY.

As the winter season approaches, activity in hockey circles increases and already many of the clubs throughout the Province have organized. The announcement of the date of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club has not been made as yet, but it may be presumed that it is not far off. The Trent Valley League, which had such a successful season last year promises to be a prominent feature in promoting clean amateur hockey again this season, and the secretary-treasurer of the league, Mr. H. S. Clarry, is already in receipt of inquiries concerning the prospects of the Trent Valley. The secretary states that it is the intention of the management to push along the good work of the league with even greater vigour than heretofore and that every effort will be made to keep the Trent Valley up to the prominent position it now holds in hockey circles throughout the Province. The annual meeting of the Trent Valley League is always held about the second week in December and formal notices will be sent out to the various clubs in the district as to the date on which the annual meeting will be held.

BASKET-BALL.

The game in the Y. M. C. A. League to be played to-night will be between the Athletics, White, and Brownies from 8 to 9 and the Athletics, Blue, and Harriers from 9 to 10 o'clock. The line-up of the Athletic teams will be: Whites—Cavanah and Robertson, forwards; A. Dunsford, centre; T. Glover, J. Doris, backs. Blue—R. Cameron, J. Sheridan, forwards; H. C. Armstrong, centre; E. Heat, H. Morgan, backs. The two games may be seen for the price of one admission.

A Flyer in SILK

GREAT purchases bring remarkably great bargains at Fair's, that make it worth your while to watch this column. No reason why you should not get your share of good things fast as they come to the surface at the Golden Lion. We know we will delight the ladies by the announcement of a remarkable sale of beautifully perfect SOFT FINISHED, GROS-GRAIN

Taffeta Silk

Positively untearable, guaranteed not to cut, money back or replaced if not as advertised, ONE DOLLAR a yard.

$1.00 per yard

The silk is 21 inches wide and in the following colours: Black, Navy, Brown, Green, Pale Blue, Cadet Blue, Mauve, Pearl Grey and Pink. Absolutely reliable and dependable, with the guarantee of the Golden Lion behind it. Popular for Coat Linings, Skirts and Dresses. Perhaps the best and only silk that has been placed on the market at the price. If you paid $3.00 a yard for this grade you could not get a silk to give you greater satisfaction. We are the sole agents for this silk in Peterborough.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

600 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 25c to 95c

140 Ladies' and Children's Short and Three-quarter Length Winter Coats, black, grey and other colours; will be sold at ONE-THIRD regular prices.

Shoe Factories in Quebec Shut Down Over Machinists.

Orders to Return to Work Disregarded—Hope of a Settlement This Week—The Factories Involved—The Chicago Street Car Strike—Rioting and Bloodshed—Company Claims Big Victory.

Quebec, Nov. 16.—All the boot and shoe factories here have been closed as a result of a difference between the shoe machinists and their employers. The machinists are the least skilled of the operatives, and they have been creating a lot of trouble for their employers for several months past.

On Friday the following notice was posted up in each of the factories:

"In default of engagements with the shoe machinists we will suspend all operations in our factories this evening. We will resume operations when we have engaged a sufficient number of machinists to run a set of macines in each factory. Consequently work in all departments will be suspended, and will be resumed in future only in proportion to the number of shoe machinists whom we may engage. Commencing at noon on Saturday blank forms of engagements between manufacturers and shoe machinists will be placed in our offices, at the disposal of any of the latter who desire to sign."

The firms who are members of the association are: The W. A. Marsh Company, Limited; J. S. Langlois & Co., the John Ritchie Company, F. Schriburt & Co., Thomas Migner, C. E. McKeen, Goulet & Garrant, the James Muir Company, Paul Tourigny, the Dominion Shoe Company, Vermette & Thivierge, Thomas Duchene, J. B. Drolet, J. S. Larochel, B. Crepeault, Jobin & Rochette, J. M. Rochette, Derome & O'Brien, Alf. Poirier and Luc Routhier.

Some five thousand men are out of employment. Several of the leading manufacturers are, however, hopeful of a settlement of the difficulty and resumption of work during the present week.

Cause of the Trouble.

The difficulty was precipitated by five edge trimmers identified with the Machinists' Union, who quit work at Marsh's factory a fortnight ago and refused to return except on their own terms. These men also refused to submit their grievances to the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, which boards were proposed by Archbishop Begin, and were accepted by the Machinists' Union for the adjustment of all disputes. It was alleged that the union was not responsible for the breach of faith, and that the men acted independently of that organization, but there is evidence of the union's activity in promoting the breach in every way possible. These five men, according to their agreement with the manufacturers, should have submitted their grievance to the Claims Committee, which is composed of three union men, who are supposed to confer with a conciliation committee constituted of three manufacturers, or as an alternative either interests was permitted to submit the matter in question to an arbitration committee of three one appointed by the manufacturers, another by the union, and a third by the Provincial Chief Justice. Hitherto these provisions met all difficulties, but in the present instance there has been a stubborn resistence of mediation of any kind. The committee ordered the men back to work, but as they refused to comply the result has been a general closing down of the works.

PUBLIC WITH STRIKERS.

Chicago Street Car Company Claim Big Victory, However, in Running Cars Over 12 Miles of Road.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—There was riot and bloodshed in Chicago yesterday, but it did not reach proportions anticipated. The strikers were quiet, but their friends were active. So were the police. The Street Car Company claims a big victory. It operated several cars during daylight over 12 miles of its rails. There were some 300 miles over which not a wheel turned. Ten armed officers to each car moving was the rule, while the blue coats were strung along the entire route of operation with special, ambulances and patrol wagons to mobilize forces rapidly and carry away the injury. With the exception of a morning riot, in which several thousand persons were engaged, there was nothing worse over this piece of line than an occasional stone thrown at passing cars and obstructions covertly placed on the rails.

William Mahon, president of the Street Railway Men's International Association, said: "The day shows the men have won. There was no violence from strikers, and but few cars were run over the twelve miles. No passengers were carried. They refuse to patronize the cars."

1,600 Men Thrown Out.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The men employed in the bar mill of the Inland Steel Company at Indiana Harbor, Saturday refused to accept a reduction of 12½ per cent. in their wages, and the entire plant was shut down. About 1,600 men are thrown out of work.

10 Per Cent. Wage Reduction.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 16.—A general reduction of 10 per cent. in wages, taking effect Monday, has been posted in the mills here. Ten thousand hands are affected. Notices were also posted at the cotton mills of the Blackstone Manufacturing Company, ordering a 10 per cent. cut down on Nov. 30. These mills employ 700 hands. Similar action is expected in various other towns in the Blackstone Valley.

3,000 Made Idle.

Pueblo, Col., Nov. 16.—The anticipated partial closing of the Minnequa Steel Works, the plant of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, in this city, took place Saturday, throwing 3,000 men out of work. Shortage of fuel is the cause of the shut-down.

900 Men Out of Work.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 16.—The steel mills of the Tennessee Iron, Coal and Railway Company, at Ensley, shut down Saturday for lack of orders, throwing 900 men out of work.

No Settlement.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—The official count of the votes cast by the miners of the northern coal district defeats the proposition for a settlement of the strike.

Unionism in Canada.

Boston, Nov. 16.—At the Saturday afternoon session of the A. F. of L. a resolution was adopted instructing the executive council of the Federation to take the necessary steps to have all international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and to insist upon local unions in Canada affiliating with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada with the least possible delay.

Give Up the Property.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Owing to the delimitation of the Alaska boundary made by the tribunal which recently sat in London, the Northwest Mounted Police may have to abandon two of their posts in the Dalton trail, the one at Wells, where the Chilkat and Klehenl Rivers join and the other at Camp Pleasant, whore Glacier River and Klehenl Rivers meet. The Alaska tribunal decision gives the United States 20 miles more of territory northwest of Chilkoot Pass than that enjoyed under the provisional boundary. Pleasant Camp, the more northerly of the two posts, is in a beautiful location, and the buildings erected by the police were of a substantial and comfortable type.

Mr. McKay Enters Appeal.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—An appeal was entered on Saturday at Osgoode Hall on behalf of A. G. McKay, the Liberal member for North Grey, against the decision of Justice Osler on Nov. 5, postponing trial until Jan 31 next. The motion in respect to North Perth and North Norfolk will come up at Osgoode Hall on Wednesday next.

At Whitby on Saturday Justices Street and Britton dismissed the North Ontario election protest against Geo. Grant, M.P., by consent, and confirmed his election. The same thing occurred at Owen Sound in the protest against T. I. Thompson, M.P.

Found no Condor Wreck.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 16.—H.M.S. Grafton, which went to the west coast of Vancouver Island to investigate a sunken wreck believed to be that of H.M.S. Condor, lost two years, has returned. She was unable to locate the fishermen who reported finding the wreck, and not having definite bearings was obliged to return. When the bearings are given by the fishermen who located the wreck, the warship will return to the scene to make a complete investigation.

MAKE A DIRECT CHARGE.

If any of the Conservative papers who are hinting and insinuating that Hon. Mr. Stratton was connected with the purchase of the stock in the Crossin Piano Company, have the courage of their convictions, they would put the charge in a specific and definite form, so that it can be dealt with. If they have the courage, or fairness, to do this, Hon Mr. Stratton will afford them every opportunity in his power to permit them to prove their statements. There is little chance of this being done. These journals are too fond of creating political capital by dark innuendo. An honest open way of dealing is not in their line.

POURING WATER INTO A SIEVE

Pouring water into a sieve to fill it is the symbol of endless and useless labour. Like this are the humiliating efforts of some British statesmen to placate and conciliate the United States by making concessions. At the Lord Mayor's banquet, London, England, Premier Balfour expressed gratification at the removal of the "cause of friction" in Alaska. It's mighty easy to remove "cause of friction" by surrender of rights. A farmer will have no "cause of friction" with his wealthy neighbour over the site of a line fence if he surrenders his rights, or allows his lawyer to do the surrendering for him. As the Examiner has before remarked, Americans are laughing in their sleves at the "easy mark," as they would express it, which John Bull makes. Playing the generous part towards Americans at the expense of Canadians is as fruitless as pouring water into a sieve with the intention of filling it. Every concession made may remove "causes of friction" for the moment, but new grounds of demand can easily be trumped up, and from the generous and conciliatory statesman in Great Britain further surrenders will follow if the entente cordiale is to be maintained according to the ideas of British diplomats. Generous treatment accorded to Americans seem to be like casting pearls before swine. A nation which is not influenced by the highest ideals in its diplomacy is not likely to be open to appeals to the generous side of international dealing. The futuity of the course of the British statesman is palpable. Concession will only breed concession, as the demands of a blackmailer satisfied once will not insure against a repetition of demands. In honour bound, is not a phrase in his moral code. A conciliatory attitude is commendable, but it would also be commendable to differentiate between dignified conciliation and humiliating concession.

Surrender has a nasty sound in British ears.

IRON AND STEEL TRADE.

Mr. Coulson Replies to Mr. Drummond.

United States Prices not yet Down to a Competitive Basis With British Iron—The Bounty Advantage to Canadian Producers.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—The statement made by Mr. George E. Drummond, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which was published recently, has aroused a good deal of discussion among iron manufacturers in this city. Mr. Drummond said:—"The Canadian market is at present overrun with drummers offering American pig iron at slaughter prices, concessions being readily made for export to Canada. The duty against this iron is $2.50 a ton, which would be equal to about 11-2 per cent. It should not be less than $3.50 per ton, the American tariff against Canadian pig iron being $4 a ton. Canadian consumers of pig iron will find the same system of slaughtering goods will inevitably be followed by the American manufacturers in the more highly finished goods, so that all classes of manufacturers and consumers of iron an steel goods in Canada will suffer.'

In this connection a member of the Canadian manufacturers, Mr. Samuel Coulson of the H. R. Ives Company of this city, general founders, has made the following statement to The Globe correspondent:—"Mr. Drummond's remarks in so far as they relate to pig iron are misleading. At the outset I may state that in our works we use not less than three thousand tons of pig iron per annum, and naturally buy our iron in the cheapest market. For over two years past we have not been able to purchase a pound of pig iron in the United States; in that time 75 per cent. of the pig used by us came from England, the rest was Canadian. Recently our American friends have been writing us to know if we were not able to buy at present prices, their quotations as late as October 29th being as follows: No. 1 soft, $19.67 per gross ton, f.o.b. cars Montreal, duty paid, terms 30 days; No. 2 foundry, $19.17; No. 3, $18,67; No. 44, $18.17. The foregoing questions compare with English and Scotch iron now in our yards as follows:—No. 1 Summerlee, $19.50; No. 1 Ayresome, $19; No. 1 Carnbroe, $18.45; No. 1 Middlesboro', $16.75; terms four months.

"Taking one with the other we consider the brands of English and Scotch iron mentioned as being worth fully $1 per ton more for our purposes than the American brands quoted. Mr. Drummond does not make himself very clear as to whether he is opposed to the preference now being given to England. He also neglected to mention that Canadian manufacturers of pig iron up to the last session of Parliament were entitled to and collected bounties amounting to $3 per ton. I think these bounties are now on a sliding scale but have yet five or six years to run before they cease. If the quotations for pig iron that we have had from our friends in Sydney this month hold good, it will be many a long day before the Americans will be able to sell the same product in Canada."

Asked as to the proposition of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company in the Canadian market, Mr. Coulson said, "Recently the Dominion Iron and Steel Company have been quoting prices for pig iron that will give them the Canadian market. These quotations they are willing guarantee all through the year 1904. Had they put their pig iron on the Canadian market in the first place at reasonable prices there would have been no foreign iron of any kind imported. The truth is if it had not been for the British output the manufacturers here would have had to use pig iron manipulated to the death in prices by both the American and Canadian smelters."

Speaking of the British preference Mr. Coulson said, "The manufacturers here cannot quarrel with that preference; it saved us."

MINING ACTIVITY IN CANADIAN COAL.

The Dominion Coal Company to Open Three New Mines.

The Dominion Coal Company purposes to open up three new mines on their areas, and engineers are now surveying the outcrops with a view to determining their most satisfactory location. They will be operated on the slope plan, and equipped with the most modern appliances for raising coal economically. It is expected that the company's output will be increased by 40 per cent., and that within the next three or four years it will reach the 5,000,000 mark.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

MRS. GRAY DROWNED

BODY FACE DOWN IN WATER

Deceased Lady May Have Had a Fit and During Temporary Recovery May Have Wandered Into the Lake—Herbert Scharr, a Young Man of 25 Years, Commits Suicide by Shooting.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The body of Mrs. Gray, wife of Henry S. Gray, of 166 Broadview avenue, who is employed at the Pulham Nurseries, was found in the water close to the lake shore, about 50 yards east of Woodbine avenue, yesterday morning. About 8.30 Peter McEachren, B.A., 4 Kew Beach, was taking a run on the sands, after his morning dip in the lake, when he made the ghastly discovery. Calling to his aid Mr. Carrol of Shanty avenue, and a friend, who were passing on bicycles, Mr. McEachren brought the body to shore. The body was face downwards in the water, and the forehead was somewhat bruised by the action of the waves bringing it in contact with the sands and gravel. The deceased was dressed in a sealskin jacket and black skirt and was apparently about 50 years of age. The patrol wagon took the body home.

Mrs. Gray called upon Dr. Ball, Sherbourne street, on Saturday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, and received a bottle of medicine; after this time nothing is known as to her movements. James Boddy of Woodbine avenue states that he assisted a lady answering the description of deceased, who fell in a fit on Queen street a few weeks ago, and one theory is that she had probably had another attack, and in her partial recovery wandered into the water. Mr. McEachren found tracks in the sand leading from the end of the sidewalk on Woodbine avenue to the place where the body was discovered, and from the fact that rigor mortis had not set in was of the opinion that the accident, if it was an accident, must have taken place but a short time before the discovery of the body.

The deceased lady's bonnet, bottle of medicine and purse, said to have contained $10, were missing.

Herbert Scharr Shot Himself.

On Saturday afternoon Herbert Scharr, aged 25, an employe of the Christie Prown Company, and living at 12 Dermott place, shot himself in the head and expired in a few minutes. The family can assign no direct reason, but some years ago deceased had his left hand badly injured, and since then was more or less irritable, despondent and nervous. Coroner Greig has issued a warrant for an inquest to-night.

Lost a Leg.

In trying to board a moving car at Queen and York streets Saturday evening, Joseph Armstrong, 186 Euclid avenue, had his right leg severed beneath the wheels. At the Emergency Hospital last night it was reported that he was resting easily. He is about 40 years of age.

Canadian Power Victim.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 16.—Ruffaelo Shuppro, an Italian, died yesterday afternoon on his way to the Memorial Hospital as the result of injuries received while working on the Canadian power development.

Unconscious for Three Weeks.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Wesley Meyer, the eleven-year-old son of Edward Meyer, died at the Children's Hospital early Sunday morning. The deceased was accidentally injured about three weeks ago by the bursting of a cylinder of a threshing machine on his father's farm, near Cashel. A piece of metal struck him on the head and the poor lad never regained consciousness.

Miner Ran Over and Killed.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—Jerry McDonald, aged 30, a miner, was run over and killed by an electric car at Glace Bay last night. He was intoxicated and went to sleep on the track.

BROTHER SHOOTS BROTHER.

Wm. Lovelace of Combermere Mistaken for a Deer.

Belleville, Nov. 16.—Lorenzo Lovelace, a farmer, of Combermere, Addington County, while hunting deer on Wednesday last was shot through the abdomen by his own brother, William Lovelace, who saw a white parcel the victim was carrying and mistook it for the tail of a deer. The wounded man is still alive and may survive, but the chances are said to be against him. His brother is wild with grief.

Suicide by Shooting.

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 16.—Robert H. Dobson, 30 years old, a bookkeepor for Curtice Brothers' canning works, shot himself through the temple yesterday morning while sitting before a mirror. Despondency, caused by illness, is supposed to have been the cause.

THE HONEST FARMER AND THE UBIQUITOUS MICROBE

His Experience with a Microscope and Microbes.

An Illustration that a Better Knowledge is a Dangerous Thing.

A Toronto hygienic authority has declared against the long street skirt as a domesticator of microbes. Result—women will continue to make street brooms of their skirts. Mrs. Hughes, and all other sensible teachers of hygiene, may rest assured that so long as all germs look alike to the naked eye, and continue to be dignified by the polite name "bacteria," women will not care for scientific disquisitions on microbes. Long skirts are fashionable. Microbes are happily invisible. Common air swarms with disease germs. We still breathe. We eat fruit without paring it, and keep posies on the table till the leaves drop off—swarming with bacteria. Church pews are full of germs. The carpet at home is worse. So are the chairs. Clothes are full of bacteria—and winter is coming. A common dollar bill is an encyclopedia of microbes. Ten dollar bills are not quite so bad, but ——! Cold water is alive with animalculae. Even pure, healthy blood is nothing but an uncountable lot of invisible corpuscles, properly considered as germs, whose business is to war upon other germs, some for threescore years and ten, and some for less than half as long. There is the diphtheria microbe in the air, the typhoid bacillus in the water, the consumption germ lying in wait for the weak, the microbe in the scalp—microbes for everything—till the "tired feeling" microbe gets us all at last. Really it is a wonder more of us do not turn good and die young, since the air is only a hundred miles high, and only about half our days are pure sunlight. Let those who fear microbes list to the tale of the Kent County farmer and the microscope pedlar.

The farmer had eaten three square meals a day for fifty years, and half a pan of apples every night in the winter. His wife had never been sick a day. They were as healthy a pair as ever rode in the wind to market. They had a spring well on a gravel ridge near the house. For twenty years the gravel had filtered the liquid crystal into the farmer's pail, which had worn out ten bluebeech well-hooks. Many a hot day had Abijah Huckle stood under the old apple tree and poured that divine cold water down his throat, while the breezes swung the oriole's nest up in the boughs, and the grasshoppers wheezed in the stubble. Farmers' lads on the road home from the country church turned in to that well for a cool drink. And everybody said that Biji Huckle had the best well on that sideroad.

But a pedlar came along one day, with a pack full of cheap microscopes. He invited the farmer to look at a pailful of that water through the microscope. Abijah saw things. He called his wife. She also saw things—in that water. The fakir said they were "bacteria," and gave the old couple a swift lecture on the awful ravages of microbes. He sold the farmer a microscope, advised him to close up the old well and to dig another, the water of which might not contain microbes.

The fakir departed and the farmer took his advice. The spring well was closed and he dug another. Result—more animalculae. He went off the gravel ridge and dug a well in the clay. More animalculae still. He hired a well driller to punch his door-yard full of deep holes in search of absolutely pure water. They put down four holes, each a hundred feet deep. No water. The first field was tried—with three wells. Still no water.

But Abijah Huckle was dreaming about microbes—talking about bacteria in his sleep—drinking boiled water. Like Ponce De Leon, he would not give up till he had found water so far below this common microby earth that it should not contain a thing he could behold wriggling under the microscope. He hired a water-witch, who charged him a fat for locating an underground stream half a mile back the lane. They sunk a well, struck water two hundred feet down, piped the shaft and put in an iron pump. Abijah paid the well driller six hundred dollars for punching holes in his farm. He paid it ungrudgingly for had he not at last found the real aqua pura, colder than the water from his old spring well, and absolutely free from microbes?

That evening when the quail whistled in the corn, Abijah and his wife Mandy went back to the new well. They took the microscope. By the light of the setting sun they examined that water. "Well I'll be gosh-darned, Mandy!" said Abijah with a cold feeling all over his scalp, "there's microbes in the centre o' the earth" Then while Mandy looked through the microscope he stood up and said unbibical things about that microscope pedlar. But the microbe missionary was then five counties away.

The microscope is now on the centre table for company folks to amuse themselves with looking at the seams in their hands. Abijah Huckle never uses it. Some day he thinks he will, if that fakir ever comes back. For Abijah says to this day that the aforesaid peddler has a soul so small that even under a microscope you could not tell it from a microbe. But it took him two years to find out that the man who sold him the microscope was the man who actually owned the rig that bored all the holes in his farm. It does not pay to be too inquisitive.

A Wonderful Book.

Halifax is Side Tracked.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—The C. P. R. is about completing another arrangement, which is looked upon as a blow to the immigrant passenger traffic through Halifax, and in favor of St. John. Steamship agents here have received word that it has been decided that the C.P.R. steamship line will give through immigrants from ports on the other side to points on the C.P.R. a better rate via St. John than is given via Halifax, the cut amounting to $2 per head.

Fires in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Laniell Company's boot and shoe factory on Desjardins avenue, Maisonneuve, was completely destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at $60,000; insurance, $22,000.

A warehouse belonging to the Montreal Woollen Mills, situated on the Lachine Canal, and containing a large stock of material, was badly gutted by fire early yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

Dispersed the Anarchists.

Barcelona, Nov. 16.—The police yesterday dispersed a meeting of Anarchists, which had been arranged to celebrate the anniversary of the execution of the Chicago Socialists. The action of the authorities was because violent speeches were made at the meeting, advocating an active propaganda of Anarchistic doctrines.

Liquor Trades' £25,000,000.

London, Nov. 16.—At the annual dinner of the Country Brewers' Society at the Metropole Saturday night, Mr. Cripps, K. C., said the value of licensed property in this country was £25,000,000, and it was urgently necessary that some system should be established to assure its legitimate protection.

Saw Birchall's Ghost.

Woodstock, Nov. 16.—Thirteen years ago Friday Birchall was hanged in Woodstock jail yard. Isaiah Wright, in jail, says he saw his ghost on Friday night.

A Singular Forest.

The most singular forest growth in the world is encountered in the Falkland islands, a dismal region constantly swept by a strong polar wind. What appears to be weather worn and moss covered bowlders are scattered about, and when one of these curious objects is seized in an attempt to overturn it strong roots are found to hold it down, these "bowlders" being, in fact, native trees which the wind has forced to assume this shape. The wood appears to be a twisted mass of fibers almost impossible to cut up into fuel.

CRASHED INTO CARS

Work Train on C.P.R. at Newdorf Runs Into an Open Switch.

TWO MEN KILLED, THREE HURT

Might Have Been Much Worse, As There Were 160 Laborers on the Train—Caboose Was Telescoped by Flat Car—Inquest Likely Over Culpability of Party or Parties Who Left Switch Open.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—A terrible accident occurred at Newdorf, a construction port on the new Kirkella branch of the C.P.R., on Friday afternoon. A work train, with a caboose in front, crashed into a number of cars on the switch, which had been left open. There were 160 laborers on board, and the train was bringing the men down the line to their boarding cars after the day's work was done. The caboose of the work train was telescoped by a flat car and five of the occupants killed or injured. One man was instantly killed, another lost both legs at the moment of the impact, and lived until he reached Brandon Hospital. A third is in a very low condition. The four killed and most seriously injured are Galicians. Geo. Elliott, an Englishman, sustained a broken knee cap and internal injuries. He will probably recover. Doctors were hurried to the scene, and all the victims were brought to Brandon. Several of the other men sustained slight injuries. There will probably be an inquiry as to the culpability of the party or parties who left the switch open.

20 Negroes Killed.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 16.—A rear-end collision on the Illinois Central Railroad near Kentwood, 85 miles from New Orleans, resulted in the death of 20 negroes; 10 other negroes and 3 white men were injured, some of them fatally.

HON. J. A. DAVIDSON DEAD.

Provincial Treasurer of Manitoba Passes at His Home on Saturday.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—Hon. John A. Davidson, Provincial Treasurer of Manitoba, passed away at his home at Neepawa, shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday morning, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Davidson, M.P.P., for Beautiful Plains, was born at Thamesford, Oxford county, August 19, 1852, and went to Manitoba in 1872. He was first returned to the Legislative Assembly November 2, 1881, on the extension of the boundaries of the Province. He was re-elected at the general elections of 1883 and 1892, but an unsuccessful candidate at the general elections of 1886, 1888, 1896 and 1899. He entered the Macdonald Administration as Provincial Treasurer January 10, 1900, and was re-elected to the Legislature at the by-election March 10, 1900, the seat having been opened by the resignation, February 21, 1900, of R. C. Adams, who had been returned at the general election. He accepted the same office in the Roblin Administration October 29, 1900, and was re-elected at the general election of 1903. On January 20, 1878 he married at Palestine, Westbourne, Man., Phebia Ellen, daughter of Joseph Hamilton of Beautiful Plains, formerly of the County of Perth, Ont.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, bydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

Horse Attached Soldiers.

Manila, Nov. 16.—Since the departure of Major-General Wood for Jolo the Moros in the neighborhood of Lake Lana have become very ugly and menacing. At 1 o'clock Saturday the guard over the boat near Mariaboo was taken. Three of the 28th Infantry were killed and one seriously wounded. The Moros were beaten off.

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of its valves and the rhythm of its throb. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requires just such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

"STORY OF A SOLDIER'S LIFE."

General Lord Wolseley's Autobiography Strong Attack on Administration.

London, Nov. 16.—General Lord Wolseley's interesting volumes constitute his "story of a soldier's life" published here, only bring the story of his career up to the Ashantee war, but incidentally they are a strong attack on the Administration and a defence of two branches of the service. Lord Wolseley describes England as the "Unready nation," and says:

"We are never ready for war, yet we never have had a Cabinet which would dare to tell the people this truth. Our absolute unreadiness for war is known to all our thoughtful soldiers, and without doubt all the details which got to make up the fact are duly recorded and docketed in the War Office of every European nation."

Lord Wolseley adjures the "iconoclastic civilian officials" of Pall Mall to keep their hands off the regiment, and strongly denounces the present system of appointing civilian War Ministers, under which he declares we shall never have an army ready for rapid mobilization." He thinks that some sort of compulsory service is necessary.

A Liberal Invitation.

London, Nov. 16.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Chamberlain addresses a great meeting at Cardiff on Friday. He is inundated by invitations to speak in every great centre of population, but announces that after his London speech early in the new year he will devote time to the mature consideration of the intricate problems that have arisen in connection with his policy.

Liberal-Unionists are assiduously tempted by Liberal leaders to return to the fold. Bannerman, following Lord Rosebery and the Duke of Devonshire, has issued a manifesto stating that the Liberal party would welcome co-operation on the fiscal policy or other policies of all who are unable to follow the Government.

Balfour and Hicks-Beach.

London, Nov. 16.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has given rise to most contradictory rumors. It is said on one side that he and the free food party have captured Balfour and will check his tendency to go over to Chamberlain; on the other hand it is said Balfour has done the capturing, and the Free Food League, losing its leader, will disappear. The matter will be decided on the 24th, when the League holds a public meeting, with the Duke of Devonshire as chairman and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach and Lord Goschen speakers.

Duty on Cuban Tobacco.

London, Nov. 16.—(C.A.P.)—Henry Norman says that the Cuban treaty affords Premier Balfour a providental opportunity to try the experiment of retaliation and proposes a test case by imposing a heavy duty on Cuban tobacco wherever manufactured to counterbalance the disadvantage to British trade.

Tonic for the Liberals.

London, Nov. 16.—(C.A.P.)—The news, referring to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech at Bristol, says: "His surrender should act as a tonic to the Liberal party, which shows a pitiful weakness like that of a drowning man snatching at a straw. Retaliation is its only alternative against oblivion."

Colonies' Support Necessary.

London, Nov. 16.—(C.A.P.)—The Agent-General of New Brunswick has received a reply to his letter transmitting to Mr. Chamberlain the resolution passed by the St. John Board of Trade acknowledging its receipt with great pleasure, and saying that the support of the colonies is absolutely necessary for the success of his plans.

Liberals Meet Wednesday.

London, Nov. 16.—(C.A.P.)—A special meeting of the General Committee of the National Liberal Federation will be held at Liverpool on Wednesday. President Birrell will move a resolution condemning any reversal of the fiscal policy and calls on England to resist by every means in her power the proposals to raise the price of food and manufactured goods, which would cause a reduction in trade by increasing the cost of production and would endanger her relations with the colonies.

Spencer, Not Rosebery.

London, Nov. 16.—The political gossips are certain that Earl Spencer rather than Lord Rosebery will be the next Liberal Premier.

Battle Away in Far East.

London, Nov. 16.—The danger of war in the Far East has been greatly increased in the past few days. The British Foreign Office has practically abandoned hope of a peaceful solution of the crisis and is devoting its energies to securing assurances of a clear field for the two combatants, Russia and Japan.

3,000 Witnesses Will Appear.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 16.—About 3,000 witnesses and 50 lawyers will appear at the trial, which opens Thursday next, of the persons arrested on the charge of participation in the massacre of Jews at Kisheneff in April last. All the mayors, marshals and nobles of Bessarabia will sit in judgment on the prisoners.

Columbian Revolt Expected.

Washington, Nov. 16.—A revolution in Colombia is not impossible, according to an opinion expressed in a despatch received at the United States Department yesterday from U. S. Minister Beaupre, at Bogota. It was dated Nov. 12. Mr. Beaupre described the situation in Bogota as panicky.

Found After Three Days.

New York, Nov. 16.—In the bathroom of his home in Ninth avenue, the body of Chevalier Luigi Petich, former Ambassador of Italy to Mexico, was found yesterday. He had been dead three days and apoplexy is said to have been the cause of death.

CHEESE MARKETS

London, Nov. 14.—Four thousand and fifty boxes of cheese were offered at the cheese market to-day. No sales; bidding from 10s to 10½s.

Belleville, Nov. 14.—At the meeting of the Cheese Board here to-d , 2679 white and 280 colored, October 1 November, were offered. The ruling price for October was 10½c, and 10 5-16c for November.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

DEATH OF LECKY.

Brief Sketch of the Great Historian's Career and Outline of Some of His Famous Works.

The Right Hon. William E. H. Lecky, the historian, died in London, England, on the 22nd October, 1903. Mr. Lecky had achieved enviable distinction as an historian, whose works are not merely meritorious but popular. His life was devoted to research exclusively until he was elected to the British House of Commons in 1895 to represent Dublin University, from which he had graduated as Bachelor of Arts in 1859 and Master of Arts in 1863. Though he had always been a Liberal in politics, he joined the Unionist revolt against Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill in 1886. He was still attached to the party led by the Duke of Devonshire, but he never became an important or influential politician. His first great work was "A History of the Rise and Progress of Rationalism in Europe," published in 1865 and frequently republished since. This was followed in 1869 by "A History of European Morals from Augustus to Charlemagne." Both of these works have appealed strongly to the learned of all countries and have been translated into many languages. His most monumental undertaking was "A History of England in the Eighteenth Century," the publication of which, in eight volumes, extended from 1878 to 1890. Though a Liberal-Unionist in politics Mr. Lecky had always shown himself in sympathy with Ireland, his native country. He published anonymously as early as 1861 a volume on the leaders of public opinion in that country, and it was sufficiently appreciated to warrant its re-publication under his own name in 1872. In his outlook over human civilization, which he had regarded from so many sides, Mr. Lecky was often pessimistic, though not unphilosophical, and his tolerant spirit and conscientious devotion to truth give his works an enduring value. He was born in Dublin in 1838, and was therefore only sixty-five at his too early death.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Map Showing the Understanding of the New Line by the United States Department Officials.

The accompanying map, republished from The New York Tribune, was published by that paper as showing the understanding of the United States State Department officials regarding the Alaska boundary line agreed upon by a majority of the recent commission. The Tribune, which is regarded as the organ of the present United States Administration, says that the official view is that apparently the United States loses about one-sixth of the territory claimed. The Philadelphia Inquirer, in an article on the same subject, says that the village of Bennett, north of the Lynn Canal, where a United States postoffice has been established, goes to Canada. With The Tribune, The Inquirer says that the territory hitherto claimed by the Americans, and now conceded to be Canadian, is thought to be worthless, but adds, "there may be another Klondike lurking somewhere there." Those who have felt so confident that Canada had no case will find food for thought in a study of the result indicated, while to many the exact inland boundary of the claim put forward by the United States and the extent of disputed territory actually secured to Canada by the commissioners' report may be a surprise.

THE NEW ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Fish That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish is met with by naturalists which cannot swim. The strangest of all, perhaps, is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop after the manner of a toad, to which animal this fish bears some resemblance. It is provided with a long, upturned snout. The anterior—pectoral—fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backwards and forwards. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of non-swimming fishes include the sea-horse, another most peculiarly-shaped inhabitant of the sea which resembles the knight in a set of chessmen, and the starfish.

House to House Visitation.

The workers whose names appear in another column in connection with the house to house visitation, are expected to meet in the Y.M.C.A. Hall Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, so that full instructions may be given, and districts assigned. Thursday and Friday of this week have been set as the days for the carrying out of the canvas.

Jarvis-Smiley-Dean Concert.

Plan opens at Ormond & Walsh's on Wednesday, Nov. 18th, 10 a.m. These great artists are being greeted with big houses. W. Spencer Jones, manager, writes from Brockville:

"We had at the Opera House here last night every available seat sold, "standing room" at a premium. The same occurred on Monday at St. Catharines, Tuesday at Orangeville, Wednesday at Uxbridge, and Thursday at Penelon Falls. We, of course, look for the same with you."

Improving the Mill.

The Fenelon Falls correspondent to the Bobcaygeon Independent writes the following paragraph; "Mr. Meldrum, of Peterborough, who has rented the corporation grist mill of our town, is having the property greatly improved. The large addition to the west side, which is to serve as a store house, is being rushed. It is two stories high, and will hold a large quantity of flour, and will be a great convenience to the tenants."

THE PAPERS HAVE NOW BEEN SERVED

In Connection With Application to Quash the Street Railway Agreement.

Papers in connection with the application to quash the bylaw authorising the execution of an agreement between the Peterborough Radial Railway Company and the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and the town, have been served today, and the necessary legal steps will be taken to defend the action of the Council.

YOUNG HUNTERS BAG BIG GAME.

Party in Charge of Mr. John Haggart Shoot Two Deer.

Of all the hunting parties that have been after the furry dwellers of the woods, none have returned with more pride in their achievement than that of which Mrs. John Haggart was in charge. Accompanying Mrs. Haggart were her niece and nephew, Miss Josephine and Master Jack Sproule. They were hunting in the vicinity of White Lake and returned on Friday with two bucks, one of which fell before the unerring aim of Miss Sproule, and the other was brought low by Master Jack. In addition to the two deer they brought home half of a bear carcass, so that their expedition was a most successful one, and one which many experienced hunters failed to equal in results.

DEATH COMES TO ISABEL ARMOUR.

Daughter of Mr. Geo. L. Armour Died From Severe Burns.

After suffering for six weeks from severe burns, received by her clothing catching fire from matches, Isabel Rea, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Armour, of London street, died this morning at half past eight.

The sad circumstances in connection with the injuries received, the result of which has been her death, are still painfully fresh in the memory of Peterborough residents. The little girl had gone upstairs on an errand for her mother, and, while there secured some matches, which she light, and set fire to her clothes. She come running down to her mother with her clothing in flames. She was very badly burned, but hopes were entertained for her recovery until a short time ago, when it became evident that the little girl would not live.

She was a bright lovable child, and her parents feel very keenly, the loss they are sustaining. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, London street to Little Lake Cemetery.

WAS KILLED IN DETROIT, FUNERAL ON TUESDAY.

Sad Death of Mr. Orlando Mowry, of Peterborough.

About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Richard Mowry, 254 McDonel street, received a telegram bearing the intelligence of the death of his eldest son Orlando, at Detroit. The telegram ran as follows:—

"Orlando killed; funeral from 17 Navarre street, Detroit."

Further particulars were immediately wired for, resulting in information being received to the effect that the funeral would take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and Mr. E. H. Mowry, brother of the deceased, left this morning to be present.

The deceased, who is aged 40 years, married a Miss Wakely, of Port Hope, and leaves, besides a bereaved wife, a sorrowing family of seven children. It is nearly five years since he left Peterborough and he has been in Detroit for some little time. He was a machinist by trade and is well known in town where the news of his extremely sad death will be received with sincere grief. Besides his parents he leaves in town two sisters and one brother, while he has a sister at Galt and another at Los Angelos, California. The Examiner extends its sympathy towards the bereaved family for their loss and the absence of information regarding the facts.

PETERBOROUGH MAN DIED IN KANSAS CITY, SATURDAY.

Sad Demise of Thomas J. Ritchie, Well Known in Town—Funeral Tuesday.

The Kansas City Star publishes news of the death on Saturday of Thomas J. Ritchie, at his home in that city, and announces that the funeral will take place in Peterborough on Tuesday, 17th inst. The body left Kansas City on Saturday afternoon, via the Wabash Railway and arrived here on the C.P.R. at midnight Sunday, and was taken at once to the residence of his mother, Mrs. John Ritchie, corner of Stewart and Dublin streets. The bereaved wife was accompanied on the long journey by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, of Cleveland, brother of the deceased, who was hastily summoned from Detroit to Kansas City early in the week and was present when the final summons came. The mother was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Vernon Freeburn, in Montreal when the sad news came. They came to town on the C.P.R train Saturday night and were met by Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie, who had previously arrived from Cleveland. Death was caused by heart failure.

Mr. Ritchie was well known in his native town of Peterborough. He was a man of the highest character. In business he was a building superintendent and contractor. A few years ago he became prominent in in Kansas City by supporting the position of the building trades union in a contention between the contractors and workmen. He then became a member of a union and has since been a power among the conservative influences.

Last year Mr. Ritchie spent some months in Peterborough visiting his mother. Renewal of old friendship was made then. To more than one of these friends Mr. Ritchie spoke of his intention to return again to the old town.

The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the old home, corner of Stewart and Dublin streets, to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the remains will be intered in the family lot.

A FALSE STATEMENT FLATLY CONTRADICTED.

It is Not True That Hon. J. R. Stratton Drove Mr. Croft From the Hotel Business.

It is not often that the Examiner pays much attention to the political ravings of the Review. Its extreme malignancy and bitterness towards Mr. Stratton on every possible occasion, shows sufficient bitter, bigotted and unreasoning hostility to defeat its evident purpose. If the matter in regard to the Croft license were one of mere local importance, it would, where the facts and conditions are known, deserve no attention. But doubtless the paragraph in the Review, incorrectly charging Mr. Stratton with being concerned in depriving Mr. Croft of his license, was written with a view of it being republished in the Opposition press throughout the province. We publish the subjoined letter, which is a sufficient and convincing answer to the false charge made against Mr. Stratton, and furnishes its own comment, upon the characteristic methods of the Review:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — I notice in the Review of Saturday last a statement that Mr. William Croft was driven from the hotel business because he was a Conservative, and that Hon. Mr. Stratton was concerned in the transaction. I have been asked to give a simple, plain statement of the facts as to how I came to be in the hotel business in the premises formerly occupied by Mr. Croft, and in answer thereto, I have no objections to doing so.

A little over four years ago I purchased from Mr. H. H. Smith, who was acting for the Smith estate, the building which I now occupy. Prior to my doing so, I asked the chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, if I purchased the property, whether my application would be considered for a license. I was informed that it would. I then purchased the property, applied for, and was granted, a license. If Mr. Croft has any complaint, it is against either myself or the Smith estate, one for purchasing, and the other for disposing of the property. Hon. Mr. Stratton had nothing whatever to do with my purchasing the property. On my part it was a business transaction, in which I desired to enter the hotel business, and bought the property with that intention. Mr. A. P. Poussette acted as my solicitor, and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun acted for the Smith estate. I did not know Mr. Stratton in the transaction, and he most certainly had nothing to do with my obtaining the property or license. Mr. Croft had the same opportunity of purchasing the property that I had, and if he had purchased it, I would not have interfered with him. His lease had expired and the owners of the property were anxious to dispose of it.

Yours truly,
R. H. JACKSON.

PETERBOROUGH BOY ON THE PACIFIC COAST

At the Head of a Large Lumber Company.

The following from the Monetary Times, refers to Mr. Theodore Ludgate, formerly of Peterborough, and president and managing director of the Big Bend, (B.C.,) Lumber Company, with a capital of $500,000, and in which several Peterborough citizens are interested

"Mr. T. Ludgate, a well known coast lumberman, who is now opening up an immense plant at Arrowhead, B.C., considers the outlook there for the winter very good. He will draw his supply of timber from along the north-east arm of Arrow Lake, and also from the banks of the Columbia River, between Arrowhead and Revelstoke. Over a hundred men are employed at present on the construction and handling of this plant and in getting things ready at the lumber camp's for the season's work."

A WASP'S NEST.

Measures no Less Than Forty-two Inches—Property of Mr. Nimmo.

Mr. Nimmo, dentist, George street, has in his possession a monster wasp nest the girth of which, at the widest part, is no less than 42 inches. It was presented to him by his nephew, Mr. L. Nimmo, of South Monaghan, who discovered it in a tree about thirty feet off the ground. This is the largest which has so far been shown to the Examiner, outclassing a fine specimen exhibited recently by High County Constable Cochrane.

JIM CHU

Jim Chu, as the name implies, is a Chinaman, and keeps a laundry at the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets, and at present is in a very angry mood, so irate is he in fact that he is going to "chew" the heads of the young boys in his district who open the door and make him the target of sundry missiles, ranging from the common or garden brick to dead cats. When they open fire the Celestial quits painting the collars and cuffs "chemise white," and rushes at his assailants in and endeavour to collar and cuff them. When the spirit moves Jim, he generally moves the moving spirits of the boys, all of whom in future had better look out that the authorities do not lay their hands on them.

The court then adjourned.

PRISON REFORM WORK SUBJECT OF SERMON.

Rev. J. C. Davidson at St. John's Church.

Interesting Sermon Yesterday Evening —A Special Offering for the Work.

Yesterday in accordance with a pastoral letter of the Bishop of the Diocese, was observed as prison Sunday in the several churches, and special offerings in aid of the work were authorized. At St. John's Church in the evening Rev. J. C. Davidson preached in that cause, taking his text from St. Luke, Chapter 4, Verse 18:—"The Lord has sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bound." The preacher prefaced his remarks by saying that in that text was described our Lord's object in coming into the world. He was sent to do a two-fold work—the saving of men's souls and bodies. While giving bread to the hungry He was nurturing the souls of others, for He was sent to deliver us from the captivity of soul and body. Rev. Mr. Davidson dealt more directly with our Lord's work for the bodies of men than for those made captive in the prison house of sin. In regard to the ancient imprisonment, the preacher said that there was no more terrible lot than that of the prisoner of those early ages, left to languish in filthy places without, often, trial. Our Lord came to deliver them through the conversion and enlightenment of the world. This particular part of our Lord's work was very important. Do we not sometimes wonder whether we are really bearing out the work which our Lord meant us to carry on when we think of such words as "I was in prison and ye visited me not." Are we doing or have we done anything to fulfil this special work given us? It is certainly the duty of some one to visit those confined in the gloomy dungeons of the world, as well as those in the lunatic asylums. There are multitudes of persons in that border land between sanity and insanity, many forgotten by the outside world. Something could be done to cheer these unfortunates. A letter, a paper, a magazine, a message, all will have their meaning; the confined person will then know that he is still thought of. There are others, continued Rev. Mr. Davidson, who are imprisoned in their houses, not being able to move out owing to old age. Here is an opportunity of visiting those who are in prison, an opportunity which all can take.

Passing to the cause of prison reform, Rev. Mr. Davidson said, it was the duty of the church to carry on the work of our Lord. He stated that we as a church collectively, as well as individually, are left to go forward with this work. The thought that the church was a place for the collection of funds, was a mistaken idea. The church, he remarked, is a society, preeminently to give, and to help everyone by consolation and help to body as well as mind. As the church came under the influence of the Roman Empire, the shackels of the galley slave, so to speak, were shaken off. Later on different parts of the church assented to cruelty and imprisonment to carry on its work, but still later, about the year 1772, near the time of the American Revolution Prison Reform work was begun by John Howard, who having been in prison on being released travelled over England and Europe, visiting prisoners. It was he who first began this special work of the church; others succeeded him, and the writings of Charles Dickens were beneficial to the movement. We now know that crime is a disease and must be treated as such, and we now see men turning from crime to a better life. Some, however, through confinement in prison with hardened criminals, become worse; consequently the prison should be more like a reformatory through the classification of prisoners.

The population of our own jail, the preacher said, was sixteen. There are three wards—one for the men, another for the women, and a third for the indigent and infirm. In this latter ward there are two boys, while in the ordinary ward is an idiot who has been confined there for three years, and contents himself by singing and talking in a nonsensical manner. His presence must be most trying to the others, but he remains there because the institution at Orillia is taxed to its utmost capacity. In the prison a service is conducted every Sunday morning at 9.30 by the Laymen's Association, a society of only three or four laymen; every fortnight by the Salvation Army, and occasionally by a clergyman.

For the housing of the aged and infirm, Rev. Mr. Davidson suggested that the town strengthen the financial condition of the Protestant Home and St. Joseph's House of Providence, respectively for Protestants and Roman Catholics.

In conclusion he pointed out the good work which can be done by all.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Miss Davies assisted in the musical service at St. Paul's church yesterday morning, and in addition to an excellent sacred song also took the solo and obligato in Roberts' "Seek Ye the Lord."

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The services yesterday were well attended and considerable interest was manifested in the sermons both of which were preached by the Rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage. At the evening service the anthem was "Dear Refuge of My Weary Soul," Miss Mary Rush taking the solo very acceptably.

An illustrated lecture by Rev. H. C. Dixon, of Toronto, on "Ben Hur," will be given in All Saint's church on Wednesday evening. Mr. Dixon gave this lecture at St. Luke's a short time ago and all who heard it were highly pleased.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The regular services were held yesterday, the pastor, Rev J. P. Wilson preaching at both services. His subject in the morning was "Assurance," and in the evening "How God Predestinates the Human Family." Both services were well attended, especially in the evening. The music was of an especially enjoyable character, the anthem in the morning being "As Christ upon the Cross," while the offertory selection was, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." In the evening the anthem was, "O Come all ye Faithful." A male quartette, composed of Messrs. Thornton, Maguire, B. Turner and Smedley, sang, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," and Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang a solo, "Man of Sorrows."

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt is confined to bed and consequently was unable to take the services yesterday. Mr. H. F. Woodcock, M. A., a student of Trinity University, Toronto, very acceptably filled the pulpit, preaching at both services.

CANADIAN ENTERPRISE IN CENTRAL AMERICA.

Interested in Completion to a Panama Railway.

A move in which Sir Wm. Van Horne and some other Canadians are said to be interested, is being made in the direction of giving better railroad facilities to Central America. The enterprise involves the completion of the Guatemala Northern Railroad through to the Pacific Coast and the establishment of terminals which will undertake to handle cargoes from Europe and America to Asia and to the west coasts of North and South America. The railroad will endeavour to capture the transisthmian traffic now handled by the railroad from Colon to Panama.

The Beehive

We Have Everything a Lady Wears.

Two weeks ago we put on sale 2160 yards of Flannelette for half price and cleaned it all out, the reason we are doing this is, we need the space for our rapidly expanding ready-to-wear, trade which is growing beyond our fondest expectations and we are going to give it our fullest attention.

Now this week we are going to clean out our stock of Linings at even a considerably greater bargain than that at which we sold the Wrapperette, because we want the space and we have no time to to bother with an ordinary sale, we want it to rush out quickly.

The Linings will be on sale all this week.

We have:—

500 yards of Percaline lining at 15c
900 yards of strong lining at 12½c
200 " " " " " 10c
50 " " " " " 8c

They will all be placed on sale at one price,

5c per yard.

Come early and make your selection for they will not last long at this price.

NOBLE GOTHIC PILE.

SIR CHARLES BARRY'S CREATION THAT COST $15,000,000.

Glimpse of the Heart of the Mother of Parliaments—Daily Life of the House of Commons—How It Opens, Lives and Works—Some Things Strange to Colonials and Foreigners—Glamor of the Place.

Sir Charles Barry's noble Gothic pile, pitched between the venerable Abbey of Westminster and the classic Thames, and enshrining the ancient Westminster Hall, stands forth an eloquent witness to the antiquity and virility of the English Parliamentary system. Now at least 650 years old, the mother of Parliaments has survived the wreck of centuries and the crash of dynasties. By a process of continuous development it has adapted itself to every vicissitude of changeful time. It has suffered temporary eclipse at the hands of despotic sovereigns and the obloquy that followed its own attempt at autocratic Government. It has witnessed the servility of the sycophant, the noble courage of the patriot. Time was when every member had his price—to-day the House of Commons is probably freer from political corruption than any other popular assembly in the world.

Glamor of the Place.

The centre of gravity of the British Parliamentary system is admittedly now to be found in the House of Commons. In that respect it is sui generis. Although it has been the prototype of many popular elective bodies, none are exactly like it. All have departed more or less from it. This is not surprising. Institutions cannot be transplanted. The curious customs, the quaint ceremonies, the odd relics of a bygone time, the glamor of a hoary tradition cannot survive a different atmosphere. When they become more anachronisms, superficial imitations without the spirit and associations which can alone render them not merely tolerable, but valuable, they are better left alone. Thus it follows that foreign and colonial visitors look with amazement at many of the usages and practices of the House of Commons. Transient impressions often lead to hasty judgments, but they are not alone in this. Many an iconoclast in the mother land has thundered against the absurdities and punctilios of the House of Commons—till he got inside himself. Then the glamor of the place seizes him. He soon subsides into acquiescence and ends by becoming the ardent defender of what he so fervently condemned, and the most merciless castigator of the tenderfoot who infringes the unwritten rules of the House. In fact, it is in the very air members breathe. All these unwritten traditionary practices once mastered become the certificate of full initiation. They are the secret symbols that separate the member of Parliament from the ruck of mankind and "The House" becomes the synonym for "My House."

Hall Mark of the House.

Reputations in public life never become fixed till they receive the hall mark of the House of Commons. Success on the platform avails little unless followed by achievement on the floor of Parliament. And the House of Commons is in many ways the most truly democratic assembly in the world. Rank, education, social position, personal appearance, elocutionary gifts, unaccompanied by more solid qualities, weigh little with an audience great men have declared to be at once the fairest and most critical that can be faced. What the House requires to win its approval is that the speaker really has something to say. If he has the House will listen, but if he has nothing but empty words, nothing can save him from speedy extinction. Many of the men who have held the listening Senate at command, have described their nervous dread on first rising to address the House of Commons. Even after years of apprenticeship some have confessed they never rose to their feet without a tremor. So strong and searching is the effect of the traditions and associations that cluster round the plain comfortless chamber where sit His Majesty's faithful Commons.

A Quaint Procession.

Let us imagine ourselves loitering in the inner lobby of Sir Charles Barry's $15,000,000 creation, some afternoon just as Big Ben in his deep bass notes tells the hour. Ere the echoes have died away a stentorian roar proclaims "Mr. Speaker," and the roar is repeated down the corridors in ever receding tones. Again the terrific roar, "Hats off, strangers," and there looms into view a figure looking for all the world as if it had stepped down from one of the canvases of Reynolds or Gainsborough. Ruffles, frills, knee breeches, silk stockings, sword and twinkling buttons and buckles; on its shoulder, a huge gilded mace, two centuries and a half old, and the lineal successor of the article which vanished at Oliver Cromwell's contemptuous command, "Take away that bauble." It is the sergeant-at-arms, Captain Henry David Erskine, sometime of the Scots Guards. Then floats into view the Right Hon. William Court Gully, Speaker of the House, and the first Commoner in the land, also in full court dress, crowned with a full bottomed wig and clad in a black robe, so preposterously long as to require the services of a skilled trainbearer. Immediately after him appears Mr. Speaker's chaplain, gowned, banded and hatted, and in rear Mr. Speaker's secretary, in the garments of the common or garden mortal. The little procession vanishes into the doorway. The door is closed and the same lusty official, with quite unnecessary ferociousness, proclaims, "Speaker at prayers." When these are over we may enter with the public.

The Chamber.

What we see is an oblong chamber 70 feet or so long, 45 feet broad and as many high, of dingy and faded aspect. Opposite us is Mr. Speaker. Before him sit the three clerks of the House, arrayed in wig and gown, whose business it is to minute the proceedings and assist the Speaker. Only at rare intervals does it fall to the lot of the principal clerk to emerge into prominence. But when a new Parliament meets it becomes his duty to rise and, without uttering a sound, to point his forefinger at the leader of the House, who, forthwith rises and proceeds to propose an honorable member for the Speakership. It is the unwritten rule now so well settled as to be invariable, to renominate the occupant of the office in the previous Parliament. This practice was followed by the Conservative Government that succeeded Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule Administration, although Mr. Gully's election had been carried by only a small majority on a party vote. It is part of the fine deference paid by Parliament to the chair and the determination to render Mr. Speaker as far as possible independent of party influence and prejudice.

Gladstone's Emphasis.

In front of the clerk's table is the table of the House, set lengthwise, littered with books and papers. There is a writing desk on either side, regarding the contents of which there are legends and surmises believed to have a more substantial foundation than the usual somewhat malicious gossip. Be that as it may, these desks are of great value to the oratorical tub-thumpers on the front benches. They bear manifest tribute to Mr. Gladstone's proclivities in that way by the numerous dents made by the ring which adorned that distinguished man's little finger. His remarkable emphasis in driving home his points would indeed have earned for him the admiration of the old Scotswoman whose greatest compliment to the efficiency of her minister was that he had "knockit twa pu'pits to pieces, and, dung the guts oot o' three Bibles." Well indeed might Mr. Disraeli congratulate himself, as he publicly did, that so substantial a defence as the table of the House stood between him and his redoubtable antagonist.

On the table rests the mace, of which every honorable member stands much in awe. If by any chance that weapon was elsewhere while Mr. Speaker is in the chair, it is impossible to say what would happen to the fabric of the State. Before the revision of the rules, the threat that reduced a recalcitrant member to silence was that he should forthwith be named. A too curious man asked Mr. Speaker Denison what would occur if he were to be named. The Speaker looked at him and said, "The Lord only knows," a remark which left the result as vaguely terrible as before. It is the only answer possible to any enquiry about the properties of the mace, which, when the House is in committee, is tucked away under the table, to reappear on the return of the Speaker to the chair.

The Bar of the House.

From the table to the door runs a strip of cocoanut matting, separating two tiers of longitudinal benches, covered with faded green leather. Near the swinging glass door a broad dark piece of leather is sewn into the matting. It marks the Bar of the House, which on occasion is further made visible by drawing a thin brass rod across the passage. From each side of this passage rise five tiers of benches at a slope of about 30 degrees. Each set of tiers is bisected by a narrow staircase at right angles to the passage and known as the gangway, at the end of which, under the galleries, are the cross benches.

The benches on the right of the Speaker are occupied by the supporters of the Government of the day—those on the left by the Opposition. The seats below the gangway, i.e., further from the Speaker, are supposed to be the resort of the independent or quasi-independent members, although as matter of fact, a truly independent member or mugwump is a rare bird and anathema to the party whips. Opposite the Speaker is a public gallery with the famous clock set in the front that figured so largely in the days when Mr. Biggar of raucous fame reduced obstruction to a fine art and made members exhaustively acquainted with the contents of blue books which otherwise would have been buried in probably deserved oblivion.

On each side run galleries, two benches deep, reserved for members, and which are technically within the House. Right above the Speaker is the Press Gallery, and behind and above the paperstainers is the cage or Ladies' Gallery, carefully enclosed by a gilded grating. It provides accommodation for some three dozen ladies. During Mr. Gladstone's Parliamentary career one corner of it was sacred to Mrs. Gladstone, who was unfailing in her attendance and punctilious in adorning that careless dresser with a buttonhole on the nights of special importance. A boutonniere in the G.O.M.'s lapel was a sure sign that a great speech was in hand.

Members Cheek by Jowl.

What first strikes a visitor from Canada, accustomed to the magnificent provision made for the Federal and Provincial Legislatures, is the absolute dearth of these in the British Lower House. There are no desks, no chairs, no electric bells and no cuspidors. Hon. members sit cheek by jowl and on great occasions wedged and packed together like the proverbial herrings in a barrel. There is not even room on the floor of the House for the representatives of the people—they overflow into the cross benches and upstairs to the side galleries. Inconvenient and archaic as it all sound, it is a moot question whether it is not really an advantage in the conduct of business. There is nothing of the stiff formality inseparable from the apparatus of desks, tribunes and the like. There is a greater electrical sympathy and force generated. The House is more readily responsive to the ebb and flow of debate. It all helps to foster and develop that eminently social feeling which is one of the most distinctive marks of the British House of Commons. It has been called the best club in London, and if not quite as clubable in these ultra democratic days, it retains enough of the temperament, manners and habits which render it still so fascinating to all who come under its spell.

Who Goes Home.

At the conclusion of business the old cry still resounds through the corridors, "Who goes home?" reminiscent of the time when it was dangerous to walk London's streets in the small hours unaccompanied. Then the opposing whips, always the best of friends, hold a confidential confabulation and compare notes. Seldom, indeed, does personal animosity enter into the political life of the House of Commons in these days. The finest feature of the House is the anxious care with which all parties seek to conserve its traditions and to maintain all that makes for the firm and fair conduct of debate. They have been greatly aided in this by a succession of Speakers conspicuous for strength of character, clearness of judgment and an impartiality unquestionable and unquestioned. While this temper exists the House of Commons will remain the finest fruit of an enlightened party system and in this respect a model for popular assemblies throughout the world.

Dr. Wood's

Norway Pine Syrup
Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Croup, Asthma, Pain or Tightness in the Chest, Etc.
It stops that tickling in the throat, is pleasant to take and soothing and healing to the lungs. Mr. E. Bishop Brand, the well-known Galt gardener, writes:—I had a very severe attack of sore throat and tightness in the chest. Some times when I wanted to cough and could not I would almost choke to death. My wife got me a bottle of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP, and to my surprise I found speedy relief. I would not be without it if it cost $1.00 a bottle, and I can recommend it to everyone bothered with a cough or cold.
Price 25 Cents.

REAL HORSEPLAY.

Some Pranks Played by an Equine Practical Joker.

A Staten Island physician is the owner of a horse which has a fondness for practical jokes. Recently the doctor drove into the country to answer a sick call. Arriving at the farmhouse he tied his horse to a post, near which hung a rope attached to a large bell used as a dinner signal for employees, and went in to see his patient. Pretty soon the bell rang violently. The doctor and the man of the house looked out, but could see nothing except the horse. They had hardly turned away, however, before the bell rang again, and again they looked, but could see nothing.

This was repeated, and the doctor determined to solve the mystery, so at the third ring, instead of going into the house he stepped behind a tree in the yard. He kept his eye on the bell rope and in about a minute was surprised to see his horse lift up his head and give the rope a hard tug. When the physician sprang out and confronted the horse, the animal put on a look of innocence.

The same horse the next day was turned loose in the doctor's barnyard, and while there the beast saw a basket hanging on a pole about seven feet from the ground. In the basket was a pet cat. The horse put his nose up to investigate, and the cat gave the intruder a scratch. The horse turned around, looked back over his shoulder as though to take aim and measure the distance and kicked cat and basket into the air. The equine joker then gave a low whinny of delight and walked away.

Witchcraft.

Jane Wenham was indicted at the Hertfordshire assizes on March 4, 1712, for "conversing with the devil in the form of a cat," under the provisions of the act of 1604, repealed in 1736. Her prosecutors wished to have her also indicted for practicing witchcraft to the harm of Ann Thorn, a servant girl about sixteen years old, but this was not allowed, though evidence was produced at the trial to show what injury had been done the victim by means of crooked pins and by placing cakes and cats' hairs in Ann Thorn's pillow and how the prisoner had caused the death of some cattle simply by walking through a turnip field.

The jury brought her in "guilty," and Mr. Justice Powell passed sentence of death, but took steps to quash the verdict. Wenham's prosecutors published an account of the case, but their arguments were pulverized by scientific men. Jane Wenham herself was liberated and taken under the protection of Colonel Plummer, who gave her a cottage, and we are told by Dr. Hutchinson that in 1720 the whole country was fully convinced of her innocence.

Keeping His Place Warm.

This story is told of a successful general who was far from being a brilliant scholar at school. After he became famous he one day dropped into the old school to pay a visit to the scene of his former woes. The teacher was anxious to make a good impression on the general and put the pupils through their lessons so as to show them to the best advantage. After awhile the general said: "But which is the dunce? You have one, surely. Show him to me."

The teacher called up a poor fellow, who looked the picture of woe as he bashfully came toward the distinguished visitor.

"Are you the dunce?" asked the general.

"Yes, sir," said the boy.

"Well, my good fellow," said the general, "here is a crown for you for keeping my place warm."—London Tit-Bits.

Whistler's White Lock.

As long as the name of James McNeill Whistler lives among those who saw him it will recall the famous white lock which stood out so conspicuously from the mass of his black hair. It was, as he used to say himself, "well placed," and was always treated from the harmonious point of view, to develop its greatest effect in his appearance. One day when Dorothy Menpes, daughter of the well known English artist, Mortimer Menpes, was a baby and was asleep on her pillow, Whistler went to see her. A white feather had by chance settled on her head and lay in a spot exactly corresponding with the white lock on his own head. "That child is going to develop into something great," he exclaimed, "for, see, she begins with a feather, just like me!"

A REFORMING KING.

Baneful Habit of Hard Drinking Opposed by King Edgar.

King Edgar must be credited with doing a noble work in the reformation of his subjects from the baneful habit of hard drinking. This monarch nearly anticipated by a thousand years the legislation proposed by the United Kingdom Alliance. Acting on the advice of Dunstan, says Strutt, he put down many ale-houses, suffering only one to exist in a village or small town. He further ordained that pins or nails should be fastened into drinking cups or horns, at stated distances, so that whoever should drink beyond these marks at one draught should be liable to a severe punishment. Archbishop Dunstan was equally zealous in checking intemperance in the church. The following extracts are from a code drawn up by him:

"Let no drinking be allowed in the church.

"Let men be very temperate at church wakes and pray earnestly and suffer there no drinking or unseemliness.

"Let priests beware of drunkenness, and be diligent in warning and correcting others in this matter.

"Let no priest be an ale-sop, nor in any way act the gleeman."

The Danes drank to great excess, and during the time their Kings occupied the throne of England drunkenness cast a blight over the land.

Many important changes in the social life of the country were brought about by the Norman Conquest. One was the decrease of drunkenness. Sobriety was not the least of the virtues of the Normans.

The custom of pledging has come down to us from an early period in our annals, and few of us, as we perform the ceremony at the festive board, call to remembrance the ancient historical associations connected with the usage. It is generally agreed that the word "pledge" is derived from the French "pleige," a surety or gage. Some students of the past say we derive the saying, "I'll pledge you," from a practice instituted in the days when the Danes were a power in this country.

It is asserted that it was no uncommon occurrence for the treacherous invaders to invite the Saxons with whom they came in contact to drink with them, and while drinking to plunge a knife or dagger into their throats. It came to pass that a man would not drink with a stranger until someone undertook to give a pledge for his safety. The pledger then held up his knife or sword to protect the person drinking. An unprotected man was an easy victim for a foe when engaged in the act of taking a drink.

Some curious notes on this theme appear in the "History of Great Britain," by the Rev. Robert Henry, D.D. In the second volume, published in 1774, it is stated: "If an Englishman presumed to drink in the presence of a Dane, without express permission, it was esteemed a great mark of disrespect, that nothing but his instant death could expiate. Nay, the English were so intimidated that they would not adventure to drink even when they were invited until the Danes had pledged their honor for their safety. The man who pledged the drinker stood by weapon in hand to protect him."

It is generally believed that young Edward the Martyr was in 979 assassinated at the instigation of his false-hearted step-mother, the infamous Elfrida. He was stabbed in the back while drinking stirrupcup at Corfe Castle. The object of the murder was to place Elfrida's son on the throne. Some writers believe that from this tragedy we derive the custom of pledging.

The Gentle Voice He Heard.

"Naomi," he said softly as he gazed at the moon above them, "isn't the evening beautiful? Do you know, strange fancies throng my mind on a night like this. Every zephyr seems to bear gentle voices, perhaps from the spirit world. Do you hear such voices?"

Silence for a moment.

"I think I do, George."

"What do they sound like to you?"

"They are very indistinct, but they make me think that papa and brother Henry are calling the dog."—London Tit-Bits.

Fine Scorn of the Cheap Hat.

"Yes, it is a pretty bonnet," said the prospective purchaser, "but the price shows that it is not a real artistic creation. It is only $11.00."

"Pardon me, madam," suavely said the milliner. "The price card has carelessly been inverted. It should be thus—$99.11."

"Send it home today," ordered the customer.

FROM OUT THE WEST

By MARY WOOD

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Missoula Ann gazed across the frozen stretches of the park with a delightful sense of ownership. The chill wind which had deterred all other wayfarers was as the breath of her own prairies.

"Jest the sky for a norther, Teddy," she said exultantly. "Seems like old times, it does."

Teddy was not looking at the sky. Around a bend in the road came a horse, jet black, well groomed, head high, while the delicate nostrils sniffed the wind, and saddle invitingly empty; not ownerless, for a policeman walked close beside. But Teddy had eyes only for the horse. In a moment possession would be his and Missoula far behind. He set off down the walk as fast as his chubby legs would carry him.

Too late Missoula awoke to the realities of her position. She broke into a frightened run, and her voice rang out in command: "Teddy Barker, come back! Do you hear? Come back, I say!"

If Teddy heard he gave no sign, except to redouble his efforts. But verily the way of the transgressor is hard! There was an innocent appearing strip of ice gleaming in the pallid glow of the wintry sun. Teddy's foot encountered it. He threw out both hands and slid forward on his nose. It is a tender member, and Teddy complained loudly.

The irate Missoula was now on the scene. Even the policeman offered his services to restore peace. Together they picked up the fallen, whose cries redoubled under the effect of Missoula's vigorous shakings. The policeman interfered.

"See here, now," he said good naturedly, "I'll have to arrest you if you make such noise. Come and see Jim Crow. You can have a ride on him if you aren't scart."

Teddy stiffened at the implied insult. "That's all I wanted to do," he protested stoutly, "only Missouly, she wouldn't let me!"

The man looked at the girl eagerly. "Be you from Montana, miss?" he asked.

Missoula nodded.

"I hail from west Texas myself," the policeman hastened to explain, "but I reckon there's much of a sameness about them both."

Missoula Ann seized his hand joyfully. "I been watching you other days. I jest knowed you was from the west the way you sat your horse."

By this time Teddy was safely ensconced on top of Jim Crow. "It does seem as if most of the folks here made riding a hard matter," the policeman said reflectively. "And it's worse for the horse than it is for them. Why, the ladies have the poor beasts cinched up so tight they can't draw a full breath. Wish they'd just try it on a broncho. There'd be some tall bucking." And he laughed.

Missoula joined in. "I believe I could show them a thing or two myself," she said proudly, "even if I ain't got one of them swell riding skirts. But I jest better not be saying too much about it," she added sadly. "I might hev forgot. It's so long since I was on a horse. Mr. Barker, he got one of those automobiles, but I can't abide the creature."

The tall policeman agreed. "Just give me a good horse," he declared, "and a clear road, and I'd ride and ride to"—

"Cl'ar out to the west," the girl interrupted eagerly. There was a wistful look in her eyes.

"Be you long from there, miss?" he asked respectfully.

"Only since last fall, but it seems an age," Missoula Ann said, with a sigh. "You see Mr. Barker, he's the biggest man out our way. He rules jest about everything but his wife, and she rules him. So when she took it into her head to cum to New York fer the winter we all had to cum. I cum on 'count of Teddy. Seems as if he can't get along without me. I've hed the care of him ever since he was born." She smiled up at the child affectionately. "I'm not saying but what I was tickled over the idea. They'd been telling me all sorts of foolishness about the city. But it's not a bit like what I expected.

IGNORANCE

Blows out the gas and furnishes the newspapers with a jest and an obituary notice. "Didn't know it was loaded" may be an honest plea, but it never brought a victim back to life. Those who let a cough run on, in ignorance of the danger, find no escape from the consequences when the cough develops into lung trouble.

The best time to cure a cough is when it starts. Ordinarily, a few doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a cough at the beginning. But even when the cough is deep-seated, the lungs bleed and the body is wasted by emaciation, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred effect a perfect and permanent cure.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. John Shireman, of No. 265 75th Place, Chicago, Ill. "He had such terrible coughing spells we not only grew much alarmed but looked for the bursting of a blood-vessel or a hemorrhage at most any time. My husband's recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

Had to Give up and go to Bed.

Several Doctors Attended But Did No Good.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills CURED.

Read what Miss L. L. Hanson, Waterside, N.B., says: "I feel it my duty to express the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working and lie down for a while. Then I got so bad I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors attend me but they did me no good. I could get no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before I had used three quarters of a box I began to feel the benefit and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure nervousness, sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, skip beats, and all troubles arising from the heart or nerves.

THE T. MILBURN CO., Limited, TORONTO, ONT.

Perhaps the fault lies in me, but I feel sort of smothered all the time. It's bad enough on the street with people pushing of you out of ther way, but indoors it's worse. Things are so awful dear here that Mr. Barker, for all he owns 'bout a whole section out our way, can't hev a whole house to hisself. It's worse than the boys' quarters at a roundup the way folks crowd together. But you must excuse me fer saying so much," she broke off in conclusion as she looked up and met his dark eyes fixed admiringly upon her. "Only it's so long since I had the chance to free my mind. You're mighty good to listen. But come, Teddy, it's time we were making fer home."

Teddy did not agree, but the tall policeman cut short his remarks by lifting him down in a peremptory fashion. "I'm much obliged to you, miss," he said gratefully. "It's been as good as seeing one of the boys. But perhaps you'll be coming this way again, tomorrow perhaps," he asked insinuatingly.

Missoula Ann thought that perhaps she might. Teddy was quite sure that he would be ready for another ride. The tall policeman leaped lightly into his saddle, and she watched him with a thrill of pride. He was certainly quite imposing in his blue uniform with the brass buttons, and his friendship was a thing to be desired. And then he came from the west! He could sympathize with her longing for that faraway land. Yes, Missoula was sure to come that way tomorrow.

He was waiting for them on the next afternoon, and Teddy was swung up on the saddle in a jiffy. But now it was the big policeman who talked, while Missoula listened in shy silence. His name was Jones. "They used to call me 'Shorty' down in the Panhandle because I was so tall," he explained, with a laugh. "No, they don't do it here," in answer to her questioning look. "It wouldn't be healthy for them. The men on the force call me Jim. I haven't any pals up here."

Jim had come to New York with some full blood cattle. But the attractions of the big city proved too much for him, and after a debauch of several days he had come to himself only to find that the rest of the crew had gone back, and he was left alone, adrift. There had been some hard days. Jim spoke of them hesitatingly and with a shamed flush on his tanned cheek.

"But then I got on the force—on account of my riding—and I've been on over a year. I can't complain of the pay, and the work's light enough. But I get such longing for the sun shining in a perfect blue sky and my pony picking his way among the holes of a dog town—the little beggars sitting up and scolding at you as bold as you please—and then scrambling down through the mesquite bushes into a water hole and letting him drink as much as he pleases, and then riding on till the sun sets as it never does up here, bands of light playing right across the sky and a purple glow over everything. Well, when I get to thinking of all that I get uneasy-like and tired of all this crowding. Some fine morning the feeling will be extra strong, and then"—he laughed—"the force will be losing one of its ornaments."

Missoula was looking up eagerly. Her eyes were as blue as the Texas sky of which he spoke and wide with longing. "You will be going back, too, some day, Miss Missoula," he said softly.

She caught her breath sharply, like one suddenly waked from a dream. "Yes," she said dispiritedly, "I s'pose so—when Mis' Barker's ready to go."

The three met often after that. Teddy had come to look on Jim Crow as one of his possessions, while Missoula and his master had become the best of friends, and meanwhile a tardy spring was breathing new life into the half thawed slopes of the park. Timid grass blades appeared.

The afternoon sun shone down warmly and showed Missoula engaged in restraining Teddy from picking a spray of the enticing "burning bush." The tall policeman came up during the altercation. As they walked on together he preserved an unwonted silence.

"Spring's about here," Missoula observed at last. "I've been thinking how the prairie must look by now—jest one big flower bed."

Jim looked off across the tree tops with eyes unseeing of their delicate veil of leaves. "I've been thinking, too," he said, "and I just can't stand the city any longer. I'm going back west." Missoula's face paled.

"I'd have gone long ago if it hadn't been for you, Missoula." He looked down now and as he saw her agitation went on eagerly: "I won't go now unless you will go too. I've been saving money, and I've written out, so there's a position ready. Won't you go, Missoula?"

Missoula's face blushed a rosy red, but she met his ardent gaze frankly. "Yes, I'll go, Jim," she said. "I trust you. Teddy's getting so old now he won't be missing me. And, oh, Jim, we'll be going back to the west together!" There was a choke in her voice.

Jim drew her to him, and it was well that the path was deserted or observers might have been scandalized by the spectacle of one of the force who had quite forgotten his dignity.

Had the Effect.

"Yes," she said in answer to something he had said, "the old songs are very beautiful."

"Beautiful!" he exclaimed enthusiastically. "Beautiful hardly describes them. They are—they are—well, compared with them the songs of today are trash, the veriest trash."

"I agree with you, yet the old songs sometimes contain sentiments that one cannot wholly approve."

"I think you are mistaken."

"I will give you an illustration. There is John Howard Payne's 'Home, Sweet Home,' for instance. You surely do not agree with all the sentiments it contains?"

"Why not?" he asked warmly. "Why not?"

"Because," she said, glancing at the clock, which was marking the hour of 11, "because there is a line in that song which says 'There's no place like home.' You do not believe that, do you?"

Then he coughed a hollow cough and arose and went silently out into the night.

Hidden Crackers.

In the preface to Gail Hamilton's poems, published under the title "Chips, Fragments and Vestiges," the sister of the dead author says that a few yellowed papers exist covered with her verses written in a childish hand.

One such sheet has the heading "Chips and Parings." Another is called "Mary A. Dodge's Scribbles." These were all written before she was twelve years old. But the earliest, written when she was eight, is the best:

When mother hides her crackers in Old coffeepots all made of tin,
We seldom ever find them out,
Although all day we look about.

Now, though we all like crackers well,
And bakers have enough to sell,
Yet we all eat them up so fast
That mother hides to make them last.

This "poem" was solemnly and silently handed to "mother" by the little author after she had discovered where the crackers were hidden.

Curious Tombstone.

On a gravestone in the parish churchyard of Great Yarmouth, England, there is sculptured the unusual representation of a clown seated in a tub, which is being drawn down a river by two swans. Beneath this stone lies one of the many victims who were drowned years ago by the collapse of an iron suspension bridge on which they had crowded to see a clown pass underneath in the manner described. The feat, which was a novel form of advertisement by a traveling circus, was actually performed, but the rush of people from one side of the bridge to the other after the man had passed under caused the tragic ending.

Judicial Ignorance.

The ignorance of worldly affairs on the part of judges is proverbial, but a county court judge the other day certainly amazed the court, says an English newspaper. Counsel happened to say that the defendant, a vocalist, could not "turn up" at a certain place. "Turn up!" said the judge in bland surprise, "but he is a vocalist, not an acrobat." This recalls the story of the judge who asked, "What is the Stock Exchange—a cattle market?"

All on One Side.

"I am told your bride is very pretty," said Miss Peppery.

"Yes, indeed!" replied Mr. Con Seet. "Several of the guests at the ceremony were pleased to call it a 'wedding of beauty and brains.'"

"Well, well! She must be a remarkable woman! That's an unusual combination in one person."

An Exchange of Compliments.

"Man," remarked Mrs. Dinsmore reflectively as she dressed for going out, "is fearfully and wonderfully made."

"And woman," added Mr. Dinsmore, who was waiting impatiently, "is fearfully and wonderfully made up."

NEW YORK TIME.

It Is the Standard Used in All Our Weather Bureau Stations.

When we read a report from any of the 160 regular weather bureau stations throughout our land bringing the information that a rainstorm, a tornado or some other meteorological phenomenon began at a certain hour we need not suppose that the hour mentioned refers to the time at the place where the observation was made. The hour given is the exact New York time, for every clock at the regular weather bureau stations all over the land is set to the seventy-fifth meridian, or eastern standard time, which is exactly five hours behind Greenwich time.

Only this standard of time is used in the text of the Monthly Weather Review, and all weather bureau observers are required to record observations by it. The reason for this is that the best scientific deductions from the weather reports must be based upon the conditions of the atmosphere existing simultaneously in different parts of the country.

It would be very ludicrous if all the hundreds of reports sent daily had to be changed at the central office in Washington from local to eastern time, and so all the regular observers are required to use the New York, or eastern time, in making their reports.

There are many volunteer observers and newspaper correspondents who in reporting weather phenomena use other standards of time. If the weather bureau has occasion to use their reports the time is often corrected to agree with the eastern standard or the local standard is mentioned.

Origin of the Letter V.

The letter V may be regarded as the mutilated remains of one of the symbols used by the ancient Egyptians in their hieroglyphics or picture writing. A common animal in their country was the two horned sand viper, a representation of which stood for V. The priests ultimately found that for the practical purposes of everyday life it was a waste of time to use elaborate hieroglyphics and invented a kind of shorthand to meet the occasion. In this the snake was reduced to a V with a dash (V——) to represent horns and body.

The Phœnicians adopted this letter, and from them we get our V by loss of the dash, leaving only the two little horns of the original picture. This snake is still common in Egypt and is probably the one mentioned in Genesis xlix, 17, "Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder in the path, that biteth the horse heels, so that his rider shall fall backward." Travelers tell us that it is still addicted to this unpleasant habit.

Beauties of Ireland.

Dublin can and does boast of many superlatives. It has the widest street and the largest public park in Europe, the first horse show in the world and the largest brewery, but certainly the chiefest of all its claims is that advanced in behalf of its women. It is really no exaggeration to say that in no city in the world will one see so many beautiful women as one does in the Irish capital.

There is something, too, about the Irish type of beauty that cannot be actually described. There is an expression, an air of something akin to sadness almost, in every real Irish face, something interesting, that holds the attention more than mere skin deep beauty. "I have been in most capitals of Europe," says a traveler in Ireland, "but never did I see so many really beautiful women as I saw in Dublin. And they were not visitors. There was no mistaking the wonderful gray eyes of 'Dark Rosaline.'"

Precocious Mozart.

At three years of age Mozart would amuse himself for hours together in picking out thirds on the piano with his wonderful ear; at four years he learned minuets and before six played some of his own compositions, actually starting on a concert tour with his sister at that age.

Before three years had elapsed he had taken by storm four of the most important capitals in Europe—Vienna, The Hague, Paris and London. His reputation as a composer was established by the time that he was only ten years old. Mozart fulfilled in maturity the promise of his early years, but at the age of thirty-five passed away, engaged on a requiem which he gradually learned was to be for himself.

The Boston Waiter.

A Philadelphia professor dining at a Boston hotel ordered a bottle of hock, saying as he did so:

"Here, waiter, bring me a bottle of hock—hic, haec, hoc."

The waiter, who had been to college, smiled, but never stirred.

"What are you standing there for?" exclaimed the professor. "Didn't I order some hock?"

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, "you ordered it, but you afterward declined it."

Tells How.

"And aren't you married yet?"

"No."

"Well, well! I thought you were engaged to a certain young lady in Germantown?"

"No; I was engaged to an uncertain young lady, and that's why I'm not married."—Exchange.

Very Eccentric.

"He's the most eccentric genius I ever met."

"He certainly is a genius, but I never considered him eccentric."

"That's just it. The average genius is eccentric, and his lack of eccentricity makes him all the more eccentric."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A NEW CANADIAN STORY.

The Farming World of November 2nd, contains the first chapters of that splendid new story, "Hickory," which is being published now for the first time. It is a most fascinating story and thoroughly Canadian. It pictures farming conditions in Ontario fifty years ago. The real plot of the story, however, is centred in the Great Lakes, around which the author weaves a most exciting and fascinating tale. Farmers' sons and daughters will be captivated by the story.

But the story is not the only important feature of this issue of The Farming World. In addition to the usual splendid home features, there is a lot of practical information of value to every stockman and farmer in the country. The "English Letter," which is now a regular feature, is of more than usual interest. The illustrations are numerous and attractive, the one on the outside front cover being most noteworthy. The Farming World is certainly a most valuable and practical farm journal.

The Question of Baldness.

This is a vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the disfigurement lent by baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern art in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto to Peterborough on Wednesday, Nov. 25th, when he will be at the Oriental Hotel, renders it possible for any who wish to consult him to do so at his private apartments retained at the Oriental Hotel for this purpose. Demonstration given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember the days and and dates.

ALL SAINTS WON IN A CLOSE GAME.

Score 14-11 in City League Rugby Game on Saturday.

More than usual interest attached itself to the Rugby game in the City League on Saturday, because it was thought that by its outcome the championship of the League would be decided, as it is now, the teams themselves hardly know where they are at. The season opened with three teams entered, Rough Riders, Britannias and All Saints, and a double schedule of games was arranged. The standing of the teams before Saturday's game being:—

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Rough Riders	1	0	1
Britannias	1	1	0

putting the first named team well in the lead for the championship honors. An announcement was made Saturday, however, to the effect that the Britannias had withdrawn from the series, which made the situation an exceedingly complicated one. The usual custom when teams withdraw during the progress of the games is to annul all games in which the team withdrawing participated. Should this rule be applied, it would leave Rough Riders and All Saints with no losses or wins, and one tied game to play off. But should the standing of the League remain as given above, of course it would leave the former in the lead, and the result of Saturday's game, with All Saint's winning, would have tied the teams, otherwise, the All Saints by winning their game on Saturday take the championship. The question as to whether the Britannias games will count in the League standing will probably be decided by the Executive at an early meeting.

The game on Saturday was one of the best seen in the City series this season and was witnessed by a goodly number despite the biting wind which swept over the Oval. The teams were very evenly matched, and both played good ball, although the Rough Riders made some costly fumbles, one of which resulted in the All Saints securing a touch down, which practically won them the game. The Rough Riders sadly missed the services of MacPherson, and had he been on the half back line, the result, doubtless would have been different.

The game was protested, Rough Riders objecting to Renton, of the All Saints, on the ground that he was over age, and, until the protest has been decided, the winners of the championship will not be known.

The Rough Riders won the toss and kicked with the wind during the first half, in which period they secured all of the 11 points credited to them. The All Saints held them well for the first few minutes, and, kicking against the wind carried the play perilously near to the goal line. Pascall, however, relieved, and by a kick, in which the wind helped considerably, the ball travelled to the All Saints end. Ford, however, was "Johnny on the Spot," and punted, the team following up well, and removing the play to a less dangerous part of the field. Kelly, however, spoiled all their hopes of making any points, and quickly returned the pigskin, Canniff and Renton alternated in making some brilliant runs, which with some fumbles by the Rough Riders gained the All Saints considerable ground. The former took a brace, however, and by some good combination play worked the ball to the goal line, when McDonald secured a touch. Score 4—0 for Rough Riders. The touch was not converted, but by some elegant plays by the Riders back divisions, in which F. Craig and Paschall figured prominently, the latter got a kick over the dead line, adding one to their score. This was followed quickly by a rouge on Ford. Score, 6—0. The Riders were working hard now, and the ball seldom got beyond the 25 yard line. Ross Craig, after some brilliant dodging, secured a touch, which was not converted, making the score 10—0. Just before half time Thornton by a splendid run brought the ball to the goal line, where Ford secured it and rouged. Half time score, 11—0.

The All Saints started out in the second half like winners, and within the first few minutes by some good punting and running gained 6 points on a touch, which Ford converted. Another kick by Ford carried the ball over the dead line, but Kelly took good care of it. This was followed, however, by a similar kick, which Kelly was less fortunate with, and added one to the score, making it 11—7. Two rouges followed in quick succession, after kicks by Ford. With the score 11—9 All Saints on a series of bad plays plays by the Riders scored a touch which, had the latter exercised their usual judgment, should only have been a rouge. The touch was not converted, however, and a rouge on Kelly ended the scoring, the final figures being 14—11.

Ford, for the winners, was of course, the bright star, though the team as a whole worked well and deserved their win.

On the Rough Riders, Macdonald at centre half played, an excellent game, and should hold his own in any company. Fred Craig, also, on the half back line, gave a good account of himself and Kelly at full back did some excellent service. Paschall at quarter, did some good line bucking and punting.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Rough Riders.	All Saints.
Back.
Kelly	Gillespie
Half Backs.
Craig	Renton
Davidson	Canniff
McDonald	Ford
Quarter.
Pascall	Adamson

RUGBY.

The announcement was made on Saturday that the Britannias had withdrawn from the City League series. Their reason for this action was not because they considered themselves out of the running for the championship, as they stood second in the League. They wish it understood that their reason for withdrawing was because of their dissatisfaction with the way in which the league was managed.

• • • •

A full practice of the Rugby team is called for to-night in the rink at 7.30 sharp. All players are requested to turn out and help get the boys in good shape for their game with the Victorias next Saturday. It was intended by the management to have a couple of practices on the oval two afternoons this week, but the snow will interfere with Tuesday's practice, so it will be held in the rink, and again on Wednesday evening. Thursday may be fine enough to allow the team to put on the finishing touches by having an outdoor practice. There was a good crowd out on Saturday and Captain Crowley expects to have the team in fine shape for Toronto

• • • •

The Toronto News on Saturday contained sketches of the players composing the two teams in the running for the Intermediate O. R. F. U. Championship, Peterboroughs and Victorias. The News very considerately appropriates, word for word, the separate sketches of the different members of the Peterboroughs, over a column in length, from the Examiner's special Rugby edition of last Monday. The fact that credit is not given the Examiner is, of course, only a minor matter. In introducing the article the News says:

The intermediate Rugby team from Peterborough is probably one of the best known in the Ontario Union, as well as in Canada, and for a place the size of Peterborough, the residents have good reason to be proud of the boys who represent them on the gridiron. Rugby has been played for years in Peterborough, but for some reason or other it was never properly taken hold of until the last three or four years. The teams from season to season have nearly always been made up of local boys, and the majority of them learned their game in the town and at Toronto University. This season the team suffered materially by the loss of A. W. Macpherson from the back division. Macpherson is attending the University of Toronto, and is one of the stars on Varsity's back division. Burnham is another Peterborough boy who is attending Varsity this year. The Peterborough club has won the intermediate championship of the Ontario Union three times, and have an equal chance of adding another victory to their list this season, as they are even up with the Victorias of Toronto. The club has also had the honour of winning the intermediate championship of Canada, it being one of the few clubs which have done this. The officers of the club are mostly young fellows, and are most enthusiastic in their endeavours to keep a good team together, and the team is well supported by the townspeople. At the first of this season the prospects were not of the brightest, but the clouds passed away, and the sun shone out as brightly as ever for the champions, notwithstanding the loss of players they have suffered. The club has still one game to play, that being in Toronto with the Victorias, and should they win that, it will make them champions for the fourth time.

In the Intermediate O. R. F. U. series on Saturday the Victorias and Wellesleys played at Toronto, the former winning by a score of 8-3. This win by the Victorias will mean that to win the championship the Peterborough team will have to win two games, the first to be played on Saturday. The local team have every confidence in their ability to win out, however, and will go to Toronto with the strongest team and in the best of condition. The Globe, speaking of Saturday's game, says:

With the score 3-0 at half time in favour of the Wellesleys, the Victorias won out by 9 points to 3 in one of the most closely contested games of the season on Saturday at Sunlight Park before a small crowd. The wind was a considerable factor in the contest, both teams scoring all their points while the breeze was at their backs.

The Wellesleys won the toss and chose to kick east. After ten minutes' play Marsh bucked the line for a touchdown, which Dooley converted. Two more points were converted on rouges. The Wellesleys made a determined stand for ten minutes in the last period, but a kick to the dead line started the trouble. On four kick-outs Gowans and Cotton returned the ball to the fence, one kick going clear over. Before the smoke had cleared the Vicks had scored nine points on kicks to the dead line and rouges. Gowans was almost entirely responsible for the victory. Had the Wellesleys used better judgment they might have won the game. They invariably started runs and bucked the line when they had a perfect gale in their favour.

Gowans and Cotton played the best game on the back division. Robertson shone at intervals. Their wing was the strongest and gave the Wellesley backs considerable trouble. Dooley and Carey were the stars of the Wellesleys, and had they been protected a different story might have been recorded. The Rev A. F. Barr acted as referee in a most impartial manner, as did his umpire, W. McGivern.

Sunday School Workers.

Miss Mary Foster Dryner, of Peoria, Ill., the well known International Field Worker in Sunday school interests, will, with Mr. J. A. Jackson, B.A., General Secretary of the Ontario S. S. Association, hold one day's meetings in Peterborough on Monday, November 23rd. There will be afternoon and evening sessions, both of which will be held in the Murray street Baptist church, which is being kindly lent for this occasion. Sunday school teachers, parents, and Christian workers in general from all the churches, will look with pleasure towards these meetings.

THE LOWER MOTIVE.

Its Application to a Loudly Crying Child in a Car.

The child was screaming lustily on the elevated train. Unreasonably it insisted on getting off and going home between stations. The passengers wore that look of patient endurance which so frequently overspreads murderous desires. Vainly the mother appealed to the child's regard for the suffering public, to its duty to itself in such phrases as "Folks don't like to hear a little boy cry" and "Be a good child and listen to mamma." But each appeal seemed to be a stimulus to renewed vigor, says a writer in Scribner's Magazine. At length the mother announced that doubtless there were bears at the next station that ate up little boys who cried. The youngster ceased instantly, apparently as much through interest in outwitting the bears as through fear. He became cheerfully curious and pressed his tear stained face to the pane. To the afflicted passengers never was there a more pleasing prevarication. Those who had frowned now smilingly shared the little one's interest in this alleged fact in natural history. A happy, contented air pervaded the car. The ethics of the situation distressed no one.

But need we fear to discuss it? Here was one young child pitted against a car full of people, some doubtless bank presidents, perhaps a judge or two, estimable women going to read papers. It was a contest too ridiculous to be tolerated. Plainly the important thing was to still that one strong young throat even if it became necessary to disturb its tender young ethical standards, for the time must come when it would learn the truth about those bears and perhaps pause a moment or two at other of its mother's statements. But in any case the greater immediate good to a number of innocent people certainly overbalanced the lesser, remote evil to one young, unreasonable boy.

ALWAYS A BATTLE.

Unceasing Working of the Law of Competition in Nature.

"How peaceful this all is!" exclaimed the city sojourner on an outing, looking across the wooded valleys and over the grass grown hillsides. It was the "vesper time" of the day, insects hummed drowsily, and here and there a belated bird winged slowly westward.

"Look a little more closely," said the native, "and let me give you a few enlightening facts. You will find that the 'law of competition' is as deadly, the 'survival of the fittest' as unerringly death dealing, throughout this same peaceful scene as in any center of the street in the midst of a bull and bear fight. For instance, look there at that small cedar struggling pitifully in the toils of the luxurious growth of 'poison ivy' that almost covers it. The casual observer notes the contrast of the foliage, a pretty sight, and gives no thought to the war of life and death the two are waging. Wherever the cedar puts up a stronger branch there fastens another tendril with strangling grip, and another cedar hope is 'nipped in the bud.' In this bit of broken fence a dozen different plants are struggling up through the few crevices of light in its close set boards. The fall of that fence is what we would call a 'crushing circumstance,' a 'mysterious dispensation of Providence,' should similar things happen in our lives. Then see this ant hurrying home with the carcass of a brother bug in his claws, presumably for supper, possibly to salt down for winter. And here is a fly battling hopelessly with the meshes of what you lately called a 'beautiful spider web.'"

"Hush!" interrupted the metropolitan. "I get enough of it in my own world. Let me keep my superficial view, and you may keep your 'enlightening facts.'"

—Decorations for balls, evening parties, stores and buildings, done in an artistic manner by Alf. Kingscote, tent, sail and awning maker, Water street.

How a Bird Dresses.

As bird fashions do not change, two suits a year are quite enough for most birds, but they need to take great care of them. Each separate feather must be cleaned and looked over and the useless ones pulled out. These feathers are not packed close together, you know, but lie loose and have places between filled with air. When a bird wants to get warmer he lifts his feathers so that these air spaces may be larger. But if his feathers are tangled or wet and dirty he could not raise them, and soon he could not keep the head in his little body and would of course die.

The Safest.

Sharpe — Yes, Parker invented the safest air ship ever heard of.

Wheelton—But it refused to fly. You couldn't get up on it.

"That's why I say it was the safest."

IRON-MONGERS SAY CANADA IS THE SINNER

Greatest Dumper of Pig Iron Into Great Britain.

Mr. Chaplin Warns Premier Balfour, and Mr. Bromley-Davenport Criticizes Lord Rosebury—A Voice From Australia—Varied Arguments are Presented Throughout the Land Tariff Reform League.

London, Nov. 17.—(C.A.P.)—The whole of Chamberlain's speeches will be published on Friday. He makes interesting statements of how his viws should be approached by the nation.

Winston Churchill, M.P., speaking at Oxford, said Mr. Balfour was occupying a perfectly meaningless and indefinite position. His purpose was to give Mr. Chamberlain time to talk himself out.

Ealing District Conservative Association conveyed a hint to Lord George Hamilton by passing a vote of confidence in the Government, and hoped Hamilton would see his way clear to give it his support.

Increase Area of Wheat.

Sir Charles Dilke, speaking at Walworth, said England could increase the wheat-growing capacity of Canada, at a price, but the country must not forget the export trade it did with British and Irish produce.

Interest in Mr. Chamberlain's Cardiff meeting on Friday has grown more than any of the local political leaders imagined. The Marquis of Bute has waived the usual rule and sanctioned the use of the drill hall.

B. T. A. Bell arrived yesterday on the Bavarian. He says British capital shows much interest in the Yukon development with hydraulic power going in. The output next season will be 25 per cent. greater than this.

Great Foreign Competition.

During the last 12 years the value of British exports to eastern countries and China decreased 782 thousand pounds, while imports increased 848,000 pounds. Foreign competition is so great that many Stafford potteries are working only four days a week.

Lord Cecil, speaking at Oxford yesterday, declared against a general tariff and for no permanent levy of high import duties. He supports retaliation when brought to bear on alien Governments to enlarge the freedom of international exchange and be merely temporary.

Over 50 well known gentlemen engaged in Bradford trade formed a Bradford branch of the Tariff Reform League yesterday. Bradford suffered severely through foreign markets being closed to her finished goods and yarns, while her trade with America was practically killed.

Lord Rosebery Criticized.

Bromley Davenport, M. P., Financial Secretary of the War Office, speaking at Macclesfield last night, condemned Lord Rosebery's desire for commercial repose. He said the industries of Macclesfield and neighborhood would be nearly ruined unless checked, and the country would soon enjoy repose as a commercial corpse.

Protect the Farmers.

Mr. Chaplin, speaking at Sleaford yesterday, warned Mr. Balfour in plain language that if the proposal is made to impose taxes on manufactures alone, he would strenuously oppose it and call on the agricultural interests to support him. Agriculturists, he said, were not going to assist in protecting manufacturers while they themselves were left out in the cold.

Sir John A. Cockburn, formerly Premier of South Australia, declared at South Norwood yesterday that Mr. Chamberlain's policy was courageous commonsense. The pathway to free trade here as in Australia lay through protection. Australian experience was that the import duty did not necessarily fall on the consumer. The shilling registration duty on corn was not felt by the consumer, nor was the largely increased French duty on meat in 1892.

East and North Scotland Tariff Reform League, established at Edinburgh yesterday has promises of considerable support which came from all the manufacturing towns from Caithness to Berwick. Hon. George E. Foster, addressing the meeting, said the fiscal question, started by the colonies, had swollen and become stronger in the deeper current until it was set in such strength and force as to merely await the decision of the people of Great Britain and her dominion partners.

Bounty for Pig Iron.

One of the directors of three large iron-producing companies, which together make one-tenth the total amount of British pig iron, writes a strong letter to The Chronicle, calling on the Government to prohibit the importation of bounty-fed pig iron. He quotes figures to show that Canada dumped into England in the years 1901-2 nearly as much iron as Germany, Holland, Belgium and America put together. The figures are: Germany, Holland and Belgium, 78,000 tons; America, 45,000; Canada, 103,000. The article concludes that this is dumping with a vengeance.

Three Firemen Killed.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 17.—A disastrous incendiary fire broke out in the Holmden avenue car barns of the Cleveland Electric Railway Company early yesterday, resulting in a property loss of nearly $500,000, the death of three firemen and serious injuries to two others. They were caught under falling walls.

Another Dreyfus Trial.

Paris, Nov. 17.—Henry Rochefort, in an interview yesterday is quoted as saying he understands that Dreyfus will be re-tried before the Court of Cassation, which, he predicts, will quash the verdict of the Rennes court-martial, and that Dreyfus will then be rehabilitated in his rights.

ACCIDENT TO KITCHENER.

Simla, India, Nov. 17.—Lord Kitchener, Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces in India, has met with a serious accident while riding home from a country house near here.

As he was passing through a tunnel his horse became frightened and collided with the walled side. One of Lord Kitchener's legs was broken in two places.

Some time afterward, Coolies passing through the tunnel found the Commander-in-Chief lying there helpless, and brought him to Simla. He is now reported to be doing well.

Upon discovering the identity of the injured man, the Coolies bolted, and left him lying on the ground, where he suffered greatly for half an hour. The broken bones have been set, and, after having passed a good night, the general is in a cheerful mood.

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION.

United States Credentials Presented to Isthmus of Panama.

Panama, Nov. 17.—Rear-Admiral Walker, who is practically President Roosevelt's representative on the Isthmus, and United States Consul Gudger, who is here to direct the relations of the United States with the de facto Government, called at the palace yesterday afternoon and in the name of the United States paid their respects to the members of the junta. Rear-Admiral Walker presented a letter from President Roosevelt, and there were mutual exchanges of good wishes. The visit of Rear-Admiral Walker and Mr. Gudger have been construed by the junta and by the people of Panama as a formal official recognition of the new republic. Admiral Walker returned to Colon yesterday afternoon.

Apples Like Potatoes.

London, Nov. 17.—Already 155,000 barrels of Nova Scotia apples have been received, and it is expected that 500,000 will come in between now and March. American cooking apples are going in Liverpool and London markets at the same price as potatoes. Single barrels are selling at less than 20 shillings, and a large quantity of Canadian apples to be distributed to the continent. The demand for Canadian butter is still maintained, the prices ranging from 102 to 104 shillings per cwt. for choicest and 96 to 98 shillings for [illegible]

Canada and Australia.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—"It is satisfactory to note," runs a report from J. S. Larke to the Department of Trade and Commerce, "that Canadian breadstuffs have obtained a strong footing on the Pacific Islands, which should be a legitimate market. The last steamer from Vancouver landed about 175 tons at Suva Fegi and 100 tons of Manitoba was sold in this (Sydney) market last month for island trade. A number of island firms have become so interested in the Canadian trade that I trust it will grow."

Jack Daly Dead.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 17.—C. W. Daly dropped dead in his room in this city yesterday. He came out here three years ago from Buffalo in the interests of the Pan-American Exposition. He leaves a widow and son in Buffalo. Mr. Daly was about 50 years of age. Besides his widow, who is a Buffalo lady, and son, he leaves two brothers, Peter Daly, of Chicago, and Hon. T. M. Daly of Winnipeg.

All Night on the Lake.

Hamilton, Nov. 17.—After drifting about on Lake Ontario all night, two Jordan fishermen, named Maul and Pilkenson, were rescued yesterday morning at the beach after much difficulty. They had lashed themselves to the boat and both were unconscious when a life-saving crew reached them. They will both recover.

WORK FOR BOARD OF TRADE.

The Toronto News last night contained the following item, which should be of considerable interest to Peterborough citizens, and particularly to the Board of Trade:

"Mr. Charles L. Bailey, Canadian representative of William Jessop & Sons, steel manufacturers, of Sheffield, Eng., has written to Ald. S. W. Burns, asking him to ascertain what inducements the city would offer the company to locate in Toronto a Canadian plant that would employ at least two thousand men. Mr. Bailey has gone to England, and will return about Christmas. His letter will be referred to the Assessment Commissioner."

The intimation that this firm, one of the largest steel manufacturers in England, is seeking a location in Canada, should not escape the attention of the local Board of Trade, and every effort should be made to present the advantages possessed by this town for the location of such an industry. These advantages may not be recognized at first sight, but a little thought, and a study of the necessary requisites for an advantageous location, brings one to the realisation of the fact that Peterborough is particularly well situated, and able to offer every reasonable inducement to such a plant. The benefits to the town in securing such an industry, would be many. The proposal is to employ 2,000 men, which, if it were located here, would mean about 10,000 added to the population of Peterborough.

It should be a comparatively easy matter to obtain a site for a plant of this nature. There are locations situated adjacent to both railway and canal, which would facilitate shipping, an important factor in an industry of this kind.

In the matter of easy access to the raw material, too, Peterborough has many advantages to offer. A direct line runs here from Midland, from which place the company might obtain its pig iron, and the completion of the Trent Valley Canal to Georgian Bay would render easy shipping of the pig iron, or should the company do its own smelting, the ore could be shipped direct from the mines, but but a small expense for transhipment.

It is probable, however, that the iron ore which is to be found in Hastings county could be utilized, and for the smelting charcoal could be used, the wood to make which could be very easily obtained from the northern woods.

Taking into consideration all the advantages which Peterborough offers to a plant of this kind, it would appear that the company would be consulting its own interests by seriously entertaining a proposal to locate here. The Board of Trade might very profitably inquire into teh matter and bring the claims of Peterborough before those interested.

RESUME WORK.

The Canadian Journal of Fabrics points out that a number of the woollen mills which were referred to a short time ago as having closed, or partially so, are again in full operation. The Rosamond Company's mill at Almonte is again running, the Auburn mill at Peterborough is running two-thirds, the Canada mills at Hespler are in operation for six hours a day, and the Waterloo mills are running about half-time. Others are on full time. The woollen manufacturers did not succeed very conspicuously in stampeding the Government in the direction of imposing a higher tariff for the direct benefit of the Companies, and with the result of making every man, woman and child in the Dominion pay more for their supply of woollen fabrics. Nor was another expedient more successful in the same direction. In vain did the combine close their mills and throw thousands out of employment for the sake of coercing the Government to clap on a higher duty on woollen goods. With reasonable enterprise and the help of a 22 per cent. duty, the woollen mills industry should worry along very comfortably.

DEER EXTERMINATION.

At the present rate of slaughter of our deer, the bounding stag will soon become extinct — gone to join the limbo of the departed buffalo. The Toronto World states that 4000 deer carcases will be shipped by the express companies. This, of course, does not include the large number handled in other ways throughout the wide expanse of Ontario. Provincial detective Greer suggests that the limit for each license be reduced from two to one, and that the practice of killing deer when comparatively helpless in the water, be forbidden. A census of our deer population is impracticable, and one can hardly arrive at a fairly correct estimate of the number living, but it certainly seems that the number is not so great as to view an annual slaughter of four or five thousand, as anything but a danger of the deer family becoming speedily extinct.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

British papers fear that a preference, a British favour of Canadian pulp wood, would lead to a Canadian combine, which would be ruinous to British newspaper interests. There is an evident feeling that the head equipment of some home statesmen should not be interfered with.

The Toronto News, "an independent journal," tells the inner secrets of the Ontario Conservative Association and its campaign funds—not the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario, whose money operations make the funds of the more select, high-toned newcomer seem but a flea-bite. The story, says the Globe, is worth careful study. At the close of the last Provincial campaign there was a balance in hand of upwards of $6,000. Are we now within sight of an answer to the question, "Where did the money come from?"

Mr. Bordon says Canada has not "adequate protection;" he points to Germany as a bright example of the ripe fruits of adequate protection. Mr. Harris, the U. S. Commercial Agent at Eibenstock, Germany, reports, as the Hamilton Times points out, that there are 8,000 men and women who have been working as spinners and weavers in the 130 factories of that town, eleven hours a day, at an average yearly wage of $143, or 48 cents per day. These toilers united in a strike a few weeks ago, not for more wages, but for one hour's less work in the day. The "adequately protected" proprietors say they cannot concede the reduction, and the mills are silent and deserted. It is a hard fate that compels grown men to work from dawn to sunset on a wage that many a boy would not look at in this country. None of that for Canadian workers!

A PROBLEM OF THE NORTHWEST

Nearly everybody admits now that between the Lake of the Woods and the Caribou Mountains the forces of civilization are building a mighty Empire, destined to become the granary of the world.

Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, has told us that within the next decade it will yield 600,000,000 bushels annually. Some idea of the vastness of this area will be gathered from the statement that the province of Manitoba and the districts of Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, extend 400 miles north and south and 900 miles east and west, embracing 359,000 square miles.

To this has been added Athabaska, with its 122,000 square miles, in which is situated the beautiful Peace River Valley, said to be as fertile and productive as the valley of the Red River of the North, and one gets an area of half a million square miles, of which, in the light of the development already accomplished, one-half will eventually come under the plough.

The men are not regarded as impractical dreamers who predict that within the lives of the present generation 200,000 square miles of this Canadian territory will be under the plough. Not more than two per cent. of this land is under cultivation, yet this year it has raised over 100,000,000 bushels of grain.

That such a country presents big problems for solution may be readily conceived, and one of the most important of these is the question of irrigation, regarding which a blue book has just been issued by the Department of the Interior, under Mr. Sifton's direction.

From this it appears that within the belt that has just been described there is a semi-arid region, embracing nearly 100,000 square miles—to be definite, 64,621,169 acres.

This semi-arid area contains what is generally spoken of as the ranching or grazing area of the West—the vast open or prairie country, broken in its southern parts by the Wood Mountain and Cypress Hills, including the foothills country adjoining the Rocky Mountains of the West, rising to an elevation of 3,500 feet in parts. Through this flow such rivers as the South Saskatchewan, the Bow, the Belly, St. Mary, Oldman, Highwood and Red Deer, which constitute main drainage channels.

For years after the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway through the Territories, stock-rais raising was the chief occupation of the settlers in Western Assiniboia and Southern Alberta, but by degrees small areas were brought under cultivation, and the growth of grain and fodder crops attempted.

The need for irrigation was not realized at first, for the rainfall was sufficient, but there came seasons of increasing drought, and total failures off crops, and finally a stage was reached when it was believed nothing could be grown. Settlers gave up their farms in despair and moved to the south and east, where rainfall was more certain, but some who had come from south of the international boundary where irrigation was common, or from mining regions in the mountains to the west and south, began experimenting by constructing small ditches for the irrigation of lands in the valleys of the smaller streams, and it was the results thus obtained that first aroused interest in the subject of irrigation.

From the information issued by the Department of the Interior, it appears that irrigation has grown from that small beginning until there are at the present time 189 canals and ditches in operation, comprising a length of about 469 miles. These canals and ditches are capable of irrigating 614,000 acres of land, enhancing its value by nearly $2,000,000.

Irrigation has now passed the experimental stage and the interests involved and possibilities opened out are so great that a full and comprehensive review of the work done has been prepared. From this it appears that one of the most important problems of the Northwest is being satisfactorily solved.—Ottawa Free Press.

NEW POSTAL REGULATION.

The department has lately been advised of the adhesion of the Colonial administration of British North Bornoe to the arrangement initiated by Sir William Mulock for an Imperial rate on newspapers. Under this arrangement Canadian newspapers are allowed to pass from offices of publication to the United Kingdom and the several colonies mentioned hereunder at the same rates and under the same conditions as apply to Canadian newspapers addressed to places in Canada.

The complete group that have already signified adhesion to the arrangement are as follows:

United Kingdom, Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, British Honduras, British North Borneo, Ceylon, Cyprus, Falkland Islands, Gambia, Hong Kong, Leeward Islands (including Antigua, etc.) New Zealand, Sarawak, Sierra Leone, Transvaal, Turk's Islands and Zanzibar.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Is Out of Office.

Kingston, Nov. 17.—Yesterday Col. Montizambert's leave of absence expired and his tenure of office as D. O. C. of military districts Nos. 3 and 4 came to an end. The gallant colonel has had thirty-five years' service in the Canadian militia, and few officers have had a more successful career, or whose departure from office created such profound regret. Col. Montizambert leaves office simply because he has reached the age limit.

How Iron-ox Tablets Cured a Toronto Lady of Nine Years' Dyspepsia.

January 15, 1903.

Having been troubled with indigestion in the worst form for nine years, I can honestly say that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with it since using Iron-ox Tablets, which is six months ago. Any person wishing any information I will gladly give it. I have recommended them to several persons and they say the same as I do.

Mrs. Nellie Miville,
202 Center Ave.,

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

A NEW ZEALAND PREFERENCE.

Surcharge of 20 to 50 Per Cent. on Foreign Goods.

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 17.—Premier Seddon introduced yesterday in Parliament his proposals for preferential trade between New Zealand and Great Britain. They provide, after March, 1904, for a surcharge of 20 to 50 per cent. on the existing duties on specific articles not of British manufacture. The proposals include reciprocal agreements with foreign countries.

Lights Guard Sultan.

Constantinople, Nov. 17.—Remarkable measures are being taken for the Sultan's safety. The night guards have been doubled, as it is believed that any attack on his life which may be contemplated will be attempted at night. At Yildiz Kiosk and the surrounding garden houses sleeping apartments are prepared for the Sultan in eight different buildings, but no one, not even his eunuchs, knows in which of these he will spend the night until His Majesty arrives on the spot.

Another measure which the Chief of the Palace Police has adopted is the submarine illumination of the Bosphorus in the neighborhood of the palace. An elaborate system of submarine lamps of great power have been ranged all along the landing stage in front of the palace and both the surface and the bed of the Bosphorus are a blaze of light.

HOW THE EVENING WAS SPOILED.

Indigestion Came in—One or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will Drive the Intruder Away and Put Cheerfulness in its Place.

How many evenings that have promised to be pleasant have been spoiled because the supper did not agree with you!

How often you have been troubled with gas accumulating in the stomach, pains in the abdomen and that feeling of depression and discomfort that every victim of indigestion knows so well!

Are you aware that if you carry a few of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets in your pocket and take one or two after eating, all this can be guarded against — your evenings may be just as pleasant as you expect them to be!

It's a fact. And those who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will tell you so. H. Hutchinson, of Chatham, Ont., says:—

"I suffered for a long time from Indigestion, until a short time ago a friend brought me a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. From the very first I got relief.

"I keep them by me and if at any time I feel my food is not likely to agree with me I take one or two Tablets and feel no more effects of Indigestion."

Wishes O'Brien Made'L.

Limerick, Ireland, Nov. 17.—Addressing a Nationalist demonstration here Sunday, John Redmond said that had he known of the intention of William O'Brien to resign from participation in the work of the party he would have beseeched him not to put his intention into effect. The majority of the Irish party supported Mr. O'Brien's policy of conciliation in the administration of the British Government's Irish Land Act, but the irreconcilable section of the landlords were meanly trying to counteract that policy.

Didn't Like Canada.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—J. S. Larke, writing from Sydney, says: "Some Australians who left to settle in Canada have returned, and others are writing to friends, condemning Canada, and advising Australians not to move. Their chief ground is the coldness of the winter, but, as in every instance the verdict was propounced after a couple of weeks' residence in May, the opinion was formed upon stories they had heard, and not upon experience."

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing. Ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c. If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

Russia, the Liberator.

Sofia, Nov. 17.—Prince Ferdinand Sunday opened the new Sobranje and received a great ovation. In the Speech from the Throne the Prince said the Government would do its utmost to maintain and to develop the good relations existing with the great liberator, Russia, and with other great powers.

For a Bad Cold.

$5,000,000 by the 24th.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—It is learned from a reliable source that all details have been arranged for the Grand Trunk Pacific to hand over their deposit of $5,000,000 to the Dominion Government on the 24th of this month.

Alex. Kennedy Dead.

Owen Sound, Nov. 17.—Alex. Kennedy, aged 65, a member of the Wm. Kennedy & Sons, Ltd., dropped dead from heart failure yesterday morning while superintending the erection of an elevator at the fruit packing warehouse.

Not Afraid to Endorse it.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today. There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

JOHN HAGGART,

CANADA LIVE STOCK

Subject of Negotiations With St. Louis Fair Directors.

A FAVORABLE DISPOSITION.

When Matters Are Fully Explained the Canadian Commissioners Are Hopeful for the Best Treatment in the Redressing of the Customs Grievance Complained of — The Dairy Exhibits.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—St. Louis Exhibition Commissioner William Hutchison; F. W. Hodson, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner; J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, and W. A. Burns, returned yesterday morning from St. Louis, where they have been in connection with the Canadian exhibit, to be sent there next year. They had a long consultation with the St. Louis Fair authorities in connection with the difficulties which have arisen over the live stock exhibit, to be sent from Canada. The difficulty is in connection with the customs arrangement.

Mr. Hutchison said yesterday that the St. Louis Fair directorate had already gone a good way, but after discussing the situation with them, Mr. Hodson and himself decided to put Canada's case in black and white. The Canadian Commissioners feel that when matters are fully explained that the Fair authorities may still do more, as they have shown a disposition to make matters as easy as possible.

J. A. Ruddick went very fully into the matter of dairy exhibits. No definite rules have been formulated yet, but Mr. Ruddick will meet the State Commissioner in New York in December, when these rules will be drawn up. The dairy exhibit will be placed in the agriculture building, the largest on the grounds.

Labor conditions in St. Louis are at an awful pitch, carpenters are being paid 55 cents per hour for eight hours a day, and plasterers are being paid 80 cents per hour. The plasterers are not at all skilled workmen either. The contractors who have taken the work for the construction of the buildings will, in many cases, lose on their estimate.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

A New Turn to the Situation in the Far East.

Moscow, Nov. 17.—The Russian military re-occupation of Mukden, Manchuria, has caused such tension and has aroused such an aggressive attitude on the part of China that the continued despatch of troops to the Far East is now said to be directed against China, in spite of the pacific turn of the Russo-Japanese dispute. The 250,000 troops ordered to the Far East when hostilities appeared imminent are being continually added to.

A MAN CAN'T WORK

When He is Suffering With Piles.

Just a little pain may so distract a man's mind that it will cost him hundreds of dollars. Life is a battle. To succeed one needs all his energies and all his brain force to apply to the question at hand. Even a corn will make him irritable, cross, angry—and an angry man seldom succeeds. The trifling pain of a corn is a pleasant feeling beside the agonising ache of piles. That is a pain which seems to pervade the the whole body. It communicates itself to all the parts near the seat of the trouble, and brings on a heavy, dragging feeling in the perineum. Those who have never so suffered do not know what it means. It racks the nerves, prevents sleep, prevents concentrated thought, and makes a man lose flesh as fast as he would with a virulent fever.

And yet piles are looked upon as a little thing. They are neglected—allowed to run on from month to month and year to year. By and by comes a dangerous surgical operation. Maybe it cures—maybe it kills.

There is only one sure, safe and quick cure for piles. It is the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is a recent discovery, and its properties are such that it cleanses, soothes and heals the inflamed parts, reduces the inflammation at once, and with continued treatment removes all swelling and all trace of the disease. It puts the membranes in a healthy, active condition and cures completely and permanently.

From Samuel Victor, Detroit, Mich. "I have not written you sooner because the first box of the Pyramid Pile Cure I used helped me so much I wanted to wait until I was completely cured, and so it was after using three boxes of your Pyramid Pile Cure, I am entirely cured of the terrible disease from which I have suffered for six months, and now I am using Pyramid File Pills, which help me very much.'

From B. H. Palmer, Windsor, Ont. "I have been troubled for fifteen years with piles, and have tried different salves and ointments, but never came across anything like your Pyramid Pile Cure. I used two 50 cent boxes three months ago, and they have made a complete cure, and I am recommending them to everyone I know to be afflicted. Thanks for the cure."

From Thomas A. Nixon, 854 North Bambrey street, Philadelphia. "It is now time that I should let you know that I am cured of bleeding piles. If you only knew how I have suffered from them for the last nine years in pain. Last April I went to the drug-store, and bought a 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure, and I found at last a good cure. I had spent dollars trying to get cured of my piles; all others have failed to cure me, and now I am happy to have a good sleep and be able to work also."

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists generally. If yours doesn't keep it he will get it for you if you ask him. Book on the cause and cure of piles sent free. Address Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing If It Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

CAR HIGH IN THE AIR

Three Big Torpedoes Exploded and Raised Chicago Police.

ONE NIGHT'S DAMAGE $20,000.

Strike Sympathizers Not Deterred by 2,000 Armed and Batoned Police—Car Strike Now Seriously Interfering With Business — Sympathetic Strikes the Fashionable Order of the Day.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Torpedoes and stones were freely used to interrupt traffic on the city car lines yesterday. Clubs and revolvers, in the hands of 2,000 police, were not sufficient to deter the strike sympathizers. Still, a dozen miles of the Wentworth avenue line was kept open for business. The other 300 miles of the boycotted lines were abandoned.

It is generally admitted here that a protracted period of lawlessness confronts Chicago. Business is seriously interfered with. Many big retail houses have laid off half their forces. Some of the big departmental stores suspended 300 hands yesterday morning.

Torpedoes Exploded.

During the night the Wentworth line was blocked with stones in many places, switches torn up and $20,000 worth of damage done. As the cars left the barn three big torpedoes, concealed beneath the rails, exploded. The whole track was torn up. The car, filled with police, was raised high in the air and confusion was general. Reserves rushed to the spot, a great crowd gathered, and hooting and stone-throwing was general. Many members of the mob were arrested and many other were clubbed.

Yesterday the hundred persons arrested during the past 48 hours were charged with more reprimands in the Police Court. This leniency encouraged other strike sympathizers. The police have difficulty in presenting convicting evidence against rioters, since perjury is frequently indulged in to save prisoners. Within the next 48 hours the city is expected to be completely tied up.

A Sympathetic Strike.

The teamsters are debating the question of a sympathetic strike. Some of their members have been discharged for blockading the tracks of the boycotted line. They claim this blockading was an inevitable adjunct to the heavy traffic, but Manager Job of the Employers' Association declares the teamsters have by common consent agreed to drive over the streets where the boycotted company's tracks are located when possible, for the deliberate purpose of congesting traffic. He has announced that any offending teamster will be discharged.

All other lines of street cars threaten to strike in sympathy. The traction company is in the hands of a receiver, and the moment its employes join the strike the United States troops can be used, as it is in the hands of the Federal Court. The strikers assert the company wants to get United States soldiers here. The State Guard cannot be depended upon to defend the corporation against the union, because it is composed so largely of members of unions.

No Passengers Would Dare.

No passengers are daring to ride in the few cars the company is operating. The company says it would run its whole line if the police would defend their cars, but Chief O'Neil has refused to spread his force out further, because he says he can't take care of what he is now handling. Down through the business portion, along Clark street, there are police every ten feet apart on both sides of the tracks, and from ten to twenty on each car. The crowds line the sidewalks to the limit, and at the slightest delay of cars, yelling, hissing and jeers are roared out.

Waiters on Strike.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—The waiters at the St. Lawrence Hall went out on strike at noon yesterday, and as a result 150 guests had to go luncheless for over an hour. The new management last week gave the order that lunch would be from 12 to 2 instead of 1 to 3. The waiters objected to the change.

"CURSE OF INSURANCE."

A. F. of L. Opposed to Granting Charter to Insurance Agents.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 17.—Consideration of resolutions was resumed on the opening of the Federation of Labor Convention yesterday, and the report of a proposition to charter the insurance agents of the country as an affiliated body, was promptly met by opposition on the ground that insurance agents were not wage earners and because of the fact that the admission of the agents to membership might result in an attempt to force insurance upon fellow members.

President Gompers took the floor in opposition to the question. He expressed belief that the reason why many unions were not well organized was that they paid too much attention to "this curse of insurance, which we are asked to endorse."

Read what the St. Catharines Star says of the playing of Miss Dean, violinist, on Monday night: "Miss Alice Dean's opening solo was 'Allegro Brilliant,' which she played in such a manner as to hold her audience spell bound. No attempted description could do justice to her playing and the insistent manner in which the audience demanded an encore showed that her work was most thoroughly appreciated. In response to reiterated recalls she played 'Annie Laurie.' Her playing of the 'Mazurka de Concert,' Musin, elicited a storm of applause. As an encore she played 'Home Sweet Home,' as it is seldom played, the audience hanging wrapt and breathless upon the heart-haunting, memory-stirring strains." 1d

BOARD OF HEALTH HELD MEETING ON MONDAY.

Police Court Proceedings Against Those who Have not Closed Their Wells.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held in the Committee Room yesterday afternoon with the following attendance: Mr. Robt. Neill, chairman, W. Eyres, G. Schneider, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, and Chief Rossel, Sanitary Inspector.

It was moved and seconded that the Sanitary Inspector be instructed to institute proceedings in the Police Court against those who have not complied with the order of the Board to fill up their wells.—Carried.

An account from Mr. R. H. Leary was ordered to be paid.

A communication from John Crane, secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Board, re treatment of scarlet fever cases, saying the hospital would take in such cases at the cost of $1.00 per diem, was referred to the Council.

Mr. Eyres reported re an interview which he and Mr. Parker had with the Water Commissioners. These latter stated that they would do all in their power to put in connections for those who had been ordered to to close their wells.

The Board then adjourned until Monday afternoon next at 2.30 o'clock.

THE YOUNG MEN'S GUILD ENTERTAINED LADIES.

Pleasant Social Evening in St. John's Sunday School Room.

The Young Men's Guild, of St. John's church, entertained the Girls' Guild in the school room last evening, when it is felt all had a very pleasant time. Games were played, and during the evening the following programme was given:—

Vocal solo ... ...Mr. Peters
Vocal solo ... ...Mr. H. Cluxton
Violin solo ....Mr. Telegman
Song, with mandolin accompaniment ... ...Mr. Peters
Song ....Mr. Jos. Halpany.

Towards the end of the evening refreshments were served.

Rev. Mr. Davidson referred in a few words to the success of the evening, and remarked that he would like to see such another "social" between the two Guilds before very long.

The evening closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

IN THE INTERESTS OF NAVIGATION.

Dredge "Trent" Will Resume Work on Otonabee River.

The Government dredge "Trent" will shortly resume the very important work of deepening the Otonabee river from the Hunter street bridge south. This work, it should be pointed out, is, from a town point of view, a very necessary part of the Government's Trent Valley Canal scheme. It is proposed to deepen this part of the river so that the canal barges will be able to navigate safely to, and beyond the Hunter street bridge. This will give a complete line of dockage for a distance of about half a mile, easily accessible from the business part of the town, and affording an immense advantage to factories, the products of which will with partial or total canal completion, be largely shipped by the cheaper method.

An appropriation has been made to carry out this work, and its completion will add materially to the advantages possessed by the town in the way of shipping facilities.

HAROLD MOWRY CANNOT BE FOUND.

Toronto Star Asks for Information Regarding Son of Late Orlando Mowry.

The Toronto Star last night contained a paragraph asking for information as to the where-abouts of a young man, Harold Mowry, son of the late Orlando Mowry, formerly of Peterborough. The paragraph reads:—"The whereabouts of Harold Mowry, a young man, is sought by his mother who lives in Detroit. The father of the boy was killed. The young man lived at Markham, Ont., a year ago, and prior to that he lived in Niagara street, Toronto."

LARGEST NUMBER OF DEER EVER BROUGHT INTO TOWN

The Eagle Lake Hunt Club Returned Last Night With 26 Deer.

Of all the successful hunters who have gone out shooting this fall perhaps the Eagle Hunt Club has been the most successful, for no one party ever brought into Peterborough such a large number of deer at one time, this Club last night bringing home no less than twenty-five, nineteen of which are bucks.

Fitzgerald's carriage shop, at the rear of the Commercial House, where the deer may be seen, was crowded with persons, anxious to see the splendid haul. The deer are in excellent condition and are all of a big size. The hunters state that the weather was excellent and there was nothing that could be desired. The Club was composed of Messrs. J. J. Cottingham, captain; and H. Evans, Wm. White, Geo. Fitzgerald, C. E. Gunsolls, T. C. Westlake, T. Parker, R. Tivey, C. James, L. Hall, P. O. Dumble, M. Dobson, A. Mitchell, C. Butcher, J. Cochrane and M. Tooley, and Wm. Sharp, cook.

SEND MATTER IN EARLY.

The Examiner has a suggestion to make which, it hopes, those interested will act upon. The time of year has come when darkness arrives early, and, in an effort to facilitate the work of the Examiner's staff of news boys in getting subscribers' papers to their doors if possible before dark, and thus lessening the danger of papers going astray, The Examiner asks that all persons supplying items of news for these columns, send paragraphs in before noon, otherwise the publication of such matter cannot be promised the same day. This note is addressed particularly to clergymen who supply notices of church services and meetings, and the Examiner feels that they will sympathize with it in the effort to assist the dozens of news boys in its employ to get their work accomplished before dark, and place the papers in subscribers' hands in good time. The idea is not correct that all that is necessary to do to have an article appear in the paper is to thrust the manuscript into the typesetting machine and rush it into the forms. It has to be edited, set, proof read, corrected and put into the forms, which all takes time, and if those who wish their matter to appear would exercise a natural consideration for the news boys it would be highly appreciated.

ARCHDEACONRY OF PETERBOROUGH

Sessions now Being Held in St. John's School House.

Opening Meeting this Morning Occupied With Archdeaconry Address and Paper on Sunday Observance.

The annual sessions of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough are now being held in St. John's school house, the opening meeting being at 9.30 this morning, when Holy Communion was administered to those in attendance. The session following was presided over by Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook; with the following clergymen in attendance: Rev. A. J. Fiddler, Cobourg; Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., Havelock; Rev. J. Creighton, Blackstock; Rev. W. J. Creighton, Bobcaygeon; Rev. E. R. James, Hastings; Rev. G. Warren, Lakefield; Rev. J. H. Bemister, Haliburton; Rev. C. W. Marsh, Lindsay; Rev. W. C. Allen, Millbrook; Rev. E. Daniel, Port Hope; Rev. E. Dickson, Fenelon Falls; Rev. J. C. Davidson and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of town. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt is unable to attend the sessions because of illness, which fact is deeply regretted by his brother clergymen. Rev. W. L. Armitage is secretary of the Archdeaconry.

At the opening session this morning, Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's, delivered an address of welcome to the visitors, on behalf of the local churches, and expressed the hope that the members of the Archdeaconry would find the sessions profitable and interesting. Archdeacon Allen replied to the address briefly.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, Rev. W. L. Armitage, was the next business, and in them the session held last year was fully described.

The Archdeacon then delivered his annual address, in which he dealt with the chief events in Canadian and Imperial history, speaking particularly with reference to the Alaskan boundary award, and how it would affect Canada. The Archdeacon also spoke of the great event in the church's educational work during the past year, the affiliation of Trinity University with the Provincial educational institution, Toronto University. The address was a very clever one and was eagerly listened to by those who were privileged to hear it.

At the morning session, Mr. J. W. Bickle read a paper on the question of the observance of the Lord's Day, in which he reviewed the work done during the past year by the Lord's Day Alliance in conjunction with the churches. He sited numerous instances where infractions of the Lord's Day Act had been detected and effectively dealt with, mentioning the discontinuance of Sunday excursions from United States ports to Canada, by the action of Hon. Wm. Patterson, who had instructed Canadian custom officers not to allow excursion boats to tie up at Canadian wharfs. This paper closed the morning session, the visiting clergy being entertained after this session to luncheon in All Saints church. The meetings are being resumed this afternoon in St. John's and a public meeting will be held to-night when Dr. Rigby will address the gathering. There will also be a large addition made to the number of visiting clergymen to-night, and to-morrow morning.

The attendance this morning was smaller than expected on account of the illness of several clergymen, who sent letters to that effect.

LEFT THE RIFLE LYING ON A LOG

And the Deer Escaped After a Very Close Shave.

The members of a hunting party just returned are telling a good story on one of their number. It appears that he, with others was sitting at the edge of a lake, having laid his rifle on a log and was waiting for a deer to come within range. Suddenly he saw one come out of the woods on the farther side of the lake and go into the water. Exhibiting his characteristic carefulness he launched his canoe and paddled swiftly to intercept the deer. After several strategic moves he finally achieved his purpose and in about half an hour he had succeeded in tiring the deer, and had got close enough to touch it with his paddle. He then withdrew a short distance in order to shoot his captive, but was considerably surprised upon reaching behind him for his rifle to find that it was not there. It just then dawned upon him that in his haste he had forgotten that necessary weapon and it was still on the log where he had left it. It was a lucky circumstance for the deer as the hunter in question was one of the best, if "over cautious," shots in the party.

A CAT IN A CHURCH CHOIR.

A Member of the Tabby Family With Music in Its Soul.

The choir of a local church received an addition to its numbers Sunday night. A cat, which had very likely on a previous occasion listened with pleasure to the music rendered by this choir, and wishing to hear it to better advantage came into the choir loft just before service began, and attached itself to the bass section of the choir, instead of going with the soprano or alto, where one would naturally think tabby would feel more at home. The music was evidently to her liking, as she remained throughout the entire service. A cynical member of the congregation, who says he does not believe in church vaudeville, made the unfeline remark that the cat's presence was not accounted for by the excellence of the music, but by the fact that the music in its character was more in sympathy with the midnight caterwauling of the cat kind. The other members of the congregation and, of course the choir, "scat" this theory as purrposterous, which no doubt it is.

SPECIAL BARGAINS ALL THIS WEEK.

OUR Hosiery trade maintains its place so well that there is hardly a second anywhere, the reason for this is of course the wide choice of qualities and great values we show.

Once each year we have a sale of all the remnants of lines that are nearly sold out.

We have this sale this week, there are not all sizes in any one style but every size in some style. Just a few pairs of some thirty different styles, in all about six hundred and fifty pairs. They will fit from one to twelve years old. They are seasonable winter weights, samples of which are on view in our window, some are made from Saxony wool, some from Scotch fingering yarn, and some from heavy wool. The prices ran from 25c, 30c, 35c, 40c and 50c. They will be cleared out on FRIDAY and SATURDAY at one price 16c. Come early and get first choice.

A NEW CLUB IN PETERBOROUGH.

The Onion Club Formed With a Strong Set of Officers.

An important addition has been made to the list of fraternal organizations in Peterborough in the initiation of a strong club, to which the name "Onion Club" has been given. It has been in existence for about two weeks, and during that time has been faithfully endeavouring to carry out the object for which it was organized, that of mutual interference.

The officers of the new club are:
President — Mr. Geo. Lynch.
Secretary — Mr. J. Deannard.
Treasurer—Mr. D. J. Devine.
Board of Trustees—J. Graham, chairman; E. Dougherty and W. J. O'Brien, the latter gentleman being in perfect sympathy with the club and its object, has kindly given the members permission to hold their nightly sessions in the rear of his store.

LEAGUE LISTENED TO INTERESTING ADDRESS

Given by Mr. J. A. Fife on Trip to New Ontario.

It is to be regretted that the exceedingly unfavourable weather last evening prevented a large number from attending the Literary meeting of George street Epworth League. Those who did brave the elements, however, were amply repaid for their exertion by the very interesting address given by Mr. J. A. Fife of the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Fife, during the summer was one of a party of surveyors who visited the northern districts of Ontario, and his address consisted in an account of the trip which he gave in a most realistic manner. By the aid of a map or rough drawing the speaker took his audience with him by rail to Mattawa, thence up Lake Temescamingue by steamer, where the large boat was abandoned, canoes were packed with provisions and the party commenced the long and frequently dangerous trip down the great chain of lakes and rivers that lie to the south of Hudson Bay. The Indian half-breeds that accompanied the party, their skill in handling the canoes, the Hudson Bay trading post, with its usual Indian encampment, the large sheets of water with thickly wooded shores, the lakes dotted with clusters of islands and the dangerous rapids of the rivers, all received due attention by the speaker, and the audience listened with keen enjoyment, as Mr. Fife's graphic descriptions brought before their minds eye the scenes visited by him on his trip.

At the close of the address a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Jeffries, seconded by Mr. Robinson, and tendered Mr. Fife for his exceedingly interesting talk.

The chair was occupied by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wilson, and preceding the lecture Mr. W. Stocker was heard in the solo "The Sweet Story of Old," which was sung with much expression. Miss Chasty acted as accompanist.

THE SAD FATE OF A LINDSAY DUCK HUNTER.

Mr. Crail Frost, of Lindsay, may Lose an Arm as a Result of an Accident.

The Injured Man was in an Exhausted Condition From Shock and Loss of Blood When Brought to Town.

(Lindsay Post.)

Mr. Orsil A. Frost, bookkeeper in the local office of the Rathbun Co., was the victim of a regrettable and serious shooting accident Saturday evening. The mill having closed for the season Friday, he took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a brief holiday, and after dinner he left for the bogs at the mouth of the river, accompanied by Mr. David Kilpatrick.

While trying to reach what seemed to be a desirable point to locate for a shoot, a flock of ducks—flying very fast—came their way, and Frost reached behind him for his gun, which was cocked in preparation for just such an emergency. Hastily drawing it forward, the trigger struck against the thwart or the side of the boat and the weapon was discharged, the charge of shot penetrating his left arm. The wound was a dreadful one, the muscles, arteries, and important structures on the inside of the arm being torn away.

Although suffering an agony of pain, Frost pluckily aided his comrade in devising means for getting back to town. It was necessary to paddle a considerable distance to a landing, where Kilpatrick sought assistance from a farmer and secured a conveyance in which the injured young man was brought to town—some three hours after the accident. Dr. Blanchard, was at once called and found his patient extremely weak from loss of blood and shock. Restoratives were at once applied and the bleeding vessels secured. This afternoon Mr. Frost was able to endure removal to the Ross Hospital, and as we go to press we are informed that he is resting easily, circulation is being re-established, and the arm will probably be saved.

LAST MEETING OF VICTORIA BOARD.

Adjourned Sale of Cheese Held at Lindsay Yesterday.

Lindsay Post.

The adjourned and final sale of the Victoria county cheese board for 1903 was held on Monday in the Council Chamber, when 1600 boxes, comprising the balance of the October make offered a week ago, were disposed off at the top price of the year (

President Robertson, Secretary Shine and Treasurer Sinclair were present. The buyers in attendance were Messrs. Cook, Fitzgerald, Flavelle and Bailey.

Star	150
Cameron	136
Dunsford	160
Cambray	85
Janetville	65
Omemee	190
North Verulam	130
North Ops	160
Pine Grove	60
Bobcaygeon	300
Palestine	130
Red Rock	275

Mr. Flavelle opened the bidding at 10c and the offers advanced in calls of a sixteenth better until 10 13-16c was registered. A pause ensued, when Mr. Flavelle raised to 10 7-8c. This was not bettered and at that figure he called the board. We understand that he divided his purchase with Mr. Fitzgerald.

At last sale a few factories sold at 10 3-8. Maple Leaf, Mariposa and Reaboro sold off the Board to Mr. Fitzgerald at 10 1-8c.

It is possible that at the annual meeting of the Board to be held early in the New Year a proposition will be made that the factories enter into a contract with a Lindsay man to supply boxes for the next season, the service this year from Peterborough having been unsatisfactory.

TORONTO AFTER SINGER COMPANY

But Chances are Against it—Montreal Will Likely be Selected.

Toronto, too, is in line with an effort to secure the works of the Singer Sewing Machine Company for that city, but they, apparently, have met with but indifferent success, as the following item from the Toronto Star will indicate:

"To try and secure a $700,000 branch of the Singer Sewing Machine Company's works, was the object of a fruitless visit of Assessment Commissioner Fleming to New York last week. He returned to-day. The Singer Company intend to expend $700,000 extending its Canadian business, but Montreal will in all probability be the lucky burg to profit by the expenditure of this amount. Montreal already has the Canadian branch of the Singer manufactory.

4,000 DEER CARRIED BY EXPRESS COMPANIES.

That Number and More Killed This Year.

The shipments of deer through the two express companies doing business in the northern portion of Ontario, where these animals are hunted, are expected to reach the record number of 4,000. Last year the number was 2,526. Already the Canadian and Dominion Express Companies have carried over 2,000. To-day and to-morrow is expected to be the days the heavy shipment will arrive. Deer trains will be run for the next three days, carrying the carcases of the victims of the huntsmen's deadly aim. There will be a busy scene again at the Union Station this morning when the hunters with their hounds arrive from the north. The hunters who arrived yesterday and who came from districts farther away from the railways than the arrivals of Saturday declare that deer are thicker than they ever saw them. Every man had his allotted two to his credit.—Toronto World.

EXTENT OF CANADIAN BANKING BUSINESS.

Few persons realize the extent of the banking business in Canada, or the excellent financial standing of our Canadian banking institutions. The following item, taken from the Toronto News, dealing with one of the representative Canadian banks, will be of interest to many who are unaware of the extent to which this business has developed in this country. The News says:

"The addition of $1,000,000 to the reserve fund by the Bank of Montreal, constitutes a record, and it will probably be some time before any other Canadian chartered bank will accomplish a similar feat. It is interesting to note that this large transfer of surplus funds to the rest account brings the total reserve fund of all the Canadian chartered banks, thirty-three in number, to $49,997,498, or approximately 55 per cent of the total authorised capital. As is well known, the Bank of Montreal occupies a very distinguished position amongst the large banks of the British Empire. Its paid up capital is larger than that of any English bank, except the Bank of England, and three others which have recently become so large by amalgamations. Its paid up capital is larger than that of any of the banks of Scotland, or Ireland. Only two colonial banks have larger paid up capital, but not one has so large a reserve fund. Its note issues are only exceeded by the Bank of England, the Bank of Ireland; no other bank in the United Kingdom, or the colonies, having note issues as large as Canada's great bank."

It might be added that it is a source of pride that we have in Canada a banking institution like the Bank of Montreal. The facts above cited place it in nearly the same class as the Bank of England, the proverbial synonym for financial stability the world over. "Safe as the Bank of England" is a simile, which at the rate of progress indicated by the above article, may justifiably be varied for use on this continent into "Safe as the vank of Montreal."

THE OPENING OF MOCK PARLIAMENT

Will Take Place To-night in George Street Sunday School.

The opening session of Parliament will be held to-night at the George street Guild Meeeting, when the Speech from the Throne will be given, and the discussions on the reply to the address will be held. The questioned are ones in which considerable interest is being taken, and it promises to make an exceedingly profitable meeting. Mr. J. Jeffries, the premier, will present the address, and two of the Cabinet Ministers will speak on the address in reply. The Opposition, led by Mr. W. Warne, will, of course, take part in the discussion and an attempt will be made to overthrow the Government.

All young men are invited to attend this meeting, which will be an education in itself.

The Beehive

We Have Everything a Lady Wears.

Two weeks ago we put on sale 2160 yards of Flannelette for half price and cleaned it all out, the reason we are doing this is, we need the space for our rapidly expanding ready-to-wear, trade which is growing beyond our fondest expectations and we are going to give it our fullest attention.

Now this week we are going to clean out our stock of Linings at even a considerably greater bargain than that at which we sold the Wrapperette, because we want the space and we have no time to to bother with an ordinary sale, we want it to rush out quickly.

The Linings will be on sale all this week.

We have:—

500 yards of Percaline lining at 15c
900 yards of strong lining at 12½c
200 " " " " " 10c
50 " " " " " 8c

They will all be placed on sale at one price,

5c per yard.

Come early and make your selection for they will not last long at this price.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT OF MISSIONS.

Rev. Dr. Smith Addressed Large Gatherings.

The King Circuit, of which the Rev. Newton Hill is pastor, was favoured with a visit from the Rev. Dr. W. E. Smith, a returned missionary from China. He was greeted by very large and enthusiastic congregations, and did much to inspire the Christian people to do more for missions than they had ever done in the past. So thrilling and impressive, especially, was his afternoon address that one Christian brother then and there volunteered to be responsible for the support of a native evangelist to be associated with Dr. Smith as one of his helpers. His evening address was more especially in behalf of the work being done by the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, which must have been very comforting and inspiring to the ladies who are engaged in this noble work.

THE ASHBURNHAM VILLAGE COUNCIL

Met Last Night in Special Session and Considered Sewer and Union.

A special meeting of the Council of Ashburnham was held last night in the Council Chamber, at which the Reeve, Mr. F. Adams, presided. The whole Board, composed of Councillors Gibbs, Scott and Faint, was in attendance. The principal subject of discussion was the question of union with the town and the sewer problem. It was decided to ask a number of the prominent citizens of the village to meet in an informal way tomorrow night to discuss the questions of sewage and amalgamation, and also to call a public meeting next Tuesday night in which the citizens may give an expression to their views on the proposed union of the two municipalities, and when the conditions will be explained, and the reasons for and against a union discussed.

Little business was transacted at the meeting outside the payment of some accounts.

Most people are saving money by getting their books, stationery, leather goods, Toys, games, sporting goods, pictures and picture framing at the Metropole, on Hunter street. Why not you?

Christmas Suggestions

"Taking time by the forelock" is never a more sensible proceeding than at this season of the year with Christmas and all its attendant responsibilities looming up in the near future. Gifts caught up at the last moment, in all the hurry and confusion of a fortnight or so before the holidays, are generally chosen with little regard for appropriateness, and it is far wiser, as well as less tiring to decide upon such matters early.

There is a way whereby one can do Christmas shopping satisfactorily without worry or inconvenience. And that way is through our mail order department.

THE SOUTH'S MUSEUM

CIVIL WAR RELICS OF WHITE HOUSE OF THE CONFEDERACY.

Memories of Jefferson Davis and His Distinguished Generals Draw Together Veterans of the Blue and the Gray—Unwritten History If Recorded by Museum's Guide Would Contain Some Choice Bits.

Of the many historic features of the old southern city of Richmond, Va., none is more interesting than the Confederate museum, once the White House of the Confederate States of America. To the northerner scarcely less than to the men and women who knew it as the seat of a Government to which they gave the best years of their lives the relics which it enshrines are inspirations to stirring memories. Here soldiers of the blue and those who were the gray meet in amity to talk of the strenuous days of their youth, and many an acquaintance begun from opposite sides of the firing line has been cemented into friendship under the roof which once sheltered Jefferson Davis and his Cabinet.

If the museum guide should ever write his memoirs they would contain choice bits of unwritten history gleaned from visiting veterans, says Newspaper Correspondent Harvey L. Moore. A northerner who was in Richmond recently told the guide that he had been one of the warders of President Davis at Fortress Monroe and that he had cut a button from the coat which Mr. Davis wore while in his charge. The guide was able to show him the coat, and the button which the northerner said he had taken was found to be missing. The sentinel who relieved him, the northerner said, had coveted Mr. Davis' meerschaum pipe; but, knowing the president to be an inveterate smoker, he had spared it. There was no pipe of the former president on exhibition, but a search through forgotten drawers revealed the pipe, stained half an inch down the bowl by constant use, showing what a consolation it had been to the president in his captivity. Another visitor not long ago was relating an incident in which he, a southern soldier, had unexpectedly encountered an armed northerner who had refused to shoot at him. As he was asserting that he would know the man if he should see him again a man came forward, saying that he was that Federal soldier. The southerner recognized him, and the two went off arm in arm to examine the building.

THE CONFEDERATE MUSEUM.

The museum building is of interest in itself apart from its civil war history. Erected by Dr. John Brockenbrough in the early days of Richmond, situated in what was then the fashionable quarter of the town, it is a type of the city homes of Virginia gentlemen in the latter half of the eighteenth century. It was sold by Dr. Brockenbrough to James Morson and by him to his cousin, James Seddon, later Jefferson Davis' secretary of war. The city purchased it from Seddon and made it the executive mansion of the Confederacy. For a number of years following the war, when Richmond was under martial law, it was used as headquarters by General Weitzel of the Union Army, and when vacated by him it became a public school.

Several of the southern states have rooms in which they exhibit their particular relics. In the Missouri room, which used to be President Davis' private reception room, is an elaborate collection of the former president's personal effects, including wearing apparel, his cane and Bible and similar possessions. A calico dress belonging to Mrs. Davis which cost $1,000 illustrates the inflated prices of war times. In a case near it is a tiny jacket of her son Billy, one of the two children born to her in the White House.

The contents of the Virginia room, formerly used as a dining room, cover seventy pages of the printed catalogue. A few of its miscellanies are the table on which the ordinance of secession was signed, John Brown's pike and a portrait of Edmund Ruffin, who fired the first gun in the assault on Fort Sumter. Souvenirs of Lee, Jackson and Stuart are preserved in separate cases, the coat which Lee wore at Appomattox, his camp chest and saddlecloth and a lock of his hair, the Confederate flag which was wrapped about Jackson's casket, a handkerchief stained with his blood and the gold spurs given to him by the ladies of Baltimore, an ostrich plume worn by Stuart at Gettysburg, his battle flag, saddle and camp equipments being among them.

The salient features of the Kentucky room are a painting of General John C. Breckinridge and mementos of General J. H. Morgan, one of them the rope made of bedticking by which he escaped from the Ohio state penitentiary.

In the Arkansas room are silver spurs worn by General Albert Sidney Johnston at the time of his death and the flag carried throughout the war by the Ninth Arkansas Infantry.

The most beautiful relic in the whole building is the sword costing $1,000 in gold presented to General Sterling Price by the women of New Orleans. A portion of a flag carried by his division, donated by Mrs. Letitia Tyler Semple, daughter of President Tyler, is another souvenir of this distinguished officer.

Backache, Sideache, Diabetes, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, and all Kidney or Bladder troubles.

Read of how a whole family got cured by using these wonderful Pills.

Mr. Henry Hedrick, South Woodslee, Ont., says that Doan's Kidney Pills are far ahead of doctor's medicine.

He writes: "I have tried Doan's Kidney Pills and can honestly say that I never used anything better. I was so bad with my kidneys I could hardly raise myself up without help but Doan's Kidney Pills cured me.

"My wife was always complaining of a lame back, and they completely cured her.

"Our son was also troubled with his kidneys and as your pills had done us so much good we got him to try them and they cured him as well. They are far ahead of doctor's medicine, and I advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills for all sufferers from kidney trouble."

Clergyman Tells of Amusing Experiences Met With In Work.

"My first church," says a certain eloquent and greatly beloved Washington clergyman, "was in a small country town, and before I learned the hearts of my parishioners their ways used to upset my gravity at the most inopportune time. I shall never forget the first funeral at which I officiated. It was that of a man who had been stricken down in the prime of life, leaving a widow who had been an almost bedridden invalid for years. The services were conducted at the home of the deceased, and when I appeared I was told that the widow was too ill to leave her bed, so in order that she might hear my discourse I was asked to stand near a half open door which led into her bedroom. I had admired the dead man for his sturdy Christian qualities, and every word of the eulogy I delivered came straight from my heart. As I went on with my talk I suddenly remembered the widow and turned toward her door in order that she might hear better. I had not seen her, but as I looked toward her room my eyes fell upon her, and for full half a minute I was obliged to bury my face in my handkerchief. She was lying in bed, her arms in their white cambric sleeves stretched out on the counterpane, and on her head was a new mourning bonnet, with a long crape veil. She was not able to be dressed, but wear a widow's bonnet she could and did.

"My first wedding, too, was an event long to be remembered," went on the same clergyman. "It was performed at my house, and the bride and bridegroom were perfect strangers to me. She was fully six feet tall and broad in proportion, while his head reached scarcely to her shoulders as they entered the room. I learned afterward that she was extremely sensitive about the disparity in their sizes, and I had good reason to believe it, for as they came forward to take their places and the witnesses began to come in the bridegroom paused and moved a chair forward. The bride looked at me in great embarrassment. Then she seated herself resolutely.

"'I'm feeling faint,' said she. 'If you don't mind I think I'll take it sitting.'

"And with as much gravity as I could muster I married her sitting."

DR. F. L. PATTON.

His Intellectual and Spiritual Awakening Took Place in Canada.

A British subject, an old-time Toronto student, at the head of one of the greatest universities in the United States, was the spectacle presented by Princeton University during the presidency of Dr. Francis L. Patton. For fourteen years Dr. Patton held that distinguished position and by his brilliant gifts added to its distinction. A year of two ago he resigned his office as head of the university, and the other day he was installed as President of the theological seminary, to whose more congenial duties he will now devote himself.

Canadians are interested in the career of President Patton, and for good reason, says The Globe. He is one of the keenest thinkers, one of the most acute dialecticians on this continent, and he is not slow to confess the debt he owes to his academic career in Toronto.

He was born in Bermuda, and came to Toronto when a lad to continue his education. Knox College, then domiciled in the old gubernatorial residence, Elmsley Villa, where Central Presbyterian Church now stands, was the scene of his educational activities. He is remembered by the students of that day as a rare and restless youth, for whom the average professor could do next to nothing. But there was one man on the staff to whom hundreds owed their intellectual awakening—George Paxton Young. He it was who kindled the spiritual flame in the soul of the youth from Bermuda, and to him Dr. Patton still pays the homage of a real scholar to a great master.

Dr. Patton is an expert in philosophy and theology, and has never been for any long time far from the storm-centre of controversy. While yet a young man he led the attack upon the late Professor David Swing of Chicago, which resulted in Dr. Swing's withdrawal from the Presbyterian Church and his career as an independent preacher in the Central Music Hall. There may be, even within the Church, difference of opinion as to the value of Dr. Patton's service to religion or to the Church in that controversy. The conflict was that of the poet and the logician. Swing was a poet, whose creed could not be stated in the exact terms of logical formulations; Patton a logician, whose reasoning moved, as along the cold lines of Bessemer steel, from premise to conclusion. Such types of mind never can agree either as to the exact contents or as to the distinctive emphasis of their creeds.

Since 1881 Dr. Patton's chief work has been done at Princeton either in the university or the theological seminary. He was prominent in the celebrated Briggs controversy which separated Union Seminary, New York, from the Presbyterian Church, and, although the noise of controversy has happily been stilled in the Church of which he is an ornament, Dr. Patton has still a great opportunity for the exercise of his unique gifts in safeguarding evangelical Christianity on the one hand from invertebrate pietism, and on the other from bloodless naturalism. He stands for a definite, robust, positive faith, and in him dogmatic evangelicalism finds one of its chiefest defenders.

"NEVER JOIN US."

The Advice of a Prominent United States Divine to Canada.

Rev. J. A. Rankin, President of the Toronto Methodist Conference, recently said that, in view of recent events, Canada should pause for a while and consider her next steps. After full and mature consideration, the country should press forward undaunted towards the goal her God-inspired ambitions point to.

"I believe," said Mr. Rankin, "that North America will be the stage on which the final scenes in the drama of human life will be enacted. No one can estimate what proportions Canada will assume in years to come. Immigrants are pouring in on us. I hope they will not come too quickly. I believe God has kept locked the doors of this country until we can build up a proper national character. I was in New York recently, and I heard Dr. Tyler preach. After the service I went up and shook hands with the venerable divine. 'Oh, yes, I know Canada,' he exclaimed: 'I know commercial Montreal; Ottawa, the centre of legislation, and literary Toronto. And I advise you, never join us, my brother.' I told him we never would. We have no wish to take over the vast problems the people of the United States must solve, their 10,000,000 of negroes, for instance. Canada has problems of her own, which she should face now. If these problems are not solved now they will have to be a hundred years hence."

Robert Barr Tells It on Himself.

Robert Barr, the Canadian novelist, now living in London, tells a good joke at his own expense. Mr. S. R. Crockett is the subject of it. In Mr. Crockett's earlier years, he visited London, and was invited to lunch by a publisher, "of rather peculiar character," who at times imagined he was very poor, and became stringently economical. In Mr. Crockett's presence the publisher was to suggest the Hotel Cecil as the scene of the lunch, whereupon Mr. Barr was to propose they should go to one of the foreign restaurants in Soho, which would be much cheaper. The plot succeeded, but there is one Soho restaurant which is appallingly expensive, and it was there that Mr. Barr engaged a table. When the publisher saw the bill he turned ashen pale, scribbled on a leaf of his notebook, and passed it under the table to Mr. Barr, requesting him to "Pass £5 to me under the table, and keep on talking to Crockett so he won't see what you are doing." Mr Barr happened to have £5, and passed it. He thought at the time it was a good joke on the host, but now he has his "doubts," as the £5 has never been refunded.

Nose on Hand.

Doc Squires was a queer old "yarb" doctor of decidedly limited education who flourished in New England a good many years ago. One day some one said to him:

"See here, doc, have you any diploma?"

"Waal, no. I ain't got none ye hand just now, but I'm goin' to dig some soon as the ground thaws out in the spring."

There is an old saying about the folly of locking the stable after the horse is stolen, and from this may be taken a lesson in reference to the treatment of croup and colds.

Children Have Croup,

Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, and if there is at hand such a remedy as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to be given at the first indication of trouble, you can be positively sure of preventing serious results.

Especially people who are living at a distance from doctors and drug stores are running a terrible risk when they do not keep at hand effective treatment for the ills which are sure to attack some members of the family during cold seasons.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, we believe, the most satisfactory home treatment for ailments of this nature which can possibly be obtained.

Though wonderfully thorough and far-reaching in its effects on the whole system, it is pleasant to the taste, not injurious in any way, and equally effective for the use of old and young.

Some people who are otherwise very particular do not seem to realize the importance of using only the best treatment for coughs and colds, but accept whatever the dealer sees fit to give them. Be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and the results will be eminently satisfactory.

Mr. J. R. Robinson, 37 Bishop Street, Toronto, says: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine absolutely cured two of my children of croup. Both my wife and myself have utmost confidence in it. This remedy is no stranger in our home, having frequently been used before with the greatest success."

Mr. F. W. Bond, 90 Macdonald Street, Barrie, Ont., says: "Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing cough and croup. My little girl has been subject to the croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. W. Stafford, 88 Brussels Street, St. John, N.B., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for coughs and colds, and do not think there is a better remedy known than this. It seems to go directly to the diseased parts and brings relief at once. I have such faith in this remedy and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, that we always keep both these preparations in the house."

Pandora Range.

MEALS ON TIME.

If a dinner, which should be cooked with a light fire, is fixed for the hour of twelve, you can use a light fire and absolutely depend upon the "Pandora" to cook it by twelve—no need to waste fuel in keeping up an unnecessarily strong fire, "just to make sure." And the same accuracy can be depended upon if a strong fire is necessary.

The hot-air flues force all the heat around the oven twice and directly under every pot hole, which means that every atom of heat is used, and only smoke goes up the chimney; also facilitates the work of cooking.

"Pandora" Range is entirely new, and is equipped with every latest feature for cooking in a hurry, saving fuel, and lessening kitchen troubles generally.

"CALL OF THE RED GODS"

By ELSIE CARMICHAEL

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

The editor leaned back in his chair and sighed. The roar of the crowded street down below rose eternally, wearily. He got up and closed the window. Then he read the story again.

It brought great breaths of fragrant air into the stuffy room. He could see the open meadows and woodlands; the dashing, overflowing brooks, where the trout were rising; the throbbing new life bursting out into the sunshine. He felt it all keenly, for he had spent most of that happy boyhood of his up among the hills of Connecticut. Yes, the busiest editor in New York sat there dreaming, while below in the general office people with important business were being turned away by the dozen.

The story was signed simply M. B. Turner, with an address somewhere up in Connecticut. "I never saw any one catch the real spring feeling as that man does," the editor said to himself. "He must be a good angler and general sportsman."

Instead of sending the usual printed slip accepting the article, he picked up his pen and wrote the following note:

Mr. M. B. Turner:

Dear Sir—I have just read your manuscript, "The Call of the Red Gods," and I like it so much that I shall try to make room for it in the May number, which is already made up. I want to tell you personally how much I have enjoyed reading it and how it took me back to my boyhood home. I, too, am an angler by choice, though an editor by necessity. If you have other stories I should be glad to read them. Very truly yours,

JOHN MONTEITH.

The editor of the Twentieth Century was still young and genial, and his outer shell had not yet hardened.

Then he went back to his work and forgot the story. But sometimes in the midst of the rush and confusion of the great magazine office there came a faint, sweet scent of violets and damp, spring earth, and the roar of the city streets was confused with the rush and roar of the brooks overflowing with the spring floods. It was then that the story was uppermost in his mind.

One or two other manuscripts came from the same writer, but none was equal to the first.

"He ought to stick to nature," mused the editor one day in a leisure moment. "I wish I could see him and have a talk on the subject."

He wrote a little note to Mr. M. B. Turner and told him that when he was in town he should be glad to have him call at the office of the Twentieth Century. In reply came a little typewritten note thanking him for the invitation, but as M. B. Turner was setting out for a long summer trip through Canada he could not be in New York until the early fall. It made the office seem very hot and stuffy—the thought of that Canadian trip.

The last of August Monteith managed to get a two weeks' vacation. When he returned from the Maine woods the city looked dirtier and more dingy than ever. It was refreshing to find a note from Mr. Turner stating that he would call at the office on Wednesday morning at half past 10 if that would be convenient to the editor. That was Monteith's busiest day, but without hesitation he sent a cordial invitation to the young author to come at the specified time.

When he went to the office on Wednesday he had a strange feeling of expectation which he could not explain until he remembered that this was the day that the disciple of Isaak Walton was to call. Even while dictating letters to his typewriter his mind was wandering off to the woods and fields he loved so well. His thoughts were called back by Miss Jones and the cessation of the click of the typewriter. "I did not catch that last sentence, Mr. Monteith," she said, looking up; "something about pines and a brook."

Monteith sat up, and a flush deepened on his face even through his tan. "Oh, no!" he said politely. "You must have misunderstood me. But that will do for this morning, Miss Jones, thank you." He had left word downstairs that, although he was busy, he would see Mr. Turner if he called.

It was a quarter before 11 when the office boy, with a most perplexed and worried expression, threw open the door and announced, "Miss Turner."

Monteith rose to his feet. There on the threshold, hesitating, flushed, stood a slight girl in a trim tailor gown. The faint perfume of violets floated into the room.

"I am Miss Turner," she said. "I—I really should have told you before. I only realized it was quite wrong when they almost refused to let me see you and would not believe that I was the expected person."

She looked so much embarrassed that Monteith recovered himself sooner than he could have done otherwise in order to put her at ease. But he, too, flushed.

"I am very glad to see you, Miss Turner," he said, shaking hands with her in his cordial way. "So you are the author of 'The Call of the Red Gods?' You really must forgive me for being so surprised; but, you see, I had always pictured a man—a regular sportsman—and I cannot quite get adjusted to this change. Really, how could you have done it?" he finished abruptly.

"I am rather fond of fishing," she confessed rather apologetically. "I go out constantly with my brother, and so I thought I would try to write up one of my experiences. I was more surprised than any one else when you accepted it. I used my initials hoping that you would think I was a man. I was afraid you would not accept anything about fishing if you thought it was written by a girl."

Monteith laughed. "It does not matter who wrote it," he said. "It was delightful."

The girl's eyes sparkled. "I am so glad!" she said. "I have so wanted to write things that would bring all the freshness of outdoors into other people's lives."

"I did not know that girls ever cared much for that sort of thing, or if they did I fancied they were different from you—more masculine, I mean." He flushed and hesitated.

"Lots of girls care," she said, "only you don't know them. Now, I am never so happy as when fishing or tramping through the woods."

"That is true happiness," said Monteith thoughtfully, looking down into the crowded street. "There is nothing so much to be desired in our complex life of today as simplicity. The craving for excitement is killing the best that is in us, the childlike love of simple things. That is why I liked your story," he finished abruptly, turning back to her. He liked the way the hair curled about her face and the flush under the tanned cheek. She was the picture of health and strength and the joy of life.

He had forgotten that this was a business interview and that he had an important engagement at 11, but the girl remembered.

"I am afraid I am keeping you," she said anxiously. "I know how busy editors are."

"Oh, I quite forgot," he said, smiling, "that I had a business proposition for you. It's all mixed up now, however, because you are not a man. I was going to make you an offer to go through the fishing grounds of Canada and write them up. I'm sorry."

The girl leaned forward eagerly, and the color crept up into her face. "Oh!" she breathed softly. "Could I?"

"I am afraid you couldn't very well," he said doubtfully. "It would be a hard trip, and you couldn't go alone."

"I shouldn't mind the hardness. Perhaps I could persuade my brother to go with me. That reminds me," she said, smiling back at him. "You know my brother. He was in your class at Yale."

"What, Martin Turner?" he cried. "Why, we used to be great pals at college, but I haven't seen him for five years; lost track of him completely. So you are Mart's sister. I am glad."

He looked very boyish as he held out his hand. "We must be very good friends indeed," he cried enthusiastically. "In fact, we are very old friends already, because I remember you very well as a little girl when I visited Mart once years before."

"How very, very funny and delightful!" cried the girl, laughing a delicious, rippling laugh. "I must make Martin ask you to visit us again. We will take you fishing and tramping, and you need not even bring a dress coat. Will you come?"

"Will I come?" he said in a tone that sent the warm blood up into her cheeks. "Just try it and see!"

"Perhaps," he said as he held her hand a moment longer than necessary as she left him—"perhaps you will let me join you and Martin on your Canadian trip. Will you?"

"Perhaps," she said, turning away. Then she looked back with a smile as she entered the elevator. "If the red gods call you, you must go, you know."

Burdock Blood Bitters

DID MORE THAN SIX DOCTORS COULD DO.

Mrs. Thos. Newell, Argyle Sound, N.S., expresses her opinion of this wonderful blood remedy in the following letter:

"It is with the greatest gratitude that I can testify to the wonderful curative powers of Burdock Blood Bitters. For years my husband suffered terribly with Erysipelas and Salt Rheum. He was so bad at times that he could no sleep on account of the itching and burning. He had been under the care of six different doctors, but they failed to do him any good. I had read different times of the wonderful cures being made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so advised him to give it a trial. He did so, and after taking five bottles was cured without a doubt. I would strongly advise any person troubled with blood disorders to give B.B.B. a fair trial for I am sure it will cure them."

His Hobby.

A tourist passing through an English village churchyard was much astonished to see graven on a tombstone a list of feminine names as follows:

Mary I., Elisabeth, Mary II., Anne, Katharine I., Katharine II.

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed he to an old sexton who was digging a grave not far off. "I wasn't aware there were any queens buried in this part of the country, least of all in such an outlying place as this."

"No more there ain't as I knows on," replied the old fellow, scarcely looking up from his work.

"Well, then, in that case," queried the still surprised tourist, "how comes it that the names of several well known British queens are to be read on that stone yonder?"

"Ah, I see now!" quoth the old gravedigger as he raised himself up and glanced for a moment in the direction referred to. "Lots of your sort make that mistake; but, bless your soul, they bain't no queens of England! They be only the names o' old Billy Green's six wives, and that wor just a hobby o' his'n a-writin' on 'em out like that."

Two Little Stories of Corot.

We have any number of anecdotes about Corot. There is one which explains the artistic mind. He had reported to his employer how successfully he had sold a quantity of beautiful Lyons silks, and he expected some acknowledgment. On the contrary, the draper explained to him that there was no merit in disposing of excellent goods, as the real merit was to sell what was bad, whereupon Corot perceived that this was exactly what an artist cannot do, and he decided to quit commerce. He obtained his father's consent for his career as a painter on what was to him a large annuity of $300.

He was over thirty years old when he first began to paint, on the very day that his father freed him. He used to show that first picture of his to his friends, saying: "It is as young as ever. It marks the hour and the time of day when I did it, but Mlle. Rose, who worked at my mother's and who looked at me at my work, and I—where are we?"—John La Farge in McClure's.

The Practical Side of It.

"Father, have you read my ode 'To the Pines?'" asked the youthful poet.

"No, John, I haven't," was the old man's reply. "But you just take this here ax an' cut down a few of 'em. The pines are owin' me 'bout ten cords o' wood!"

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

TEARFUL OR CHEERFUL?

Whether a woman is tearful or cheerful depends not on what she has materially, but what she is physically. Many an indulgent husband is driven almost to despair by the tearful outburst of a wife who has "everything she wants." He wants to know what's the matter. But the wife can't tell. She only knows that she is depressed and despondent.

Such a condition is usually related to some form of womanly disease.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Mrs. Alice Adams, of Laboratory, Washington Co., Pa., says: "With many thanks I write to let you know how I am. I can say by God's help and your help I am well. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and two of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I can do all my work. I can't praise your medicine too highly. I will recommend your medicines as long as I live. If any one doubts this give them my address."

Keep the bowels healthy by the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

NEXT TO THE AMAZON.

Rio de la Plata and Its Vast Basin In South America.

The river system of the Plata, or of the Rio de la Plata, is one of the most wonderful in the world. The volume of the stream is greater than that of the Mississippi. It is surpassed only by the Amazon. It drains a basin more than half as big as the whole United States and one which in fertility of soil and salubrity of climate is only surpassed by the basin of the Mississippi, and it is a question whether it has not more cultivated territory. Upon it teas of millions of cattle and sheep are pastured, and its wheat fields compete with ours in the markets of Europe. It has the most extensive plains of the globe, and it is a vast expanse of fairly good land.

It is a white man's country. The basin of the Amazon is tropical and malarious. That of the Plate is largely in the temperate zone. Its northern parts are like Louisiana or Florida, and in the south the summer climate is as temperate as that of our middle states.

It is the Mississippi basin reversed, the source of its rivers being in the hot country, where there are coffee and sugar lands and rubber trees, and its mouth in the rather cool lands of Uruguay and the Argentine, noted for their fields of wheat and corn.

The vast basin is formed in the shape of a great horseshoe, with the opening toward the Atlantic, the Andes and the strip of highlands which crosses Brazil from the back and upper rim of the shoe, while the slightly sloping plains of Patagonia bound it on the south. In it are included the best of the Argentine, all of Uruguay and Paraguay and large portions of Brazil and Bolivia. The most of it has been built up by the Parana or Rio de la Plata system, and today these rivers are still at their great work of earth building.

Dresses on the Increase.

One consideration that is making our people impatient of hard work is the example of riches quickly made through the semigambling activities. Men whose fathers would have died rather than live on bread they had not earned find themselves willing to be taken care of by the government perhaps or by "the party" or by their more fortunate or industrious relatives. Such drones know nothing of the satisfaction of him who "scorns delights and lives laborious days," who can hold his head high and say he has earned his right to live and whose death is thus not a debt paid to nature, for he owes her nothing.

No Difference.

Jack—My darling, I want to tell you something. I have deceived you. I am not rich, but utterly penniless. Will it make any difference to you?

Ethel—Not the slightest, Jack.

"I am so glad, dearest. Are you quite sure it will make no difference to you?"

"Quite sure; I can marry old Mr. Moneybags."—London Standard.

Shouting Isn't Proving

In the matter of the so-called Catarrh Cures: Others prate and promise; we perform and prove.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder

is a powder put in the nostril, not in the mouth. It is not a remedy but the cure, and the healing effect is felt at once. The breath will come freely, filling the system with a new vigor. Colds and Catarrh are relieved, and headache fully cured in ten minutes.

Catarrh of twenty years' standing cured in a few days.

Hon. George Taylor, the well known politician, of Scranton, Pa., writes: Effect of Dr. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER can truly say was magical. First application cleared my head instantly. I used it according to directions, and I have not had the slightest symptoms since."

Dr. AGNEW'S LIVER PILLS make even a high liver a long liver. For dullness of the skin, eruptions, languor and bowel irregularities, every pill is as good as a physician, although they cost only ten cents for forty doses. 15

Mr. H. M Poussett & Co. report the following :—

New York, Nov. 17th, 1903.—Short interest disclosed in loan crowd was material help to Penna., some recent borrowing disclosed selling of highly professional character. People usually well informed deny that it was instigated by any interest opposed to policy of road. Tractions strong feature, and were bought by houses with political affiliations. In first hour market, generally, gave impression of narrowing, with no very clear conviction on part of any of recent active operators. Lack of public response was unsatisfactory feature, but there was some movement to cover shorts, especially among western operators. Sugar made notable improvement on lower Wall street, and was freely bought. Reports on Traction earnings were good.—P. C. & Co.

Body Found in Grand River.

Brantford, Nov. 17.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the dead body of John Thompson of Bright, was found in the Grand River. The body had evidently been in the water only a few hours, and it is believed that he either deliberately walked into the river or fell in by accident. He was a man of 70 years of age.

Diphtheria in Temagami.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—An outbreak of diphtheria is reported on the Temagami reserve. Mr. Loughrin, chief fire ranger, has just returned from the north. He says some of the smaller lakes are frozen over and nearly all the Indians have left the villages for their hunting operations.

To Acquire Mountain Drive.

Hamilton, Nov. 17.—The City Improvement Society called a meeting of citizens last night, in the Board of Trade rooms, to discuss the proposition to acquire a mountain drive. About fifty prominent citizens were present, and they endorsed the scheme.

Finlanders for Canada.

Quebec, Que., Nov. 17.—About 50 Finlanders arrived in port Sunday night on board the C.P.R. steamer Mount Temple. They are a hardy looking lot, and are bound for Haha Bay, Lake St. John district, where they will take up farming lands.

True Bill Against Senator.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 17.—The U. S. Grand Jury last night returned true bills against U. S. Senator Chas. H Dietrich and Postmaster Jacob Fisher of Hastings, Neb., charging them with bribery and conspiracy.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

It is understood in Rugby circles that All Saints' team will likely protest Dick O'Brien of the Rough Riders on the age limit clause.

Westmount won the intermediate championship of the O.R.F.U. by defeating Quebec on Saturday by 33 to 8. They will play either the Victorias of Toronto, or the Peterboroughs, for the Canadian championship if the winner will play them Quebec rules.—The Globe.

A full attendance of the Peterborough team is asked to turn out to practice both this evening and to-morrow evening in the new rink, at 7.30 o'clock.

rFom all appearances the Rugby Club's cheap excursion to Toronto on Saturday next will be largely attended by others, as well as Rugby enthusiasts and supporters of the team generally. The fare is certainly cheap, it being, as will be seen in an advertisement in another column of this issue, less than single fare, while the tickets are good until Monday night. The game is one which is arousing great interest in Toronto, as well as in Peterborough, and it is expected that the home team will have a good gate.

BASKET-BALL.

In the Y.M.C.A. League two very interesting games were played Saturday night, the first between the Athletics (Illue) and Harriers, resulted in a win for the latter, the score being 18-17. At full time the score was a tie of 17 als. Another minute was played and in that time the Harriers added two. The second game was taken by the Athletics (Whit)e, who won from the Brownies by 31-22. There was a good attendance and great interest was displayed in the games.

HOCKEY.

St. Peter's T. A. S. team will organize Friday evening. All friends and supporters of the club are asked to be on hand.

The "Sand Rats" of the Lock Works have organized with "Sunlight" Storts as manager. They are getting their rockers polished up and when ice forms they intend getting after the fire brigade team.

New York's ice skating season commenced on Saturday when the St. Nicholas rink was opened. The hockey tournaments will begin about the end of next month. The Athletic League and the Intercollegiate League will be the most important of the tournaments and the teams will begin practising at once. The meetings of the Intercollegiate League will be held at the St. Nicholas Rink next Thursday evening. This association is composed of Harvard, Yale, Princetown, Brown and Columbia. It is said that Cornell and Pennsylvania will apply for admission this year.

Picton is the first club to pay its fees. It has sent $10 and will play in the intermediate series, and wants to be clubbed with Port Hope, Peterborough, Cobourg and Belleville. Geo. E. Boulter is the secretary of the club.—Toronto News.

* * *

From present appearances this will be one of the best districts in the association. Already six clubs have organized, Picton, Belleville, Cobourg, Peterborough, Oshawa and Port Hope. This will give each team five home games and will not only meet with the approval of the hockey lovers of the different towns, but prove a benefit financially to the teams. The hockey played in this district has always been of the swiftest description and generally one of the teams is found in the finals. In 1901 Port Hope was in the finals with St. Georges; in 1902 Peterborough defeated Galt in the final game and captured the championship. Last season, had it not been for a little trouble which arose between Belleville and Marlboroughs, the chances are that Paris would have had to fight it out with the former for the honours. This year promises to be no exception as every team has a strong septette and will struggle hard to win in their district.—Port Hope Guide.

Cobourg is the only doubtful one. The players are anxious to enter the intermediate ranks, but the management do not think it advisable. They have some good men for their team and should make a fair showing. Should they enter a team their line-up will be something like this: McCullough, goal; Hopper and Turpin on the defence, with Bowe, McKinnon, Rhorebeck, Butler and several others to pick from. Surely this would make a strong enough team for senior company. Wake up, Cobourg, and get in the game.—Port Hope Times.

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Norwood, Nov. 16, 1903.

The sittings of the second Division Court will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 18th.

Miss Francis Pettigrew spent a couple of week visiting with her brother in Toronto.

Miss Boskin was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Blackwell, Tweed.

Mr. Geo. Stevens shipped last week two carloads of ashes to the United States.

The meeting of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance was held on Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian church. Officers for the coming year were elected and other business transacted. The Rev. T. A. Moore was to have been present, but for some reason, (which will, no doubt, be fully explained) failed to put in an appearance.

Mr. Ivison Tucker is visiting friends in Prince Edward County.

Mr. Ira Moore, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. C. J. Searight.

Mrs. T. Pearse and Mrs. Preston, of Toronto, were the guests at the home of Mr. J. B. Pearce for last week.

Mrs. J. Vandervert was the guest of friends in Peterborough last week.

Mr. Tilly, Model School Inspector, visited the school here last Friday.

Mr. C. A. Ghent, barrister, was in Peterborough on business on Friday.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. E. O. White, of Toronto, will deliver a lecture entitled the "Tower of London," on Friday the 27th of Nov., in the Indian River church. All are cordially invited. Mr. White is well known to the people of Indian River and suburbs as an untiring worker and a good public speaker. The proceeds are to go toward the Sunday School Library Fund.

One of our residents had a notable adventure while trying to capture a large owl one night last week. He, having heard a commotion among the chickens, seized the gun and started for the hen house, the pup close at his heels. The owl was roosting in a tree so he set the lantern on the ground, and having loaded the musket, brought it into position. The pup was making wild raids around and around the tree, when suddenly he knocked over the lantern. The gun was brought down and the owl—well, he got off without losing a single feather. The dog will not forget that night for many days, judging from the way his ribs are shattered.

Mr. Hilliard Nelson arrived home last Saturday from the back woods. He brought home a fine four-legged deer with him.

Our football team tackled the Norwood High School team again on Saturday. The boys came home quite oreat fallon, and announced the result as 2—0 in favour of Indian River's opponents.

The success of your cake depends upon the baking powder.

Reciprocity Resolution.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Fifty members of the Minnesota branch of the National Reciprocity League passed the following resolution at a meeting here on Saturday: "Resolved, that we should, for the mutual benefit of the people of Canada and this country, encourage closer and more harmonious relations, and for this purpose we ask such action by this Government and its representatives on the Joint High Commission as will bring about liberal and fair reciprocal trade relations with Canada."

Found While Raving.

New York, Nov. 17.—The Rev. Father Joseph Cirringione, rector of the Italian Church of the Immaculate Conception in Williamsbridge, a suburb of this city, who disappeared from his home under mysterious circumstances last Friday night, has been found. He was discovered by a policeman in East 51st street, raving wildly in Italian, and is now in a hospital.

Capt. Bernier Gives Up.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Capt. Bernier has about decided to abandon his North Pole expedition. He has not lost interest in it, but seven years of agitation has impaired his income so that he must needs protect his family. He spent all of the last session here and was greatly disappointed that the Government did not make a grant to the expenditure.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Shot and Killed.

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 16.—Irving McDonald, a young and wealthy business man, was shot and killed yesterday by J. F. Furlong, a traveling man, whose home is said to be in St. Louis. Furlong says his act was in self-defence, and that he shot only after he had been assaulted by four men, and when he believed his life was in danger.

Ships Wrecked in Algoa Bay.

Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, Nov. 16.—The British ship Arranmore, the British barque County of Pembroke, the Italian barque San Atonio, the Norwegian barque Two Brothers, and the Norwegian barque Wayfarer have been driven ashore and wrecked in a gale at Algoa Bay. Another vessel, the Littoo, was dismantled at the same time.

Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of season affects pianos, as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years' experience, attends to all orders left at Mr H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

—Now for horse and wagon covers. Thorough protection ensured from wet and stormy weather by using Kingscote's Waterproof Covers, made by Alf. Kingscote, Water street.

THE CITIZEN AND ART.

Canadian Side of Life That is of the Machine Order.

Then there is the further question of the art side of the citizen's life. The houses of the people are too much alike, both the exteriors and the interiors. Architecture in the better sense is almost unknown except in a few districts in the cities and at some of the summer resorts. Ornamentation is usually heavy tragedy. The more money a man has to spend on a house the more ornamentation he tries to secure and the greater the confusion that reigns. It is so with the interiors. The wood is painted and grained by universal custom; the wallpaper is put on in the same way; the carpets are all alike; the furniture of Mr. Smith's house is the same as that of Mr. Jones; the pictures and the bric-a-brac are the same; lace curtains are omnipresent; the lamps and candelabra are of the one type. There is no individuality. One gets the impression that every citizen had bought his house furnishings at the same departmental store. One house furnisher in Toronto advertises: "You get married; we furnish the home." Heaven help the young couple who start housekeeping on that plan! Far better the rude benches and tables and beds which our fathers hewed out with the axe.

Less furniture and better should be our motto. Our houses are overloaded with machine-made trash. Better a bare floor and a few home-made rugs than the low-grade atrocity which the farmer calls "bought-ch carpet." Better a pine box covered with chints than the inartistic thing found in most bed-rooms and labelled "a dresser."

The accumulation of house furnishings should be the accumulation of treasures, of articles which represent ideas, of ornaments which have associations and lessons, of rooms which hold blessed and hallowing recollections for those who furnished them and live in them. Surely the home is more than a place where eating and sleeping are the chief occupations. Forty-nine cent pictures and twenty-four cent books cannot gather halos.—November Canadian Magazine.

MR. TAIT IN AUSTRALIA.

Finds Difficulty in the Management of the Government Railways.

Mr. Thomas Tait, formerly Manager of Transportation of the C.P.R., is having a hard work to run the Government railways of Victoria, Australia, on business lines. Under the old regime, the time tables were arranged so that no member of the great general public, be he ever so humble, should be inconvenienced in the slightest degree. It made little difference whether half the suburban trains during the day were run at a loss, so long as no one had to wait more than two or three minutes on the station platforms. Mr. Tait has changed all this, and has cut down the mileage so that it just meets the requirements, and has sacrificed to economy the convenience of the occasional traveler. On the country lines he has instituted similar reforms. Some of the branch lines which have been long run at a hopeless loss, have been abandoned altogether. This naturally raised a howl from the district, and county councillors have waxed eloquent over Mr. Tait's ignorance of the first principles that should govern a Government railway system. But in spite of these and other reforms the deficits continue. According to reports in The Melbourne Argus, the receipts from July 1 to Sept. 18 showed a decrease of more than £50,000, as compared with a similar period of last year, which was bad enough. A large part of this falling-off is perhaps due to the fact that there is now no importation of foreign fodder, and no transshipping of starving stocks as there was last year.

Boys With Red Hair.

A Toronto manufacturer says he has tried dark-haired boys and has tried fair-haired boys, but has concluded that the best boy of all is the red-haired boy. The red-haired boy is a better worker. His intelligence is similar to the color of his hair in its brightness. His movements are quicker, and, being warm-blooded, he is less susceptible to that tired feeling.

The one drawback to the red-haired boy is that he is not common, and the manufacturer who advertised for one was several days before securing what he wanted.

The ad. read: "Wanted in the office and factory, a red-headed boy, twelve or fourteen, $8 to start, advancement soon."

The far-reaching effects of this discovery can best be realized by imagining the state of affairs when the fact is generally acknowledged and acted upon. Manufacturers will advertise their goods as superior—made by red-haired people. Enlightened immigration officials will give special bonuses to red-haired immigrants. The labor situation will be more complicated than ever. The fortunate possessors of red heads will form trade unions which will constitute a new aristocracy of labor. Patent medicine men will invent processes for dying the hair a golden hue, and the manufacturers will have to invent a means of testing the reliability of the color of every applicant's hair. The greatest blessing that can befall any family will be the birth of a red-headed boy.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c

140 Ladies' and Children's Short and Three-quarter Length Winter Coats, black, grey and other colours; will be sold at ONE-THIRD regular prices.

MOUNT PLEASANT, ONT.

CHICAGO NOW FACES A BITTER PROSPECT.

South Side Street Car Men Vote for a Wide Strike.

This if Arbitration, Which Mayor Harrison is Optimistic About, Fails in the Windy City—A Big Blaze of Bedding at a Street Corner—Railway Company is Avoiding Arbitration—Move to End Strike.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(8 a.m. bulletin.)—Arbitration failing in the present crisis thrust upon Chicago by the South Side street car men, eight divisions of organized trainmen on all the lines in Chicago, South Chicago and the Calumet region, have voted to plunge the community into the greatest street railway strike in the city's history.

It is expected such action will end in the calling of a general strike against the Union Traction Company all the elevated companies, the South Chicago Electric Company, the Calumet Electric Company, the Chicago General Electric Company, the Suburban Electric Company and the Chicago Electric Traction Company.

Peace Negotiations.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Peace negotiations between the management of the Chicago City Railway and its striking employes were begun yesterday and the indications are that both parties will agree to arbitration. After a conference between Mayor Harrison, the officials of the company and the special aldermanic commission and President Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes and his legal advisers, Mayor Harrison declared that the outlook for a settlement of the strike was decidedly flattering.

While the City Council Tuesday night was engaged in a debate over the relations of the police to the City Railway strike, the aldermen were ordering that Mayor Harrison's authority for placing policemen on the cars be explained by the Corporation Counsel, and while finally the Council was voting its confidence in the Mayor, violence became general along the Wentworth avenue line.

Hard Treatment of Wounded Man.

One non-union car man who ventured out of the company's barns was set upon and beaten, thrown in a box car and the door locked. The car was part of a departing freight train. He was carried away, his wound not being dressed.

A wagon load of bedding intended for the barn barracks was saturated with oil and burned at the 80th street corner. A shot was fired into the Englewood police station from the darkness, the bullet narrowly missing a desk sergeant's head. The Cottage Grove cable system was put in operation yesterday morning with five trains under police protection and the running of the Wentworth avenue line was continued. One thousand policemen were distributed along Cottage Grove and 300 on Wentworth avenue.

Chief of Police O'Neil issued an order yesterday instructing his officers to board United States mail wagons if the drivers blockaded street car tracks and arrest the drivers, after the mail had been delivered at the postoffice. On occasions like a street railway strike, however, the chief says, the mail drivers are not exempt from the operation of the city ordinances.

Avoiding Arbitration.

The State Board of Arbitration received a letter yesterday from Counsel Bliss of the Railway Company, diplomatically avoiding the question of arbitration. Governor Yates was informed. The Executive Board of the Street Railwaymen's Union decided to proceed against the Chicago City Railway in the courts to compel the company to provide vestibules for all its employes, according to a law passed during the last session of the legislature.

Another move, said to have been made with a view to ending the strike, was made when George F. Harding, jr., in a supplemental and amended bill, filed before Judge Holdom, asked that receivers be appointed immediately for the Chicago City Railway, and said a receiver shall proceed at once to operate the road under the old agreements with the strikers, or settle present troubles by arbitration. Mr. Harding alleges that the railway has been operating since last June without a franchise.

Will Be Broken To-Day.

Pueblo, Col., Nov. 18.—Officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company asserted yesterday that the Colorado miners' strike will be broken to-day by men from the steel and iron works, who have been laid off. These men are leaving on every train for the mines.

A SHORT LIVED STRIKE.

C. P. R. Telegraph Operators in and Out Again.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 18.—The commercial telegraphers of the C. P. R. here, numbering about 40, went on strike yesterday at noon. The company Monday discharged four of their oldest operators, claiming that a reduction of the staff was necessary, but the men claim it was because the four were principals in organizing their union. They presented an ultimatum to Superintendent Jenkins yesterday morning to the effect that unless the four men were reinstated by noon they would all quit work, which they did. At a meeting between the strikers' delegation and Superintendent Jenkins during the afternoon the superintendent agreed to take them all back without prejudice, and at 4 p.m. the staff were all back at work.

Girls Struck and Went Back.

Kingston, Nov. 18.—Yesterday morning twenty young women employed at the knitting mill went on strike owing, they claimed, to undue interference by a foreman. The matter was fixed up, and the girls returned to work.

THEY MAY BE ANY DAY

Dominion Elections According to the General Impression.

BUT PREMIER GIVES NO SIGN

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine Speaks. But Cannot Tell When the Elections Will Be Held—The Minister Advised Liberals to Be Ready Whether the Date Was Shortly Set or Delayed for Some Months.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The Globe says: The party bugles are blowing. There is a general impression that the Dominion Parliament may be dissolved any day and the verdict of the people asked upon the acts of the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Premier himself gives no sign. An eager politician, returned from the capital, is reported as saying that Sir Wilfrid, when asked if the election would be postponed until after another session, replied: "There is only one man in Canada who knows when the election will take place and he will not tell."

Meanwhile both sides are organizing the new constituencies as mapped out by the Redistribution Act and preparing for the campaign.

MR. PREFONTAINE SPEAKS.

Cannot Tell When the Dominion Elections Will Be Held.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—"When will the elections take place? That is a delicate question. Will they be held before or after the next session? As yet we do not know. The question is being studied by the Ministry, but not yet decided. However, I have to ask you to be ready supposing they take place in six or seven weeks, or in six months' time."

The above declaration was made last evening before the Liberal Club of Delormier by Hon. Raymond Prefontaine. The Minister of Marine also added that the Government had not yet reached the conclusion that it would be advisable to change the Fielding tariff of 1897.

THE NORTH RENFREW VACANCY.

Ottawa Free Press Says the Election Will Be Over in Six Weeks.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—The Free Press, says:

"The writ for the North Renfrew election will be issued next week, and the election itself will take place within six weeks. This information comes from the best source, and of its reliability there can be no doubt."

Referring to the newspaper attacks on the Premier for delaying the election, The Free Press says:

"The reply to all this is the fixing the date of the election at a time when the convenience of the electors will be best met—not earlier or later. The decision of the Premier to put an end to the delay in filling the North Renfrew vacancy will be accepted by the liberal and progressive element in the county, and by the friends and supporters of good government, as an evidence that he has put his hand to the plow and that he means to go forward. Upon this ground he may firmly set his foot and appeal to the electors of North Renfrew with confidence as to the issue. The answer will be given when the lumbermen come down from their shanties, when the Christmas holidays are with us."

Four Cars Wrecked.

Owen Sound, Nov. 18.—Yesterday morning there was a smash up at the north end of the C.P.R. yards. No lives were lost. A freight coming into the yard ran into two cars loaded with marl, which had been switched on the main line. The incoming freight could not hold the train on account of a wet rail. Four cars were smashed and the engine wrecked.

CANADIAN BANKS.

In Tuesday's daily edition a paragraph which made pleasant reading was that relating to the standing of the Bank of Montreal. Such a condition as disclosed is intrinsically something to be proud of—that we have in Canada a banking institution founded by Canadians, developed by Canadian enterprise till it has taken rank in the same class as the Bank of England—one of the strongest banks in existence, with a reserve fund of $10,000,000 equal, if not greater than that of any bank in the world, not even excepting perhaps the Bank of England. The facts revealed in the article referred to are important as showing incidentally that the standing of the Bank of Montreal, taken in connection with the solid standing of all the other chartered banks of Canada, emphasizes the superiority of the Canadian banking system over that of the United States. There the system, if it may be called a system, consists roughly and generally stated, in the main, of a series of private banks, generally comparable in extent of operation and business with the local branches of our chartered banks. The recent sad experiences of depositors in Canadian private banks has served to show the infinitely superior reliability of our chartered banks as regards the safety of the interests of patrons. At the same time it shows the weakness — by contrast with our chartered banks — of the banks of the United States, where each bank has to stand alone, so that a little run or a period of depression in the locality in which it operates, may suffice to put it out of business, with great resultant loss to patrons and depositors. On the contrary a branch, say of the Bank of Montreal, though situated in the most retired village of the country, has at its command all the stability and resources of the parent bank, represented by a capital of fourteen millions and a reserve fund of ten millions, so that no local depression in business, no local run can have the slightest effect upon the stability of the local branch. The same applies to other chartered banks, and we have in the four local bank branches a backing for the security of patrons and depositors of an aggregate paid up capital of $29,000,000. Thus, as stated, no local depression, no local run, can have the slightest effect upon the stability of the local branch; and while one branch of a chartered bank may have a light business from local depression, the numerous other branches throughout the Dominion may be doing a thriving business, so that the general prosperity of the bank continues. In the United States, a comparatively trifling local cause may plunge the practically private bank into disastrous trouble. Thus one failure may affect another, and that another, so that a condition of panic obtains, with wide-spread disastrous results. The superior seaworthiness, to use a nautical phrase, of the Canadian banking system, enables it to ride out safely financial storms of a severity that would strew the financial shores of the United States with wreckage of the practically private banks that constitute their banking system. This, among other reasons, probably accounts for the admitted fact that periods of depression in the United States are, perhaps, more deeply felt than a similar visitation would be felt in Canada. The superiority of the Canadian banking system over that of the United States, is admitted by the latter, but its adoption would lead to so great a financial upheaval that there is a natural hesitancy in taking action. Meanwhile Canada congratulates itself that its great financial interests are in such safe hands as those of our chartered banks.

The despatches report that France has given official recognition to the revolutionary Republic of Panama. France should be careful So swift are the changes of government ,or dictatorship, in Central and South America, that there is danger of recognizing the wrong republic, or the wrong dictator.

CHECKS TO BUSINESS.

(Montreal Witness.)

Newspapers are anything but cheerful reading these days, with their increasing record of shutdowns, strikes, lockouts and reductions of wages, (in the States especially) Many of the shutdowns, reductions of stuffs and wages have been caused by actual falling-off in trade, or by the financial straits supervening on recent expansion. But the shutdown in the boot and shoe trade in Quebec on Saturday, appears to have been caused by the failure of the men to carry out the findings of a board of arbitration. Arising out of previous labour troubles, a claims committee was appointed in 1901, as well as a conciliation committee. The claims committee was composed of three union men and the conciliation committee was composed of three manufacturers, the understanding being that these two committees should try to arrange any differences between the employees and employers. If these two committees weree unable to come to an agreement it was further arranged that either side should submit their differences to an arbitration commission, composed of three commissioners, one to be named by the manufacturers, one by the unions, and one by the Chief Justice. Such an arbitration commission was appointed recently on complaint of the Leather Cutters' Union ,who wanted their work changed in a way which would increase their pay. The arbitration commission decided against the Leathers Cutters Union, but in spite of that, five of the machinists left their work on the last day of October, dislocating the work of one factory. Up to this time the machinists had been working under an agreement containing a preferential clause, giving a preference to union machinists. The machinists having failed to keep their agreement in other respects, however, the manufacturers complained to the arbitration commission requesting the commissioners to cancel the preferential clause. On Friday last the commissioners rendered their decision in favour of the manufacturers, condemned the Shoe Machinists Fraternity to pay the costs of the proceedings and declared that the manufacturers were justified in asking for the cancelling of the preferential clause in favour of union men. The refusal of the men to stand by their agreement put the manufacturers wholly at their mercy, and the members of the Quebec Shoe Manufacturers' Association thought it necessary to issue a notice suspending operations in their several factories until such time as arrangements can be made with a sufficient number of machinists to run a set of machines in each factory, so as to allow "the manufacture of shoes to be completed in its entirety for a period of time which will warrant them in resuming operations, and so enable them to fulfil the contracts they have undertaken." This means that union labour for the future will be taken on upon an equality with non-union labour, and not in preference to it, as has been the case for some time past. The shut-down affects thousands of people directly, and many more indirectly. The boot and shoe trade at the present time is the greatest industry of Quebec. If it were to decline to the vanishing point because of labour troubles, a precedent could be found for such a melancholy result in the way that the longshoremen's strikes of a past day drove away the shipping trade. It is poor business to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

Misses Agnes and Lillian Campbell spent Saturday and Sunday in Peterborough.

Mrs. W. Eaton of Norwood, is with her niece here, Miss Maud Eason.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shearer, of the 6th line, entertained a large number of friends on Wednesday evening at a dance in their handsome new home. A number from the village were among the guests.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. T. Walsh of Lang, is again quite ill.

Mr. Will Clarry is home again from the west where he has spent a profitable summer. He looks hale and well and speaks in glowing terms of that section.

Hockey is again to the fore. On Saturday evening a most enthusiastic meeting of the club was held and officers elected. There is no doubt but that a good team will be placed in the running. The officers of the season are:

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Shaw.
Pres.—Dr. McWilliams.
Sec.-Treasurer—Fred Eason
Vice-Pres.—Gus Bolin.
Committee — Jim Quinn, Bert Edwards, Gordon Laing.
Captain—Jas. Dickson.
Representative to T.V.H.L. — Dr. McWilliams and T. J. Wallace.
Manager — Dr. McWilliams.

At a recent meeting of the Curling Club the following officers were elected:

President — Robert McOrmus.
Vice-President—Will Reid.
Sec.-Treasurer — Dr. McWilliams.
Representative to O. C. A. — J. S. Russell and Dr. Shaw.

A communication from the Peterborough clubs advocating a scheme to promote more interest with neighbouring clubs was highly commended.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Deer Bay hunting parties returned home last Saturday evening. They were very successful, at least one of them was. The party consisted of Jim McGuire, Thos. Fulton, Will Long, John Coons and Will Britton. They succeeded in getting four fine deer. The party composed of Robert Tedford, John Edmison and John Tedford of Burleigh, did not succeed in getting any, but no doubt they can tell as good stories as the rest of them.

There is a rumour that the directors of the cheese factory are going to give an oyster supper this fall. Some people say that oysters are not healthy but the general opinion is that they are conducive to health.

Mr. Alvin Johnston is spending a few days at his home. Alvin is a fireman on the G.T.R., with a run from Toronto to Cobourg. All his old friends are pleased to see him looking so well.

Mr. Harry Irwin put up a new horse stable last week.

Miss Jean Smith spent last Sunday at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Crothers of Toronto are visiting at Mr. Jos Stevenson's.

Mr. N. Smith returned home from Otonabee last Saturday, after an extended visit.

HEALY'S ADVICE TO REDMOND.

Says Sale of Wexford Estates is Socialistic Too Much.

Dunralk, Ireland, Nov. 18.—Timothy M. Healy Monday urged the landlords to make the best possible bargains with their Irish tenants within the next two or three years, and not to be too exorbitant. Otherwise the London financiers who had to find money for the carrying out of the land purchase act might not be so keen. There was also the likelihood of the Liberals, who opposed the Land Purchase Act in Parliament, coming into office.

Mr. Healy dwelt at considerable length on the sale of the Wexford estates of John Redmond, the Irish Parliamentary leader, contending that he was getting far too much for his land, and advising him to discontinue the sale on the present terms. Mr. Redmond's services to Ireland could not be measured even by a far greater sum than the profits of this transaction, but the reward should come as a voluntary testimonial from the Irish people.

WELCOMED TO ENGLAND.

King and Queen of Italy Received by Prince of Wales and Dined at Night With the King.

London, Nov. 18.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy reached Portsmouth on the royal yacht shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday morning amidst salutes from the ships and land batteries. The Prince of Wales went aboard and welcomed Their Majesties on behalf of King Edward and the nation.

A torpedo flotilla formed an escort for the royal yacht through the home fleet lying at Spithead. Guards of honor and bluejackets and marines lined the jetty and a band played the Italian national anthem as the yacht steamed alongside.

The Prince of Wales was met at the top of the gangway by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena. After greetings had been exchanged the naval and military commanders were introduced to Their Majesties, and the Mayor of Portsmouth presented an address to King Victor Emmanuel, who briefly expressed his thanks.

After luncheon on board the yacht King Victor Emmanuel inspected the guards of honor and the naval cadets from the College at Osborne, after which the party started for Windsor.

The royal personages dined together at Windsor last night.

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

A Barge Goes Ashore.

Tobermoray, Nov. 18.—Monday during a heavy gale and snowstorm the steam barge Newaygo of Port Huron, Mich., went ashore on Devil Island Shoal, five miles from here. Her consort, the Checotah of Port Huron, was towed here yesterday morning by tugs of this place. The Checotah is not damaged. The Newaygo is lying in shallow water in an exposed place. The crews of both boats are safe.

Saluted Panama Flag.

Panama, Nov. 18.—At 8.30 yesterday morning, the United States flagship Marblehead hoisted the flag of the Republic of Panama and saluted it with 21 guns. The Tres Noviembre, a gunboat of Panama, displaying the American flag, answered the salute. The shore batteries also fired a salute of 21 guns, which the Marblehead answered.

A Very Good Rule.

It is well known that the majority of human ills arise from constipation of the bowels and on this account many people make it a rule to see that the bowels move once every day. If you are subject to constipation you can be cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These Pills not only make the bowels active, but by their action on the liver ensure a regular flow of bile, nature's own cathartic and so remove the cause of serious disease.

Raise Lower Death Rate.

London, Nov. 16.—The recent heavy rains which wrought so much disaster brought blessings as well. They had the effect of cleansing the streets and washing out the sewers in a way that has improved the health of the metropolis and reduced the death rate.

Royalty Leaves for London.

Rome, Nov. 16.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena left for London yesterday.

ROSEBERY WELCOME

THE BRITISH FISCAL FIGHT.

Preferential Treatment of the Colonies Not a New Proposal—England Not in a Decrepit Condition According to Her Oldest Railway Manager—Edgar Wallace's Strong Words Regarding City of Montreal.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman addressed a large Liberal meeting at Frome yesterday. Its significant point was the welcome accorded the announcement of Lord Rosebery's expressed intention of returning to public life. Sir Henry said: "It is with cordial satisfaction that every man among us will hear that Lord Rosebery—(loud and prolonged cheers)—is ready to share the labors and responsibilities of public life. He will have the active co-operation of a united Liberal party. This, indeed, is good news to all true Liberals, who welcome his appeal for unity." The speaker, wooing Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, remarked that those defending fiscal and commercial freedom want his aid and promise to forego all about the sugar convention. Chamberlain and Balfour he compared to street musicians. So loud is the former's coronet we do not hear the latter's concertina, but the fence given the concertina player is shared by the cornet player.

Scotsman Eulogizes Foster.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—The Scotsman is delighted with Hon. George E. Foster. It says he answers Rosebery and Asquith for saying Canada derides the new links in the political commercial union with England. It eulogizes his racy, vigorous, western phraseology, get up, hustle, his ability to dog down to the foundation of things and form no snap judgment. It says: "Mr. Foster brushes roughly aside the pious prayers and theories spun in the closet away from the busy world and advises refuge in a practical tariff as the lesson Canada hammered out in her own experience."

Labor Leader for Joe.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—Senator Glassey, founder of the Australian labor party, and former leader of the Northumbrian miners, strongly supports Chamberlain's policy, provided Great Britain grants an adjustable preference to the Australian raw material, including wool. He says: "My old Northumbrian mates, startled by the abruptness of the new proposals, will find on second thoughts that England cannot hold the colonial trade without a secured preferential market."

What England Lacks.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—A British manufacturer, replying to R. B. Haldane, M.P., says Englishmen are no fools, and that the scientific processes used to boom German trade all originated in England. The handicap of the English is lack of a protective tariff to give them the command of sufficient capital to build on the most modern lines.

Council Delay.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—The Financial News discussing the New Zealand preference, says the members of her Parliament counsel delay for the same reason as a large section of the Canadian people in order to see what the Motherland will do in return.

Not a New Proposal.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—The Imperial Tariff Committee has issued a leaflet on Chamberlain's fiscal policy by Professor Wallace of the Workingmen's College, London, in which he says: "A study of tariff history shows that the preferential treatment of colonial produce always was a prominent feature of our tariffs up to 1846; therefore, it is not a new proposal."

Not Decrepit.

London, Nov. 18.—(C.A.P.)—Henry Tennant, the oldest railway manager in England, does not believe the country is in a decrepit condition The population increased 10 per cent. in the last ten years to 1901, during which time the railway companies spent £250,000,000 in improvements.

Worst in the World.

London, Nov. 18.—(C. A. P.)—Edgar Wallace, writing to The Daily Mail, compares Montreal to a beautiful woman down at the heels. "It is the worst depraved city in the world, and the stamp of America is on the town and one-third of the people."

Who Follow the Duke?

London, Nov. 18.—The Free Fooders were startled again yesterday by the question: "Where is the official list of Devonshire's supporters?" The Queen's Hall demonstration is without the name of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. A hurried enquiry revealed the fact from the secretary that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has not yet accepted the invitation.

Futures Hold Much for Canada.

London, Nov. 18.—Sir William Holland, referring to his recent visit to Canada, has said it was morally certain that, under the able guidance of men of character and enterprise he had the honor to meet, Canada was destined to play in the future a bigger role than we have hitherto seen in the development of our common Empire.

Millions in Diamonds.

Kimberley, South Africa, Nov. 18—At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the De Beers Consolidated Mines it was reported that the diamonds produced during the year realized $26,205,860, with a profit of $11,511,490.

Wool Gathering.

Willie—Pa, when you say a man's "wool gathering" it means he's lazy, don't it?

Pa—Not necessarily. He may be gathering the wool off the lambs in Wall street.

Sheep used as beasts of burden in north India carry twenty pounds weight apiece.

FEARS FOR CREW'S SAFETY.

Steamer Tacoma of the Gilchrist Fleet Reported to Have Been Burned.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—A message from Port Huron received after midnight said it is believed the steamer reported to have been burned in Lake Huron, above Sand Beach, Saturday, was the Tacoma of the Gilchrist fleet. Nothing has yet been heard from the crew of the Tacoma. There was a big sea on Lake Huron Saturday, and there is a possibility that the crew did not get ashore. If they did reach land they may be in some out-of-the-way place and unable at this time to communicate with their owners or report the loss.

W. J. Bryan in England.

London, Nov. 16.—(C.A.P.)—W. J. Bryan, ex-Democratic candidate for the Presidency, who arrives in England on Wednesday, will be re-elected a temporary member of the National Liberal Club, London.

Germany Recognizes Panama.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—Germany's Consular representatives at Panama have opened business relations with the new Government, which action Germany subsequently sanctioned.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT CATARRH WHEREVER LOCATED IN THE SYSTEM.

MISS BEATRIX CALLAM.

Interesting Letters from Catholic Institutions.

THE SISTERS GOOD WORK.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs. With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard.

A letter recently received by Dr. Hartman from Sister Beatrix B. Callam, 410 W. Thirtieth street, New York, reads as follows:

"I cannot say too much in praise of Peruna. Eight bottles of it cured me of catarrh of the lungs of four years' standing, and I would not have been without it for anything. It helped several Sisters of coughs and colds and I have yet to find one case of catarrh that it does not cure."—Sister Beatrix.

From a Catholic Institution in Central Ohio comes the following recommend from the Sister Superior.

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which frustened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

Another recommend from a Catholic institution of one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

All Over the United States Use Pe-ru-na for Catarrh.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in the South west reads as follows:

A Prominent Mother Superior Says:

"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it. For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado, hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna. I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhea. I have not a doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters but will be furnished upon request.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body.

A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

MORE "'GALL' AND BITTERNESS."

The Review returns to its attack on Mr. Stratton in connection with the license matter of Mr. Croft, and out-Herod's Herod in its abuse of Mr. Stratton and in the charitable imputation of motives. It claims that Mr. Jackson's letter is not the explanation of its charge. Here is a choice morsel from the Review's diatribe against Mr. Stratton, culled from yesterday's columns of that virtuous champion of temperance reform:—

"Mr Stratton need not hope to divert attention from our well-founded censure, by obtaining a denial of something with which we did not charge him. People in Peterborough know the facts of his dastardly treatment of Mr. Croft to well to be deluded by this trick. What we condemned was the corrupt and cowardly conduct of Mr. Stratton in depriving Mr. Croft of his license for a year and destroying his business because he was an outspoken Conservative and would not bow down before his brutal oppressor. This was the conduct of which we spoke in fitting terms, and not the sale of the house which took place several years later and with which there was no fault to find. Mr. Croft was indeed trying to sell out at the time, having no wish to continue in a business where he would be at the mercy of a vindictive and unscrupulous tyrant."

The failure of our contemporary to make clear in its first article of misrepresentation the specific instance of Mr. Croft's "persecution," it had in mind or imagination, gives us the trouble of again dealing in a similarly convincing manner with its second misrepresentation as quoted above, as was done in regard to the first. The reason Mr. Croft's license was not issued in 1894, if that is the occasion the Review refers to, was simply this: A bylaw of the Town Council demanded a reduction of the number of licenses, and some licenses had to be dealt with. Mr. Croft's license was not withheld for the reason the Review urges. His license was withheld largely in deference to public sentiment. It will be remembered that there was no little public comment made as to the impropriety of a hotel conducting a business on church property. Letters were written to the press and it was urged among other things that it did not seem right that "salvation should be preached on the top of the hill and damnation dispensed at the bottom of it." These circumstances, taken in connection with the fact that a license had to be cut off influenced the withholding of Mr. Croft's license. If any other license had been at that time taken off, the Review would have adopted precisely the same line of attack, or, if that specific line were not taken, some other would have been pursued in order to try to discredit Mr. Stratton and the Government. Right or wrong, Mr. Stratton and the Government would have been "wrong" in the Review's eyes. Our contemporary represents the wolf in the fable of the wolf and the lamb — it will find fault with the administration of the license law in any event — if licenses are reduced, there is a howl, if a license inspector is dismissed, because of lax performance of duty, a howl is is raised, and a hypocritical claim is made that the interests of moral reform are being sacrificed. There is no pleasing the Review, or its journalistic kind, and it is not worth while trying to do so. Everybody knows how earnest, sincere, disinterested and deep that interest is in moral and temperance reform, and everybody knows that the degree of moral reform which the efforts of the moral mentor of the Review will bring about, will not precipitate the millennium with any startling degree of suddenness.

ABUNDANT WATER IN BACK LAKES

Is Report of Superintending Engineer R. B. Rogers.

CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION

Held Important Meeting This Morning A Deputation to Visit Toronto—Discussion on Navigation and Power.

The Trent Valley Water Conservation Association held a most interesting meeting this morning in the Town Clerk's office, at which a number of very interesting topics in connection with the conservation of water in the Trent Valley System were discussed, the immediate result of which is that a deputation representing the Association will wait upon the Ontario Government to ask that some action be taken looking to an amalgamation of the present dual jurisdiction of the two Governments whereby the control of the waters may be under one head. Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, was at the meeting and gave a most interesting report on his recent trip through the upper lakes.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor Roger, E. J. Toker, E. G. Patterson, J. O. Shook, Geo. Edmison, D. Gilmour, Trenton; W. G. Ferguson, John Carnegie, J. M. Kilbourn, J. H. McClellan, A. A. Stevenson, secretary; Mr. Paint, Mr. Wasson and W. H. Meldrum.

Mr. D. Gilmour, of Trenton, was asked to preside at the meeting.

On motion of Mr. Kilbourn, seconded by Mr. Ferguson, a request was sent to Mr. R. B. Rogers, asking him to attend the meeting and give the assembly any information he might have gained on his recent trip up the lakes.

The Secretary Mr. A. A. Stevenson then read the minutes of the last meeting held in January, 1902, which were adopted.

Mr. Gilmour said that the question of water conservation was a tremendously important matter, and should engage the most serious consideration of the Association, which remark appeared to meet the approval of the members present. A suggestion made by Mr. E. G. Patterson was that some effort should be made to bring the Ontario and Dominion Governments together on this question.

Mr. Rogers having arrived at this juncture he was asked to address the meeting.

Mr. Rogers said he had taken a trip over a few of the reservoirs recently, and presented a map and photographs showing the route taken and the conditions of the water in these lakes. He said that he found one large lake with a capacity of 770,000,000 cubic feet, 13 miles long, at the mouth of which a dam was located, but was practically of no value because it was not attended to and no one claimed it. At a small expense the dam could be repaired, and the lake would then serve as a large reservoir, and would provide an immense quantity of extra water. The shores of the lake were unsettled and the dam could be raised thirty feet without doing any injury. Drag Lake was another which, if the dam were repaired would provide a large quantity of water. The dam here could be raised 24 feet which would give three billion cubic feet of water, and provide an immense reservoir. He said that those who had not seen this country had no conception of the wealth of reservoirs in that section. Haliburton Lake was another place at which a dam could be built extending the one at present in existence, and 30 feet could easily be held there. Eagle Lake, too, at present, had a dam on which there were eight feet of water. This dam also could be raised to 24 feet without any appreciable damage being done, the shores being almost perpendicular. Red Stone Lake was the next visited, and at present contained one and a half billion cubic feet of water. The dam here could be raised at least 24 feet and he thought $200 would cover all damages there. Kanasis Lake was next visited. It was also a large lake with an eight foot dam, and about two feet of water. It could be raised 25 feet, and as the shores rose almost perpendicularly no injury would be done. In a number of smaller lakes, Paint, Crab and Hawk, being among them, the water could be raised almost indefinitely, and would serve as a very considerable reservoir. Boskunk and Hall's lakes, and a chain of smaller bodies were very large lakes, the shores of which were very sparsely settled. This was the largest water area visited, and no dam controlled it. The waters here could be raised about 16 feet.

Mr. Rogers said that he had made a rough calculation of the extra quantity of water which could be obtained should the water in those lakes he had visited, be conserved, and he believed an extra flow of 60,000 cubic feet per minute could be obtained for 200 days. He had only visited a few lakes, and he felt satisfied the same conditions prevailed throughout the entire country. He believed too that no injury would be wrought to the lumbermen. The trip he had taken included only about 20 per cent. of the reservoirs which could be created at a small expense.

The feeling on the meeting created by Mr. Rogers' address was a very hopeful one, showing, as it did, that there was an abundance of water in the north, and that it was only a question of conserving it, to obtain any reasonable quantity for all purposes. He also showed that the necessary steps to be taken to increase the flow of the river to a sufficient extent to provide ample power and, of course, water for navigation as well, would cost but very little, and the expenditure of the necessary amount might reasonably be expected.

When asked as to the easiest method of increasing the flow of the river, he said that by utilizing the water in Drag, Boschink and Kanesia, the flow could be increased very materially, and at a small expense.

Mr. Gilmour said it was to be regretted that so little was being done to impress upon the Government the advisability of constructing without delay the Trent Valley Canal. He said the grain from Western Canada could be taken to the seaboard on this route cheaper than by any other and thought that its speedy completion should be pressed for.

Mr. Kilbourn counselled the association to interview the Ontario Government, with a view of bringing the two Governments together, whereby an arrangement might be entered into, and moved a resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Carnegie, as follows:

"That this meeting appoint a committee of three to wait upon the Ontario Government at an early date and obtain an expression of their views with regard to uniting their interests in the head waters of the Trent River system, with those of the Dominion Government."

The resolution was unanimously supported.

Mr. Kilbourn suggested that a fund be started to prosecute the work of the association, and further suggested that the power owners interested be assessed an amount sufficient to enable a survey to be made of the lakes affected.

Mr. Kilbourn named as a committee to interview the Government, Messrs. W. T. Boyd, J. C. Shook, and the mover, which was adopted.

Mr. Kilbourn further offered to deposit $100 as a nucleus of a fund provided other power owners promised an equal amount.

Mr. Wasson addressed the meeting on the trouble he was experiencing in securing water to operate his mill on the Indian River, and intimated that the other mills on the river were in the same difficulty.

After considerable discussion a committee was appointed to investigate the conditions and report to the association. The committee was composed of Messrs. Kilbourn, Wasson and Patterson.

Mr. Meldrum then called the attention of those present to the fact that no consideration had been given to the control of the waters flowing out of Stony Lake. He intimated that the charge had been made that at Young's Point the water had been held back, and as a result the power owners below that point had suffered. He contended that the regular flow of the river was being interfered with.

Mr. Kilbourn, in answer, said that on the contrary, every reasonable care had been taken by those in charge of the dam there to ensure as uniform a flow as possible, and repudiated the statement that the water had been misused.

A lengthy discussion followed on this question, in which Mr. Rogers explained the position of the Government with reference to the navigation problem, in which it was particularly interested. He said that no power owner could take or hold water, the taking or holding of which would injuriously affect the level either at that particular point or any other point on the system.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Rogers for his address, and for his assistance.

Before adjourning the committee appointed to interview the Government, decided to visit Toronto on Wednesday, November 25, should that date be acceptable to the Ministers they wished to see.

The meeting then adjourned, to meet on the return of the committee to receive its report.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Dennis O'Brien, of Douro, Died After a Short Illness.

After an illness of only seven days, Dennis O'Brien, of Douro township, died last night in St. Joseph's Hospital. Until the beginning of his short illness Mr. O'Brien had been in his usual health, and the suddeness of his death makes it a particularly sad one.

The late Mr. O'Brien has lived in Douro township all his life, and was one of the best known men in the section. He leaves a widow, two sons, Thomas, who lives on the homestead, and Dennis, of Madoc, N.D., and four daughters, Lillian, Mary and Katie, at home, and a fourth in the Good Shepherd Convent, Toronto. One half brother, Francis Cleary, of Buffalo, survives him, and, is here attending the funeral, which will take place on Friday morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence, Douro, to the Douro Roman Catholic Cemetery.

This is the fifth death in the family in the last three years.

ARCHDEACONRY OF PETERBOROUGH

Tenth Annual Session now Being Held Here.

Number of Interesting Topics Being Discussed—Rev. Dr. Right's Lermon Last Night—Closing Session This Afternoon

The tenth annual conference of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough, was opened in St. John's church yesterday at 9 a.m., with a celebration of the Holy Communion. The Rev. J. C. Davidson, M.A., was celebrant and the Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., of Bobcaygeon, assisted.

At 10.30 o'clock the conference assembled in St. John's school house. The Ven. Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook, presided; the Rev. W. L. Armitage acted as secretary, and among others present were the Rev Rural Dean Warren, B.A., of Lakefield; Rev Rural Dean Marsh, of Lindsay; W. C. Allen, M.A., of Millbrook; E. Daniel, M.A., of Port Hope; John Creighton, of Cartwright; A. S. Dickinson, of Fenelon Falls; W. R. Tandy, M.A., of Havelock; A. J. Fidler, M. A., of Colborne; E. R. James, of Hastings.

The laity were represented by Messrs. R. Max Dennistoun, B.A., of Peterborough; J. H. Bickle, of Cobourg; J. H. Knight of Lindsay; F. H. Batteraby, lay reader, of Warsaw; J. Bemeaster, of Haliburton.

Letters of regret were read from Revs. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., Rector of St. Luke's, Ashburnham; Canon Spragge, of Cobourg; W. A. Gustin, M.A., of Port Hope; C. Lord, of Apsley; and others.

ARCHDEACON'S ADDRESS.

The Archdeacon's annual address dealt with some live topics. He referred to the federation of Trinity with Toronto University, and emphasized the duty of churchmen to continue their support of the church's college. They should do everything possible to increase its usefulness, no matter how they viewed its change of condition. Strong language had been used by both sides in the discussion of federation, as was usual when men held strong and opposing convictions. There had been too little, perhaps, of that Christian charity which "endureth all things and believeth all things. The speaker had always thought that the young men of this Diocese might well receive their training in both Arts and Divinity in the same university. This would help unity of effort, and beget more breadth of view. Had Trinity College had for its friends" all the members of the church, it would have been stronger financially, and in every way. At all events, lack of material strength would not have been a factor in accomplishing federation. "If the representatives of the various classes of opinion within the church should get together, in the true spirit of brotherly love, it would be found as practicable for all our young men to pursue learning in the same institution, as for the members of our church to use the same Book of Common Prayer, and to worship God in the same church."

The Archdeacon urged the importance of preserving the sanctity of the Lord's Day, and advancing the work of temperance. He dealt briefly with Sunday school methods and concluded with a few words of warning against the possible danger of over-centralization in the business affairs of the Diocese.

The address was referred to a committee, consisting of the Revs. Rural Dean Warren, E. Daniels, and R. J. Creighton, and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

THE LORD'S DAY.

J. W. Bickle, Esq., read a paper on the question, "How Best to Preserve the Sanctity of the Lord's Day." He pointed out the growing desecration of the Lord's Day, and advocated the Lord's Day Alliance as the only practicable way of combatting the evil.

Rev. E. Daniel followed with a warm endorsement of the Alliance, giving instances of its work in preventing the landing of Sunday excursions at Port Hope. He moved a resolution regretting the Sunday work required of their employees by railway companies, and others, and pledging support to the Lord's Day Alliance.

The resolution was supported by Mr. Dennistoun, Rural Dean Marsh, and Rural Dean Warren, and carried.

At 1 o'clock an excellent luncheon was served in the school room of All Saint's by the ladies of that church. The school room had been prettily decorated and illuminated, and the luncheon was a very pleasant affair. There were some happy after-dinner speeches. The Archdeacon proposed the King's health, which was enthusiastically honoured. Rural Dean Marsh proposed "The Archdeacon," and Dr. Allen responded. The Rev. W. R. Tandy proposed "The Ladies," and the Revs. R. J. Creighton and W. L. Armitage responded in their behalf. The Archdeacon proposed "The Clergy of Peterborough," and the Rev. J. C. Davidson replied.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session was opened with the hymn "Sun of My Soul." Sunday school work was the afternoon subject.

The Rev. W. C. Allen spoke on the parental influence in the Sunday school.

Mr. J. H. Knight's subject was "Sunday School Libraries and their Use." He dealt with the classes of books that should be included in the libraries. He advocated, among other things, the placing of works in Church history on the library shelves "Our Public School histories," said he, "are falsified for peace sake. Some people find it to their advantage to say that the Church of England began with Henry VIII. Of course if the Church of England came into existence in the 16th century, a church that began in the 17th or 18th century might have as good a right to exist." The apostolic origin of the church should be taught by the Sunday School library books.

The Rev. E. Daniel contributed a paper on "The Training of Teachers." He advocated a gradual remodelling of Sunday School buildings so that the various grades might be taught in separate rooms. Teachers should be trained for their work on somewhat the same principle as that of the Model School which prepares Public School teachers for their work. Dissatisfaction with present methods was a healthy sign and had in it the promise of improvement.

The Rev. W. L. Armitage led a general discussion, in the course of which several important questions came up and were discussed.

The Council of the Archdeaconry for the ensuing year was named as follows:—The Archdeacon, the Secretary, the Revs. Rural Dean Warren, Marsh and Soward, Canon Spragge, John Creighton and J. Fenning; Messrs. Dennistoun, Knight and Bergester.

On motion of Rural Dean Marsh, it was decided to invite to future conferences all lay delegates to Synod, lay readers and church wardens.

EVENING SERVICE.

A festival evening service was held in St. John's Church last night in connection with the meeting of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough. In addition to the Clergy mentioned already there were present the Revs. Dr. L. N. Tucker, secretary of the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church; R. Seaborn, M.A., of Bowmanville; J. McK. McLennan, of Norwood; A. B. Chaffee, of Coboconk, and others. The surpliced choir and clergy entered in procession singing the Hundredth Psalm. Evensong was said by the Rev. A. J. Fidler, M. A., and the Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A. The lessons were read by the Rev. A. B. Chaffee and the Rev. J. McK. McLennan.

The Rev. Dr. Rigby, head master of Trinity College School, Port Hope, preached an earnest sermon from II Samuel, X, 12: "Be of good courage and let us play the man, for our people and for the cities of our God, and the Lord do that which seemeth Him good."

The Archdeacon said the closing prayers, and the Recessional hymn was "The Church's One Foundation."

After the service a missionary meeting was addressed by the Rev. Dr. L. N. Tucker, General Secretary of the Missionary Society. Most of those present heard Dr. Tucker for the first time, and all were deeply impressed by his forcible presentation of the Church's problems in the great West. He explained the return to primitive ideals by which every baptized member of the church had been constituted, ipso facto, a member of the Missionary Society. One hundred and twenty-five thousand people, he said, had gone into our North-west during the past season. At least 25,000 or 30,000 of these would be church people. That meant that the population of a whole Diocese had gone into that country. The church, which had done so much already for England and for the Empire must do its duty to Western Canada, or stand condemned in the sight of God and men.

Dr. Tucker spoke for a full hour, but was heard with unflagging attention. He had come from the midst of a financial campaign in the City of Montreal, where his work is meeting with wonderful success. It was very manifest to those who heard him last night, that he is the unique man for the unique position that the church has created and called him to fill.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

Morning Prayer was said to-day at 9.30 a.m., in St. John's by the Rev. A. S. Dickinson, the Rev. E. Daniel reading the lessons. The Rev. R. Seaborn conducted a devotional hour, ending at 11 o'clock. At its conclusion the conference re-assembled in the School Room. In the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. L. Armitage, the Rev. W. R. Tandy acted as secretary. Dr. Tucker had to leave for Montreal, but left a message for the convention with the Secretary. Arrangements were made in connection with missionary deputations next February.

MOCK PARLIAMENT A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

George Street Guild Gave a Decidedly Interesting and Instructive Programme.

The meeting of George street Young Men's Guild held last night was one of the most successful in its history. The attendance was large and the interest manifested in the programme for the evening was a sufficient indication that the plan adopted for conducting the meetings during the coming winter season would prove a popular one. The business of the Guild will be conducted in Parliamentary style, the opening of which was held last night. Mr. A. E. Dixon was appointed Speaker of the House, while Mr. W. Wood is Clerk. Mr. J. Jeffries is Premier and Minister of Justice, and has associated with him as Cabinet Ministers, Messrs. A. W. Cressman, Finance Minister; F. H. Dobbin, Minister of the Interior; Geo. Robertson, Minister of Marine, and M. J. Hutchinson, Minister of Public Works. The leader of the Opposition is Mr. W. Warne, with Mr. S. R. Armstrong as first Lieutenent.

The business taken up last night was the opening exercises, speech from the throne, moving and seconding the address in reply to the speech and discussion on the policy of the Government as outlined in the speech. The discussion was most interesting and instructive as well, taking up particularly the questions of Preferential Tariff and Alaska Boundary Award. The debate was not concluded and was adjourned for two weeks when the House will again meet.

The Guild is to be congratulated upon selecting such a popular plan for conducting their meetings and the future sittings will be awaited with considerable interest.

The Beehive

We Have Everything a Lady Wears.

Two weeks ago we put on sale 2160 yards of Flannelette for half price and cleaned it all out, the reason we are doing this is, we need the space for our rapidly expanding ready-to-wear, trade which is growing beyond our fondest expectations and we are going to give it our fullest attention.

Now this week we are going to clean out our stock of Linings at even a considerably greater bargain than that at which we sold the Wrapperette, because we want the space and we have no time to to bother with an ordinary sale, we want it to rush out quickly.

The Linings will be on sale all this week.

We have:—

500 yards of Percaline lining at 15c
900 yards of strong lining at 12½c
200 " " " " " 10c
50 " " " " " 8c

They will all be placed on sale at one price,

5c per yard.

Come early and make your selection for they will not last long at this price.

WHILE OUT HUNTING HE LOST HIS GOODS.

Thief Broke Into Mr. F. N. Cobb's Shop at 20 Louis Street.

While Mr. F. N. Cobb, who conducts a tailor shop at No. 20 Louis street was out deer hunting during the first two weeks of the present month, somebody broke into his store and stole some watches and other jewelry, three violins, spectacles, cloth, ready made clothing, a revolver, lace curtains and sundry other articles. Of these a quantity was found in the possession of Fred VanNorman who is at present lodged in gaol. He is said to come from Belleville. Several of the things, including the violins and revolver, have not yet been found. These are to be at once returned to the Police Station, for if found later on, the possessor will be charged with receiving goods known to be stolen.

.DEST ENGLISH PAPER.

4en Gazette is the Least Read, but Pays $100,000 a Year.

The London Gazette is the oldest and least read of any English newspaper. It is at once the biggest and the least of all English papers, for it is the only paper in the land which changes its size from one page to a hundred, according to the pressure of the news. It is the only newspaper whose word is law and whose authority is accepted in the witness box. It can make and unmake bankrupts.

It is the only paper in which certain persons are compelled to advertise and in which certain other persons cannot advertise for love or money. It yields a profit of $100,000 a year.

Time was when the editorship of the Gazette was one of the spoils of office, worth $4,000 a year. It was the recognised reward of party services in the press.

Under the old regime the Gazette had besides its editor a staff of five clerks appointed by the treasury, but in 1880 the treasury remodeled the management of the paper, found the staff employment elsewhere and left the whole responsibility of the Gazette on its publishers, Messrs. Harrison & Sons. The printing of the paper has been in the Harrison family since 1778.

Absolute secrecy as to the contents of any forthcoming Gazette prevails at St. Martin's lane, and, though there are a thousand workers in Messrs. Harrisons' office, no item of news has ever leaked out before its time. Every sheet of copy is private and confidential until it appears for all the world to see. The copy for the Gazette is written in the government offices, often by cabinet ministers themselves, and is invariably returned with the proofs. Each secretary initials his copy, and in cases of promotion in the services no paragraph is accepted even in proof without being initialed a second time.

Now and then on very rare occasions a piece of copy is received autographed by the sovereign.

A Justifiable Evasion.

One time when Sir Walter Scott was asked if he wrote the Waverley novels, the authorship of which was a great secret, he said, "No, I am not the author, and if I were I should say the same." Mr. Gladstone thought this a justifiable evasion.

Sydney Smith once said of some of his anonymous efforts, "I have always denied it; but, finding that I deny it in vain, I have thought it might be as well to include the letters in this collection."

A Family Name.

The teacher of a country school asked his pupils one day if any of them could tell him who Joan of Arc was.

The question was followed by profound silence. Some of the pupils stared at the teacher, and some turned and stared at one another, as if seeking the information in the faces around them.

Finally a boy burst out with:

"Oh, yes I know. She was Noah's wife."

What Else Were They For?

Stranger—I notice that this part of the country seems fairly teeming with horses.

A Message to Those Threatened With Lung Trouble

For the benefit of all persons who have a predisposition to Consumption, either inherited, or contracted through exposure, unsuitable employment or other cause, we make this positive declaration and stake our reputation upon its accuracy: If they will faithfully take Ferrol three times a day, as per directions, it is absolutely impossible for the threatened disease to develop. Further, even in cases where the lungs are actually involved, provided the trouble is not too deeply seated, Ferrol will, with absolute certainty, arrest the disease and repair the waste already committed.

Ferrol contains, in perfect combination, the Oil, Iron and Phosphorus which alone can and will repair the waste tissue, enrich the impoverished blood and tone up the relaxed nerves.

Ferrol is pleasant to take and is so scientifically prepared that it is ready for instant absorption, so that, even where the digestion is weak, no difficulty is experienced in assimilating it.

Sample free. At all druggists, or from THE FERROL COMPANY, LIMITED, 124 King Street West Toronto.

SEA POWER OF JAPAN

HOW HER NAVY HAS GROWN IN THE PAST EIGHT YEARS.

Island Empire Fleet Compared With That of Russia—Why the Japanese Are Great Sailors—Are Warlike and Love the Sea—Qualities Which Russia Must Take Note Of—Field Marshal Viscount Taro Katsura.

While war between Russia and Japan may not be so imminent as the massing of ships and troops in the far east would indicate, there is a general feeling that at best the trouble is only postponed and that sooner or later the two powers will settle their differences by appeal to the arbitrament of arms.

MAN-OF-WAR FLAG OF JAPAN.

Japan has never forgotten how she was cheated out of the fruits of her victory over China by the Russian bear and for the past eight years has been diligently working to improve and strengthen herself for the grapple which seems inevitable. In both her army and navy Japan has made wonderful advances, but especially has she come to the front as a sea power.

At the close of the war with China in 1895 Japan's fleet consisted of forty-three vessels, with an aggregate of 77,700 tons, including one battleship. To-day, exclusive of torpedo boats, she has a total tonnage of 250,000, many of the vessels being battleships and armored cruisers of great power and of the most modern construction and equipment.

Russia's fleet available at present for service against Japan includes some large ships, but her battleships are smaller and older. Practically all of Japan's navy would be ready for use in a fight with Russia, the fleet being stationed at home for the most part, the cruises of vessels being chiefly in waters adjacent to the Empire.

The Japanese have two qualities which Russia or any other nation must consider before engaging in a conflict with the islanders—they are warlike and love the sea. Since the Japanese boy's home consists of a group of islands densely populated and since he lives largely upon fish or other products of the sea he is bred to a familiarity with things marine such as few possess. His physical courage was amply proved in the war with China and in the march with the allies to Pekin in 1900. Other qualities which the training of the sea develops in the Japanese boy are presence of mind and readiness in emergencies.

To keep pace with her shipbuilding Japan also instituted an increase in the naval personnel, and officers and men were ready as soon as her new ships were completed. The officers are educated at the Imperial Naval College at Tokyo, the Engineering College at Yokasuka or the general naval schools at Kure and Sassebo.

Russia ranks third as among the naval powers of the world and Japan seventh. It is believed, however, that Japan's strength on the sea is not greatly inferior to that of Russia, because the navy of the island empire is practically new and equipped with modern armament, while Russia's list of fighting craft contains many old vessels, which would be of little value in a sea fight of the present day.

No one man in Japan has contributed more to her advancement as a power than Field Marshal Viscount Taro Katsura, premier of the empire since 1901 and before his advancement to the head of the cabinet Minister of War. Field Marshal Katsura was educated at a German military school and is one of the foremost soldiers of the empire.

He entered the Japanese army in 1867 and participated in the war of restoration. After that he was for a time military attache of the Japanese embassy at Berlin. As Vice Minister of the army from 1886 to 1891 it was he who achieved the great army reforms that enabled the soldiers of Japan to so readily dispose of the Chinese. During the war with China he was commander in chief of the Third Division and after the war was made Governor-General of Formosa. Since 1898 he has been a member of the Imperial cabinet. Viscount Katsura is fifty-six years of age.

Japan has made great strides forward and with her industrious and patriotic people will continue to advance. As Russia sends ships to the Far East to support her diplomacy, so, it is believed, Japan will increase her navy in the determination to be ready for the struggle which her people regard as inevitable.

Norway Pine Syrup

It stops that tickling in the throat, is pleasant to take and soothing and healing to the lungs. Mr. E. Bishop Brand, the well-known Galt gardener, writes:—I had a very severe attack of sore throat and tightness in the chest. Some times when I wanted to cough and could not I would almost choke to death. My wife got me a bottle of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP, and to my surprise I found speedy relief. I would not be without it if it cost $1.00 a bottle, and I can recommend it to everyone bothered with a cough or cold.

Price 25 Cents.

TEACHING POLLY TO THINK

Proof of the Association of Ideas in a Bird's Mind.

M. Pierre Hachet Souplet, writing in a French contemporary on the intelligence of birds and animals, relates a remarkable accomplishment on the part of a parrot, says Golden Penny. He admits that the bird was an exceptionally clever specimen, and he considers its achievement indicates the high water mark of possibilities in this direction so far as parrots are concerned.

He had taught Polly to use the words "cupboard" and "ladder," and as he climbed the ladder he had succeeded in inducing the bird to articulate the word "climb." Every day when the bird was brought into the laboratory a small cupboard was opened, and Polly helped herself to hempseed. One day, however, instead of the cupboard being placed where she could reach it, it was hauled up near the ceiling, and the ladder was placed among several other articles in the corner of the room. The question to be decided was whether the bird, seeing that the cupboard was out of M. Souplet's reach, would have sufficient intelligence to use words it knew in their proper sequence. The first day's experiment was a failure. The bird screeched "Cupboard, cupboard!" beating its wings and biting the bars of its cage in anger, but it got no further. That day the bird received millet, which it did not care for, the hempseed, which it was fond of, being locked up in the cupboard.

Next day Polly was in a greater temper than ever, and after a desperate effort to break through the bars of her cage she finally caught sight of the cupboard near the ceiling. Instantly came the words "Ladder—climb—cupboard," and, Polly having learned her lesson, the cupboard was brought down, and she was rewarded with some hempseed. M. Hachet Souplet looked upon this incident as a proof of the association of ideas in the bird's mind, as no one had ever taught the parrot the phrase she created.

Who Are "They?"

"They say; what say they? Let them say," said Bishop Berkeley. Who are the "they" thus so boldly apostrophized? We may say with one of the fathers, "I know when you do not ask me," but how difficult it is to get near er! We all have these mysterious "they" on our lips, and yet we cannot define them. Yet, though we cannot define "they," partly because there are so many of them and partly because none of the great elemental things like time, love, death and sleep are capable of definition, we can still know and say a great deal about "they." "They" in Dolly Winthrop's mouth meant Providence. "I wouldn't speak ill o' this world," she was accustomed to say, "seeing them as put us in it knows best." In her sense it is of course rarely used, though the slang expression "as good as they make 'em" recalls it. Still, "they" has generally a slightly mysterious significance. When we say it we allude to some power we cannot define or to the incomprehensible element in some set of people.—London Spectator.

Chalking Sunday.

In the west of Ireland the majority of marriages take place between Christmas and Lent—a great number of them on Shrove Tuesday. In the county of Limerick it is customary on the first Sunday in Lent for the bachelors and spinsters who have allowed the festival to pass without pairing to mark each other on the back with a piece of chalk or with a chalked stick. The marks of distinction are not rigidly confined to eligible parties, but are often bestowed upon boys and girls without regard to their original significance.

It is asserted that the custom prevails in other agricultural districts in Ireland, that the chalking mostly goes on when the people are going to or from church and that in towns where it is carried on to a vary great extent the footpaths are white at night with powdered chalk.—London Telegraph.

Circus Queen Dead.

New York, Nov. 17.—In her 101st year Mrs. Marie Pigrum Harrison, who was in her childhood years petted by George III., King of England, and was one of the old Queens of the circus, is dead in Brooklyn. She was born in Hampton Court. With Mrs. Harrison and her husband were long associated with P. T. Barnum. Together they were the first to introduce Tom Thumb, Minnie and Lavinia Warren and several other midgets.

Not Afraid to Endorse It.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today. There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

APHORISMS.

It is not what he has or even what he does which expresses the worth of a man, but what he is.—Amiel.

As riches and favor forsake a man we discover him to be a fool, but nobody could find it out in his prosperity. —Bruyere.

There is a department which suits the figure and talents of each person. It is always lost when we quit it to assume that of another.—Rousseau.

So remarkably perverse is the nature of man that he despises those that court him and admires whoever will not bend before him.—Thucydides.

A true man never frets about his place in the world, but just slides into it by the gravitation of his nature and swings there as easily as a star.—E. H. Chapin.

His Favorite Phrase.

Once, when they were talking literature, Mrs. Isobel Strong said to Robert Louis Stevenson, "At least you have no mannerisms." Whereupon Stevenson took a copy of his own "Merry Men," which she was reading, out of her hands and read, "It was a wonderful clear night of stars." "Oh," he said, "how many, many times I have written 'a wonderful clear night of stars.'"

Without Doubt.

"I wonder if I had too much last night."

"You did."

"How do you know? You weren't with me."

"I know that when a man is in doubt on that subject there is no room for doubt."

WHEN THE LIGHT CAME

By William Walker Hines

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

At last his excellency the governor was alone. The tide of office seekers, lobbyists and politicians had been turned from the executive wing of the statehouse, and the exodus of clerks and stenographers had begun. In the anteroom his private secretary awaited his dismissal for the day, impatient of the unusual delay. Down the tiled corridor echoed the footfalls of the janitor, master of all he surveyed.

All day the governor had longed for the moment, yet now he sat idle. His gaze wandered toward the window, and he found himself thinking that when the slant rays of the setting sun flashed into the room he would find light to continue his work. It was for a pitifully few moments only that the sunshine penetrated the governor's private office, with its subdued colorings, its massive furniture and its patriotic memories.

His hand rested on the paper he had no need to read—"Senate bill No. 214."

It had passed both senate and house without serious discussion, and the vote had drawn party lines sharply. The governor's own party was responsible for the measure, and it had met with only half hearted opposition. Apparently no one considered the bill of any special importance.

The governor had not quite understood why he took the precaution, but some instinct advised him to probe beneath the surface of this innocent looking measure. This instinct, this indefinable suspicion, was confirmed in a way that appalled him.

The days of indecision which followed had not been pleasant ones for the state's chief executive. Secure in their position, the sponsors of the bill had not urged its immediate signing, and the governor had carefully weighed the question.

Now he realized that the hour for action had come. Either he must veto the measure in the interest of those whose votes had given him the highest office in the state and whose welfare he had sworn to protect or throw his influence and his signature with those who were conspiring to mulct their ingenuous constituency.

There could be no compromise. Either with the masses he must stand or with their enemies. And their enemies were his lifelong friends, the men who had made him politically, the men whom he had known in boyhood, in ambitious young manhood, in ripe and successful middle age—the men with whom he had marched and sung and fought and bled during the mighty civil war. It seemed to him in this dark hour that he loved those men, every one of them. He knew their wives, their sons, their daughters. He had broken bread at their tables. He had rejoiced with them in their successes, sympathized with them when clouds had gathered. Political ties had been welded into friendship's fetters of steel. He brought his fist down on the mocking paper with a terrific crash. The men behind that bill were bone of his bone, flesh of his flesh, and yet—

Then came another thought, a thought purely selfish. If he turned against these men who had made him what he was what did the future offer? An honest politician, he had no financial returns from a score of years given to his state's service. Part of his salary each year had gone to pay interest on the mortgage which had hung heavily on the old farm. His law practice had been scattered among many younger rivals. And he had passed that age when men can compete successfully with new blood.

There was his wife too. She had grown accustomed to the proportion of purple and fine linen accruing to the governor's wife—and Marion. He remembered that very morning watching the girl, apple of his eye, mount her horse and canter down the driveway. Was it fair that he should dash the cup of pleasure she was just raising to her lips? He could almost feel the fresh, cool kiss of his cheek as she whispered:

"Father, dear, I am so happy, so happy!"

Would she be happy if he took her back to the old farm, with its struggling buildings, its neglected land, to begin all over again?

He bent forward, one hand supporting his aching head. Then suddenly came the sunbeam, striking full and fair through the casement. It fell upon his great seal ring, bearing the state's coat of arms, and he pulled his hand back into the shadows.

The sun's ray traveled across the room, tilting upward, and in a whimsical mood he followed its course over the great flat topped desk with its fixtures, past the high backed carved chairs straight to the mantel, and there it struck something that brought him to his feet.

It was an oil painting of himself, life size and made from an old daguerreotype. He remembered the very day that faded little picture had been taken. He had worn his uniform, then bright and new. The painting was the gift of the men of his company, some of whom were numbered among the ranks of those supporting the bill which lay on yonder desk. Why had they followed him in those dark days of secession and civil strife? Why had they followed where he led? Why, if he was not stronger than they, if the gift of leadership was not mighty within him? They had trusted him then, they had followed him then, and now where was he leading them? No: he was not leading, he was following. Following them where? To dishonor, to dishonesty!

But would they see it that way? Would they realize that the same belief in a great underlying principle which had led him to don that uniform in a lost cause dominated him?

Some one opened the door, but he did not turn. Rather he stood as one fascinated, for the draft from the open door had stirred the two flags across above the picture, the two flags which he now loved with a strangely commingled and yet divided affection. Something stronger than sentiment took possession of him. He had found the light.

He turned toward his desk and picked up his pen with a hand that did not tremble. It was the work of a moment only.

Then he looked up to face—Marion, with a happy light in her eyes, the lilt of a meadowlark in her voice.

"Father, dear, I am so glad to catch you alone for just a little minute, dearest," she coaxed as she glanced at the stacks of papers. "You wouldn't mind if I sat on your knee, just as we used to sit together. Dear me, how long it was!"

The governor smiled indulgently and held her cool, smooth cheek close to his feverish one.

"You are so busy all the time it really doesn't seem as if I had a father now, but I have something so important to tell you. You remember Jerry Gaylord, father, dear? I used to go to school with Jerry. You often took us to the crossroads in your buggy. Well, Jerry has been here—yes, several times—and we—I—I—think I'll go back with him next time if you don't mind. Mother says it is simply absurd. Jerry isn't very remarkable. He isn't even a state senator, and he doesn't want to be, but I think I'll see more of him than mother does of you, and I don't care for a husband who is too successful to love me. Oh, father, dear, I don't mean that! But please may I marry him and go back to Bridgeport? It's very quiet at Bridgeport, I know, but I like it better."

And he had been afraid to dash the cup from her lips! He had thought she loved it all—the excitement, the homage paid her as daughter of the governor.

"Back to Bridgeport!"

He had quite forgotten Jerry, though when she had first spoken he had thought of Jerry as a promising young fellow.

"Back to Bridgeport!"

He glanced at the lines he had just penned and suddenly straightened up. There was a new light in his eyes, a stronger ring in his voice.

"Of course you may. Jerry is all right, and—well, there is no telling; I may go back to Bridgeport myself one of these days."

Then he kissed her, gravely and tenderly, and arm in arm they walked out of the office. He closed the door, and the secretary picked up his hat. The day's work was done.

GOOD LIVING

Quite often results in bad health, because what is termed "good living" is usually the gratification of the palate without reference to the nutrition of the body. When the good liver is a business man and rises from a full meal to plunge at once into work requiring mental effort the result is almost sure to be disastrous, because digestion draws upon the same nervous forces which are employed in thought. In time the stomach becomes diseased, the processes of digestion and nutrition are imperfectly performed and there is a physical breakdown.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates the effete poisonous matter which originates in the system as a consequence of imperfect digestion. It gives sound health to the whole body.

"I wish to say to the world that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen R. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin Co., Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1896, I had very sick spells and grew worse, could eat but little. I commenced in September, 1897, to take Dr. Pierce's medicine, and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Dangers of Imagination.

A story of Coleridge's boyhood, which appears in a book by Mr. Wilfred Brown on the poet's childhood and later years, shows the dangers that beset the star gazer and also the rewards that come to him. From his early youth Coleridge lived in a world of books and dreams, yet his favorite walk seems to have been the Strand, the last place in the world for a poet to lose himself in reverie.

As he strolled down the street he imagined himself swimming the Hellespont, the feat of which other poets had written and which the poet Byron was to accomplish later. Once, while the mind of Coleridge was thus far from the busy Strand, he absently thrust his hands before him in the manner of one swimming. Suddenly one hand came in contact with a gentleman's pocket.

The gentleman, thinking to capture a thief, seized the hand and exclaimed: "What! So young and so wicked!" He accused the poor, poetic boy of an attempt at pocket picking.

With some fright and a few tears the boy explained, and we can imagine that words did not fail him who was to become the most brilliant talker of his age. The gentleman was delighted with Coleridge's imagination, which could turn the Strand into the Hellespont. The intelligence of the young Leander made the stranger inquire into Coleridge's tastes, and when he found the boy liked books he opened for him a subscription at the circulating library in Cheapside.

Individuality of Birds.

In studying different birds of the same species individual traits are constantly seen and expressed in strong relief. The greatest differences seem to lie in the relative development of their sense of fear. In one wren family the male never fed the young, and the female never became very tame. What a different state of affairs was found at another wren's nest studied earlier in the summer! After the removal of this nest it was fully forty-five minutes before the young got a morsel to eat, but after the first visit the victory was won, and the hen, if not the cock, bird became very tame. During the preliminary interval of suspense the male sang cheerfully, but the female was at the nest and stump many times before venturing inside. Five minutes after her timidity had been finally overcome the male was also on the stump, where he sat with drooping wings and gave his alarm; thence he flew to a tree, then to the ridgepole of the tent, where he sang merrily, while the young were fed by his mate. The male sang all the morning until noon and, after a silence, began again at 2 o'clock. On the contrary, at the first nest the male was never seen and seldom, if ever, heard. The timidity of the female was never completely overcome.—Century.

A Precautionary Measure.

Mr. Kidder—Ah, how-de-do, doctor? If you have a few minutes to spare I wish you would come over to my house and chloroform my youngest boy.

Dr. Price—What is the matter with the lad?

Mr. Kidder—Oh, his mother wants to comb his hair.

Roundabout Killing.

Captain O'Bull (explaining curios)—Faith, I bought this little powther from the Karribboo islanders, an' I assure you wan dhrop placed on the tongue of a cat is enough to kill the strongest man!

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

A DISAPPOINTED MAN.

He took life too seriously.
He did not choose upward.
He starved from mental poverty.
He saved his money, but starved his mind.
His social faculties atrophied from disuse.
He thought he could not be happy without wealth.
He did not develop his manhood along with his business.
He murdered his capacity for happiness in getting ready for it.
He sacrificed the friends of his youth and had no time to make new ones.
He never learned the art of extracting enjoyment from common things.
He had developed a colossal power for receiving, but had never learned to give.
He was a victim of habit and routine; he never could rise above his vocation.
His only enjoyment was in repeating what he had been doing all his business life.
He had never learned to enjoy as he went along, but found that postponed happiness was a delusion.

An Artful Beggar.

An old Parisian mendicant was recently noticed to manifest apparent caprice in selecting the objects for his importunity. He would allow a number of persons to pass unheeded and then attach himself to others and take no denial. A bribe of half a franc from a curious spectator induced him to give his reason. "I have a code of rules which I invariably follow," said he. "Thus I never ask alms of one who has dined, as rosbif renders a man selfish, nor of stout men, as it bores them to stop, nor of any one putting on their gloves, nor of a lady alone, but always of any one manifestly going to dinner, of people walking together, as their amour propre makes them generous; of officers in grand uniforms and of people apparently seeking favor from the government, as they think that a gift will bring them luck."

Pride of His Performance.

In a downtown church, as the story goes, there was introduced a new hymn, and after the dismissal of the services the organ blower found his way to the player's bench and asked in a meek voice, "How did the music for that new hymn go this evening?"

"Oh, very well; very well, indeed," replied the organist. "But why do you ask?"

"Well," said the blower, "I'll tell you the truth. I was a bit nervous and a bit worried about it, for, you see," he went on explaining, "I never blowed for that hymn before."

Too Strong.

"My boy tells me you discharged him," said the late office boy's mother. "You advertised for a strong boy, and I certainly thought he was strong enough."

"Madam," replied the merchant, "he was too strong. He broke all the rules of the office and some of the furniture in the two days he was with us."

ABOUT THAT COAT

You wear a coat. Why? To keep the cold out? No; to keep the warmth in. What of the body that has no warmth—the thin, poor body that lacks the healthy flesh and fat it needs?

For such we say that Scott's Emulsion provides the right kind of a coat. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion builds firm, solid flesh and supplies just enough fat to fill nature's requirements—no more. That means bodily warmth.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks Market Letters.

The Wall street market opened pretty strong this morning following London quotations which were 1-8 to 5-8 higher. The market continued to advance for some time and then fell into a state of inactivity. Reading reached 46, Mop. 90, and Atch. 64 7-8, whilst sugar took a rise up to 119 1-4. It was announced at noon that the Bank of England had raised its rate.

RUGBY.

The Rugby Club will practice to-morrow afternoon in the T.A.S. grounds at 4 o'clock.

* * * *

All players on the Peterborough team are urgently asked to be present at the practice in the new rink at 7.30 o'clock this evening.

* * * *

The game on Saturday between the Victorias of Toronto and the Peterborough team, to be played in Toronto, will in all probability be refereed by Mr. Wm. Wood. The Rugby Club is running a cheap excursion to the city in order that Rugby enthusiasts may have an easy opportunity of witnessing what will be a most important and interesting match.

SPRINTING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Having noticed in a recent issue of your paper a statement to the effect that Mr. Belland has backers who are willing to wager $1,000 that he can defeat either Mr. Taylor or myself in a 100 yards race, I hereby challenge Belland to a race of this nature and am perfectly willing to give him one yard handicap. It seems rather strange that those "backers" with all their money do not make any such propositions until I am away from the town, and I should very much like to know whether they are genuine in their offer or whether they are bogus.

I am yours truly,
W. R. KNOX.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The village is exceedingly healthy.

Farmers have completed their fall ploughing and are now fanning out their grain.

Joseph Donaldson's sale proved a great success, and the chattels and stock brought good prices. He is giving up farming owing to impaired health and will remove to Peterborough to seek lighter employment. Mr. Donaldson is a brother of Mr. Savigny, grocer, Water street, and is a former resident of South Monaghan.

The Division Court sits on Dec. 4th.

The Green pump factory at Peterborough, has been doing a good business here this season.

A number of our young men have been applying for positions in Peterborough industries for the coming winter.

Mr. Clark, district agent for the Northern Life Insurance Co., has been visiting our village quite frequently and getting his share of business.

Mr. Charles Richards, proprietor of the Omemee Mirror, after a successful career of five or six years, is about entering into partnership with the proprietor of the Millbrook paper. He intends to still continue his business here.

CANADA'S CHEESE TRADE IS WORTH 30 MILLIONS.

The Estimated Output of Our Dairy Gold Mine for 1903.

Seven Million Dollars Greater Than the Product of all our Gold and Silver Mines.

The Montreal Herald has the following interesting article respecting the magnitude of the great cheese industry of Canada:—

Few people who stray into that section of William street between McGill and Duke streets, and see the great trucks loading and unloading boxes of cheese or butter, realise that within the small area occupied by the cheese and butter warehouses, a business of between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000 will be done this season, and yet these figures, so hard to grasp, represent but a fraction of the value of the Canadian make of cheese for the 1903 season, which is just about closing.

A Government estimate given out a few days ago, put the value of the cheese output for 1903 at $25,000,000, and several Montreal exporters say that the figures will reach the $30,000,000 mark. Of this enormous volume of business nearly $20,000,000 is done by Montreal exporters, and practically the entire output of cheese in Canada passes through Montreal on its way to the Old Country markets. The output this year will total nearly 3,000,000 boxes.

OUR OUTPUT IS ENORMOUS.

The average person who would consider himself fortunate if he were a shareholder in a gold mine producing $25,000,000 a year, fails to grasp the enormity of the cheese industry. And yet the value of this season's cheese output is greater than the output of all the gold and silver mines of Canada in 1902, which was $23,022,202. It also exceeds in value the combined exports of Canadian wheat and flour for last year, and is worth almost six times as much as the total Canadian exports of barley, oats, peas, beans rye, corn, buckwheat and all other grains.

The 1902 exports of horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, and all other animals, to the Government returns have it, were only a fraction more than half the value of the make of cheese, and the same is true of the exports of bacon, hams, pork, lard, beef, mutton, canned meats and other meats

The average weight of a box of cheese is 80 pounds. Estimating this season's make, therefore at 3,000,000 boxes, it would take 150 trains of forty cars, each loaded with twenty tons of cheese, to move the cheese market. Placed in one row the trains would extend 37 1-2 miles in length.

Placed side by side the boxes of cheese would make two continuous rows along the Grand Trunk Railway tracks from Montreal to within ten miles of Toronto, and if laid on their sides would make a double row reaching from Montreal to within a few miles of London, Ont., following the railway track by way of Hamilton.

The cheese industry is one in which every citizen has a personal interest, for at $25,000,000, the cheese ouput represents a value of nearly $5 a head to every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

The bulk of the Canadian cheese comes from Western Ontario, the home of the great Listowel and Ingsoll and Oxford sections. Several factories in the Listowel section make as many as thirty or forty cheese a day. In Eastern Ontario the famous Brockville section, and the Kingston, Belleville, Peterborough districts, turn out great quantities. A good deal of cheese is made in Quebec, and all the provinces produce some.

FOR THE ENGLISH MARKETS.

The consumption of cheese in Canada is a trifling matter, most of it going direct to the English markets. Shipments have been made to South Africa, and next Monday a trial shipment of 25 boxes will be made to the distant colony. Owing to the warm climate it is a difficult matter to land cheese in good condition at such a distance.

To weigh every one of the millions of cheese made and marketed would be an impossible task, and so the average plan has been adopted. Generally five boxes of each factory lot are taken and their weight is accepted as the average weight of all the boxes. The weighing is done by a public weigh man, who visits the warehouses periodically. In like manner cheese are tested by the average, the weight of a given period and factory being graded according to the result of a test of five boxes.

THE CHEESE INDUSTRY IN CANADA IN 1903.

Value of cheese made in Canada this year estimated, $25,000,000 to $30,000,000.
Representing a make for the season of 3,000,000 boxes.
Weight estimated at 240,000,000 pounds, or 120,000 tons.
Equal to 6,000 car loads of twenty tons each.
Making a train thirty-seven and a half miles in length.
Piled up one over the other it would make a stack 825 miles in height.

THE PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD MET.

Concluding Session Held Wednesday Morning.

A Good Attendance of Salesmen and Buyers—Pres. Drummond Thanked.

The final meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board for this season was held in the Town Council Chamber this morning, and despite the fact that the Conservation Association wanted the room. However the place was not conserved for the other meeting, so the Board took triumphant possession.

There was a large attendance of salesmen, while the following buyers entered the bidding arena: Messrs. Gillespie, Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Whitton, Rollins and Wrighton.

The factories boarded as follows:

	Oct.	Nov.
Keene	160	60
Warminster	113	25
Shearer	100	25
Central Smith	171	70
North Smith	155	145

The bidding opened at ten cents, offered by Mr. Fitzgerald. Mr. Cook offered 10 1-8, Mr. Whitton 10 3-16, Mr. Rollins 10 1-4, at which figure the prices for November cheese closed.

At this price Mr. Rollins called Stony Lake, Cedardale, North Dummer, Young's Point, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, North Smith, Warminster, of which Cedardale, North Dummer and Young's Point refused. Mr. Whitton next offered 10 1-4 cents, at which price he called Villiers, Westwood, Ormonde, Cavanville, Percy, Dartford, Shamrock, Bensfort. Cavanville and Shamrock refused. Percy, Dartford and Bensfort, as did all the remainder of the factories, sold their November cheese at 1 lb. a box off.

Mr. Kerr and Mr. Fitzgerald, both at the same instant, called 10 1-4 cents, and each claimed he was the first. The dispute was finally settled by one calling one factory, and then the other calling another, resulting in the following purchases being made:

Mr. Kerr — East Emily, Melrose Abbey, Myrtle, Ballyduff, Warsaw, Indian River, Shearer and Oak Leaf.

Mr. Fitzgerald— Keene, Central Smith, Fleetwood, Fraserville and Trewern.

Mr. Cook followed with an offer of 10 1-4 cents, selecting Norwood, Oakdale, Peterborough, Otonabee Union and Daisy D.

Before an adjournment for the year was made Mr. Whitton appropriately moved a vote of thanks to President Drummond for the impartial and thoroughly satisfactory manner in which he had conducted the meetings. Mr. Fitzgerald seconded the motion. Secretary Riddell in presenting the vote of thanks, said "Mr. President, I tender you this hearty vote of thanks for your official services."

President Drummond graciously replied to the appreciation of the Board.

Mr. Riddle moved, seconded by Mr. T. D. Young of Central Smith, a hearty vote of thanks to His Worship the Mayor, and the Aldermen, for the loan of the Committee room to the board. The motion was unanimously carried.

A vote of thanks was also tendered to the press representatives for the manner in which the meetings had been reported.

The Board then adjourned.

FOR WOMEN

Much That Every Woman Desires to Know

About Sanative Antiseptic Cleansing

And about the Care of the Skin, Scalp, Hair and Hands.

Too much stress cannot be placed on the great value of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent in the antiseptic cleansing of the mucous surfaces and of the blood and circulating fluids, thus affording pure, sweet and economical local and constitutional treatment for weakening ulcerations, inflammations, itchings, irritations, relaxations, displacements, pains and irregularities peculiar to females. Hence the Cuticura remedies have a wonderful influence in restoring health, strength and beauty to weary women, who have been prematurely aged and invalided by these distressing ailments, as well as such sympathetic afflictions as anæmia, chlorosis, hysteria, nervousness and debility.

Women from the very first have fully appreciated the purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy which have made the Cuticura remedies the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for annoying irritations, and ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Cuticura Resolvent, Liquid and in the Form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. PROGRESS OF HOUSE TO HOUSE VISITATION.

Well Attended Meeting was Held Last Night.

A crowded and in every respect successful meeting in connection with the scheme of house to house visitation was held in the Y.M.C.A. hall last night, the room being crowded to the doors. Rev. A. J. Braces opened the meeting with prayer. A verse of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," was sung. The roll call of canvassers showed that nearly all on the list were present.

Rev. J. A. Wilson, president of the local association, explained the work, and how to do it so clearly that all present understood what was expected of them. Questions were asked and answered, after which the ward chairmen and secretaries took different rooms in the building and assigned to the various workers the districts they were to visit. The spirit shown by all augurs well for the success of the canvass. It now remains for the people to cordially help the canvassers and thus complete the work so harmoniously carried on thus far. It is proposed to devote all day Thursday to the canvass and on Friday pick up the unfinished work of Thursday.

The workers and all interested in Sunday school work are asked not to forget the two rallies, afternoon and evening, in Murray street Baptist church next Monday, Nov. 23rd, when Mrs. Byrner, of Ohio, one of the writers for the Sunday School Times, and Mr. J. A. Jackson, our Provincial Sunday school secretary, will address both meetings. A collection will be taken up.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c

BOILER EXPLODED IN NEWMARKET.

Caused Death and Destruction in Wooden Ware Factory.

Two Firemen Were Killed—Several Other Employees Were Seriously Injured—Three Other Boilers Were Torn From Their Settings and Forced Into Adjoining Buildings—Boiler House Wrecked—Explosion Without Warning.

Newmarket, Ont., Nov. 19.—Two fatalities and a score of seriously injured marked a boiler explosion here yesterday. The United Factories was the scene of the disaster. The centre of the big building was completely wrecked. It is estimated that twenty thousand dollars direct loss is involved. The force of the exploding boiler was tremendous. Sixty employes were scattered by flying debris and tumbling walls. Scalding steam poured out upon those pinned beneath beams. Hot water trickled over victims rendered helpless by tons of brick. Fire caught from the furnace added to the horror of the calamity. That the sickening results did not involve a larger death list is mere good fortune. Altogether it was an accident replete with extraordinary details.

It was all over in a second. The sixty employes were grouped around the boiler rooms attending to their several duties. There was a hiss of escaping steam blended with a roar as the hundred horse-power boiler split asunder. The roof of that part of the structure was lifted up. Brick and detached timbers flew hundreds of feet in the air. The whole building rocked as if in a mighty cradle. Dust, smoke, fire and steam filled the air. Then the screams of scalding men were heard and groans of the dying.

Wounded Frantic With Agony.

Employes poured from the wrecked structures in a panic. Many jumped through windows. Others tottered out with blood streaming from their wounds. Several fled into the streets, their clothing drenched with hot water. Scalding steam had rendered others frantic with agony. For an instant the men huddled together in the street. As the smoke and dust lifted and the tumbling timbers indicated that the explosion had spent its force all turned toward the scene. As one man they plunged to the rescue of those whose screams had announced their distress. Here and there a struggling man was helped from beneath the debris to the outside.

Frank Burch, one of the firemen, was picked up dying north of the engine room. He had been blown sixty feet by the force of the explosion. Brick and mortar covered the dying man. Sand had been driven deep in the flesh of his face and breast. He lived an hour. He regained partial consciousness. An effort was made to secure an explanation of the accident. He died before being able to communicate any information. He was observed entering the door of the boiler room as the bursting boiler thrust him outward. His body flew like a catapault through two partitions yards away. It was the energy of escaping steam that expelled the fireman's body.

Eager to Rescue Buried Man.

In a few minutes all the employes had been accounted for but John Agnew. Dozens of men began to dig into the steaming brick and tear away the splintered timbers and twisted iron. The missing man was known to be in the boiler room at the time of the explosion. Here a great mass of super-heated debris was piled promiscuously. It was attacked vigorously. Manager Cane directed the rescue workers. No sound came from the pile to indicate the presence of a human being, but the men worked frantically to locate their comrade. Suddenly a partially burned hand was uncovered. The hot steam and burning debris was consuming the body. More than an hour elapsed before the mutilated body was recovered. Death must have been instantaneous. The corpse was burned and bruised beyond recognition. Then the fire was extinguished.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. There is little promise of solution. The two men who might furnish information on this point are dead. There is nothing to base even an impression, except upon that generally ascribed in such cases—the water getting low in the boiler without the firemen noticing the fact. Alex. Patten, the chief engineer, was not at the plant, being away at a funeral. Second Engineer Harry Trivett was in charge. Manager Cane said he regarded Trivett as a thoroughly competent man. Trivett was in a small room adjoining the boiler room at the time of the explosion. He can cast no light on the source of the disaster.

Beneath Piles of Wreckage.

Trivett had a miraculous escape from flying iron, escaping steam and falling brick. He was buried beneath debris. Hot steam was pouring over the body. He was being rapidly roasted to death. Silas Wright was staggering from the effects of a blow that had knocked him down a moment before. Groping his way through the dust and wreck, he heard Trivett's screams. He turned back, and in the dim light saw the outlines of a human figure writhing beneath timbers, which held him. With his bleeding hands he tore at the splinters. The red hot steam and brick burned him, but his furious work released the engineer. Then the two crawled out through a big hole torn by the pieces of wreck in the north wall. Both were in imminent danger of death from suffocation and falling walls. Theirs was the most thrilling escape.

The townspeople rushed toward the scene of the disaster in large numbers. All day the curious crowd remained about the place. The factory is situated on the north side of the village, and occupies several blocks. The engine and boiler rooms were in the centre, and around them were clustered the rooms where the men were working. Hundreds of people surrounded the plant, and hurried forward to aid the injured. All the physicians came forward. The two dead men were removed to an undertaking establishment and the injured to their homes.

Manager Cane at Work.

Manager Cane observed that he could not account for the explosion. There were four boilers, and none of them were more than eight years of age. He said the No. 3, which did the damage, had been in some five or six years. All had been inspected two weeks ago by the Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company. This was done monthly. There were $6,000 insurance carried in this company. The four boilers were made by Goldie & McCullough of Galt. They were considered the best of their kind. He said the accident came at a bad time for the company because of the Christmas trade they were preparing to supply. They manufacture woodenware. While he did not think it would cost more than ten or twenty thousand dollars to repair the damage, unless the huge smoke stack falls, the damage would be in excess of those figures because of the loss of business. He believed they could be ready to resume within 30 days.

No Loss to Employes.

In the meantime the employes could probably be used in making repairs. From 60 to 100 hands are employed, and he thought there were some 60 around the building when the explosion occurred. He was in the office, a few feet from the boiler room, when the boiler burst. He had a narrow escape from the brick that shot through that portion of the building. The source of the accident was a mystery. He could not even venture an opinion. He regarded the second engineer, in charge at the time, as a thoroughly competent man. It was a distressing calamity—one of these things that skill cannot guard against.

The interior presented the most astonishing evidence of the force of the explosion. The entire roof for many square yards had totally disappeared. This was the covering of the engine and boiler rooms, the pail room and the machine shop. Within the space of a hundred square yards there was a pile of twisted iron, broken timbers, loose brick and mortar that resembled nothing but a scrap pile.

Victims.

Coroner Greenwood has signified his intention to hold an inquest. The jury will be impanneled to-day and witnesses will be notified to attend an adjourned session one week hence. The victims killed: Frank Burch, fireman; John Agnew, fireman. Injured: Henry Trivett, second engineer, dangerously hurt, bruised and scalded; Dan. Cook, scalded and cut; William Bell, head cut; James Forham, scalded; Seymour Evans, scalp wounds; O. Conwell, badly cut and bruised; Parnell Howard, cut and bruised; Graham Boyle, cuts on body; Silas Wright, cut and bruised. All the injured will recover.

A RAILWAY WRECK.

Stock Train Backs Into Another and Smashes Three Cars.

Waterford, Nov. 19.—At 7 o'clock yesterday morning an eastbound stock train in charge of Conductor A. Robinson of St. Thomas backed into another eastbound train, wrecking three cars and delaying traffic for several hours. Robinson had orders to skip Waterford and he attempted to take water from the scoop tank east of the yards here, but the scoop on the engine by some means refused to work. The train was then backed up to enable it to take water, and in doing this the rear end of the train ran into the engine of another eastbound, damaging the pilot of the engine and wrecking three cars on Robinson's train. The way car on the stock train was smashed between the engine of the second train and an oil car on the stock train, which was derailed and thrown on the main track. A driver named Warren, who was in the way car, escaped, slightly injured. The auxiliary came down from St. Thomas and the line was soon cleared.

Rowley Very Ill.

Kingston, Nov. 19.—Ex-Manager Rowley of St. Thomas, ordered by the court to be taken to his old home to give evidence, has not gone west. His physical condition is such that he can't be removed without danger.

Find Rich Placer Camp.

New Westminster, B. C., Nov. 19.—George Moody has just returned from Pitt Lake with $1,200 in gold dust. He says he made this clean-up in five days from a stream tributary to Pitt Lake.

INDEPENDENT CONSISTENCY.

The Toronto News is certainly sweetly ingenuous in its treatment of certain political questions. It and other journals have been insinuating a good deal as to Hon. Mr. Stratton's connection with questionable political methods. In reply to the Examiner's suggestion that it would be fair to make their vague charges specific so that they could be specifically met, the News takes the ground, after repeated attacks on Mr. Stratton personally, that "the issue is not whether Mr. Stratton was personally and directly concerned himself with the remarkable improvement in Mr. Crossin's fortunes, but whether the Government * * * benefitted by corrupt practices." That is to say a Minister is to be held responsible for the acts of any irresponsible person with whom he may have no connection directly or indirectly; he is to be attacked and condemned by innuendo, and have no opportunity of meeting a specific charge. This is a somewhat remarkable variant of the principle of fairness in discussing public questions. The News poses as a rigidly independent journal, but this seems to be chiefly shown in bitter antagonism to the Ontario Government. If its mission to purify politics were consistently carried out, it would attack corruption wherever it appears, not condemn one party with a viciousness which smacks of private grudge and, by abstention from criticism, inferentially give the other party a clean bill of moral health. The News says that "the Ontario Government is, and has for some time past, been, kept in power by vicious methods." It could as truthfully say that "The Opposition is seeking, and has for some time past, sought, power by vicious methods." The News need not necessarily, nor is it asked to, mitigate its criticism of the Government, but without any violation of consistency it might fairly couple with such criticism, some mild censure of the methods of the Opposition. If its desire is to improve political methods and purify politics, it will not do so by seeking to supplant, what it denounces as a corrupt Government, by a political party which it does not denounce as corrupt, though there is not lacking abundant ground for such denunciation. The most rabid and narrow partizan journal could not be more rabidly and narrowly partizan than is the independent News in regard to provincial politics.

The Question of Baldness.

This is a vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the disfigurement lent by baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern art in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto to Peterborough on Wednesday, Nov. 25th, when he will be at the Oriental Hotel, renders it possible for any who wish to consult him to do so at his private apartments retained at the Oriental Hotel for this purpose. Demonstration given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember the days and addresses.

SEVEN YEARS OF FATNESS UNDER LAURIER'S RULE.

Figures That Show how Marvellous Development has Been.

The Foreign Trade of the Country has Doubled—Bank Deposits Have Increased Enormously—Great Activity in Railway Construction—Raw Materials of Manufactures Imported in Immense Volume—Population Flowing to Canada From all Parts of the World.

The party bugles are blowing. There is a general impression that the Dominion Parliament may be dissolved any day and the verdict of the people asked upon the acts of the Government of Sir Wilfred Laurier. The Premier himself gives no sign. An eager politician, returned from the capital, is reported as saying that Sir Wilfrid, when asked if the election would be postponed till after another session, replied:—"There is only one man in Canada who knows when the election will take place and he will not tell."

Meanwhile both sides are organizing the new constituencies as mapped out by the redistribution act and preparing for the campaign. In the coming conflict the administrative record of the Government will figure largely, and the prosperous condition of the country will be properly, and no doubt effectively, urged as a reason for renewing the Liberal lease of power.

NO RECORD LIKE IT.

The world of to-day shows no such record of material advancement, of abounding prosperity, as is shown by Canada under the Laurier Government. The trade statistics of all nations prove that Canadian trade expansion during the past seven years has been greater per capita than that of any other nation. This applies only to foreign trade, but there is not the least doubt that the expansion in domestic trade has been quite as great as in foreign commerce. Labour has been fully employed; bank deposits have increased to a wonderful degree; the face of our cities has been changed by the erection of thousands of structures—factories, warehouses, dwellings and public buildings; a flood of population from Europe and the United States has been pouring over the west that so long called in vain to the settler; railway building has proceeded upon a scale unknown since the completion of the C.P.R. In every department of industry and commerce stagnation, indifference and fear have given place to strenuous activity, alertness and unbounded faith in the future of the Dominion.

OPPOSITION'S HARD TASK.

It is hard for an Opposition to make headway under these conditions, and Mr. Borden will, no doubt, be slow to quote from the record. It is only fair, however, that the average man who does not closely follow the statistics of the country's progress should have placed before him in condensed form some of the outstanding facts with comparisons showing how remarkable have been the seven years of fatness under the Laurier Government.

GOVERNMENT AND GOOD TIMES.

The members of the Administration are not charlatans. They know that there are cycles of good times and of bad. But they know also that trade and commerce are so sensitive that Governmental interference, although it can help little, can injure enormously. They claim that the Fielding tariff and the preferential tariff that accompanied it have placed Canadian industry on a far sounder basis than it occupied under the National Policy, and that the burden of taxation rests far more lightly upon the shoulders of the people now than it did seven years ago, notwithstanding the material increase in the revenues and expenditure of the country. Here are some of the more remarkable figures culled from the latest official returns:—

THE DEBT STATEMENT.

An examination of the Dominion's ledger and balance sheet at the close of three periods of seven years each should give a reasonably accurate idea of the progress in wealth made by the people of Canada during those periods. The prime factor to be taken into consideration in connection with the debt is not "what is the total net debt?" but what proportion does it bear to the population and to the revenue. The net debt, which in 1870 amounted to $78,209,742, or $22.64 per head of population, in 1889 was $237,530,042, or $50.22 per head. During the next seven years it grew to $258,497,433, or $50.66 per head, but in the last seven years, from 1896 to June 30, 1903, there was a decrease in the net debt of $3,502,796, and the amount per head of population was reduced to $44.77. In arriving at the population for the years 1889 and 1896 the percentage of increase during that decade, as shown by the next census, has been taken and the proportion added to the figures of the previous census. With respect to 1902-1903 an increase of 3 per cent. per annum has been estimated, amounting to 322,278 since the census of 1901. The departmental returns show that during 1902, 67,379 immigrants arrived in Canada, and the estimate is that 125,000 will arrive this year. The increased opportunities for employment resulting from the enormously increased activity in industrial pursuits are also exercising an influence upon the population by retaining within our borders Canadians who might otherwise be driven to seek employment abroad.

PROPORTION OF DEBT TO REVENUE.

Another test of the burden which the debt imposes upon the people is the proportion it bears to the revenue. In 1870 the net debt was equal to the total revenue for 5.04 years; in 1889 it had increased until 6.12 years' revenue would be required to liquidate it. A falling revenue and growing debt during the next seven years further increased the disparity, so that in 1896 the debt equalled the total revenue for 7.06 years. During the past seven years, however, the tables have been entirely turned. A constantly expanding revenue and material reductions of the debt have reduced the comparative proportion so that in 1903 less than four years' revenue would be sufficient to entirely wipe out the debt. At the same time that a reduction of the net debt of $3,502,796 had been effected, as already stated, between 1896 and 1903, there had been an expenditure of $46,335,322 on capital account; whereas during the previous seven years, with a capital expenditure of only $25,822,469 (inclusive of $2,725,594 expended in previous years on St. Lawrence River improvements by the Montreal Harbour Board,) there was an increase in the net debt of $20,967,391.

WEALTH IN THE BANKS.

Next, perhaps, in importance to the national account as an indicator of the financial prosperity of a nation are the records of the operations of the chartered banks. The record for the past seven years, as disclosed in the table, indicates an enormous expansion in the trade and commerce of the Dominion, which would be difficult to credit were it not that the trade and navigation and customs returns fully corroborate and substantiate the bank statements. The note circulation of the banks, which declined during the seven years between 1889-96 to $31,456,297, has increased since that date until, according to the official returns, published in the Canada Gazette for September, the latest available, it had almost doubled. The discounts to the people, indicative of the increased activity in every branch of trade and industry, more than doubled between 1896 and 1903, the actual increase being $258,248,051, as compared with $63,253,016 between 1889 and 1896. The deposits and the assets of the banks also increased in like proportion to the discounts during the last period of seven years, in striking contrast to the modest increase of the previous seven-year period.

TRADE WITH THE WORLD.

The striking characteristic of the record of exports of Canadian products, is that, with the exception of the fisheries, every item indicates a phenomenal increase in 1903 as compared with 1896. In products of the mine there has been an increase of 300 per cent., a result largely produced by the opening up of the Klondike and southern British Columbia. That the Canadian farmer has had a generous share of the prevailing prosperity is demonstrated by an increase of 200 per cent. in the exports of agricultural produce and of nearly 100 per cent. in the exports of animals and their produce. That the manufacturers have not lagged behind the farmers in their efforts to realize to the full extent upon the opportunities offered, is shown by an increase of 120 per cent. in the export of articles manufactured in Canada during the same period. The increase during the past seven years is much in excess of the record for the previous period. From 1889 to 1896, the increase in all exports of Canadian products was $29,431,349, as compared with an increase of $104,593,869, between 1896 and 1903:

The Canadian lead industry has of late years languished, owing to a combination of local circumstances and of foreign influences which threatened to crush it. Recently, however, conditions have changed, and encouragement having been given by legislation, it is again becoming active. The marvellous increase in the export of wheat may be credited entirely to the rapid influx of settlement during recent years in Manitoba and the Northwest, which still continues, and promises still greater production of this staple.

WHERE WATER POWERS TELL.

A gratifying aspect of the figures for flour is that whereas in 1896 only 186,716 barrels were exported, this year Canadian workmen found employment in grinding 1,287,766 barrels for export. While the exports of wheat increased three and a half fold in seven years, the exports of flour increased seven fold. The smoke of the tall chimneys was to be quenched, according to the Bourbon element in the Conservative party, by the overthrow of the Conservatives in 1896. To those who believed such nonsense the quadrupling of our export of agricultural implements in the past seven years, must look like black magic.

EXPANSION OF IMPORTS.

The value of goods imported into Canada for home consumption in 1896 was less than $1,000,000 in excess of the imports of 1889, but in 1903 an increase of approximately 100 per cent. was recorded. Dutiable and free articles contributed to the increase in equal proportions. The revised figures of articles entered for home consumption are not available for 1903, therefore the gross imports, excluding coin and bullion, have been accepted for purposes of comparison. Both imports and exports have doubled during the past seven years compared with an increase of 25 per cent. between 1889 and 1896.

RAW MATERIAL OF MANUFCTURERS.

Among the articles imported for manufacturing purposes in Canada were those enumerated in the table given below. The large increase in every item, save that of wool, which shows a decrease of about 11 per cent. in quantity, but a slight increase in value, speaks volumes for the activity in all the leading lines of manufacture. The cotton, tanning, rubber and tobacco industries appear to be thriving wonderfully well. The farmers have utilized a portion of their increasing revenue inmultiplying by many times the amount of their investment in horses and cattle imported for the improvement of their stock, and to add to their profits in the future. With increasing wealth the people are enabled to indulge in greater comforts, and the value of undressed furs imported for manufacture was four times greater in 1903 than in 1896.

	1896 Value	1903 Value
Coal, bituminous	$3,299,025	$7,565,609

BUILDING PERMITS TELL TALE.

The final test of prosperity of the country is after all to be found in evidences of wealth as shown by permanent improvements. There is no better criterion of prosperity than the amount of money spent by the people in the erection of buildings for business and residential purposes. In the three principal cities of the Dominion, Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, the municipal records show that during the ten months, ending October 31st, permits have been issued for the construction of buildings to the value of no less a sum than $13,587,318.

No building permits were issued in Winnipeg prior to 1900. The record for Toronto in the first period of seven years, although it includes the permit for the city hall, is much below the total of the second period. The records of Toronto and Montreal both show a steady decline in the value of permits issued from 1889 to 1896, when zero was touched. Since that date there has been a steady increase until both cities may be said to have reached high water mark this year.

Eva Booth Is Much Worse.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Commissioner Eva Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in Canada, who has been in New York, suffering from nervous prostration ever since the death of her sister, Mrs. Booth-Tucker, near St. Louis, yesterday took a turn for the worse. Her Toronto physician, Dr. Graham Chambers, was telephoned for and left last night for New York, where a consultation will be held to-day. Commissioner Booth has long been an acute sufferer from nervous prostration, and the recent turn for the worse in her condition has given her friends much cause for grave alarm.

A Very Good Rule.

It is well known that the majority of human ills arise from constipation of the bowels and on this account many people make it a rule to see that the bowels move once every day. If you are subject to constipation you can be cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These Pills not only make the bowels active, but by their action on the liver ensure a regular flow of bile, nature's own cathartic and so remove the cause of serious disease.

SOME LEAVE-TAKING

Colonial Agents Express Their Feelings to Chamberlain.

REGRET SEVERANCE OF TIES

Canada's High Commissioner Says Mr. Chamberlain Has Done More Than Any Other Man to Promote the Cause of Imperial Union—Toasts to the King and His Royal Guest.

London, Nov. 19.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona and the Agents-General of the Colonies attended the Colonial Office yesterday for the purpose of taking official leave of Mr. Chamberlain.

Lord Strathcona said that no ordinary expression of regret at the severance of Mr. Chamberlain's connection with the Colonial Department would give adequate idea of the feeling or sentiments entertained in the colonies.

Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's policy Lord Strathcona said that differences of opinion might exist in regard to its details by which it was to be carried out, but there was a generally expressed desire among the people of the colonies for closer and more effective union with the Mother Country. Mr. Chamberlain had done more than any man to promote Imperial union.

Mr. Chamberlain's Reply.

Mr. Chamberlain, in reply, apologized for having delayed to arrange for an interview at an earlier date. He had been rather severely strained during the past few weeks. He was touched and gratified by the kind terms they had spoken and the generous appreciation they had shown of his work. He owed a great deal to advice given by representatives of the colonies. He had almost an assured conviction that he should be able to convince his fellow-countrymen that it would be to their advantage to adopt his policy.

He was sure he had never endeavored to force opinion nor presumed to dictate to the colonies anything they should do; nor had he in any way interfered with their self-government. He had recognized that whatever was to be done must be done by them as a free people, voluntarily, and with as much enthusiasm as it would be done here.

Lord Strathcona, on the conclusion of the interview, and after the Agents-General had left, had a long conversation with Mr. Chamberlain.

Optimistic Strathcona.

Alfred Mansell read a paper on "Food Stuffs in Time of War" yesterday before the Royal United Service Institute. His remedy was to increase the home supply and to stimulate the colonies to grow a larger area of wheat. Lord Strathcona, who was chairman said in ten years Canada would be capable of producing all the food stuffs and grain required by the United Kingdom.

Lord Hemeage, writing to the Grimsby Chamber of Commerce, says Chamberlain alone of the older statesmen grasped the fiscal system, while his elders in the eccentric Free Food League and the tabernacle were all acting on the principle of the ostrich poking its head in the sand and would learn nothing.

Hon. G. E. Foster, speaking at Darlington yesterday, said all Canadian industries had gone forward since the reform of the fiscal system. Canada's workmen were as well fed, clothed better and more satisfied than any class in the whole world.

Earl Carrington, speaking at Bromley, Kent, yesterday, said taxing food was taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another, when two pockets did not belong to the same man.

Premier Roblin's article in The North American Review insists that Canada will do all she can possibly do to own her own production, and does not intend to see her growing industries stifled at birth by dumping. All the response from Canada is: "We ask what the Mother Land is to gain from this singularly one-sided bargain."

W. Galloway, M. P. for Manchester, yesterday resigned his membership in the Free Food League as a result of reading the speeches of Premier Balfour and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach at Bristol.

Lowest Price of Wheat.

London, Nov. 19.—Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Dundee Tuesday night, pointed out that in 1868, it cost 4s. 11½d. to take a quarter of wheat from New York to Liverpool. Now it cost only 1½d. Was it not fair to say that that had something to do with moderating the price of wheat?

Hope for Bernier.

London, Nov. 19.—(C. A. P.)—The Post believes one result of the Alaskan award will be the financing of Capt. Bernier's Arctic expedition by the Canadian Government, on the condition that the British flag is hoisted over the northerly islands of the Arctic archipelago.

For a Bad Cold.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. The soothing and healing properties of this remedy and the quick cures which it effects make it a favourite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

Met Chilly Death.

Strathclair, Man., Nov. 17.—A sad drowning accident occurred six miles north of here Saturday night Stanley Haacke and James McGaw attempted to cross Beach Lake on the ice when they broke through Haacke was drowned, and McGaw was rescued by two men from the shore.

Municipal Ownership.

Belleville, Nov. 17.—The Belleville City Council will submit a bylaw to the electors next January authorizing them to acquire the local gas works and run them as a municipal concern. The city already owns the larger part of the stock.

A TEMPORARY REPRIEVE.

McBride Sustained—A Big Conservative Majority in Vancouver—Attorney-General Wilson Defeats Stuart.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 19.—The McBride Government rejoiced last night in a temporary reprieve, Attorney-General Wilson being re-elected by a majority of 971 over Captain J. Duff Stuart in the bye-election here. A total vote of 4,699 was polled, somewhat less than on the 3rd of October, of which Mr. Wilson secured 2,852 and Capt. Stuart 1,881. The victory is taken with becoming modesty. As to how it happened both parties are a trifle dazed. Undoubtedly the sanguine Liberals made a mistake in counting Labor as a natural ally, for the Labor vote proved Conservative, if anything more than an even break.

Again, as Mr. J. A. Macdonald, the Liberal leader, said in addressing a packed meeting of the vanquished, the Liberal organization had been imperfect, and in consequence the masses of the community who could not be induced to attend the public meetings did not comprehend the new and important issues of the hour.

Vancouver Liberals felt that they were right in standing for the principles at stake, and that their loss in a good cause will not prove vain, and they will begin reorganization to-night for an anticipated early general election.

THE CHICAGO TIE-UP.

Prospects for a Settlement Better Than at Any Time Before.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—It was decided last night by the Chicago City Railway to start cars on the Halsted street line. This line runs through a district where the chances for trouble are many.

The day was the most quiet of the strike. The weather possibly had some influence in bringing about these influences, for the biting wind blew all day long and made it very uncomfortable for pickets and caused the teamsters to hurry along without paying much attention to anybody's troubles save their own.

There was a conference between President Mahon of the National Organization of Street Carmen and the Council committee, which lasted until 6 o'clock. At its conclusion President Mahon declared that he considered the prospects for the settlement of the strike better than at any time before.

At 8.30 to-night Col. E. R. Bliss, representing the Street Car Company, called on the Mayor and the Council committee, with a statement of what the company would and would not submit to arbitration. This meeting lasted until late last night.

BROKE HIS NECK.

Stephen P. Cook Meets Sad Death Near Brighton.

Brighton, Nov. 19.—Stephen P. Cook, a young man about 18 years of age of Haldimand Township, was found dead under his wagon on Tuesday morning about one mile north of Castleton. Cook had been to Colborne on Monday afternoon with a load of potatoes, and was returning home in the evening. It was a very dark night. It is thought one horse became unmanageable and run off the end of a small bridge. The wagon upset and fell on Cook, breaking his neck. He was not discovered until Tuesday morning, when the school children found his team in the corner of the fence and a little farther on found the upturned wagon and Cook's body pinned beneath it.

Mrs. Stevens Again President.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 18.—At yesterday's session of the W.C.T.U. the annual election of officers was held. The ballots were practically unanimous for the president, Mrs. Lillian W. N. Stevens, Portland, Me.

Shot in the Woods.

Kingston, Nov. 18.—A message from Calabogie intimates that Thomas Leclair has been shot at Black Donald, a place in the woods, seventeen miles from that village. There are no particulars.

Fell Down Stairs.

Whitby, Nov. 18.—Mrs. G. V. Martin fell down the stairs of her residence yesterday, and was severely injured. She is living at the Royal Hotel, but is absolutely unable to move.

WHERE WAS HE BORN?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—A little controversy arose last evening around a supper table as to the nationality of Dr. Drummond, who lectures in the George street Methodist church on Monday, Nov. 30th. One maintained he was born in Quebec among the habitants where he learned in childhood the dialect and traits of these interesting people. Another was equally sure that he was born in Ireland, which explains his wit and keen sense of humor. A third argued that he was born in Scotland, hence his cleverness and name. Will you kindly settle the difference by giving us the facts.

Yours respectfully,

ONE OF THE THREE.

In response to the request contained in the above letter, the Examiner has learned that Dr. Drummond was born in Ireland, and was educated in the University of Dublin.

Mr. Burnham Calls Attention to a Work of local Interest.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—If you will allow me I should like to call your readers' attention to a book recently published by Morang & Co, "Two Country Walks in Canada," by Arnold Haultain, whom many will remember as having lived here before he became distinguished in the world of letters. The centre of interest in one sketch is Peterborough; in the other, Toronto. These have been very well received in England and its perusal will amply repay those who admire the artistic and suggestive treatment of familiar subjects.

Yours truly,

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea-water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

PETERBOROUGH AGENCY

REPRESENTATIVE MEN DISCUSS SEWERAGE.

Informal Meeting Held in Ashburnham Last Night.

A Resolution Approving of the Proposed System Carried An Improvement Badly Needed.

An important, though not a public meeting, was held last night in the council chamber, Ashburnham, the object of the meeting being to discuss in an informal way the proposal to construct an outfall sewer system for the village. It has been felt that this was a work the early prosecution of which was a necessity in the interests of the public health, and this meeting was called by the Reeve in order that the views of representative citizens might be expressed on the question of a sewerage system.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. F. Adams, Reeve, who explained the object of it, outlining the main points in the system, which Mr. Chipman had recommended the council to adopt.

Mr. Chipman's scheme, he said, was for an outfall sewer with a septic tank, from Elizabeth street, down the east side of the Grand Trunk track to Sophia street, west to Mark street, and down Mark street to the lake. The estimates provide for a fifteen inch pipe at a total cost of $10,300. It had been suggested that a frontage tax of $1 per foot be made, and that the sides of corner lots be assessed about one-third this amount. Mr. Adams said that for some time there had been considerable agitation for a sewerage system for the village, and no one could deny that such an improvement was badly needed. This outfall sewer would be but the first step towards a complete system for the whole municipality, to be extended from time to time, at a total cost of $33,000. If a complete sewerage system for the village were constructed at once, the assessment on say, 30 years debentures issued to defray its cost would amount to 2 mills on the dollar. However, the municipality was only dealing with an outfall sewer now, and he could not see any reason why it should not be acceptable to every ratepayer who has the interests of the village at heart. One thing is certain, and that is, if the people do not approve of this scheme, St. Joseph's Hospital will shortly have to construct some sort of sewerage system of their own.

The subject was then thrown open to discussion and most of those present expressed their views, the tenor of which was that the proposed sewer would not only increase the value of property but would promote the erection of a better class of buildings, which result was greatly to be desired. It was only a question of time when the village must have a complete sewerage system, and the general opinion was that now was the time to begin its construction.

The meeting was practically unanimous in this opinion, although Councillor Hourigan raised a dissenting voice, urging that the waterworks service should be extended to embrace the northern portion of the village. He thought fire protection should be provided before a sewerage system.

Reeve Adams expressed his surprise that Coun. Hourigan had not protested in council against the scheme. He wanted to know why he had not urged a further extension of the water works system being embodied in the bylaw now before the people. He had had ample opportunity for doing so. It was never intended, nor promised, to extend the water system all over the village at first, but only from time to time, as money and conditions would permit. The ratepayers thoroughly understood this, and $10,000 was voted for the first instalment of water works. Owing to the cheapness of labour and material at that time this work was done for some $6,000, leaving $4,000 on hand, which the council spent the next year or two in further extensions. Beyond this they could not go as they had no additional money voted for the purpose. Subsequently, however, a proposition was made in the council to again extend the water works system, but Messrs. Johnston and Smith, who were at that time members of the council, objected on the plea that they did not wish to raise the rate above 17 mills. After the rate had been struck however, these gentlemen were exceedingly anxious to extend the mains; but it was too late then, as no provision had been made in the estimates for such a purpose. One strong reason to making further water works extensions under present conditions, is that under existing arrangements with the Peterborough Water Commissioners, the village has to pay 5 per cent. on the cost of all mains, and at the prevailing high rate of labour and material Ashburnham would soon be eaten up with taxes for fire protection. For instance, if we spent $1000 in this direction, we would have to pay 5 per cent. to the Water Commissioners, 4 per cent. interest on money borrowed, and 2 per cent. on sinking fund — a total of 11 per cent, or $110 on the $1,000. What the village needs is a pumping system of its own. The village was now paying to the Peterborough Water Commissioners $460 a year for fire protection, together with one half the revenue collected from water consumers, which last item amounted last year to over $342. At present there is not the Reeve thought, sufficient revenue in sight to warrant the village paying 5 per cent. to the Commissioners on additional extensions; but just as soon as conditions warranted the expenditure, and the money was voted, he had no doubt that the water works would be further extended.

Councillor Faint, in continuing the discussion on the proposed sewerage system, said that he was heartily in favour of it, as being in the interest of the village generally, although personally it would be of no benefit to him.

Colonel J. Z. Rogers then introduced a resolution as follows:

Moved by Col. J. Z. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Faint, That having considered the proposed sewerage scheme for Ashburnham this meeting approves of the proposal, and heartily recommends it to the citizens, trusting that they will by a big majority, vote in favour of the bylaw on the 26th.

This resolution was adopted by the meeting, which closed with a few remarks by the Reeve.

WILL THE CITIZENS KEEP OR BREAK THEIR PROMISES?

Support the Rugby Club by Taking in Their Excursion to Toronto.

At the beginning of the Rugby season the Peterborough Rugby Club disbanded owing to financial troubles and the lack of support from the citizens generally. Later on, however, on the assurance of help from several leading citizens the Club was re-organized, with a new and efficient set of officers. On Saturday the Club, as is well known, is running an excursion to Toronto, which it is sincerely hoped will not result in a financial loss to the promoters. Now is the chance for the citizens to show that they do take an interest in this sporting organization, and take the advantage of a cheap excursion to the city. The tickets, which remain good to Monday night, may be obtained at the Oriental Hotel or the up-town C.P.R. ticket office.

An Evening With the Habitant.

A gentleman writing from Lindsay says: "Dr. Drummond is simply immense. He completely filled our large hall last winter, and everybody speaks of going to hear him again. He has a beautiful voice and is very humorous." He gives an evening with "The Habitant," on Monday, Nov. 30th, in the George street church Admission, 25c. A rare treat. 1d

T. A. S. DEBATING CLUB.

Mr. J. P. Bryson's Excellent Paper on Debates.

At Wednesday evening's meeting of St. Peter's T.A.S. Debating Society Mr. J. P. Bryson, secretary, read an excellent paper on 'Debating,' which was replete with many practical and useful suggestions and hints as to the mode of procedure in public speaking. His paper will prove of incalculable value to the members of the club, and Mr. Bryson was warmly congratulated by the members on the excellence of his essay.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, who was present during the evening, congratulated the society on its good work, and referred in complimentary terms to the paper of the evening.

The debates will be continued weekly during the winter season.

AN ATTRACTIVE LECTURE COURSE

Is That Arranged By Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

The Lindsay Collegiate Lecture Course Management, has issued a most attractively gotten up booklet the programme for the season of 1903-04. The cover is of a prettty grey, printed in red and brown, and on the book cover is a half tone cut of the Collegiate Institute.

The programme of lectures arranged for the series, is perhaps the best that any similar institution has ever attempted, and is one that does great credit to the enterprise and literary taste of those having the course in charge.

Those who have been engaged to lecture under the auspices of the institute this season are: Hon. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia; Lt.-Col. Denison, J. P. Whitney, M.P.P.; Hon. J. Israel Tarte, M.P.; and Dr. W. H. Drummond. The latter was one of the lecturers in last year's course, and so well did he please the management that he was again secured for this year. The booklet was printed by the Post, and does credit to the establishment.

Ashburnham Claims a New Resident.

Mr. W. F. Nelson has lately purchased that beautiful residence of Col H. C. Rogers', situated on Lake street, Ashburnham; known as "The Pines." The above sale was effected through the agency of Messrs. J. T. O'Connell & Co.

Of Interest to Ladies.

The visit of Prof. Dorenwond to Peterborough on Wednesday, Nov. 25th, will afford the ladies of Peterborough and surrounding country an opportunity of consulting him regarding their Hair, its needs, and their requirements in all styles of Hair Goods. Prof. Dorenwond carries with him a large and most varied assortment of his famous conceptions in Switches, Bangs, Pompadours, Wavy Fronts and Wigs. The equal of these high grade natural hair productions can not be procured from any hair goods dealer in America. Prof. Dorenwend has the distinction of being the largest manufacturer and the most noted specialist in these goods. Private apartments are at the convenience of all who avail themselves of calling at the Oriental Hotel on the days of his visit.

CONCLUSION OF THE ARCHDEACONRY.

Closing Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Excellent Paper Read by Rev. W. J. Creighton Visiting Clergymen Entertained at Luncheon.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

Morning Prayer was said to-day at 9.30 a.m., in St. John's by the Rev. A. S. Dickinson, the Rev. E. Daniel reading the lessons. The Rev. R. Seaborn conducted a devotional hour, ending at 11 o'clock. At its conclusion the conference re-assembled in the School Room. In the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. L. Armitage, the Rev. W. R. Tandy acted as secretary. Dr. Tucker had to leave for Montreal, but left a message for the convention with the Secretary. Arrangements were made in connection with missionary deputations next February.

It was moved by Rev. W. C. Allen, seconded by Rev R. Seaborn, and carried, that the secretaries of the three Deaneries in this Archdeaconry, write to the clergy and ascertain dates suitable for the visits of missionary deputations. The deputations available this year are the Rev. J. Cooper Robinson, Japan, the Rev. J. R. S. Boyd, M.A., China; and the Rev. W. C. White, China.

Rural Dean Warren presented the report of the committee on the Archdeacon's address. Several interesting matters were forcibly dealt with.

The first of these was the federation of Trinity University with the University of Toronto. The committe's expression of opinion, however, not being entirely satisfactory to all present, was referred back for amendment.

A masterly paper on "The Bible and Modern Criticism," was then read by the Rev. A. J. Fiddler. He advocated an uncompromising view of the Bible as being the Word of God, and not merely containing that Word. Literary and historical criticism had their place, but could not touch the believer's insight into the Scriptures as setting forth the great dramas of creation and redemption. Mr. Fiddler dealt with scientific antagonism to the Bible and pointed out that a life long devotion to scientific pursuits actually tended to unfit a man to speak with authority on a subject so different from their own, as that of theology. In conclusion he contrasted the hopeless creed of the infidel with the faith of the Christian. Nothing less than a verbatim report would do anything like justice to Mr. Fiddler's paper.

Mr. Bemister and others discussed the subject, and the conference then adjourned for luncheon.

The clergy and laity of the Archidiaconal Conference were pleasantly entertained at luncheon on Wednesday by the Girls' Auxiliary and other young ladies of St. John's in the basement of the school house. The guests were grouped at a number of small tables, which were adorned with bouquets of flowers, and music was discoursed by an excellent orchestra, which was much appreciated.

There were only two toasts at the conclusion of the luncheon. The Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., proposed "The Church and State," voicing the loyalty of the conference to the King, and then dwelling on what Gladstone had called "The august conception of the Church." Archdeacon Allen responded for the church.

Rev. R. Seaborne proposed "Lay Workers," and emphasized the importance of the layman's part in the church's work. Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Col. Rogers, J. H. Knight and others, responded.

Upon re-assembling the conference heard the Rev. J. R. S Boyd, M.A., a missionary on furlough, from China, speak on the foreign missionary work of the Canadian church. Mr. Boyd exhibited many interesting curiosities, illustrative of Chinese pagan customs.

The Rev. H. C. Dixon, Diocesan Organizing Secretary, dealt with the Diocesan aspect of missionary work, laying special emphasis upon the spiritual life as the real and ultimate basis of all church finances.

The Rev. W. R. Tandy brought up the question of unifying the two funds, one now administered for home and foreign work by the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada, the other administered by the Diocesan Mission Board in the interests of Diocesan Missions. In answer to the question "Do the Diocesan Missions pay?" he said that some do not pay as well as a new mission might, in the West, supported by the same money. A central board, having control of the whole work, could alone tell where money could be most wisely expended.

Mr. Tandy moved, seconded by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, "That this Archdeaconal conference is of opinion that the unification of the Diocesan and General Mission Funds under the one management of the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada should be a subject of consideration at the next meeting of Synod. And in case such unification be found desirable, the conference expresses the hope that the services of the Rev. H. C. Dixon as a worker in the cause of missions will be still retained by the Diocese." The resolution, after discussion, was carried.

The Rev. W. J. Creighton read a paper on "The Craze for Speculation." By request, the paper read by Rev. Mr. Creighton is published in condensed form, as follows:

The title is a good one, for speculation certainly seems to be a craze at the present day. Opportunities for speculation, pure and simple, are offered to you on all sides continually, and you are assured that if you will invest a few dollars you will be a rich man in a few days, or at least in a year or so.

Again the name "craze" for speculation, is a good one, because there is a certain amount of natural speculation in all the ordinary business of life.

In the spring time the farmer divides off his farm and sows and plants it with different grains and seeds, and he does not always sow the same quantities of each, for he divides it, according as he thinks one thing or another will pay best that year. This is certainly speculating, and still no one will object to it, for it is perfectly legitimate speculating. Some new thing is invented which will be of use to a certain number of people, some one must manufacture it. The person who begins to manufacture it is certainly speculating for he does not know whether people will take it up quickly enough for him to carry on the business, or not; if they do he is all right—if they don't he fails.

If it requires a large capital he forms a joint stock company and puts the stock on the market. People say, "this is a new thing, I will give you 90 cents on the dollar for your stock," and the company is started on those terms. This is again another step in advance in speculating, and still where is it wrong? This is only ordinary, everyday business, and still it is all certainly speculating, but that does not certainly come under the heading "Craze for Speculation."

"Craze for speculation," seems to me to refer to that speculating which is done simply for speculation purposes, which begins and ends with speculation.

As an illustration we will take the above company. I put some money in it to manufacture a certain article, and if I leave that money in it so that it draws the ordinary profits accruing from the business, that is, in my mind, a legitimate business speculation. But on the other hand—we of course suppose that the company pays—the stock then is worth 100 cents on the dollar. I immediately sell and invest in something else, and as soon as it goes up sell again. There is here no question of business profits taken into account. The whole question is speculation profits. This is speculation, pure and simple. This then to my mind comes under the heading "Craze for Speculation," and everything of the same nature comes under the same heading.

We take all the large stock companies of the day and we find that their stock fluctuates continuously more or less in value, and still from year to year you draw exactly the same amount of interest on the face value of your stock. These fluctuating values then are all more or less fictitious, and are caused almost entirely by speculators who are buying and selling the stock to make money out of the transaction itself, and are therefore continuously trying to make the values fluctuate on the market, while the actual value probably does not change at all.

We hear a good deal about dealing in margins, which in another name for gambling with any stock, or the prices of wheat, corn, etc. And perhaps gambling in margins is done more largely in wheat than in anything else, though I believe it is done in nearly everything.

I am of opinion that the price of wheat is going to drop within the near future. I have not got any wheat. The uninitiated would say, well then you are safe. But the speculator says to his broker, "Sell 10,000 bushels of wheat for me," and he gives his broker, say $200 (a 2 cent margin.) Supposing he has made a mistake in the price fluctuations and the price of wheat goes up rather than down, just as soon as it has gone up 2 cents a bushel he loses his $200.00 (or rather a little before that as he has to allow for his broker's commission.) If he has judged rightly about the tendency of the prices and the price does go down, he then waits until it has gone down as far as he thinks it is likely to do just then and then he buys 10,000 bushels at that price. He has of course made the difference between the prices, less his broker's two commissions.

Now this man is nominally buying and selling wheat, but he does not really buy wheat because he does not want the wheat, and would not know where to put it if it was delivered to him and probably would not be able to pay for it in full if it was delivered. Of course the speculator will tell you that he does buy the wheat because he can demand it if he wants it, but he does not want it. And as a matter of fact the man spoken of above merely was making a bet on the price of wheat—he merely said, "I bet $200.00 that the price of wheat will go down, and if it goes up two cents a bushel, I lose my bet."

Again, in ordinary legitimate business I give any time or ability to the person from whom I get my profit. In speculating I give nothing to the person from whom I get my profit. I gain and he loses. It is not therefore just or right. That is it is wrong. And worst of all is the effect on the man himself. He begins in a small way to gamble, or call it speculate if you like. At first he does not worry much about it, but he gains a little and so he tries again and the excitement soon gets hold of him and it seems to blind him to everything and to absorb his whole being until he has time for nothing except his speculations.

I will read you a couple of short extracts from Frank Norris' book "The Pit," because the description of the Chicago wheat gambling is better than I could hope to give myself.

The gentle-mannered fellow, clean-minded, clean-handed of the breakfast table was one man. The other, who and what was he? Down there in the mark and grime of the business district raged the battle of the street, and therein he was a being transformed, case hardened, supremely selfish, asking no quarter. No, nor giving any. Fouled with the clutching and grapplings of the attack besmirched with the elbowing of low associates and obscure allies, he set his feet toward conquest, and mingled with the marchings of an army that surged forever forward and back; now in merciless assault, beating the fallen enemy under foot, now in repulse, equally merciless, trampling down the auxiliaries of the day before, in a panic dash for safety; always cruel, always selfish, always pitiless.

"I tell you the fascination of this pit-gambling is something no one who hasn't experienced it can have the faintest conception of. I believe it is worse than liquor, worse than morphine. Once you get into it, it grips you and draws you, and the nearer you get to the end the easier it seems to win, till all of a sudden, ah! there's the whirlpool."

P. S.—Don't forget the Wall Paper Sale we are holding. We are trying to get room by nearly giving it away.

C. B. ROUTLEY COMPANY.

It wears a man out, body, mind and soul.

The last paper on the programme was one by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, local secretary of the Children's Aid Society, on "The Treatment of Juvenile Offenders and Destitute Children." The subject was interestingly treated from a legal and philanthropic point of view.

The thanks of the Archdeaconry were tendered the clergy and church women of Peterborough, the newspapers, Dr. Rigby (special preacher) and those who had contributed papers to the conference programme.

Plants and Cut Flowers.

Now is the time to get fern pots filled. We show the most useful ferns for house purposes, and can supply pretty fern pots in various patterns. Handsome decorative plants, hanging baskets, palms and rubber plants. Double flowering begonias in rich colours. Beautifully variegated carnations; fine large double flowers. "JIMUEL BRIGGS."

A Kindly But Mirth-Provoking Sketch of the Well-Known Toronto Socialist, Mr. Phillips Thompson.

Although Mr. Phillips Thompson assisted other gentlemen in the work of warning English toilers to "keep away from Canada," as the advertisements have it, he seems to have fallen out with the unions which were engaged in the same endeavor. Phillips Thompson says unionism is effete and he declines to have anything more to do with it, writes Day by Day in Toronto News. This, from the author of "The Politics of Labor!" This from a publicist who has fought upon a hundred platforms side by side with the men whom he now pronounces to be all wrong! Surely Phillips Thompson knows that only a week ago it was announced that the District Labor Council represents well-nigh twelve thousand Torontonians. How can he expect to fight this phalanx? But it is easy to foresee Mr. Thompson's course. He will go on his way undismayed. His withers are unwrung and his courage is sempiternal. He has fought many a battle, all uncaring whether or not victory could be his. The principle of the thing has been what has always actuated the kindly Jimuel Briggs. In public life as denunciatory as a Robespierre; in private as mild as a Vicar of Wakefield, is Phillips Thompson. The things he says about capitalists and the things he says he would have done to capitalists are enough to make one's hair stand on end. Fire flashes from those mild eyes, and seething words come from behind these conciliating whiskers. This, though, is when it is time to discuss the iniquities of the social system. On other and social occasions the ferocity is replaced by a mildness and suavity that would sit well on a physician taking up practice in a new town.

However, Phillips Thompson's virile pen has been dipped in gall once more. His Socialists, he hastens to acquaint the public by way of the press, are the only genuine blown-in-the-bottle, see-registered-trade-mark Socialists. The public is warned to beware of all others, which are base imitations. Mr. Thompson writes a heart-curdling denunciation of the rival article, which leaves the well-meaning but obtuse reader in a state of wonderment as to which kind of Socialists he should join. Given an aspiring though ignorant young man who desires to become a Simon Pure revolutionist. How is he to know whether he is getting the genuine article, no matter which body he may cleave unto? If he be wise, he will not accept any ex parte statement from interested people. He might well demand affidavits in the well-known patent medicine style. Let the two clans get up their testimonials. Let them produce documents setting forth that the deponents have tried, as the case may be, this or that line of Socialism, and have experienced no benefit. And then should come the declaration that, having switched to the other brand, they immediately became cured of satisfaction and bovine acquiescence in the present social order, and were recognized by all thinking men as genuinely inoculated with the Socialistic (no offence meant) virus. Mr. Thompson should not leave the plow in the furrow.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are Clearing out Kidney Disease.

Richard Quirk, one of a Score Cured in One Neighborhood. Tells how Pains of Twenty Years Standing Vanished Before the Great Kidney Remedy

Fortune Harbour, Nfld., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—There are a score of people in this neighbourhood who suffered from Lame Back and other symptoms of Kidney Disease and who are now strong and healthy, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills. One of the most serious cases cured is that of Mr. Richard Quirk, and in an interview he says:—

"I suffered for more than twenty years from Lumbago and Kidney Disease. I almost always had a severe pain in my back, so severe that during intervals for years I was totally unable to work.

"Doctors and medicines gave me little relief and after ten or twelve years I had almost made up my mind that my trouble was incurable. Then reading of cures by them led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had not taken half a box before I experienced relief and after using seven or eight boxes I was a perfect cure and a new man. The cure was permanent."

Cure your Backache with Dodd's Kidney Pills and you will never have Bright's Disease.

Horse Sense.

During a heavy downpour of rain an Irish farmer sent his boy to a distant field to bring home a horse. Some time elapsed, and the messenger returned without the horse.

Father—Didn't Oi send ye for the horse, ye gamoch? Is your head in your brogues?

Little Boy (drenched to the skin)—Sure, he was standin' in shelter as dry as ye loike. Bedad, he knows more than the two of us.

Figuring on Prospects.

"Whah's yob father?" asked Aunt Cordelia.

"Gone huntin'," answered Pickaninny Jim. "He said you might as well git de fire stahted an' peel de taters fob a fine stew tomorrow."

125.8 MILES AN HOUR

THE LATE EXPERIMENTS IN ELECTRIC TRACTION NEAR BERLIN.

How the Velocity of 125.8 Miles an Hour Was Attained—The Tracks and the Demon Car—New Motor for Long Distance Service—Built by German Government for Experimental Purposes.

At the crowning culmination of three years of plodding persistence and the expenditure of more than $500,000, German engineers the other day realized their ambition to propel an electric railway train at the unparalleled speed of 125.8 miles an hour.

The Marienfelde-Zossen electric line, over which this record breaking time was made, is eighteen miles in length and is owned and was built by the German Government primarily for experimental purposes. At the last session of the Reichstag 280,000 marks was voted to put it in perfect condition for the latest tests. When the experiments were begun under Imperial auspices over two years ago thefeasibility of developing a speed of fifty miles an hour was one of the questions to be solved. A speed of nearly a hundred miles an hour was reached some months ago, when it was found that the roadbed and rails were not suited to higher speeds. A long interruption ensued to allow the road to be reconstructed. This was done along its entire eighteen miles of length. The seventy pound rails were changed for those of a hundred pounds in weight, and the road was rehallasted, and pine ties sheathed with oak were substituted for those removed. In brief, the roadbed was made as solid and secure as human ingenuity could make it.

It is generally recognized among electricians that there is practically no limit to the speed at which a car may be propelled by electricity, the only trouble being to provide for it a safe track and make the car itself strong enough to withstand the terrific friction. In providing the cars for these speed tests the same care in the matter of stability was exercised as in the preparation of the track.

THE CAR WITH WHICH 125.8 MILES AN HOUR WAS MADE.

The experiments are conducted jointly by the Siemens-Heiske and the German General Electric Company, and for the trials each built especially designed cars, both being equipped with what are known as "three phase" motors—that is, three conductors supplying the current.

The car with which the last test was made, developing the phenomenal speed of 125.8 miles an hour, was of the Siemens-Heiske build, having four motors, with a total of about 1,100 horse power. The current employed was between 13,000 and 14,000 volts, which was reduced by transformers to about 450 volts.

It is said that Emperor William is a silent partner in the Siemens-Heiske firm of electricians and that he has contributed several million marks of his private fortune toward these experiments. However, this may be, it is known that the Emperor takes a very keen interest in them.

The attainment of a high rate of speed is, however, not the only purpose of the experiments of the German electricians. An important feature of the work is the development of appliances for the safest and most economical use of electricity in car propulsion.

While not directly connected with the Marienfelde-Zossen experiments, the impetus given by Government patronage and encouragement to electrical research and inquiry has produced a new motor which promises to be of great importance in the development of electric railway service. This is the invention of a young Austrian electrician and achieves with apparently entire success what has not been accomplished hitherto, at least not in Europe—viz, it propels the full sized service car at any desirable degree of speed without employing any cumbrous and expensive regulating devices, while deriving its energy from a single phase alternating current of 6,000 volts, carried along the line on one small trolley wire and delivered directly to the motor without conversion to a lower voltage or a continuous current.

The importance of this demonstration, which will be at once recognized by every electrical engineer, will be apparent when it is remembered that electric traction, which has proved so effective and economical for interurban and suburban service, has met hitherto some very serious economic difficulties when applied to long distances.

The new motor is believed to have overcome in a very great measure these obstacles and opened the way to economical and therefore practical long distance electric traction on railways of standard capacity.

On the whole, the German experiments both in the matter of speed development and the perfection of electric traction appliance are of the utmost importance to the world and are highly creditable to German genius and ingenuity.

The new crop of corn is going to bring the producer above 40 cents if he sells it and more than this if he converts it into some form of meat product.

It is estimated that not less than 8,000,000 bushels of wheat, and good wheat too, were wasted in Kansas during the late harvest season for lack of help to care for the crop.

LONDON'S SHOPLIFTERS.

Methods Employed by Some of the Stores to Avoid Arrests.

Though there is every appearance in all the great London shops that the public is to be trusted implicitly, an elaborate and carefully organized system of espionage prevails to circumvent the designs of the peripatetic thief and the marauding kleptomaniac.

The invisible detective, whose office is some unsuspected gallery in the ceiling, whence from artfully designed peepholes in the molding he can survey the whole establishment, is the most successful foil to the shoplifter. But there are only a few shops so structurally designed that surveillance of this kind is possible. Some of the jewelers' treasure palaces are guarded in this manner, and to make assurance doubly sure no attendant is without his satellite, who keeps a wary eye on the cases of gems exposed to the customers' inspection, standing at the salesman's elbow while he is showing them.

At all periods a careful watch is kept on those dress establishments that are pervaded by women, but more especially at sale time, for it is then that covetousness overwhelms morality most easily, and the crowded state of the shops favors the picker up of unconsidered trifles. A manager of one of the largest establishments in the metropolis says it is in those departments that are not spacious that pilfering principally goes on and that in them detective supervision is always most acute.

Every shopwalker and counter attendant is in effect a detective, but there are some professionals who assume the guise to hide their real position. It is the duty of each attendant when he is suspicious of a customer to call the attention of the detective to her, not blatantly, but by prearranged sign. The detective then keeps the suspect under her immediate eye. In the large emporiums where women chiefly congregate the most efficient, because the least conspicuous, detectives are women, either employed as shopwalkers or as customers.

When an attendant misses or thinks he misses something or notices disturbing signs of thievery he speaks to the detective, who, as an elegantly garbed customer, seats herself in a position commanding a good view of the suspect and makes her purchases like any other woman, all the while gathering data upon which to proceed. The disguise assumed by the shop detective differs day by day.

If there be one result less desired by the shop proprietor than another it is to convict a kleptomaniac. Prosecutions do not forward business. The proprietor's policy is to prevent pilfering by every conceivable means. Hence a blind eye is turned to what is a theft in embryo, and the wretched shoplifter caught in the act of purloining a blouse under cover of her waterproof is asked whether the article may not be sent home for her. To the bulging umbrella or the gaping handbag the detective alludes with an apology, fearing that madam has inadvertently incommoded herself with something that fell from the counter.

First offenders are often cured by narrow escapes such as this from falling into the abyss that leads to the dock and gladly pay for the experience in coin of the realm as if they had all the while meant to purchase instead of to purloin the goods. Should leniency of such a kind fail to lead the trespasser back into the paths of rectitude the manager's office is made the scene of more serious negotiations, on which it is well to draw the veil. But as a rule it does not.—London Mail.

DEATH OF SIR MELVILLE PARKER.

Aged Baronet Passed Away at His Cooksville Home.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—The death occurred early yesterday morning at "Knoyle," Cooksville, of Sir Melville Parker, after a lengthy illness from paralysis. Sir Melville was in his 80th year, having been born in England in 1824, and succeeded to the title in 1877. He married Jessie Hector in 1847, who predeceased him four years ago. The end came peacefully, with him being his only daughter, Mrs. Gordon, widow of Lieut. Gordon, R. N., a niece and grandson. During his long residence in Peel County, Sir Melville identified himself very closely with its affairs, becoming a justice of the peace and holding in turn all the municipal elective offices, passing from Reeve of the township to the County Council and serving as Warden for several terms.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth, street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Temporarily Suspended.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—Manager McGuigan of the G.T.R., who returned yesterday from the west, states that the negotiations with the telegraphers have merely been temporarily suspended to be renewed again as soon as opportunity and time afford.

Fire at Plantagenet.

Plantagenet, Nov. 17.—At eleven o'clock last evening the Public and Model School Buildings were burned down. The fire is supposed to have started around the furnace. Insurance not known.

Not Afraid to Endorse It.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today. There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

CUPID AND THE MUD CLERK

By W. W. HINES

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

They rate on the company's pay roll as third clerks. Unofficially, but more correctly, they are known as mud clerks.

Jimmy Boynton was mud clerk on the big side wheel steamboat Rena Stanton, and he was proud of the fact.

Now, the chief clerk on a Mississippi river boat is a dignitary of no mean importance, while the second clerk is almost as impressive an individual. The mud clerk is the youngster who follows the foremost deck hand off the gangplank at every landing and checks the freight. When he jumps off the gangplank he generally lands in mud up to his knees. The reason why he never receives his rightful title of third clerk is obvious.

Some men might not consider this pleasant work, but it suited Jimmie. He knew, too, that the way of a mud clerk, if properly directed, leads to a chief clerkship and eventually to a post as captain. Meantime he was a happy go lucky sort of lad who was liked by every one from the captain down to the negro deck hands, more commonly known as "rousters."

On this particular evening he was at peace with himself, the world and even the rousters who were unloading the cargo of cotton on the levee. Jimmy was mechanically checking the numbers atop the bales, but a strange sort of inner consciousness was drinking in the beauty of the scene before him. The setting sun had turned the muddy waters to a sensuous, laving silver. Just beyond the ripples made by the slowly turning paddle wheels of the boat in the reverse motion necessary to counteract the force of the current lay a tiny island, formed by the cutting in two of a long, narrow sand bar. A few cottonwood trees nodded lazily on the wilful bit of land. To his right the old levee had crumbled away, and a new one had been built behind it, forming an artificial lake fringed with tall cottonwood trees and gnarled stumps of cypress. Across the stream the mighty force of water had cut into an island, and every time the boat passed up and down the river the contour of the bank had changed. Sometimes only a foot or two had been sliced away. Sometimes whole acres had disappeared.

It was a marvelous power, was this mother of waters, and yet Jimmie thought exultantly that he was master of it. He could ride it, turn its force into money, make it earn him position and promotion. And, thinking thus, he decided that he would not trade jobs just now with his own congressman. And then she came on the scene, and he suddenly discovered that it might be desirable to be a congressman after all and wear glossy boots and unstained trousers.

It all happened very suddenly—so suddenly, in fact, that he stopped in the midst of a mighty volley of very forcible language aimed at a lazy rouster, dropped his stub of a pencil and, in blissful ignorance of what he was doing, stood deliberately staring at the dainty vision tripping up the gangplank.

The vision wore something very fluffy and thin and blue, with something thinner still at her throat and wrists, something which fluttered about very coquettishly when she turned her head or lifted her skirts. And her broad flat hat was wreathed in the pinkest of pink roses. Jimmie had only one brief glimpse, but he remembered quite distinctly that the blue in her dress and in her eyes matched perfectly, likewise the pink in her hat and her lips.

Now, of course any authority on fashion could have informed Jimmie that the vision was most badly dressed for traveling, but to Jimmie "good form" was an unknown quantity. He decided that the vision must be a daughter of a railroad president at least, and probably had a million or two in her own right. Having reached this decision, he finished the volley of language, picked up his pencil and resolutely turned his back on the vision.

But visions such as Miss Lorena Thomas possess a haunting quality. The ladies' cabin, so called by courtesy, lay at the other end of the long, narrow, oval expanse, but Jimmie was thoroughly convinced that Miss Thomas could see his mud spattered garments as he rushed through his report in front of the clerk's desk. So expeditiously did he complete this task that the Rena Stanton had not got under full headway before Jimmie bolted into his tiny stateroom in search of the only other pair of trousers he possessed.

They met at the supper table, and when the meal was over Jimmie thanked his stars that, after all, he was only the mud clerk.

Both the first and second clerk had desk work before them, and Jimmie had only a long, lazy evening on deck, during which he could show Miss Thomas the beauties of his river life.

There were moments when this pleasure palled, however. That was when the soft, thin stuff at Miss Thomas' neck and wrists fluttered with a particularly elegant air or the pink roses in her hat bent with languid dignity in his direction. They seemed to remind him that daughters of railroad presidents with their purple and fine linen, which in this instance appeared in the form of forgetmenot blue and rose pink, were not for mud clerks, even if the latter had flattering prospects. He had about decided to lead up to the topic of her family when the Kate Adams hove in sight, and they leaned against the rail while Jimmie discoursed upon the feats performed by this the fastest boat on the river. In truth, Jimmie's ambition had once stopped with the captaincy of the Kate Adams, but now he thought with a sigh, "What is the Kate Adams after all?"

But he did not linger on the thought. Everything happened too quickly. Miss Thomas in her excitement had climbed up on the foot rail when the impertinent evening breeze took a fancy to the pink crowned hat. Away it went. There was a shrill shriek, and something blue and fluttering bent a little too far over and then went after the hat. And after both went Jimmie.

* * * * * * *

It must be admitted that under the influence of a blanket, some hot grog and the fulsome praise of one or two of his comrades Jimmie indulged in some romantic day dreams. He had a picture of a grateful railroad president, a pink and blue vision with downcast eyes and a brown eyed young man being very magnanimous, but nevertheless accepting a lifetime devotion in return for a cold plunge. Then the effects of the grog wore off, and Jimmie shook himself vigorously.

The next morning he stood diffidently in Miss Thomas' presence. Gone were the blue frock with its lace frills and the beautiful rose crowned hat. A very sober, sad eyed young woman clad in a simple gingham dress murmured her thanks.

Jimmie shifted from one foot to the other and tried to hide his embarrassment, but when Miss Thomas burst into tears he forgot differences of station and sat down beside her.

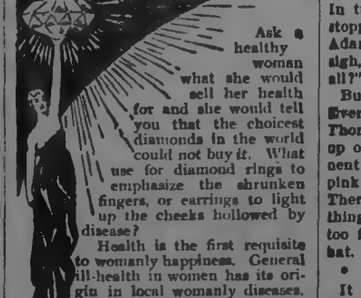
"Oh, I reckon you won't be any the worse for the ducking," he said by way of consolation, wishing he could take the sobbing figure in his arms and say something more comforting.

"It isn't the wetting I mind, but—but—my—oh, my dress! I sewed three weeks for Aunt Myra to pay for that dress, and I—I was so proud of it. I know I shall never have another one as pretty as long as I live."

"Yes, you will," declared Jimmie, with the air of a prophet who knew his calling. "Just you wait," he added mysteriously. "Why, you'll have one of 'em every summer; see if you don't."

The girl dried her eyes and looked at him in wonder, but he hardly noticed her expression. He was thinking ecstatically that you cannot always tell a railroad president's daughter by her clothes.

And it was not until Jimmie became chief clerk of the Rena Stanton and settled his bride and her widowed mother in a neat little cottage at Natchez that he discovered that very pretty muslin could be bought for 12½ cents a yard, with pink roses at 50 cents a spray. That was when he insisted upon choosing the bridal gown and ruled severely against the loveliest cotton back white satin at 87½ cents per yard.



Health is the first requisite to womanly happiness. General ill-health in women has its origin in local womanly diseases. Cure the diseases of the delicate womanly organism and the general health is perfectly restored.

The remarkable benefits experienced from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription are due to this medicine's perfect cures of womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' writes Mrs. Flora Arn, of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo. "I was tempted to try these medicines after seeing the effect upon my mother. At an early stage of married life I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me very weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of Favorite Prescription." After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got me two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Could Not Sleep At Night.

Was All Run Down.

Had No Appetite.

FOOD WOULD NOT DIGEST.

Mrs. I. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as

Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B B B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

Take Your Time Eating.

Here is an example that is worth remembering and following. Horace Fletcher writes of an experience that he had while traveling on a railway with the proverbial twenty minutes for dinner in which to satisfy a laboring man's appetite. There was an excellent array of good things on the lunch counter to eat and drink, and from these he made a selection rather than attempt the regular dinner. He chose plump ham sandwiches, creamy milk and a large piece of pie. The twenty minutes was ample time for disposing of sandwiches and milk, while he had the pie put in paper to give epicurean enjoyment on the train. He says:

"If I had put the pie and sandwiches and the milk into my stomach in seven or eight minutes, which, by actual observation, is the gluttonous rate of dispatching a station meal, I would have lost two-thirds of nutriment, more than one-half of taste and taken on twenty-four hours of discomfort, possibly inviting a cold and creating an 'open door' for any migrating microbes that were floating about in my atmosphere looking for strained tissue or fermenting food in which to build their disease nests."

Observation proves that you cannot get more nutriment into your stomach than salivation prepares, "gulp" though you may, but you can take in a load of disease possibilities in trying to force or evade proper salivation.—Cooking Club.

Women In Poland.

Polish women are renowned for their beauty, for the perfection of their hands and the smallness of their feet. Polish ladies maintain that when they shop in Vienna and show their small feet with the high instep to be fitted the tradesmen exclaim, "Ah, those are Polish feet!"

But their pleasure in this distinction is not so much a matter of personal vanity as of satisfaction in the superiority of anything belonging to their country, for they are fervidly patriotic.

The lady of position rises between 11 and 12 in the forenoon and goes to bed at 4 o'clock the next morning. She drives from one visit to another, but in reality she is laboring all day for public interests. Everything, the founding of a library, a hospital, a sewing school, is made to strengthen the Polish cause. Four ladies do not meet on a charity committee, says George Brandes, without taking some measure, under that innocent pretext, for the national benefit.

As a consequence of this charm and spirit, the women of Poland receive from the men a courtesy amounting to homage. Men always rise in a tram car to give a lady a seat. At any public place a chair may be ruthlessly demanded of even the most distinguished official present, with the sufficient explanation, "for a lady."

The Lay of the Bird.

"Oh, Mr. Jones, which of the song birds are you most fond of?"

"I prefer the hen, Miss Dorothy."

"But the hen isn't a singing bird."

"Well, it's the only bird whose lay I care for."

GAME IN CANADA.

Lots of It, Says a Man Who Has Been There Recently.

Warham Whitney, of Rochester, N. Y., was at the Holland House, New York, for a day recently, at the end of a hunting trip of several weeks in Newfoundland and New Brunswick. He was in the Adirondacks through August, and when September opened he was off for Newfoundland. "Plenty of game and fish—splendid sport," was his comment on his experience in Newfoundland. "Much of the country," said he, "is a marshy plain, but there is plenty of caribou. I saw more than three hundred of them—twenty-eight in one herd, and I brought some trophies of my marksmanship and good fortune home with me. Proof of the plentitude of game was the variety on one occasion in our camp larder. We had black duck, teal duck, caribou meat and trout. The big game in New Brunswick is moose. They come to the water night and morning, and the quiet coves, where they can stand in the water and nip the lily pods, is the place to get them unawares. I have the head of one I shot. Of course, one must endure some hardships on such a trip, but when it is all over the mounted heads upon the wall at home bring back the whole experience as a pleasing reminiscence. Up in Newfoundland quiet water surfaces, lakes and the like, are always 'steadies,' and the running streams are 'rapids,' while in New Brunswick the lakes are 'dead water,' the streams are 'quick water,' and a cove is a 'bogan.'"

Just Beyond Reach.

A band of Canadian Mormons, who recently attended the Salt Lake Conference, had a curious experience at the border line on returning. The Raymond, Alberta, Chronicle thus describes it: "At Coutts, when an inspection of the baggage was being made by the Canadian customs officials and the train was south of the line, a row was started between some cowboys on the station platform, and guns were drawn and used. The fracas took place within a few feet of the passenger coach, and one of the flying bullets came through a window and out the opposite side, passing within a few inches of Mr. and Mrs. L. King, and Mayor and Mrs. McCarty, showering them with chips of wood and broken glass. Within a few feet of the shooters were some Mounted Police, but the red line on the platform was between them, preventing an arrest. On the American side no peace officers were around. It is a matter of record that all these little incidents at Coutts take place south of the line, the prudence of belligerents never allowing them to get within reach of the Canadian law."

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Havelock, Nov. 17, 1903.

The Rev. Mr. Goodwillie and wife were in town last Wednesday on his way from the Mines to Campbellford

On Thursday last a very successful operation for appendicetis was performed by Dr. Holdcroft on Master Russel Joyce, who is now doing as well as could be expected.

A fast run was made by the O.P.R. last Thursday night from Toronto to Ottawa of seven coaches with about four hundred school teachers on their way to the convention. The train left Toronto at four p.m., arrived in Smith's Falls in the short time of five hours, and then a quick run over to Ottawa, making the running time one and three-sevenths (1 3-7) minutes to each mile travelled between Toronto and Smith's Falls.

The International Corresponding School Instruction Car has been in town the past week where lectures on the air brake of locomotives were given. This car is something special, fitted up with all the air brake improvements, and has a miniature engine thoroughly equipped with all the requirements of a modern locomotive, which looks very nice.

At a meeting of the Town Council last Wednesday night it was moved and seconded by Councillors Cooper and Thompson, that the town would take ten arc lights at sixty-five dollars per year each, for a period of eight years with the consideration of the Electric Light Company lighting the town hall for five dollars per year. This was agreeable and the papers have been signed to that effect since.

Mr. John King, while carting a load of cement for the Electric Light Company from Havelock to the site of the power house, had, while trying to replace a barrel that had became loose in position, his left arm broken badly.

Mr. William Porte, wife and son, Fred, of Owen Sound, while on their way to Winnipeg for a trip, stopped off here for a day to renew old acquaintances.

Mr. Charles Sheppard, fireman on the C.P.R., was called home to Lindsay very suddenly last Saturday on account of his little son falling off a wood pile and hurting himself very badly, leaving him in a serious condition.

Mr. Atkins, the Canadian General Electric Company's representative, was in town Monday and Tuesday, settling up the last business with the Electric Light Company, in regard to the stringing of the wires.

The Dean Stock Company was in in town Monday and Tuesday, playing Monday evening "East Lynne," and Tuesday night "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." This Company did very well. The last evening, after "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" had been played, a short concert was given which was very good.

An assembly is to be held in the Town Hall Thursday evening. The young ladies and gentlemen are looking forward to a pleasant time.

Mr. Wm. Webster has gone home to Toronto for a few days.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

HOCKEY.

The following letter was received this morning by Mr. E. S. Clarry:

Mr Clarry, Secretary of the Trent Valley Hockey League, Peterborough, Ont:

Dear Sir,—We have organized a hockey club in this place for the coming season, are having a good sized rink arranged for and at a meeting last evening the committee instructed me to write you asking for particulars and copy of rules, etc., in connection with your league.

Brighton, Trenton and one of the colleges in Belleville are playing the game this winter we understand and it was our idea to enter the league, having the four teams, Colborne, Brighton, Belleville and Trenton form one district.

Will thank you for the favour of a reply in this connection as early as convenient, with full particulars.

Yours truly,
E FRANK RAWSON,
Secretary.

This year it is expected that the league will comprise some eighteen or twenty clubs, and from all appearances a highly successful season is expected.

• • • •

The Belleville Intelligencer, commenting on the Peterborough Hockey team for the coming season, says: "So far we have had "a line" on every team likely to be in this group of the O. H. A. except Peterborough. Those 'foxy grandpas' up north are lying low, and the papers are not saying a word about their team. But the chances are they'll have a speedy septette, which will not go down and out so easy as it did last winter. Look out for the Petes; they're sawing a lot of wood."

• • • •

Just what league Cornwall will play in this winter is still an open question. If the Canadian Amateur Hockey League would let the Factory Town into its fold, which is its natural home, the game would receive a great impetus here. The people of Cornwall are still hoping that this will come to pass. Failing to get into the C.A.H.L. Cornwall will probably stick to the O.H.A. This is expensive and does not give many games, but it is preferable to dropping back into such intermediate company as the proposed Eastern Ontario League is likely to afford. In the O. H. A. senior series Cornwall is sure to meet a few foemen worthy of their best efforts. Ever since Cornwall has been represented in this association they have been climbing steadily towards the championship, and last year they slipped on the top-most round of the ladder, and lost the cup by one goal. Perhaps they will have better luck this season. They have a team which should be as strong or stronger than any that ever wore the blue and white. Several strong players who were candidates for a place on the team last year are now fit to hold their own with any puck chasers in Canada.—News.

• • • •

Galt is forming a city league, and the Reformer says: "The printers are doing some tall rustling after hockey players for the city league, and already they have a number of good men signed."

• • • •

Southampton has a flourishing ladies hockey club, which has recently reorganized for the season, and which promises to be fully as successful as that of 1902-03. The citizens in that town take an interest in the ladies' club and support it liberally. This suggests the reorganization of the Peterborough Ladies' Club. There is not the slightest doubt that there are sufficient players here to form a strong team, and one which would do credit to itself on the ice. It is to be hoped that this organization, which in past seasons has been successful, will be re-organized for the coming season.

RUGBY.

The Star has the following on the designs of the Victorias in the Dominion Intermediate Championship: "The Victorias are anxious to play for the Canadian Intermediate championship and if successful in their game against Peterborough on Saturday will meet the Westmount Club, Intermediate champions of the Quebec Union. The game this year is to be played in Toronto. The Victorias will be willing to play under the Quebec Union rules, and will ask for the match to be played on November 28th. Peterborough played last year in Montreal." Of course should the Victorias win on Saturday, they will have the right to play the Westmount team, but there are some who are not so sanguine as to the Victorias' chances on Saturday. The Peterborough team has twice won the Dominion Championship, and it would not surprise anyone here if they should this year add a third victory to their list of wins. The present indications are that a large crowd of supporters will accompany the team to Toronto on Saturday.

• • • •

Ottawa Citizen.—"Rev. Walter M. Loucks, rector of St. Matthew's Church, waited on the Executive and extended through it an invitation to the Rough Riders to attend service at St. Matthew's next Sunday evening. The Executive accepted the invitation and requests the Rough Riders to meet at Shillington's drug store at 6.30 o'clock sharp Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Loucks, who learned to play football at Trinity College School, Port Hope, will preach a sermon on athletic sports."

Rev. Mr. Loucks was formerly curate of All Saint's church, Peterborough, and was a warm supporter of sport then, as he evidently is now.

The Galt Reformer has the following:—"The man who has a haw-haw after the other fellow has finished gets the most enjoyment out of it. Last year when the Galt papers criticized Frank D. Woodworth, secretary of the O.R.F.U., for the decision he gave in the Hamilton-Galt game, which practically lost Galt the championship, the Hamilton press laughed and upheld Mr. Woodworth's decision. He was an honourable and irreproachable referee, they said.

"But the song has changed. Last Saturday, in the Varsity-Hamilton game, Mr. Woodworth did not please the Hamilton bunch and now the most agonising wail is ascending heavenward. From an honourable and irreproachable referee, Mr. Woodworth has become a villain, a deep dyed one. And all in a year. What awful degeneration."

DIED IN A STABLE.

William Jolley, a Painter, Went to Sleep and Never Awoke.

Durham, Nov. 19.—William Jolley, a painter, about 50 years of age, who had been off work for the past two or three weeks, and drinking somewhat freely, had his last drink Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock. He went into the Middaugh House stable and lay down for a sleep in one of the stalls. No further notice was taken of him until 10 or 11 o'clock when the hostler went to wake him up to send him to the Central Hotel, where he was boarding. He was astonished to find him stone dead. He hails from Owen Sound, where he has some relatives.

Arrested on Forgery Charge.

Toronto, Nov. 19.—Edward W. McDermott, who lives at 118 Fern avenue, was arrested last night by Detective Mackie. McDermott is wanted in Orangeville, where, it is claimed, he forged and cashed a check for $655, using the name of Thomas Quinn, a well-known business man of that town. McDermott has been in the employ of the Robertson Paint Company, Toronto. An officer from Orangeville will take him to that town to-day.

Grand Trunk Absorption.

Quebec, Que., Nov. 19.—The absorption of the Great Northern Railway system by the Grand Trunk Company is said to be almost an accomplished fact. It is even asserted that the whole Mackenzie and Mann system, both east and west, will be purchased by the Grand Trunk as part of the new Grand Trunk Pacific.

New Canal Treaty.

Washington, Nov. 19.—United States Secretary of State Hay and Mr. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the minister from Panama, at 6.40 o'clock last evening, signed the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty, providing for the construction of the Panama Canal by the United States. The only official admission that can be had is that the terms of that treaty are practically settled.

Sir Wilfrid at Laval.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke at the annual dinner of the Laval law faculty at the Place Viger Hotel last night. The Premier responded to the toast of "Canada," and his address was mainly devoted to advice to the students and reminiscences of the time when he was a young law student in Montreal.

Not Enough Protection.

Brantford, Nov. 18.—The Bailey Cutlery Company, manufacturers of scissors and hardware supplies, have closed their doors, and announced that owing to insufficient protection they will not be able to resume operations. The concern gave employment to between 50 and 75 hands, and there has been a capital invested of $90,000.

Murdered in Montreal.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Happenings of Interest at Lakefield.

Mr. Joseph Maude has moved his harness making establishment from the former quarters to the shop recently occupied by Mr. Isaac Jenkinson.

Mrs. H. Nelson of Essex, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Wm. McKibbon of the village, who is dangerously ill.

Mr. Smith of Toronto, paid a visit to Lakefield on Thursday in the interests of the Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. Brady of Toronto, was in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. Wheeler of Toronto, was in Lakefield on Wednesday.

Miss Ethel Cox, who has been visiting friends in Dummer, arrived home on Tuesday.

Mr. R. Johnston, who has been in Montreal buying drygoods, is back to the village having made large purchases for immediate shipment.

Mr. J. H. Sherin is in Toronto this week on business.

Mrs. R. Johnson left on Thursday for Clifton Springs, where she intends to stay a month or so for the benefit of her health.

The East Lynne Co., who played in the town hall here on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Nov. 11th and 12th, gave a very pleasing programme and were well patronized.

Mr. Emery White of Havelock paid a visit to his parents in the village this week.

Mr. Robert Cotton off Niagara Falls, who has been visiting his father-in-law, Mr. Wm. Smith, has returned home.

Mrs. Ray of Port Dalhousie, is the guest of the Misses Ray, of Queen street.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Lakefield curling club was held in the town hall on Monday evening. There was a good turn out of members, with last year's president, Mr. F. Amys, in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The financial statement was read, showing a small balance from last year. The officers elected for the coming year were:

Hon. President—Mr. E. R. Tate.
President—Mr. R. P. Davidson.
Vice-President — Mr. F. A. Kilbourn.
Sec-Treasurer—Chas. S. Tanner.
Committee of Management—Messrs J. W. Ridpath, R. Bravender, G. A. Baptie, J. C. Grylls and L. Payne.

After the election of officers a discussion followed as to the advisability of the club renting the rink for the season.

On motion Messrs. R. P. Davidson J. W. Ridpath, F. A. Kilbourn, R. Bravender and F. Amys were appointed a committee to canvas the village for members and report at a meeting to be held on Nov. 20th.

The meeting then adjourned.

Most of the hunters have returned from the woods and nearly all are much pleased with the hunt, having shot sufficient game to satisfy their lust for blood for another year.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 15th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week, —

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c

140 Ladies' and Children's Short and Three-quarter Length Winter Coats, black, grey and other colours; will be sold at ONE-THIRD regular prices.

THIRTY-ONE KILLED IN RAILWAY WRECK.

Terrible Results of a Head-on Collision on the Big Four.

Freight and Work Trains in the Smash—Wreck is Piled 30 Feet High on the Track—Only Four of Crew of Work Train Now Living and Two of these are Seriously Hurt—Twenty-One Bodies Taken Out.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 20.—Thirty-one men were killed and at least thirty injured in a head-on collision between a freight and a work train on the Big Four, between Mackinaw and Fremont. The bodies of 26 victims have been taken from the wreck, which is piled 30 feet high on the track. Five bodies yet remain pinned under the huge pile of broken timber, twisted and distorted iron and steel.

All the dead and most of the injured were members of the work train, the crews of both engines jumping in time to save their lives. The collision occurred in a deep cut, at the beginning of a sharp curve, neither train being visible to the crew of the other until they were within fifty feet of each other. The engineers set the brakes, sounded the whistle and leaped from their cabs, the two trains striking with such force that the sound was heard for miles.

A second after the collision the boiler of the work train engine exploded, throwing heavy iron bars and splinters of wood 200 feet.

Conductor John W. Judge of Indianapolis, who had charge of the freight train, received orders at Urbana to wait at Mackinaw for the work train, which was due there at 2.40 p.m. Instead of doing this he failed to stop. The engineer of the work train, George Bocker, had also received orders to pass the freight at Mackinaw, and was on the way to that station.

After working two hours the remains of 26 men were taken out. One of the last bodies recovered was that of William Bailey of Mackinaw, who had been lifted 30 feet into the air and held in place by two rails, which had been pushed up between the engine and the tender of the work train.

The injured were taken to the two cabooses of the relief trains, where temporary hospitals were improvised and their wounds taken care of. The dead will lie on the bank all night, or until the arrival of the coroner in the morning. The dead are residents of neighboring towns, and the scenes about the wreck last evening were beyond description. Wives and children of men who were missing thronged around, asking if their husbands or fathers had been killed. Out of 35 men who constituted the crew of the work train, only four are living, and two of these are seriously injured.

KILLED AT BURKETON.

James Hudson, Teamster, of Hayden, Struck by a Train.

Bowmanville, Nov. 20.—James Hudson of Hayden, a teamster employed on the new Bobcaygeon and Burketon Railway, was instantly killed at the C.P.R. crossing at Burketon early yesterday morning. He was driving a team of horses across the track to water them when the train came along and struck him. He was about 66 years of age and leaves a wife and family.

Died From Horse's Kick.

Barrie, Nov. 20.—As a result of a horse's kick Leon Proctor, second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Proctor, died yesterday morning. The accident occurred on the 11th inst. While the young man was grooming a horse the animal kicked him in the abdomen, inflicting internal injuries. Deceased was very popular and his death is very generally and deeply regretted. He was born in Richmond Hill and was in his 20th year.

Tired of Life.

Galt, Nov. 20.—William Hayhurst, aged 54, a native of Birmingham, Eng., employed as hostler at the Market Hotel here, was found dead in his bedroom yesterday morning, asphyxiated by escaping gas. It is believed to be a case of suicide, as Hayhurst remarked to several persons recently that he was tired of life and wished to die. Deceased, who had no relatives in this country, so far as known, was an old British soldier, having served in South Africa in 1882 and was the recipient of a pension.

Fell Fifty Feet.

Windsor, Nov. 20.—George Wardle of Chatham plunged 50 feet and struck the ground with dreadful force yesterday morning, yet, strange to say, not a bone in his body was fractured. While at work the scaffold upon which he was standing collapsed and Wardle fell. It is feared that the patient sustained internal injuries.

Doctor Broke Shoulder Blade.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Dr. Nansen of Whitby arrived at the General Hospital yesterday, suffering from a broken shoulder blade. While going his rounds in Whitby, at a good rate, his buggy upset, and he was thrown some distance, striking his shoulder on the frozen ground. He was immediately placed on the train and brought to Toronto. He is doing very nicely.

Torpedo Destroyer Sinks Smack.

Devonport, Eng., Nov. 20.—The torpedo destroyer Falcon collided in the Channel during the night with a fishing smack, which sunk, and all hands aboard drowned. The Falcon's bows were smashed and one of her crew killed.

Ashore in Snowstorm.

Owen Sound, Nov. 19.—The steamer Windsor of the Algoma Navigation Co., bound down from the Soo, ran ashore at Squaw Point early yesterday morning during the blinding snowstorm. It commenced snowing some time after midnight and snow fell to a depth of eight inches. Two of the crew came ashore in a boat and walked to the town and secured the tug Agnes, which attempted to pull the Windsor off, but failed. The passengers were transferred to the tug and brought to town.

Robbed King Edward.

London, Nov. 20.—King Edward, for the second time in his brief reign, has been robbed by a clerk in the office of the paymaster of the household. On this occasion cheques amounting to $2,500 were illegally drawn and cashed by Frank Lanham, who, yesterday, at Bow street police court, confessed and was committed for trial at the Old Bailey.

A WARM WELCOME.

Italy's King and Queen the Guests of the Lord Mayor of London—Doings of the Day.

London, Nov. 20.—The welcome of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy to London as the guests of the Lord Mayor and Corporation yesterday, was of a remarkably cordial character. From the moment of their arrival at Paddington Station, the royal procession passed beneath one long canopy of bright colors and triumphal arches, and masses of people gave Their Majesties a splendid reception.

Proceeding through Hyde Park, the King and Queen reached the Italian Embassy, where was stationed a guard of honor of Garibaldian veterans. Entering the Embassy, Their Majesties held a reception and received addresses from the Italian colony.

The scene at the Guild Hall was very brilliant. The Lord Mayor, Sir James T. Ritchie, met the guests at the entrance of the historic city hall, and conducted them to the library, where the Corporation's address was presented in a gold casket. The banquet was then served. After the Lord Mayor had toasted King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, His Majesty replied to the Lord Mayor, thanking him in behalf of himself and the Queen for the splendid hospitality extended to them and for the address of welcome. The Italian King and Queen left the Guild Hall amid a fanfare from the city trumpeters and the cheers of the public crowded thoughfares without. Their Majesties took a train from Paddington for Windsor.

At the convocation of Oxford University yesterday morning the degree of doctor of civil law was by diploma conferred on King Victor Emmanuel.

Shortly after the return to Windsor of the royal personages and their suites the Italian Foreign Minister, Signor Tittoni, had a conference with Lord Lansdowne, the British Minister of Foreign Affairs, and later was granted an audience by King Edward.

The British and Italian Sovereigns dined together last night in the oak-room of the castle.

After the dinner Their Majesties were present at the performance of "David Garrick" in the Waterloo Chamber by Charles Wyndham and his company, given under royal command.

CANADIAN MAIL CONTRACT.

Allans Have No Official Notification of the Award Yet.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—No official intimation has reached the Allans at Montreal of the award of the Canadian mail contract. The Allan Line Company sent in two tenders, one for an eighteen-knot service for freight and passengers, and second for a twenty-two-knot service for passengers and very little freight. It is not known which of these two has been accepted, but particulars may be looked for to-day.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1903.

THE EXPLANATION IS EASY.

Some United States papers are given to generalizing too rashly on Canadian sentiment from single incidents. The vigorous Canadian objections to the Alaska award have been seized upon by some organs as an evidence that Canadians were leaning towards annexation. The Hamilton Times says, the absurdity of such a conclusion based on Canadian objections to being robbed of territory by the United States does not appear to have crossed the minds of those one-idea editors. Another class of journals build a theory that Canada is very hostile in feeling toward the United States because a United States flag was hissed in a Montreal theatre.

Of course the two theories are irreconcilable; as a matter of fact they are both wrong. The plain fact is that there was never in Canada so little dissatisfaction with our condition, never so confident a hope in our country's future; and never was it so hard to find a Canadian who would be willing to join our lot to that of the republic to the south. There is no annexation party in Canada; an annexationist would be a rare curiosity. We are too busy building up Canada, and too well satisfied with our success in the work to think about change in our status.

And it is not true that there is "intense hostility" toward the United States, as has been alleged. True, our people feel that United States politicians have in the past treated us rather churlishly; and they haven't forgotten the taunts and threats that we would be frozen into abandoning our national aspirations and forced to "beg" for admission into the republic. Nor do they think that the United States exhibited any marked degree of generosity in the Alaska matter. But they're not worrying or harbouring malice; they have confidence in Canada, and they know that a manly, independent course will in the end win even Uncle Sam's respect. Moreover, the Yankee as an individual is a pretty decent chap, although, as a politician he is not always governed by ethical rules which Canadians respect, and we have hopes for his politico-moral reformation yet.

But the flag-hissing is easily accounted for. There are plays which are historically false and which are a gross libel on the people whom the playwright sought to caricature, and which skilfully misrepresent their principles and conduct, yet which are assured of the hearty applause of a certain class of the United States people. But when the manager of such plays has the bad taste and effrontery to attempt to present such plays before the people intended to be slandered and lampooned by them, he must not be surprised if some of those people show their resentment. Canadians are no "dumb, driven cattle," and conscientious Yankees respect them for indignantly resenting insults of that kind. Imagine what would happen to a company that would in a United States town put on a play glorifying Benedict Arnold and presenting George Washington as a traitor and a drunken butcher of women and children! He would deserve more than hisses—and he would get all he deserved!

CANADIAN NICKEL.

The Bruce Mines in western Ontario, are reported as sold to the Canadian Copper Company. The Chicago Mining World of October 24th, says that the sale has been made to the International Nickel Company, which is the Canadian Copper Co. reorganized, and a Chas. M. Schwab property. The price paid was $600,000.

The Bruce property has been one of the best known mines of the west for over half a century, and was brought for its value as a flux in the smelting operations of the International Company in its new furnaces at Sudbury. The mines have been idle for a year or so, be for which date for a short time they were operated by Lord Douglas of Hawick, for an English syndicate. Before that time they were idle for over twenty years. In their early days the mines produced more than $8,000,000 in copper, and were at one time the largest mines operated on this continent by British capital.

C. M. Schwab brought up the International Company from Rockfeller in the hope of cornering the world's supply of nickel. The company is now completing at Sudbury additions consisting of four new furnaces, to cost over $1,000,000. During the past year, says the Chicago World, a party has been secretly buying up all nickel properties and mines in the Sudbury region that have been available, and large sums have been spent. Nobody seems to know or to be able to guess who the party is, but it is supposed that developments of the greatest interest to the world, so far as the nickel industry and armour plate making are concerned, are about to be made, or, indeed, have been made.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Stratton, says the Globe, has invited the newspapers, which have been hinting that the purchase of Gamey's stock was prompted by him, to put their charge definitely and he will give them an opportunity to establish their accusation in the courts. A "horrent pausa" has occurred in the campaign of slander, although one paper arises to say that the question is not a material one. Will some of the cocksure and responsible journals oblige the Provincial Secretary? Don't be bashful.

Not Afraid to Endorse It.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today. There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY VEDETTE.

The non-commissioned officers class of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, it will be noticed, by reports published in the Examiner, been begun this year, and at present consists of from eighteen to twenty men. So far three meetings, which take place every Wednesday evening in the drill shed, have been held and the class, under the direction of Sergt-Major Brittain, has been put through some preliminary work. Men wishing to join the class, which is very beneficial, and only occupies one and a half hours each week, must join at once as the entry list will soon be closed.

The loss of Captain MacPherson will be severely felt by both officers, noncoms and men of the 57th. Although somewhat of a hard company commander he was universally liked, and it is not probable that the regiment will have the good fortune of having such another smart young officer for at least some time to come. It is rumored that Lieut. Glover intends to resign his commission, but the report is yet unconfirmed.

• • •

The cheque for the pay of the Guard of Honour which was called out to receive the Governor-General, when he passed through Peterborough last summer, has now been received, and the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the guard are requested to call at the office of the pay master, No. 415 Water street, where they will receive their money.

The absence of Lieut. E. O. Bradburn of the 14th Battery, Field Artillery, will be a distinct loss to the local company as well as to the entire battery, Mr. Bradburn having been connected with the regiment for a number of years. It will be pleasant news to military men to know that Mr. Bradburn, who is at present in the Canadian North-west is getting on exceedingly well.

• • •

A militia order says that, with a view to placing the administration of the department of militia and defence upon a more satisfactory basis, it has been decided to transfer the custody, care and issue of arms, clothing, equipment and military stores of all descriptions from the civil to the military branch, and to establish a military corps to be known as the "Ordnance Stores Corps." The command of the Ordnance Stores Corps will be exercised by a director-general of ordnance, who shall hold the rank of colonel.

To be first-class stations—Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec.

To be second-class stations—London, St. John, Halifax.

To be third-class stations—Victoria, Winnipeg and Charlottetown.

The uniform will be that of the army ordnance corps in the imperial service.

General Baden-Powell was the guest of the Anglo-Saxon Club in London, England, a few days back. He was presented with a casket and an escritoire, made in New Zealand. Replying, the general said that in South Africa all the colonials were good but the New Zealanders showed all the rest the way.

It will be noticed that the much respected general did not specify whether the New Zealanders showed the way to the rear or tot he front; certainly not the latter, because the Canadians did that.

An instrument which is destined to play an important part in the warfare of the future is the hyposcope which enables a marksman to fire with accurate aim without exposing himself to the fire of the enemy. The device was invented by Mr Wm. Youlton, of Brighton, England. Mr. Youlton first conceived the idea of such an instrument after the battle of Colenso in the Boer war, during which it is stated that not a single boer was to be seen, and it occurred to Mr. Youlton that a combination of reflectors might be arranged which would enable the British soldier to remain entirely concealed when in action. The rough model which he constructed as a result of these deliberations immediately elicited favourable comments on all sides and it was not long before he received an order for a number of these instruments from the British War Office. These instruments were employed with good results during the remainder of the war, their use at Mafeking having received particular mention.

The hyposcope is adapted to be secured to the stock of the rifle near the breech. It consists of a series of mirrors mounted in a tube of inverted L shape; the shorter arm lies across the barrel of the rifle, while the longer arm hangs down at one side. The first mirror reflects the light coming in along the barrel of the rifle to a second mirror at the elbow of the instrument, which directs the rays downward to a mirror at the lower end of the tube, and thence it passes out at right angles to the eye. Thus on looking in at the eye piece one can see the sights of his rifle, and take accurate aim while holding the gun above his head. The entire instrument is very compact and light weighing about a pound. It is provided with a holster in which it may be encased to prevent it from sustaining any injury when not in use. The parts however, are not liable to be easily injured. In case a mirror is broken a new one can readily be slipped into the old frame.

The advantage of this instrument in actual warfare will be apparent to all. Only the muzzles of the rifles are exposed to the enemy, and the soldiers are entirely concealed in the trenches. But aside from its advantages as a means of protection, the device will be found to greatly increase the effectiveness of the firing. It is stated that during the Boer war only one cartridge out of seven thousand was effective, which only goes to show how nervous, a man is under fire, for no such work would ever be tolerated in target practice. The fear of being shot while taking aim makes the soldier fire hurriedly and at random; with the hyposcope attached to his rifle no fears will be entertained, and the soldier may fire deliberately and with perfect aim. The same instrument has also been designed for use on Maxim guns, on which it will be particularly useful, judging by experiences in the Boer war, for these guns were always the centre of a concentrated fire.

Monday Col. Montizambert's leave of absence expired and his tenure of office as D.O.C. of military districts Nos. 3 and 4 came to an end. The gallant colonel has had thirty-five years' service in the Canadian militia, and few officers have had a more successful career, or whose departure from office created such profound regret. Col. Montizambers leaves office simply because he has reached the age limit.

Owing to the delimitation of the Alaska boundary made by the tribunal which recently sat in London, the North-west Mounted Police may have to abandon two of their posts in the Dalton trail, the one at Wells, where the Chilkat and Klemond Rivers join and the other at camp Pleasant where Glacier River and Klehent River meet. The Alaska tribunal decision gives the Unites States twenty miles more of territory northwest of Chilcoot Pass than that enjoyed under the provisional boundary. Pleasant Camp, the more northerly of the two posts, is a beautiful location, and the buildings erected by the police were of a substantial and comfortable type.

The Question of Baldness.

This is a vital question with hundreds of men who are bald or partially so. How to overcome the disfigurement lent by baldness is a simple matter when you consider the perfection of modern art in the making of Wigs and Toupees. The visit of Prof. Dorenwood of Toronto to Peterborough on Wednesday, Nov. 25th, when he will be at the Oriental Hotel, renders it possible for any who wish to consult him to do so at his private apartments retained at the Oriental Hotel for this purpose. Demonstration given to show the perfect naturalness of his Wigs and Toupees. Do not miss this opportunity. Remember, the days and andd ates.

REVISE THE TARIFF.

Resolutions Passed By Executive of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—The executive of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association met yesterday and passed these two resolutions, which form the keynote of their policy:

"We favor an immediate revision of our present Canadian customs tariff and the adoption,

"First, of a general tariff, framed to meet Canadian conditions, based in principle, upon and approximative to that now in force in the United States, a tariff that shall protect Canadian industries and pursuits as efficiently as the tariff of the United States' protects the industries of that country.

"Second, we favor a policy of reciprocal preferential trade within the British Empire, whereby, through readjustment of their respective fiscal systems, the United Kingdom and her colonies will each grant to the products of the other a substantial preference as against the products of foreign countries."

ELECT PRESIDENT BY DIRECT VOTE.

Favored by A. F. of L.—Would Also Exclude All Asiatic Immigrants.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—A resolution favoring the election by direct vote of the people of the President, Vice-President, members of the Cabinet and the United States Senators, Supreme Court judges and attorneys-general of the several States of the Union, was adopted yesterday by the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The convention adopted resolutions calling for the extension of the Chinese Exclusion Act to Japanese, Coreans and other Asiatics, and that the measure continue in force in the insular possessions. A bill embodying these resolutions will be presented to Congress.

Would Convene High Jointer.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Representative Williams (Mississippi) introduced a resolution yesterday declaring:

"That the House of Representatives would view with pleasure and heartily endorse initiative steps taken by the President of the United States towards reconvening the Joint High Commission appointed by Great Britain, the Dominion of Canada and the United States for the purpose of considering freer and more amicable trade relations between the United States and the Dominion of Canada."

Will Build at Ottawa.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—The International Harvester Company has had plans prepared by its construction department for a number of structures to serve as offices, salesrooms and warehouses in various cities throughout the Northwest. Among those on which immediate work is ordered is a two-storey structure, 80x90 feet, at Ottawa, Ont., to cost $12,000.

STRANGE STATEMENT

Great Britain is Accused by a French Deputy.

SAYS SHE IS MISCHIEF MAKER

Policy of Great Britain Is, He Says, to Try to Raise Issues Between the United States, France and Germany, to the End of Increasing Rapprochement of Britain and Russia.

Paris, Nov. 20.—In the presence of a crowded chamber Deputy Deschanel (Republican), former President of the Chamber, began yesterday afternoon the discussion of the Foreign Office budget. He expressed the view that it was the policy of Great Britain to create issues between the United States, Germany and France, which must aid in the rapprochement of Great Britain and Russia.

M. Deschanel said France had no intention to make war upon Morocco. France wished neither military adventures nor the partition of Morocco, and she had no desire to conquer Siam. There existed no question that could not be settled by diplomacy or arbitration. The Deputy further declared that those who were responsible for armed peace were those who refused to discuss the proposition for disarmament. It would be a crime, he added, to raise issues between Great Britain and France. The relations between France and Italy were most friendly, but the alliance with Russia must be the corner-stone of French policy.

A MAN CAN'T WORK

When He is Suffering With Piles.

Just a little pain may so distract a man's mind that it will cost him hundreds of dollars. Life is a battle. To succeed one needs all his energies and all his brain force to apply to the question at hand Even a corn will make him irritable, cross, angry—and an angry man seldom succeeds. The trifling pain of a corn is a pleasant feeling beside the agonizing ache of piles. That is a pain which seems to pervade the the whole body It communicates itself to all the parts near the seat of the trouble, and brings on a heavy, dragging feeling in the perineum. Those who have never so suffered do not know what it means. It racks the nerves, prevents sleep, prevents concentrated thought, and makes a man lose flesh as fast as he would with a virulent fever.

And yet piles are looked upon as a little thing. They are neglected —allowed to run on from month to month and year to year By and by comes a dangerous surgical operation. Maybe it cures—maybe it kills.

There is only one sure, safe and quick cure for piles. It is the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is a recent discovery, and its properties are such that it cleanses, soothes and heals the inflamed parts, reduces the inflammation at once, and with continued treatment removes all swelling and all trace of the disease. It puts the membranes in a healthy, active condition and cures completely and permanently.

From Samuel Victor, Detroit, Mich. "I have not written you sooner because the first box of the Pyramid Pile Cure I used helped me so much I wanted to wait until I was completely cured, and so it was after using three boxes of your Pyramid Pile Cure, I am entirely cured of the terrible disease from which I have suffered for six months, and now I am using Pyramid Pile Pills, which help me very much."

From B. H. Palmer, Windsor, Cal. "I have been troubled for fifteen years with piles, and have tried different salves and ointments, but never came across anything like your Pyramid Pile Cure. I used two 50 cent boxes three months ago, and they have made a complete cure, and I am recommending them to everyone I know to be afflicted. Thanks for the cure."

From Thomas A. Nixon, 854 North Bambrey street, Philadelphia. "It is now time that I should let you know that I am cured of bleeding piles. If you only knew how I have suffered from them for the last nine years in pain. Last April I went to the drug-store, and bought a 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure, and I found at last a good cure. I had spent dollars trying to get cured of my piles; all others have failed to cure me, and now I am happy to have a good sleep and be able to work also."

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists generally. If yours doesn't keep it he will get it for you if you ask him. Book on the cause and cure of piles sent free. Address Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich

ANXIOUS ABOUT STR. ERIN.

Left for Soo Last Week Last Seen Tuesday, With Machinery Disabled and Laboring in Sea's Trough.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 20.—The steamer Erin, owned by J. & T. Conlan of Thorold, which left Fort William on Thursday last, has not reached the Soo, and much anxiety is felt for her safety. She was reported seen by the steamer Samuel Mitchell on Tuesday with her machinery disabled and laboring in the trough of the sea. She asked for assistance, but the Samuel Mitchell could not give it.

Capt. John Sullivan of Toronto left here last night with the tug Ainsworth to look for the Erin, upon which his brother is captain.

The Erin's consort, the Danforth, is safe in harbor on the north shore.

Capt. Patrick Sullivan of St. Catharines is in command of the Erin. He is one of the best-known and most popular skippers on fresh water and has been with the Conlons for many years. He has several daughters in a convent in Toronto.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—The Canadian Inland and Ocean Navigation Line steamship, Toronto, which sailed from Rotterdam on Oct. 31, and from Newcastle on Nov. 3, for Montreal, has not yet been reported. She passed Dunnet Head, Scotland, on Nov. 4, and signalled "Delayed owing to steering gear being disabled."

CANADIAN WOOD PULP.

Reversal of a Recent Decision and Practice in the United States.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Board of Classification of the United States General Appraisers yesterday announced another decision regarding wood pulp from Canada. Some time ago the board decided that a countervailing duty must be put on wood pulp, imported from the Province of Quebec, under the provision in paragraph 393 of the tariff of an additional duty, when the country or dependency of origin imposes an export duty. In such a case the countervailing duty is to be equal to the export duty.

It was held in the previous duty that a license imposed by Quebec on wood cut for pulp on public land was equivalent to an export duty. In the present case the pulp, which is mechanically ground, came from the Province of Nova Scotia. The collector at New Haven assessed a duty of 25 cents for each cord of pulp wood used, under instructions from the United States Treasury Department. The importer, William Bangs, protested, and his protest is now sustained. It was shown that the pulp was made from wood grown on land owned by private persons and not on lands leased from the Government, and also that neither the Dominion of Canada nor the Province of Nova Scotia imposes any rate, tax, assessment or other charge upon the pulp.

Cape Colony Election.

Cape Town, Nov. 20.—The Synod of the Dutch Reformed Church has resolved to lodge a protest with the Government on the subject of martial law grievances. Nearly all the speeches were the most violent of any recorded since the war. The Rev. A. J. Steytler said that the Synod was the best representative of the Afrikander nation, for in Parliament they had to mix water with their wine. All kinds of grievances were related, such as the locking up of elders and the using of churches as forts. One speaker said that the commandants had trodden them under foot, another that thousands of his sisters had been burdened. The discussion at times was so heated that the Moderator had to intervene.

Newmarket Inquest.

Newmarket, Nov. 20. The funeral of the victims of the boiler explosion will be held to-day, and will be attended by the fellow-employes of the unfortunate men. The injured are reported to be progressing favorably. Coroner Greenwood yesterday morning empannelled a jury, who viewed the remains, and then adjourned to meet again next Thursday evening. The cause of the explosion is still a mystery.

Premier in Good Health.

Montreal, Nov 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent yesterday in Montreal and received a large number of callers. Last night he was tendered a reception by the Montreal Reform Club, and several hundred Liberals paid their respects to the Premier. He will return to Ottawa to-day. The Premier is greatly improved in health

HOSTILE TREATMENT

Why Meet It Out to Canada for the Good of the Empire?

ASQUITH'S STRAIGHT QUERY

Canada Sends to Great Britain More Bounty-Fed Steel Than Either the United States or Germany — Mr. Thos. Shaw, M.P., Says This Country Will Be a Formidable Rival of the Mother Country.

London, Nov. 20.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Henry Asquith, speaking at Seven Oaks Wednesday night, said: "The Unionists, united, sing the chorus "Blessed is the word "Retaliation," some with full-throated conviction, others like Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, half-hearted, and with a tremulous quaver. Retaliation is put forward as a sticking plaster to reunite the fragments of a shattered party. Canada at present sent this country more bounty-fed iron than either the United States or Germany. Was Premier Balfour's system of retaliation for the good of the Empire to be applied by singling out Canada for hostile treatment?"

Bounty Fed Steel.

At a meeting yesterday of the Wolverhampton Chamber of Commerce, Theo. Shaw, Liberal, M.P., for Stafford, said that by far the greatest portion of the iron and steel imported into Britain was bounty-fed in Canada, and in years to come Canada would be a more formidable rival of this country then the United States.

Help British Farmers.

The War Office and Admiralty express a willingness to help the British farmer to dispose of his produce if he has a supply of what is needed.

Legal Pocket Picking.

Sir J. Brunner, speaking at Middlewich yesterday, said that protection meant legalized pocket-picking and the absolute power of monopolies over working men.

Praise From Cobdenites.

The Cobden Club has written Mr. Reid, opposition leader in Australia, commending him for the very gallant fight he is making for free trade in Australia.

Cartoon on Hicks-Beach.

The News says Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has his reward in a cartoon in The St. James Gazette depicting him ignominously returning from cold water Cobdenism to a retaliation bathing machine.

Sir Gilbert Speaks.

Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking at Westminster Wednesday, declared that superior technical skill would avail England nothing while the world combined to make us their auction mart for their annual clearing sales.

Will Know Tuesday.

Francis H. Clergue, promoter of the Sault Ste. Marie enterprise in Canada, said last night that the negotiations for the resumption of the works with British capital were not yet completed, but that an announcement would be forthcoming on Tuesday.

Unfair to Farmers.

At a meeting of the Glasgow and West of Scotland Agricultural Society a member said that the importation of grain and meat from the colonies while the colonies shirked their due share of defence expenses was grossly unfair to the home agriculturists.

Why Ignore Canadians.

Truth asks why London smart society runs after American and South African women and ignores Canadians and Australians. It says London will become a colony of Americans, and the ladies of the British Empire League should find a remedy for the grievance.

England Eats Too Much.

The editor of The Express, contributing an article on the popular question: "Are We Eating Too Much?" declares that of course we do. He says the motor car will not run on skim-milk and he finds the best result obtained by the omission of bread and butchers' meat.

The Foremost Statesman.

Mr. Laur, the distinguished French economist, says he considers Mr Chamberlain the foremost statesman of the times, and compares him to a morning bellman, awakening a slumbering country. Like Napoleon and Bismarck, he has no scruples. When his projects become law, America would fire off a few squibs and leave Germany to fight the battle.

Time Will Tell.

The Standard, referring to Mr. Chamberlain's referendum statement, says: "He cannot seriously suppose that we will adopt it. Time will facilitate the progress of his local campaign. The British constitution, imperfect as it is, cannot be revolutionized, as is the case when we are asked to throw all our economic system into the melting pot."

Trade With East Coast.

Charles Wilson, M.P., at a meeting of the Hull Chamber of Commerce and Shipping, said that it had been stated that if they carried on trade with the United States they might also with Canada, but there practical knowledge came in. There were the drawbacks of Hull's geographical position, the dangers of navigation of the St. Lawrence and the want of outward cargo. It was, Mr. Wilson held, utterly impossible that trade with Canada could ever be carried on from the east coast.

Protestants Protest.

The Council of the Imperial Protestant Federations have passed a resolution protesting against any effort being made by His Majesty's Government toward establishing diplomatic relations with the Vatican. The Council says they desire to point out that the holding of such a commission to the See of Rome is distinctly forbidden by the laws of the realm, and that an overwhelming majority of His Majesty's subjects in the United Kingdom and the colonies is utterly opposed to any attempt being made to restore diplomatic relations with the Pope of Rome.

They are admirably adapted for wall decorations in dining rooms, dens and boudoirs. A. H. Stratton & Co.

ALL SAINTS' ANNUAL HARVEST DINNER

Was a Great Success as was the Entertainment Which Followed.

An Excellent Programme was Provided — Speeches by Rev. Mr. Potter and Rev. Mr. Bastow.

The annual Harvest Dinner and entertainment given by the Ladies of All Saints Church last night in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, was attended by an exceptionally large number of persons notwithstanding other counter attractions. The dinner, which began at 5.30 o'clock and continued until 8 o'clock, was excellent in point of both quality and quantity, while the fact that the concert was thoroughly enjoyed was evidenced in the hearty approval of each selection.

The programme opened with a piano solo by Miss Ida Mulholland, which was well played. The audience demanded an encore which was graciously responded to. Miss Mary Rush, next gave a vocal solo, accompanied by her sister, Miss Lillian Rush. The selection received its deserving encore. One of the chief attractions of the evening was the singing of the All Saint's quartette, who gave two numbers, "Stars of the Summer Night," and "Junita," both of which were encored.

Rev. J. G. Potter gave an interesting address. After expressing his pleasure at having the opportunity in speaking on this occasion, the speaker dwelt on the enjoyment of others company. Continuing Rev. Mr. Potter said we should all adapt ourselves to the church's work, and try to make the house of worship an attraction to all. Good music in church, he said, had on more than one occasion attracted persons who were not regular attendants. They had there got some of the Gospel seed which might not otherwise have fallen to them. In conclusion he said the church where there was no discord, but where there was unity in purpose and security in action, there would the most success be achieved; thus it was the duty of all of us to harmonise the church as much as possible.

Mr. Potter's address was followed by a vocal solo by Mr. Jas. Legg, which was encored. After Mr. Legg had responded, Mr. Rogers gave a delightful cornet solo, which in turn was followed by a vocal selection by Mr. Berkley.

Rev. Mr. Bastow next addressed the meeting in a few words, congratulating the committee and the church generally on the success of the evening.

Mr. J. Browne followed with a vocal solo, which was received with loud applause.

After a few words from Rev. W. L. Armitage the entertainment closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The coffee used at the supper was Chase & Sanborn's brand, supplied by Messrs. E. F. Mason & Co.

PROF. HUTTON AND HERODOTUS

An Intensely Interesting Lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Hall To-night.

The public is again remined of the lecture to be given to-night by Prof. Hutton, Principal of Toronto University and Professor of History, upon the subject of the "Wit and Wisdom of Herodotus." The lecture, which is given in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, under the auspices of the public-spirited C. D. A. Club, will be very well worth hearing—both the subject and the lecturer being intensely attractive. Herodotus Yolept, "The Father of History," as many of us knew to our sorrow in our school days and with delight after mature judgment ripened our appreciation of of his pre-eminence as a story teller such as he was to a greater extent than the ordinary historian. Though he flourished about 2,450 years ago, yet Prof. Hutton in his intensely interesting way, makes his wit and wisdom sparkle in a most fascinating way. Thus over the interval of twenty-four centuries two great minds collaborate to furnish an hour of intense intellectual enjoyment to-night. Miss Georgia Donnistoun and Miss Lillian Moore will assist in the programme which opens at 8 o'clock promptly. The public is cordially invited to be present.

HEAVY DOCKET AT POLICE COURT.

Number of Criminal Cases Tried This Morning Before Police Magistrate Dumble.

The members of the Police Department are working over-time these days. An unusually large-sized docket was on this morning. Barney Burton and Fred VanNorman were charged with having stolen a large assortment of fancy articles, of varying degrees of usefulness, from Mr. Cobb, while the latter was away in the woods hunting. After considerable evidence had been taken the police magistrate reserved judgment until to-morrow.

James Hayes was up on two charges of stealing, one of having taken a bottle of whiskey from Alex. Elliott's warehouse, and the other of having participated in the Cobb robbery. On these two charges he was acquitted, but was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison on a charge of vagrancy.

John Richardson, on a charge of having received stolen goods, knowing them to be such, was given until Saturday to await the decision of the Magistrate.

A young man was up on a charge of vagrancy, but the evidence did not sustain the charge and the case was dismissed.

Allen Payne and William Wasson were charged with having done damage to the Government dam at Indian River, about the 15th or 16th of October, by removing stop-logs. The case was adjourned until Friday, Nov. 27th.

The facts in connection with the case are; Mr. Payne and Mr. Wasson are owners of mills on the Indian River, and not having had sufficient water with which to operate their mills, asked as they claim, repeatedly, the caretaker of the dam at the head of the river, to allow them the quantity of water to which they were entitled. This request not having been granted, and the mills being idle for some time because of no water they took out the stoplogs themselves, which they claim they had a perfect right to do.

LADIES AUXILIARY CONCERT A SUCCESS.

Favorite Artists Visit Peterborough and Delight Large Audience.

Owen Smiley, Harold Jarvis and Miss Alice Dean in Music and Story — A Musical Treat.

Never has a better pleased audience left the opera house than that with which the Jarvis-Smiley-Dean Company was greeted last night, and had they not been pleased, their ideas of what constituted an enjoyable entertainment would have been extremely erratic. The hall was well filled with the most critical audience it would be possible to find in Peterborough and the enthusiastic applause with which each number of each of the artists was received, showed unmistakably that they well sustained their reputation. The members of the ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A., under whose auspices the concert was held, are to be congratulated upon its success, and deserve commendation for their enterprise in bringing to the town such accomplished artists as those who appeared in the opera house last night.

The concert was a distinct treat, particularly so in a musical sense, which was, of course, the dominant feature.

Harold Jarvis, who is described as a tenor, but the description would be more nearly correct were he said to possess a high baritone voice, is not by any means a stranger to Peterborough audiences, but it is safe to say that never has his reception here been more cordial than it was last night. He was recalled after every number, it fact it seemed that his listeners could not hear him often enough. His voice has lost none of the clear rich tone which first made this young artist a favourite wherever he appeared. In fact, it was remarked by many that he never sang as well as he did last night. His first number, "Rejoice in the Lord," was sung with a very pleasing interpretation of the composer's spirit, and to the lighter encore, "The Stein Song," he gave an expression which was entirely new, and showed that he was not afraid to depart from the older ideas of shading and expression, and gave the selection a new touch of brightness. "Boys will be Boys," from the opera, "Mr. Pickwick," was the next number by Mr. Jarvis, to which an encore was demanded, and graciously responded to. He next sang "The Bay of Biscay," the recall number being the sacred solo, "Face to Face," the rendition of which was greeted with thunderous applause. His last number, "Sing Me to Sleep," with violin obligato by Miss Dean, was a sweet winning song, and rendered with a feeling and sympathetic expression which made it an additional pleasure to listen to it. To this number he again responded with an encore.

Owen Smiley, also, was a favourite with Peterborough audiences previous to his appearance last night, and his reception therefore was all the more enthusiastic. It was evident that time had dealt kindly with the Groasmith of Canada, and his humour was just as fresh and spontaneous as it was when on his former visits he delighted those who were fortunate enough to hear him. His humour is not of the laboured kind, and the wit seems to be a part of himself. At every appearance his reception was of the most enthusiastic character, and every selection he gave increased the admiration of the audience for him. In his first number, Tennyson's "The Northern Farmer," he faithfully portrayed the characteristics of the Yorkshire farmer, who advised his son Samuel to marry for "property" instead of love. He was encored in this, of course, as he was to every number he gave. An original ventriloquial sketch, "A Midsummer Pantomime," was his next selection, and one in which the audience was kept in roars of laughter. He was called upon twice for recall numbers, after this sketch, and responded with Irish stories, for which the audience seemed to show a special liking. A musical sketch, "Discord with a Sharp," was his last number, also an original selection, and one which appeared to meet with distinct approval.

Miss Alice Dean, the violinist, was before a Peterborough audience for the first time, and on any future occasion when she may choose to reappear she may be assured of an audience which will be in perfect sympathy with her. Added to her accomplishment as a musician she has an engaging stage appearance which gave additional charm to her playing. She is a violinist of more than usual ability, playing with good expression, and, particularly in the soft passages, a sweet rich tone. Her numbers included Tan Have's "Allegro Brilliant," Intermezzo from the Cavalleria Rusticana," Mazurka de Concert," by Musin.

Mr. W. Spencer Jones acted as accompanist for the evening, his playing being of a superior order.

ALBERT H WHITSELL CHARGED WITH FRAUD

Said to Have Obtained $155 from a Napanee Lady to Whom He Was Engaged.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, Nov. 20th. — Albert H. Whitsell appeared in to-day's police to answer to a charge of obtaining $155 by fraud from Emily Patte, to whom he was engaged. Whitsell was convicted of a similar charge in Napanee lately. He was remanded until Monday.

MORNING FIRE IN ASHBURNHAM.

Residence of Mr. William Woods Considerably Damaged.

This morning at eight o'clock, a fire broke out in the dwelling house on Concession street, occupied by Mr. William Woods. In a short time the roof was badly burned. The furniture and other contents of the house were saved by being carried out hurriedly on to the street. The fire brigade did good service in saving the house from destruction. The house is owned by Mrs. W. Wand and was insured. Fortunately for the occupants, Mr. J. T. O'Connell real estate agent, arrived early on the scene and in a short time succeeded in securing another house for the family.

Still Mystery in the Closing of Cordova Gold Mine.

Contrary to expectation, the arrival of the English mail this week did not furnish the hoped for information in regard to the closing of the Cordova Gold Mines, and the Havelock Standard says:—

"No reason is yet forthcoming for the closing of the Cordova Mines, as the result of a cable message from the head office of the Company, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. Whether the mines are to be closed permanently or temporarily, and if the latter, for how long, no one at the mines knows, and nothing definite will be known until after the arrival of English mail this week."

FRONTIER TOWNS TAKING ACTION.

Different Municipalities Have Appointed Their Representatives to Interview C. P. R.

The Cobourg Post says that the movement to secure C. P. R. connection with the frontier towns, is progressing and it is probable that this week an appointment will be made for a conference with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy at an early date. The different municipalities have displayed considerable activity in the matter, and have appointed representatives to join the deputation to visit Montreal. Oshawa has selected Mayor Fowke and Councillor Edmonson; Bowmanville will send Mayor James and two others; Port Hope will be represented by Mayor White, Councillors Giddy and Purser, and Messrs. H. B. Barrett, J. F. Clarke, and R. R. Mulholland. Reeve J. E. Diamond, Town Clerk E. O. West, and Councillors Owen and Cassan have been appointed by Campbellford to represent the village; Mayor Floyd and Councillor D. E. Ewing will represent Cobourg. Several other places have yet to be heard from, and as all the delegates are known, Mayor Floyd will ask Sir Thomas Shaughnessy to set a date on which he will be able to receive the deputation.

THE BACKERS OF KNOX WANTED WAGER MONEY.

But Judge Weller Made Plaintiff pay Costs.

In the 1$ Against Dr. Bradd and the Ontario Bank—Concluding Evidence Will be Published To-morrow.

More than usual interest was manifested in the action of Knox of Orillia, against Dr. Bradd and the Ontario Bank for money deposited upon a foot-race between complainant and Dave Belland. The case was tried in the Division Court by His Honour Judge Weller. Mr. Geo. Hatton appearing for the defendants, and Mr. Gunn, of Orillia, for Knox, the complainant.

The plaintiff claimed the sum of $200 being money paid over to and held by the said defendants under agreement bearing date on or about the 25th September, 1903, and belonging to the plaintiff.

George N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, was the first witness called and on being sworn, said that he was acquainted with Messrs. Rountree and Brooks. He was present at the Knox-Belland foot-race which took place in October. Mr. Robt. Howden and himself acted as judges, while Mr. Rountree officiated as referee. Before the race, witness met Mr. Rountree who said he was going to referee it and added that there was a side bet up of $100 a side. He did not say anything regarding the probable outcome of the race. After the race was made and before it was run witness met Mr. Brooks to whom he said that he thought Knox could beat Belland. Brooks, he said, remarked that that fact did not count, as Rountree was referee and he himself was stakeholder, adding that he would hold in in his own hand any money that he might have on the foot-race. Witness then rejoined that it was not a square thing to do. When the race had been run, witness as one of the judges was thoroughly satisfied that Knox was the winner by eight yards. He was surprised to hear the decision of the referee, but did not protest.

John Crane, manager of the Ontario Bank, Peterborough, was the next to be called. He did not know of the presence in his bank of a document concerning $200 deposited there to abide the decision of the race. If such a deposit had been made the books would show it.

Arthur Rountree was the third witness sworn and stated that he was appointed to referee the race in question, shortly after the race was made. He had no knowledge of any agreement existing between Knox and Bradd relating to any money. The race, he said, was not run under the auspices of the Turf Club although the gate receipts went to the credit of that organization. Witness on taking in the situation after the race, declared all bets off. He had no money on the race either for himself or anybody else. He declared all bets off on being asked for a decision by the starter, a man named Gill. As to the judges, witness only recognized them as men who held the tape line.

J. M. Brooks was next sworn. He admitted being present at the race, in which however he was not financially interested. He acted as stakeholder. The race he said was arranged by Messrs. Knox and Bradd, but he drew up the agreement in writing. It concerned a $100 sidebet. The agreement he gave to Harry Rush, teller in the Ontario Bank, and deposited it to the credit of Mr. Rountree, to remain there for the decision of the referee. Witness said he had no idea as to what would be the latter's verdict, and moreover did not at that time know whether Rountree would officiate as such. Beyond the fact that he was stake-holder, he was not associated with the race. When on the grounds, he, witness, found an Orillia man in the stand, preparing to take the money. He put him out and took that place himself in order that he might protect the people. In conclusion witness denied the statements made about himself by Mr. Graham.

Addressing His Honour before leaving, the witness said that he was there to protect the public. Belland had been running 100 yards all summer in 9 4-5, 10, and 10 1-4 seconds, and when he had been beaten by 7 yards in 11 seconds he knew the race was not a square one.

The case was then adjourned for dinner until 2 o'clock.

Shortly before four o'clock the case was concluded, Knox, the plaintiff, having to pay the costs.

A PRETTY WEDDING IN CAVENDISH.

Miss Blanch Westlake Becomes Bride of Mr. Wm. Haines.

A very pretty home wedding was that celebrated at the residence of Mr. John Westlake, Cavendish, on Wednesday, when his daughter, Miss Blanche Fanny Westlake, was united in marriage to Mr. William Haines of Cavendish, son of Mr. Stephen Haines. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Armitage, in the presence of a large number of the friends of the happy couple, the home being tastefully decorated for the occasion. The bride was very prettily attired in white organdie, trimmed with silk ribbon and Valenciennes lace, and wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms, carrying a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, who was Miss Edith Westlake, sister of the bride, looked very pretty in a dress of white organdie trimmed with pink ribbon, and carried pink carnations. Mr. Fred L. Roy of Peterborough, supported the groom.

After the ceremony an enjoyable wedding breakfast was served to the numerous guests. The bride was the recipient of a large number of very handsome and costly presents, among which was a beautiful carving set from the members of the Lake Ketchecum Hunting Club, to whom the bride and her parents had shown many favours in their annual hunting trips. The young couple will reside in Midland

AN INVENTOR IN THE COURTS.

Mr. G. L. Gowland Seeking to Obtain His Rights.

The Case one in Which Local men are Interested—His Honour Advised Engaging Counsel.

An interesting local legal case is being tried before Judge Winchester in Toronto, the case being that of Mr. George L. Gowland, an inventor, who is seeking to conduct a dispute over a patent which he is seeking to protect. The Toronto News says of it:

The case is in connection with an electric meter invented by Mr. Gowland, the patent of which is said to be very valuable. He interested Jas. H. McClellan, Arthur J. McClellan, F. V. and Robert E. Chadill, in his production, and they secured patents in a dozen foreign countries, in which varying interests were held by the parties. Mr. Gowland held about a third interest. A dispute arose between the parties, and it was agreed that the Toronto General Trusts Co. should hold the patents and act as trustees. The Portugal patent is said to be expiring, and the company to-day asked the inventor to turn over the original patent in order that the provisions of the Portuguese law as to renewal of patents may be met.

When Mr. Gowland was heard he declared the action of the Toronto parties had prevented the consummation of a big deal in Montreal. The Gowland, Limited, which had been formed to handle the Canadian patent, he said, was a mythical company, without any stock or a dollar in the treasury. He paid all the debts himself. The foreign patents were simply franchises granted him by other countries. None of them would expire for five years.

His honour wanted to see the original patent, but Mr. Gowland said he could not produce it for a day at least, although it was somewhere in Toronto stowed away safely. He was willing to let the Trusts Company have it if they would assume all a vendor's liability, and be responsible to him. This, His Honour observed, no company in the world would consent to do.

"Their idea of a patent is selling it, and getting money for it," asserted Mr. Gowland, referring to the other side. "There are other things vital to me as an inventor. The Trusts Company are not responsible for preventing an infringement of patents, but I am. The other parties have a majority of shares in the patents and might sell them for $500."

His Honour pointed out that he had signed the agreement to turn over the patents to the Trust Company.

"I never read that document," said Mr. Gowland.

"I read it to you," hotly declared Mr. E. T. Malone, K.C., the Trust Company's solicitor. "And you took it away to show to your lawyer."

"I never had a lawyer in my life," was the reply.

"You have had the document three months and never read it."

The court then intimated that Mr. Gowland had so much at stake he should certainly employ counsel.

Isaac Wheitley, a Methodist minister, issues a statement that he married the couple

THE FEAR OF HUMBUG

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ but they, cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles, because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals, digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested or half digested is poison, as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh, and appetite, and many other troubles, which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package.

He was 24 and leaves two sisters.

THE STATE BANQUET

Kingly Speeches Made by British and Italian Monarchs.

A SCENE OF MAGNIFICENCE.

Elaborate State Function in St. George's Hall, a Magnificent Norman Gallery of Windsor Castle — King Edward's Heartfelt Expression of Britain's Policy of Peace and Enlightenment.

London, Nov. 19.—St. George's Hall, magnificent Norman gallery of Windsor Castle, in which many foreign sovereigns have been entertained, was the scene last night of a state banquet, the first elaborate function marking the royal welcome of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy. The function was in every way as brilliant as any witnessed in the famous Hall on past great occasions. There were 160 guests, including the royal hosts and their guests, prominent statesmen from Great Britain and Italy, ambassadors from three continents and representatives of the army and navy.

The guests were seated at a long table on which the famous service of gold plate and the masses of flowers formed a brilliant avenue of color and of sparkling light reflected from an incomparable display of jewels. The guests were first received in the grand reception room by King Edward and Queen Alexandra and King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena. At 8.45 the guests entered the banquet hall, King Edward with Queen Helena leading and King Victor Emmanuel with Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales with the Princess Victoria, the Duke of Connaught with the Duchess of Argyle, Ambassador Choate with the Duchess of Connaught, following in the order named.

Others of great political importance were: the Russian Ambassador, Count Benckendorff, Prince Alexander of Battenburg, the French Ambassador, M. Cambon; Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, Prince Alexander of Teck, the Spanish Ambassador, the Duc de Mandas, the Turkish Ambassador, Stefanaki Musurus Bey, the German Ambassador, Count Wolff Metternich; Lord Londonderry, Lord Melbourne, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Rosebery, Lord Milner, W. St. John Brodrick, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Arnold Forster and Joseph Chamberlain. The British Premier, A. J. Balfour, was absent on account of indisposition.

King's Speech.

In proposing a toast to their Italian Majesties, King Edward said:

"Sire, it has given Queen Alexandra and myself great pleasure to receive you here as our guests in this old, historic castle. History repeats itself. I remember as if it were but yesterday that your illustrious grandfather, 48 years ago, came here as the guest of my beloved mother and lamented father. At that time we were at war and our armies fought together. Thank God, we now are at peace and the aim of our countries is to maintain and to work together in the path of progress and enlightenment. I have not forgotten the kind and cordial reception given me some months ago in Rome on the part of your Majesties and the Italian people, and I feel sure that to-morrow when you pass through the streets of London you will meet with a reception most gratifying to yourselves and one which will give expression to the hearty feeling of friendship which my people evince towards you and your country. Let me now drink to the health of your Majesties. Again thanking you for staying with us, I wish your Majesties, your family and your country all prosperity and happiness."

Italy's King Replies.

King Victor Emmanuel replied in English, saying:

"The memories to which your Majesty refers live in my heart and in the hearts of all Italians since the historic and eventful period which led Italy to unity and which tendered to England, always greater and more powerful, the feelings of sympathy and friendship which now unite the two peoples. For my people these feelings have continued to increase and they constitute a tradition for my Government. They are important factors in Italian policy, which, like the policy of your Majesty's Government, is one of peace and civilization. I thank your Majesty for your cordial welcome of me and my Queen in this historic castle, where everything breathes of the glory of your ancestors and brings before me the image of the great and regretted Victoria. I drink the health of your Majesty, your Queen and the Royal Family."

At the conclusion of the banquet the royal personages and their guests adjourned to the state drawing-room, where a Viennese orchestra played selections.

Yesterday morning King Victor Emmanuel and King Edward shot pheasants in the great park at Windsor, while Queen Helena and Queen Alexandra visited Queen Victoria's tomb at Frogmore, on which Queen Helena deposited a wreath.

Receipts of live stock at the Junction Cattle Market were 14 carloads, consisting of 242 cattle, 182 sheep and lambs, with 8 calves.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Nov. 19.—About 250 head of butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 700 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. Trade was dull, but prices of cattle have an upward look. A good heifer was sold at 4¼c per pound, none of the other sales being at over 4c. But the quality was only middling. Common cattle sold at from 2¼c to over 3¼c per pound. About 40 lean cows, held over from yesterday's market, were offered again to-day, but with poor prospects of selling, as the canners have all they want at present. Some of the grass-fed calves were better than usual, and sold up to $10, or at the rate of 4c per pound. Ordinary calves sold at from 2½c to 3¼c per pound. Sheep sell at from 2¾c to 3¼c, and lambs at from 4c to a little over 4¼c per pound. Fat hogs have an upward tendency, good lots selling at from 5¼c to 5¾c per pound.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

Veals—Receipts, 110 head; 25c higher; $5.50 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 7700 head; light grades 5c higher; others about steady; heavy, $4.85 to $5.05; mixed, $4.85 to $5; yorkers and pigs, $4.80 to $4.90; roughs, $4.10 to $4.35; stags, $3.25 to $3.75.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 6200 head; sheep, firm; lambs, steady; lambs, $4.50 to $5.75; yearlings $4.25 to $4.50; wethers, $4 to $4.25; ewes, $3.35 to $3.50; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $3.75.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Nov. 19.—Beeves—Receipts, 28 head; no sales reported; dressed beef, steady; city dressed native sides, 6c to 9c; exports, 8 cattle. Calves—Receipts, 300; about steady for all sorts; veals sold at $5 to $8.75; grassers at $2.75; two cars of Westerns at $3.50; city dressed veals, 8c to 10½c.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7600; sheep rated about steady; lambs, active; 10c to 15c higher; generally steady; sheep held at $5.50, including Canadas at $5.50 to $5.80; dressed mutton, 5c to 7c; dressed lambs, 7½c to 10½c.

Hogs—Receipts, 6958; not much change from yesterday in price, but the tone rated weak; state hogs sold at $5.15 to $5.25, top figure for rather light weights.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Cattle—Receipts, 9000, including 1000 Western; steady; good to prime steers, $5.15 to $5.60; poor to medium, $3.50 to $4.90; stockers and feeders, $1.75 to $4.30; cows, $1.50 to $4.25; heifers, $2 to $5; canners, $1.50 to $3.50; bulls, $2.50 to $4.60; calfs, $2.50 to $7.25. Texas steers, $2.75 to $3.50; western steers, $3 to $4.40.

Hogs—Receipts, 25,000; to-morrow, 20,000; 5c to 10c higher; mixed and butchers', $4.60 to $5.35; good to choice heavy, $4.65 to $4.80; rough heavy, $4.40 to $4.65; light, $4.45 to $4.75; bulk of sales, $4.60 to $4.75.

Japs Are More Bellicose.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 20.—A despatch from Port Arthur notes a return of the bellicose tone of the Japanese press, says Japan's agents appear to have met with some success in China, reiterates the report that the Chinese Viceroys and Governors have been instructed to collect funds and troops with all haste, because of the possibility of a rupture of diplomatic relations with Russia, and adds that some of the Viceroys have been ordered to take precautionary measures for the protection of the coast, "so as to avoid the mistakes of past years."

41st. Officers Resign.

Brockville, Nov. 20.—Lieut.-Colonel Hodgins, D.O.C., has completed his inspection of the Forty-first Regiment. It has proven, he says, an unique experience for him. The regiment was found in a state of extreme disorganization, and he severely reprimanded the officers and intimated that their resignations were in order. The result is that every officer has sent in his resignation except Lieut.-Col. Sparham, whose term expires this year. The D.O.C. will endeavor to reorganize the regiment.

A Very Good Rule.

It is well known that the majority of human ills arise from constipation of the bowels and on this account many people make it a rule to see that the bowels move once every day. If you are subject to constipation you can be cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These Pills not only make the bowels active, but by their action on the liver ensure a regular flow of bile, nature's own cathartic and so remove the cause of serious disease.

Office of DR. McKERCHER, Veterinary Surgeon and Dentist. Calls day or night promptly attended to. Horse and Cattle medicine always in stock.

There is an old saying about the folly of locking the stable after the horse is stolen, and from this may be taken a lesson in reference to the treatment of croup and colds.

Children Have Croup,

Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, and if there is at hand such a remedy as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to be given at the first indication of trouble, you can be positively sure of preventing serious results.

Especially people who are living at a distance from doctors and drug stores are running a terrible risk when they do not keep at hand effective treatment for the ills which are sure to attack some members of the family during cold seasons.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is, we believe, the most satisfactory home treatment for ailments of this nature which can possibly be obtained.

Though wonderfully thorough and far-reaching in its effects on the whole system, it is pleasant to the taste, not injurious in any way, and equally effective for the use of old and young.

Some people who are otherwise very particular do not seem to realize the importance of using only the best treatment for coughs and colds, but accept whatever the dealer sees fit to give them. Be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and the results will be eminently satisfactory.

Mr. J. R. Robinson, 37 Bishop Street, Toronto, says: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine absolutely cured two of my children of croup. Both my wife and myself have utmost confidence in it. This remedy is no stranger in our home, having frequently been used before with the greatest success."

Mr. F. W. Bond, 20 Macdonald Street, Barrie, Ont., says: "Having tried your medicine, my faith is very high in its powers of curing cough and croup. My little girl has been subject to the croup for a long time, and I found nothing to cure it until I gave Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mr. W. Stafford, 88 Brussels Street, St. John, N.B., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for coughs and colds, and do not think there is a better remedy known than this. It seems to go directly to the diseased parts and brings relief at once. I have such faith in this remedy and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, that we always keep both these preparations in the house."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

Is sold by all dealers at the advertised price, 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MARRYING A TITLE

By Frank Leslie Bowen

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Gerald Elkins was seriously disturbed over his mother's cold blooded purpose to secure a titled son-in-law. He loved his sparkling, vivacious, warm hearted sister, and his soul was in revolt at the idea of forcing her to make a loveless marriage.

He was still pondering over the question in the lobby of the Breslau hotel when inspiration came to him in the person of Tom Carrington, a former college chum.

After the first greetings Gerald dragged his friend into a quiet corner and immediately began to unfold his brilliant scheme.

"Tom, old man, you are still single and heart free, aren't you?"

The other nodded in mild surprise.

"Good! I didn't know but that you had met your fate during the three years you've spent in England. Do you know, the sight of you put a queer idea into my head. You remember my little sister, Elnore? You saw her once about six years ago. She was only a little girl of fifteen then, but I remember you said you thought her deucedly pretty."

The other's brown eyes kindled at the recollection.

"Well, of course she is a young lady now and, if I do say it, one of the loveliest girls that you'll meet in many a day's travel. Most unfortunately, mother has determined to marry Elnore off to some duffer with a title, and she's badgering the life out of the poor girl about it. So far Elnore has turned down all the lords, counts, et cetera, for, though she says she is willing to marry one provided she loves him, she draws the line at the half baked specimens of nobility that the mater has sprung on her. I want you to come to the rescue, Tom. Go in and win the little sister yourself and save her from the titled fortune hunters. You'll fall in love with her, I'll wager my head. My plan is to introduce you to mother and Elnore as an Englishman whom I met a couple of years ago in England. I remember you once told me your father was an Englishman and distantly related to the Earl of Weldon. That's what made me think of the plan. Of course, having only seen you once for a few minutes years ago, Elnore won't remember you. Join our party for the next two months while we are doing Germany and Austria. What do you think of it?"

"For heaven's sake, Elkins, are you serious?" the other gasped.

"Never more so in my life."

"But your sister! You are not considering whether she will like me or not. Then think of the position it would put me in. She would despise me when she discovered what a trick I had played on her."

"Oh, she'll like you all right, and you can tell her the truth when you propose. You need not care what the others think so long as dad and I are satisfied, and I can vouch for the governor's views. At any rate, as long as you are in the party mother won't be inflicting any more of these fossilized and impecunious nobles on the poor girl."

There was a peculiar twinkle in Carrington's eyes, and he gazed meditatively at the opposite wall a full minute before answering.

"I'll do it," he said briefly as he swung around. "You may introduce me as Lord Carnleigh, the courtesy title of the heir apparent of the Earl of Weldon."

Tom Carrington was tall and broad shouldered, with polished manners of a man of the world. Mrs. Elkins was in a flutter of ecstasy that evening as her son presented to her "my Lord Carnleigh, heir apparent of the Earl of Weldon, Castle Weldon, Sussex, England, a gentleman whom I met two years ago in England," the last statement, at least, being a literal truth.

Elnore's face bore a look of doubting surprise as her eyes first rested on the clear cut features of "my lord," and the latter's quick glance caught it. It worried him a bit, but he soon forgot it in blissful enjoyment of her society.

"By George!" he exclaimed as he paced up and down his own room later in the evening. "Gerald was not a bit too partial in his praise of her. She's the handsomest, brightest, most adorable little girl I've ever met. I'm not sorry I entered into his plot now. I'll carry it through and win her if I can."

Carrington's courtship of Elnore during the next few weeks was of the most industrious and persistent character. Gerald smiled contentedly as he watched the couple so absorbed in themselves, so oblivious to externals. Mamma Elkins, too, was complacent.

True, "Lord Carnleigh" found no easy victim to his noble charms.

"She's a girl of the most distractingly variable moods," he declared in half despair one day to Gerald. "I believe she likes me. At times I almost think I've won her, she is so sweet and gracious to me, and then just as I am getting my courage up to the proposal pitch she'll suddenly turn cool as an iceberg."

Taking consolation from Gerald's wise commonplace, "That's a woman's way, my lord," he kept up the siege most valiantly. Finally one day his eager eye saw a signal of distress in her mantling cheeks and drooping eyes. Then he boldly demanded a capitulation.

When she whispered, "I love you, Tom," he took her in his arms and shamefacedly acknowledged the deceit he had practiced upon her and Mrs Elkins.

Mischievous dimples danced about the corners of her sweet mouth as she raised her head from his shoulder.

"Tom Carrington," she cried gleefully and to his great consternation, "I knew who you were the moment I saw you there in Breslau! A schoolgirl of fifteen never forgets a young man she meets, particularly if he is a—a—well rather good looking fellow. I knew you were not 'Lord Carnleigh.' I don't believe I should have learned to like you so well if you had been. I have grown prejudiced against titles since I have been in Europe. Of course, I forgive you, you bad, deceitful fellow but I can't say what mamma will do."

"Mamma" did just what Tom anticipated when he told her of his love for her daughter and bravely confessed that he had been guilty of an atrocious hoax in passing as Lord Carnleigh. Apologies availed him naught. Even when Gerald broke in and attempted to assume responsibility for the whole affair and to explain that Carrington was rich and really connected with a noble English family, Mrs. Elkins' wrath was not abated one jot. In a storm of passion she ordered the young man to leave her apartments and never again to intrude his presence on her or her daughter.

There was a conference that evening between Gerald and Tom at another Berlin hotel, with the result that the next morning, long before the hour of Mrs. Elkins' awakening, Elnore stole out of her room. She was dressed for traveling. Gerald and Carrington met her in the lobby, and all three entered a waiting cab.

Two hours later Mrs. Elkins' French maid brought a large square envelope to her bedside. On both envelope and paper was the Weldon crest. Her astonished eyes read the following lines:

My Dear Madam—I humbly beseech your pardon for defying your commands, but I have defied the obstacle of my rank, and this morning at 4:30 o'clock, in the presence of your son and my private secretary, Mr. Holcomb, at the Fourth Lutheran church, your daughter and I were married.

We start at once on our wedding trip, and after a few weeks in Italy and France we shall proceed directly to Castle Weldon, England, my country seat.

The countess sends her love and a most earnest plea for forgiveness, in which I heartily join. She also was deceived, basely deceived, and did not learn the truth until she saw my signature on the marriage register. You see, I was not Lord Carnleigh, but the Earl of Weldon, my father, who died more than a year ago, having unexpectedly succeeded to the title only a few weeks before his death.

I need not add, I am sure, how very great pleasure we take in extending an invitation to you, your husband and to my dear friend, Gerald, to pay us a long visit at Castle Weldon after June 1. With deepest regards, WELDON.

She writes: "I was so run down that I was not able to do my work, was short of breath, had a sour stomach every night and could scarcely eat. My heart palpitated, I had faint and dizzy spells and felt weak and nervous all the time. My husband got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills but I told him it was no use, that I had given up hope of ever being cured. He however persuaded me to take them and before I had used half the box I began to feel better. Two boxes made a new woman of me and I have been well and have been able to do my work ever since."

IN OLD AGE the question of health becomes mainly a question of nutrition. If the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are kept in a healthful condition there will be a well-nourished body, and little liability to disorders of the liver, bowels or such other disorders as may result from innutrition and lack of exercise.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and also diseases of other organs which are caused by the diseased condition of the stomach. By enabling the perfect nutrition of the body it increases the vital power and promotes a vigorous old age.

"I was a sufferer from chronic diarrhea for five years," writes Mrs. Mary A. Aaron, of Rolla, Pheips Co., Mo. "I tried different remedies, which would give me relief for a short time only. My trouble would return as bad as ever. I consulted you in July, 1900, and by your advice commenced using Dr. Pierce's remedies. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three vials of the 'Pellets,' and some of the 'Extract of Smart-Weed,' as you advised. I have not had any return of my trouble since using your medicines. Am now seventy-one years old and I never had anything to relieve me so quick. I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the greatest on earth. Should I ever have any return of my trouble shall use your medicine. My thanks to you for your advice and thanks to Almighty God for restoring me to health through your hands."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the best laxative for old people. They cure constipation and billousness.

SEYMOUR GOURLAY, M.P.

The Fiery Fighter From Nova Scotia Closed the Recent Session With Final Jab at His Ancient Enemy.

Seymour Gourlay, M.P., was in at the death. The fiery fighter from Nova Scotia made the last speech of the Parliamentary session, and was able to have a final jab at his ancient enemy, Uncle Sam. Gourlay of Colchester, is a unique figure in the politics of Canada. He is first a Canadian, and then a Britisher, but owing to the conduct of Lord Alverstone, his British proclivities have suffered diminution. Gourlay, it will be remembered, was the gentleman who told the House that he was ready to take his wife and family into the trenches to fight the Yankees. Gourlay it was who valiantly protested against our being handed over to the United States in sections. Gourlay has now but one object in life, and that is to further the cause of Canadian independence. He will preach the new evangel at all times and will hold up before his auditors the horrible prospect of annexation if we do not insist on doing it ourselves.

Gourlay, however, has other claims to greatness. He is certainly the most remarkably dressed man in the House of Commons. This summer it was his habit to appear in frock coat, white flannel trousers and yachting cap. That was a combination fit to scare any tailor into conniption fits. But Gourlay is not the kind of man to worry about sartorial details. He desires to be clothed, and anything that clothes him will do sufficiently well. Some day, no doubt, that frock coat will come up the walk of Parliament enclosing the manly torso of the statesman from Colchester, while bicycle knickerbockers will indue his legs. Nobody, it may be remarked, will be astonished any more than anybody would wonder at anything Gourlay might say. As for his sartorial eccentricities, Hon. George E. Foster was almost as bad in his way. It was the custom of the then Minister of Finance to turn up at the House of Commons with white trousers and black morning coat, with black derby hat. This was a combination that impelled a jealous Liberal to remark that the Minister of Finance was so industrious that he forgot to dress as his salary permitted him to do.—Toronto News.

Turkish Coffee.

The Turkish way of making coffee produces a very different result from that to which we are accustomed. A small conical saucepan, holding about two tablespoonfuls of water, is used. The fresh roasted berry is pounded, not ground, and about a dessertspoonful is put into the minute boiler, which is then nearly filled with water and thrust among the embers. A few seconds suffice to bring it to a boil, and the decoction, grounds and all, is poured out into a small cup, which fits into a brass socket like the cup of an acorn.

The Turks seem to drink this decoction boiling hot, grounds and all. They take it plain. Sugar and cream would no doubt be thought to spoil it.

In every but in Turkey these diminutive coffee boilers may be seen suspended by their long handles from the walls. The berry pounders are also at hand, and a cup of coffee takes but a few moments to produce.

Facial Resemblance.

"Physiologists tell us," observed a well known lawyer the other day, "that no two faces are exactly alike, and I think they are correct, although we often hear of one person being the exact image of another. That this is largely a matter of imagination can be proved by investigation. For example, I have in my office a clerk who is constantly mistaken for myself. Several people say he resembles me so closely that I must be joking when I deny the relationship. In order to ascertain how much reason there was for these statements I took the fellow to a photographer's one day last week, and we both had our pictures taken together, and I would defy any one to point out a single point of resemblance.

"My clerk, however, regards the matter as a good joke, and I half suspect that he acknowledges relationship in a good many cases intentionally so as to cause complications. I have shown the photograph to several people who have made the mistake, but it has no influence upon them whatever, and it is impossible to convince them against their will."—New York Mail and Express.

Disraeli's Loves.

In his young days Disraeli fell under the spell of the "gorgeous Lady Blessington," to whom he wrote letters breathing something more than friendship. For example, in 1834:

I was so sorry to leave London without being a moment alone with you; but, although I came to the opera the last night on purpose, fate was against us. I did not reach this place until Sunday, very ill indeed from the pangs of parting. Indeed I feel as desolate as a ghost, and I do not think that I ever shall be able to settle to anything again. It is a great shame, when people are happy together, that they should be ever separated, but it seems the great object of all human legislation that people should never be happy together.

"Dyspepsia," he writes a few months later, "always makes me wish for a civil war. In the meantime I amuse myself by county politics." Four years afterward "dearest Lady Blessington" had become "my dear lady," but the friendship lasted after his marriage "with my dear Mary Anne, who I am sure will be delighted by finding herself under a roof that has proved to me at all times so hospitable and devoted."—Meynell's Biography of Disraeli.

She Did Not Drop.

"Delia!"
"Yes, ma'am."
"I am very tired, and I am going to lie down for an hour."
"Yes, ma'am."
"If I should happen to drop off call me at 5 o'clock."
"Yes, ma'am."
So my lady lies down, folds her hands, closes her eyes and is soon in the land of dreams. She is awakened by the clock striking 6 and calls indignantly:
"Delia!"
"Yes, ma'am."
"Why didn't you call me at 5 o'clock as I ordered?"
"Shure, ma'am, ye tould me to call ye if ye dropped off. I looked in on ye at 5, and ye hadn't dropped off at all. Ye was lyin' in the bed in the same place sound asleep."

Saved by a Ring.

Lady Catherine Wyndham, daughter of the Duke of Somerset, wife of Mr. William Wyndham and mother of the first Earl of Egremont, died, as was supposed, at Orchard Wyndhams, the family seat in Somersetshire, and was buried in a vault beneath the Church of St. Decuman's, near Watchet. The sexton went down into the vault at night, opened the coffin and endeavored to force a ring off her finger. Lady Catherine awoke from her trance, got up and lighted herself home with a lantern which the sexton had left behind in the vault when he fled in terror. A few months afterward she presented her husband with twins, one of whom became Sir Charles Wyndham and Earl of Egremont.

New York, Nov. 21.—Intrest at opening centred on steel stocks, but general tone showed butter developments. These had some good effect. New York street crowd was talking about putting out shorts again on advice, but an influential section of the traders was operating on long side. Strength in steel was directly due to dissolution of bond underwriting syndicate, but reduction in freight rates made by the railroads also helped. Keene & Morgan, brokers, appeared to be helping advance. American stocks in London were active and featureless with exception of S. P., Strong, and steel issues which made important advance. Copper stocks were inclined to sell off. Paris exchange on London showed some strength. Foreign houses expected to buy on balance, especially U.S.S. common and the prefered.

"THREE STARS" IN FAVOUR OF AMALGAMATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In compliance with your kind invitation for letters to the Examiner in regard to the union of Ashburnham with the town, permit one who has resided and paid taxes in both municipalities to make a few remarks. The bogey of high taxation has been used to frighten the villagers. I doubt if taxes are any higher in the town than in the village. In comparison with public services rendered and accommodations provided, they are certainly lower in the town than in the village. But I believe it is not the question of taxes that accounts for the large-sized opposition to union that appears to prevail in the village. It is an old story. We all remember when the vote was taken on this question some years ago. Both municipalities voted in favour of the union and gave large majorities, Ashburnham especially. Through the culpable humbugging of Peterborough town council of that day, no definite action was taken, some councillors, who were opposed to union, claiming that "they had no basis to work upon!" The people of Ashburnham have never forgotten that little episode, and, I am afraid, have never forgiven it. But the villagers should remember that that council did not represent Peterborough citizens, the latter having voted very strongly in favour of union, which which would long ago have been an accomplished fact if the wishes of the people had been consulted. We have a mayor and council now who are public spirited, and above venting a little personal spite on any section of the town, or the proposed fifth ward. If the villagers look at this matter in the right light, free from prejudice, and with an eye to their own interests, they will vote in favour of union on the 25th inst. Whatever advantage it might be to the town to be connected with the village municipally, there is no question whatever that it would be a good thing for Ashburnham, and the residents of that burg should remember the old saw: "Don't cut off your nose to spite your face."

Yours truly,
THREE STARS.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

The Victorias of Toronto are getting ready for a good, stiff game with the Peterboroughs to-morrow. To-day's Globe says: "The Victorias will only put in light work at practice to-night, as the team is in the best possible shape for to-morrow's match against the fast Peterborough outfit, and feel fully confident of winning the game. The Vics were not able to secure grounds that are fenced in, so the club decided to play at Jesse Ketchum Park. The way the team intend defraying expenses is by selling badges at the gate to the crowd as they go in to see the match. The team that will represent the Victorias will be the same as that which played against the Wellesleys last Saturday, except that Yeaman will be played at quarter in place of on the wing line, and Henderson will replace him on the line." The local team, however, are working hard, and if the Victorias win, they will have no easy thing; in fact there is a pretty shrewd guess going the rounds that the visitors will come home victorious. Hal. Burnham will be on the line-up, and all know what that means.

There will be a good crowd accompanying the team from here, in the anticipation of seeing the best game of the season.

It should be remembered that the excursion tickets are good only going on teh 7.12 train, although the excursionists may return on any regular train until Monday.

The following will represent the Peterboroughs in their game with the Victorias in Toronto to-morrow: Ford, Burnham, Lee, Capt. Crowley, Graham, Hurtubuise, Dillon, Craig, Meagher, Noble, Rickey, Cameron, Paschal and Deannard.

The above players are requested to be at a chalk talk on the signals from 7.30 to 8.00 this evening in the Y.M.C.A. The team leaves on the 7.10 C. P. R. and a large crowd will accompany them.

The fact that kicking had much to do do with the results in the West Point and Yale-Princeton games, says the Buffalo Express, has started the football sharps once more discussing the advisability of decreasing the number of points to be earned by a field goal or successful place kick. An eastern writer finds that football men at all the leading western universities are of the opinion that the rules should be changed so as to all three points, and not five, for a place or drop kick. They argue that a man should not be allowed to make as many points from these plays as an entire eleven working in unison.—Citizen.

The Rough Riders have withdrawn their protest against the game of last Saturday, and, as a consequence the All Saints and Riders now stand tied for the city championship. If the weather is favourable the game to decide the championship will, in all probability be played on Saturday, November 28th. Both these teams have played good football this season and from them some likely recruits will come for the senior team next year. Their relative positions now are not satisfactory to either team and it is hoped that the weather will permit the deciding game to be played.

HOCKEY.

Members of St. Peter's T. A. S. are reminded of the meeting this evening to organize the hockey team and discuss the prospects for the coming season. A large attendance is looked for.

The Lindsay Post, in sizing up the Hockey situation in that burg says: Secretary Menzies and Manager Parkin are working quietly, but at the same time are securing material for the senior team. We regret to say that Mr. Ketchum has decided to drop out of hockey this year. His services will be greatly missed, as we understand he is a first-class puck chaser, having figured on the lineup of the celebrated Aberdeens of Ottawa. The locals will be without the services of Callaghan, who has seen fit to cast in his lot with Midland, nevertheless we have some excellent material in our midst. Riley of Midland, and Gross are now residing in town and, as a result, Lindsay should not suffer for goal-tenders. In Sylvester, Taylor and Parkin, the seniors will have a fast forward line. Cameron will likely figure on the defence and as a close checker and puck-lifter will be a powerful acquisition to the defence. The management have a couple of other men in view who, after some consistent practising will be stars on the defence line-up. Our hockey enthusiasts are waiting anxiously for cold weather. It's very likely the senior line-up will be strong enough to rank in the district along with Peterborough, Port Hope, Belleville and Cobourg.

The first hockey meeting of the season will be held to-night, when the T. A. S. Hockey Club will hold its annual meeting, to elect officers and arrange for the coming hockey season. The meeting will be called at eight o'clock, and all interested are especially asked to attend.

The letter published in yesterday's issue of this paper, written to Mr. E. S. Clarry, secretary of the Trent Valley Hockey League by the secretary of the Colborne Club is an indication of the fact that there will, in all probability, be a large number of teams entering this league this year, which will ensure even a more successful season than that of 1902-03.

SPRINTING.

The Examiner has received the following letter from Mr. D. Belland, replying to the challenge contained in a recent issue, signed by Mr. Knox, of Orillia:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In response to the challenge of Mr. Knox in which he offers to run me 100 yards, I would like to say that I accept the challenge, the race to be run about the 8th of May, 1904, and in Smith's Falls or Toronto, for $1,000 a side, the money to be deposited at least two weeks before the date of the race. Mr. Knox very magnanimously offers me one yard of a handicap, but while I appreciate his considerate offer, I will not accept the yard, but will run him from the scratch, and if defeated will retire from the sprinting arena.

Yours truly,
D. BELLAND.

BASKET-BALL.

The scheduled games in the Y. M. C. A. League to-morrow night are between the Arrows and Harriers at 8 o'clock and the Alerts and Athletics, White, at 9 o'clock. Some change, however, may have to be made in this arrangement, as some of the players on these teams will probably be out of town. These games are becoming increasingly interesting, and the attendance in growing, about 100 being present last Saturday night.

The standing of the teams in the league is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Athletics, White	2	0
Arrows	2	0
Alerts	1	1
Harriers	1	0
Brownies	0	2
Athletics, Blue	0	2

DIPHTHERIA A SOURCE OF GRAVE DANGER.

Opening of Schools has increased at a Surprising Rate.

The Provincial Board of Health opened its quarterly meeting at Dr. P. H. Bryce's office on Wednesday afternoon. The principal business before the Board was the secretary's report, which dealt for the most part with the outbreak of diphtheria in Ontario. Dr. Bryce reported that the general health of the Province is good, but that since the opening of the schools the returns with regard to diphtheria have been increasing in a surprising and alarming manner. Returns from October 1 to date show that there have been 464 cases of diphtheria and 54 deaths in 52 municipalities of the Province. The general public has become alarmed in centres whre it is most rife, with the result that preventive measures have been taken, with good results. Of the four chief cities of the Province, London is the most backward in dealing with contagious disease. Up to the present time it has had no isolation hospital, but owing to the fact that 94 cases have been reported there within the past few weeks the Board has become alarmed and tents for the treatment of contagious disease have been placed on the general hospital grounds. Hamilton has now special quarters for the treatment of contagious diseases. Ottawa has established a hospital and a system whereby every case is taken charge of, with what Dr. Bryce described as marvelous results, both in prevention and in a diminished death rate. In Toronto sixty per cent. of the cases are treated in the Isolation Hospital, and about forty per cent. at home. In the smaller places the obstacles to the prevention of diphtheria and other contagious diseases are ignorance and the reluctance of attending physicians to report cases. The most flagrant instance mentioned by Dr. Bryce is at Chesley, where the failure of the attending physician to report diphtheria in a family engaged in the distribution of milk resulted in 23 cases in 13 days. Diphtheria and scarlet fever are most easily communicated during the school term, because of the mingling of large bodies of children together, some of whom may be infected.

With regard to scarlet fever, which was epidemic in certain sections a few months ago, conditions are greatly improved. Smallpox is also greatly decreased, although the coming of winter has brought forth a serious outbreak near Tweed.

Apropos of this the public would be interested in knowing what is being done in Peterborough in the way of providing treatment and isolation for contagious diseases. Isolation is the essence of prevention and it is very important that provision, therefor, should be made. The town authorities are negotiating with the authorities of the two hospitals as to the admission of patients with contagious diseases and also negotiating for the purchase of a property as a site for an isolation hospital. The general hospitals can only accommodate a limited number of patients, and in case of an outbreak an isolation tent will have to be depended upon. It is to be hoped that no epidemic will come, but it is the part of wisdom, not to speak of the human aspect of the matter, to be fully prepared to cope with it if it should unhappily arrive. In contagious diseases it is beginnings that can and should be dealt with promptly. Thus, as experience has shown, a great deal of trouble, suffering and even fatal results may be avoided.

SEND MATTER IN EARLY.

The Examiner has a suggestion to make which, it hopes, those interested will act upon. The time of year has come when darkness arrives early, and, in an effort to facilitate the work of the Examiner's staff of news boys in getting subscribers' papers to their doors if possible before dark, and thus lessening the danger of papers going astray, The Examiner asks that all persons supplying items of news for these columns, send paragraphs in before noon, otherwise the publication of such matter cannot be promised the same day. This note is addressed particularly to clergymen who supply notices of church services and meetings, and the Examiner feels that they will sympathize with it in the effort to assist the dozens of news boys in its employ to get their work accomplished before dark, and place the papers in subscribers' hands in good time. The idea is not correct that all that is necessary to do to have an article appear in the paper is to thrust the manuscript into the typesetting machine and rush it into the forms. It has to be edited, set, proof read, corrected and put into the forms, which all takes time, and if those who wish their matter to appear would exercise a natural consideration for the news boys it would be highly appreciated.

A HNNTING REMINISCENCE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — The little anecdote in your paper of the hunter that left his rifle behind him, reminds me of a hunter's song that I heard many years ago, the chorus of which was in the following words:

With a Ha Ho Tantivy, Tantivy, Tantivy,
This day a stag must die, this day a stag must die.

Some Moralizing on the Lakefield Rat Episode.

The Toronto News, commenting on thrilling tale in the last issue of the Lakefield News, says.

The proverb that "rats forsake a sinking ship" must needs be revised, so as to read, "rats invade the spring-bottom trousers." An incident in our own prosperous Ontario town of Lakefield, gives the reason for the change. Young gentlemen who adhere to the old fashioned cut of nether garments may rejoice in the belief that the swelling terminations make their feet look small, but they should beware of wearing the garments in buildings frequented by the rodents. The Lakefield News gives a highly dramatic account of the catastrophe, thought-full suppressing names. Let it be reproduced ipsissima verba, as Hon. G. E. Foster would say:

"A thrilling event took place in building on the east side of Queen street on Wednesday night, between twelve and one o'clock. A young man who had occasion to be working at this time of night, had been troubled with rats in the building, and on going into a room discovered two or three of the vermin running around on the floor. He started to clear the rats out of existence, but, in making a kick at one of them it jumped onto his foot, and crawled up his trouser leg. The rat had the best of the fight, and the young man commenced to yell for help. His yells and cries for assistance were so heartrending that they awakened an old gentleman living over the shop, who, thinking some person was being murdered, jumped out of bed, picked up a butcher knife and stick of wood, and hurried down stairs. Arriving on the scene he saw what was the trouble, and with the assistance of the knife, quickly despatched the rodent. The young man's nerves were unsettled for the balance of the night."

"The young man's nerves were unsettled for the balance of the night!" Anybody would have thought so. When a nocturnal worker is assailed by a vicious and insistent rat, it is enough to make it necessary for him to take a course in a sanitarium. It also shows the desirability of early hours. Had the young man been in bed, the harrowing incident would never have occurred. It may also be remarked that had the rat followed the same course, it would have been possible for the young man, to toil uninterruptedly. It is a case for the casuists. It is simply a variant on the old assertion that if the worm had not been early the robin would never have captured him.

A CHANCE

For Everyone to Get Their Goods and Their Money Back.

Working people especially whom I have tried to please by keeping open my store after working hours, will be sorry that I have been compelled by the jealousy of my opposition, who denounced me to the authorities, to close my store at 7 o'clock, although other stores have been open for years without any complaint. But I am now prepared to give my customers a benefit that has never been given before in the Dominion.

COMMENCING SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14th, UNTIL JANUARY 1st, 1904, I WILL RETURN THE WHOLE OF THE MONEY EACH CUSTOMER SPENT ON A CERTAIN DAY,

Which will be announced in the Daily Examiner. From January 1st to 16th every customer will be supplied with a dated coupon which must be presented at the store at the date advertised for returning the money. Everyone has a chance to get his or her money back.

Although I am giving this great benefit my prices will continue to be away below all my competitors. I have received, this week:—

400 Ladies Hats, trimmed and untrimmed, all this season's styles, regular prices from $1 to $5; to be sold at from 35c to 95c.

140 Ladies' and Children's Short and Three-quarter Length Winter Coats, black, grey and other colours; will be sold at ONE-THIRD regular prices.

Ladies Wool Silk and Lustre and Satcen Waists in great variety, all sizes and colours at less than one-half price.

Piles of MEN'S CLOTHING, TAM O' SHANTERS, BOOTS, ETC., LADIES' and MEN'S RAINPROOF COATS, Etc.

KILLED AT LEVIS, Q.

Paul Mercier Victim of a Bursting Donkey Engine.

EIGHT OTHERS BADLY HURT.

Just As the Men Were About to Start Unloading the Accident on the Steamship Congal Occurred—Human Beings Hurled in All Directions—Loud Report Told the Awful Story.

Quebec, Nov. 21.—A donkey engine exploded on board the SS. Congal at Levis yesterday. Paul Mercier was instantly killed, his skull being crushed and his face and body terribly mangled. Eight others were injured, some so badly that they will likely die. The injured are: Pete Bernard, leg broken; Arthur Brunet, badly cut about head and both legs broken, not expected to survive; George Guimond, head and face injured; David Blouin, legs broken and cut about face and body; Engine Driver Joncas, legs and body badly injured; Joe Rankin, slightly injured; Fred. Miller, slightly injured; Charles Miller, slightly injured. All the men are Quebeckers.

The explosion occurred just about 2 p.m., when the men were starting to work. The Congal had aboard a cargo of coal for the Quebec Central Railway, and was about to be unloaded. The donkey engine was near the after-hatch. When the first bucket of coal was raised, and the men were getting ready to work, there was a loud report, and the flying pieces of iron, coal and wood told the awful story of the explosion. The engine itself was thrown over the side of the steamer by the shock, and landed in a batteau of deals alongside; the driving wheel and other parts of the apparatus were smashed to pieces. Men were hurled in different directions, and there were many narrow escapes from instant death and serious injury. William Airey was hurled straight into the air by the force of the shock, and in falling, grasped the rigging of the vessel and saved himself from injury and perhaps death. Joe Rafkin, foreman of the hatch, also had an exceedingly narrow escape. Most of the men are heads of families.

Fears for Steamer Erin.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 21.—There are grave fears for the safety of the Canadian steamer Erin, with a crew of fourteen men, now several days overdue from Lake Superior. The missing steamer was sighted Wednesday by the steamer Samuel Mitchell, 40 miles above White Fish Point. A heavy snowstorm then prevailed. Yesterday it was reported that the Danforth had been picked up by a fish tug and towed to Bachtewanna Bay. The crew of the Erin were not aboard the Danforth. The vessels parted company in the gale 30 miles south of Michipicoten.

Shot While Hunting.

Thamesville, Nov. 21.—While rabbit hunting in Howard Township, near here, yesterday, Edward Everitt was instantly killed. He was accompanied by his father and another young man. He had leaned his shotgun against a fence and in some way it was discharged, the contents entering the side of his head. He was a widower, his wife having died only four months ago. He leaves two small children.

CURRY'S STRANGE WAYS.

Man Who Confessed to Murdering Glory Whalen Sentenced in England.

London, Nov. 21.—William Joseph Curry, who confessed to the murder in Canada of little Glory Whalen at Collingwood, pleaded guilty in the Manchester Assize Court to the English charge laid against him, and was sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary.

Since Curry has been apprehended, his strange ways have been noted by the authorities, who do not attach much importance to his prison-made confession.

It is expected that the prisoner will shortly be removed from Manchester to London, and there charged with the murder of the girl at Collingwood before being handed over to the Canadian authorities.

SENT CALLAGHAN FOR TRIAL.

Magistrate, However, Accepts Bail in the Sum of $800.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Before the Police Magistrate yesterday took place the trial of W. H. Callaghan on a charge made by Edward Crossin of stealing $180 the price of a piano.

Mr. Crossin's story in brief was that he had sold the accused a piano for $180, to be paid for when sold, purely on a commission basis. It was sold, and the money was not paid. Callaghan had been to him and admitted the sale. He wanted to pay $100 cash and give his note for the balance. To this he objected. Callaghan was in the musical instrument business, and there was an arrangement by which he would sell the company's pianos.

In his evidence, Mr. Callaghan said he was a retail piano dealer at 485 Parliament street. He had purchased the piano sold to Miss Gardner on his own account and not as an agent. As a commission for disposing of stock, he was to have $5,000 worth of shares of the company, a position worth $5,000 a year and $500 cash.

Considerable of the evidence given by accuser and accused dealt with the affadavit made by Callaghan re the sale of the Gamey stock, etc., in connection with the Crossin business.

At the close the magistrate said he was satisfied there was evidence enough to commit for trial, but that the defendant should have his liberty in the meantime. He was released on his personal recognizance in the sum of $200.

$18,000 AT STAKE.

Elgin Loan Co's Action Against the National Trust.

St. Thomas, Nov. 21.—The action brought by the Elgin Loan Company and the liquidators of the company, the Western Trust Company of London, against the National Trust Company of Toronto, to recover 375 shares of Dominion Coal stock and 100 shares of Dominion Iron and Steel Stock, opened yesterday morning, before Chancellor Boyd. The stocks, which belonged to the Elgin Loan Company, were in the vaults of the Atlas Company when it failed, and the liquidator, R. Home Smith, for the National Trust Company gathered them in. The stock was afterward returned, but the action was continued to recover $18,000 depreciation in the value of the stocks from July 3, when their delivery was demanded, to Sept. 18, when the stocks were handed over. In the meantime the stocks had dropped 80 points.

George Rowley, the ex-manager of the Elgin Loan Company, arrived here Thursday night, to give evidence in the case, but he was not called, his evidence not being necessary. Rowley is clean-shaven, looks well and is fatter and 10 pounds heavier than when he left here. He was taken back to Kingston during the afternoon.

The evidence was all closed, with the single exception of the certificate issued by the Master-in-Ordinary, which will be argued in Toronto on or before Dec. 19

GOWLLAND PATENTS MATTER

Settlement Arrived at by Arbitration.

All Patent Deeds and Papers Handed Over to the Trusts Company.

In reference to the suit against Gowlland by the Toronto General Trusts Company to compel him to carry out his agreement with them, the hearing of which was reprinted from the Toronto News in yesterday's issue, it may be added that at yesterday's sitting of the court in Toronto, on the advice of Mr. Holman, solicitor for Mr. Gowlland, all the patent deeds and papers connected therewith, were handed over to the Toronto General Trusts Company. The News thus reports the proceedings:

"The Gowlland arbitration, involving a patent on an electrical meter, disposed of by Judge Winchester this morning, a settlement having been arrived at between the parties. The dispute arose with respect to the foreign patents on the meter. When the Trusts Corporation, as trustees of the company formed to promote the invention, tried to secure the original drawings from the inventor to aid in the procuring of the renewal of the patent in Portugal, he objected and the matter was referred to Judge Winchester. Gowlland appeared without counsel, and explained to His Honour that he had lost much money on lawyers, and would have nothing more to do with them. His Honour postponed the case until to-day and advised Gowlland to see if he could not find an honest lawyer. Mr. Charles Holman appeared this this morning and stated that on his advice Gowlland had consented to give up the drawings. The point of dispute having been settled, the arbitration was concluded."

THE WOOLLEN MILLS BURNED TO THE GROUND.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Norwood, November 21. — A disastrous fire occurred here last night, the woollen mills belonging to Mr. James Cumming, being burned to the ground. It was sometime before the existence of a fire was discovered, and the flames had gained considerable headway before any material aid could be given to the assistants whose efforts were directed towards preventing the conflagration spreading to the waste gates.

It is believed the conflagration started in the engine room, but the exact cause is not yet known. Most of the stock was saved but all the machinery was lost. Great credit is due to all who helped in the attempt to extinguish the fire. The amount of insurance has not yet been ascertained.

Sir Frederick Borden to Select a Suitable Site.

Mr. J. H. McClellan met Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, in Toronto yesterday, and had a conversation respecting the Minister's visit to Peterborough to select a site for the new drill shed. Sir Frederick said that he would have to sail for England at once and return about Christmas. Immediately on his return he would come to Peterborough and make a selection of a site. If he should not go to England, he will be in Peterborough early in December.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1903.

SATURDAY NIGHT WANTS TO KNOW

Something Detailed of the Wonderful Conservative Organization

So Greatly Glorified by the Independent Toronto News.

With one accord the newspapers of Ontario are busy denouncing political corruption and trying to show how it can be accomplished, or at least minimized. The "News" of this city last Saturday published an elaborate description of an organisation begun before the last general election for the Federal House in 1900. It is interesting, more on account of what it leaves unsaid, than for what it says It appears that one evening "eight or ten prominent citizens of Toronto, of Conservative leanings, met to talk over political matters," and suddenly, and without being nominated by anybody, formed themselves into the Ontario Conservative Association, which must not be confounded with the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario, which appears to be for the smaller fry and the unwashed generally, and has charge of the general party organisation of all the provinces and of which all Conservative legislators, candidates and officers of the local associations in the various constituencies are members. As the article says, "The Ontario Conservative Association was a comparatively small group of representative men, vitally interested in Canada's advancement, and in maintaining the institutions of this country on a sound basis." Moreover the new association banded together to put down corruption, pay the legitimate expenses of public meetings, candidates and literature, etc., provide funds for protests, hire detectives and give the poor man a chance to get into Parliament.—They also decided to "obtain if possible, and if desired, a provincial charter of incorporation empowering the association to carry out the objects and purposes above indicated, and other objects and purposes of a kindred nature thereto." It seems that they did not deem it necessary to obtain a charter, inasmuch as they elected a council to take charge of its affairs, "five members of which should constitute a quorum." It appears that they recognized that a "central campaign fund is an absolute necessity in any political party," and they proposed to, and probably did, help candidates who had not the means to run on their own hook. The necessity for such help is considered "especially true of a body like the Ontario Legislature, where many of the members are farmers of moderate means." The help given to the candidate was that no money was to be improperly used; if any was left it should be returned. We are told that the total sum raised by the association for the Federal elections of 1900 was $19,673, of which after the election was over, there was an unexpended surplus of $1,956, and the "result was a majority of upwards of twenty in the province for the party's candidates." With pride the association points out that it "refused even to recognise as a legitimate practice the bringing of absent voters home to cast their ballots." No wonder, for this is considered one of the most corrupt of practices, resulting in the past in unseating many members-elect. In the provincial campaign "Mr. Whitney gave the charge of the party's funds" over to this association, who, including their surplus, raised a fund of $28,895. The "News" refers to $4,633 expended for detective services, and of two men elected to the Legislature who "swore that they had not expended the sum sent to them, but had merely put the funds in their pockets." After the election was over "$6,737 remained unexpended, but much of it has since been spent in connection with protests." To conclude this highly laudatory article the writer remarks: "The group of founders who undertook to demonstrate that elections could be won without corrupt expenditures do not claim that no corruption was practiced by Conservative workers in the last campaign, but in the main they are satisfied with the result of their labours, and they are satisfied also that only by such measures will politics be placed on a cleaner, saner and more economical basis—that is to say, by Reform from Within."

All this reads very prettily, but it gives me a yearn to know who these "representative citizens" were who appear to have banded themselves in secret to reform the habits—evidently bad ones—into which the Conservative party had fallen in common with their Liberal opponents. Why are names not given? Publicity is the first element of political purity.

TO WHOM WAS MONEY GIVEN,

and why? Were the motives ascribed to these political purifiers as high as the writer in the "News" appears to think they were? Political corruption is not carried on with money alone, nor in monkeying with ballots, nor in bringing in absentee voters. All of these things are in themselves bad, and show a rottenness at the root of the tree. The worst kind of corruption is that which attacks the member after he is elected. Not knowing the names of the eight or ten "prominent citizens" one is led to enquire whether or not they, or a majority of them, were connected with large corporations which find it exceedingly handy to have a mortgage on a newly-elected member. What more effectual mortgage could they have on a man than that they had provided him with means to obtain a seat in the Legislature or the Dominion House? Were there any charter-grabbers, timber limit hunters or corporation managers included in the select few? One would almost think that such was the case, for if they had not been men accustomed to forming companies why should the absurd idea have suggested itself of forming themselves into a chartered company in which they should hold the preference shares and control the cash? Did it not seem to them a piece of rank egotism to meet without election or selection as the few really good men interested in Conservative politics? Where are the others, who form not only the rank and file of the party, but the leaders and the lieutenants, the drum-majors and the corporals? It is rather a taking idea for a few men to constitute themselves the finance committe, the purified ones, those without sin, in the Conservative party. The limit set to the number required for a quorum conveys the shocking thought of how few sheep and how many goats nibble the grass of the Conservative pastures. Personally, I cannot quite accept the estimate that these "prominent citizens" have of themselves, or that the "News" has of them, without having a list of the names where I can see it. Tell us, O gentle "News," where these men dwell that we may go and worship at their shrine.—Toronto Saturday Night.

THE CHALLENGE DIRECT.

(Hamilton Times.)

The Spectator and a few of the less scrupulous of the Tory papers have been devoting much space to the Callaghan affidavit, and alleging that if Mr. Stratton did not prosecute for perjury the tool, who is now behind bars on a charge of theft, people would be justified in believing his statement. We fancy sensible people will not approve of that method of calumniating a man. It would be poor satisfaction to convict the miserable wretch who has been used by the Tory bosses in their vile work, even were it clear that his falsehood was not carefully enough guarded by the machine's lawyer to save him from the criminal charge. When a man goes to seek vindication he naturally wishes to get at the author of the wrong against him.

But the Spectator need not go lacking a chance to break a lance in the service of the party of vilification. The Peterborough Examiner, generally supposed to voice Mr. Stratton's views, makes this statement:

"If any of the Conservative papers who are hinting and insinuating that Hon. Mr. Stratton was connected with the purchase of the stock in the Cromain Piano Company, have the courage of their convictions, they would put the charge in a specific and definite form, so that it can be dealt with. If they have the courage or the fairness to do this, Hon. Mr. Stratton will afford them every opportunity in his power to permit them to prove their statements."

That is a fair and reasonable offer. The organs should take it up, or retract. Will they do so? Does anybody think that a spark of manliness still exists in the breast of one of the vile brood? Let them watch and see if the Spec. or one of its accomplices accepts the challenge.

A WOMAN'S FACE

Plainly Indicates the Condition of Her Health.

How to Obtain Bright Eyes, Rosy Cheeks and the Elastic Step of Perfect Health.

"A woman's face," said a well known physician, "is a mirror which reflects unfailingly the condition of her health. One can tell at a glance if she is well or not and usually one can tell what the trouble is. It so often happens that instead of bright eyes, rosy cheeks and an elastic step, there are dull eyes, pale, sallow or a greenish complexion, and a languidness of step that bespeaks disease, and perhaps an early death if the right treatment is not resorted to. The whole trouble lies with the blood, and until it is enriched and invigorated there will be no release from suffering and disease. Unquestionably the greatest of all blood-renewers is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Good blood means health, vigor, life and beauty, and the one sure way to make your blood good is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Out of many cases which illustrate the truth of this may be cited that of Miss Amanda Damphousse, Ste. Anne de la Perade, Que., who says: "For more than six months I suffered greatly from weakness, bordering almost on nervous prostration. I suffered from headaches, palpitation of the heart, and pains in all my limbs. I had no energy, no appetite, no colour, and my nights were frequently sleepless. At different times I consulted three doctors, but none of them seemed able to cure me. A friend strongly urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I finally lowed her advice. With the use of the first box my health began to improve, and five boxes completely restored me. I now have a good appetite, headaches and pains have disappeared, and I never felt better in my life than I do now. If I am ever sick again you may be sure that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my only doctor."

If you have any disease like anaemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, neuralgia, rheumatism, or any of the other host of troubles caused by bad blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will surely cure you. Be careful to get the genuine, with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," printed on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AN AMERICAN EXAMPLE.

Making allowance for different conditions, the very policy that Joseph Chamberlain advocates for the British Empire, is being put into force by United States of America in regard to her dependencies.

Chamberlain advocates a British tariff against other nations with minimum charges and in many cases a free import of goods to the colonies.

Are not the United States doing the same thing?

Already by coasting laws and by tariff regulations the Philippines are practically reserved for the United States trade. Already all trade but that of the United States is driven from Hawaii. Already Porto Rico is a United States preserve.

And at the present time the United States is passing a reciprocity treaty with Cuba. What is a reciprocity treaty but roughly another way of reaching the result aimed at by a preferential tariff?

Thus the United States is now about to bring the last of her dependencies within a preferential arrangement. And, while there is no doubt whatever as to the commercial value of such an arrangement, the sentimental value is also shown by the confident assertions that, led by the bonds of trade, the Cuban republic will voluntarily become a state of the American Union.

And yet with such a process going on under their eyes, men like Rt. Hon. C. T. Ritchie argue that if Britain adopts a course that is similar, she will lose the United States friendship, or in other words that Britain should not do what it is her interests to do, and also what the United States is doing for fear of losing the republic's good will.

It but remains for Britain to organize its empire on a basis similar to the United States. For the Philippines, for Cuba, for Hawaii, for each market from which the United States tariffs have crowded British trade out, there are greater markets waiting, markets connected by sentiment, by ties of blood and kindred as well as by the natural laws of exchange.

So far as a preferential treatment of tributary peoples go, the American republic has set an excellent example.—Ottawa Journal.

IMPROVING BUSINESS.

Some good advice to retail merchants is given in a recent issue of the Canadian Journal of Commerce. It says:—The active retail merchant is now planning and perfecting the several details of his store in order to not only sell every dollar's worth that can possibly be turned over during the next six weeks, but to cause as good an impression as possible in the minds of all who enter his store during the holiday season. This merchant knows by business experience that customers are attracted little by little, that the bulk of his season's sales is made up of the small and the large orders, that leaving out all the minor calls would be a heavy drain on the output, and that in order to sell fancy and seasonable goods he must needs have his regular staple stock in such complete, attractive and inviting order as to at once win the entire confidence of each person who enters the store. What merchant would be so blind to his interests as to offer the slightest expressed offence to a prospective purchaser as they entered his store? Well, the very nearest to such an unbusiness-like move is having store and stock in an uninviting condition. Just as the careless person who does not mind what the public thinks will go about displaying carelessness at every turn, the merchant who does not keep his store and stock attractively neat and invitingly clean must be more or less indifferent as to the comments or opinions of those by whom his business is being sustained.

The average man, not given to perpetual study as to how to improve his store, may here remark:—"What is expected of a man in business, to keep constantly changing his goods around after he has them once settled in their proper places?" Even that would greatly assist his stock and his knowledge of his stock, providing he has the time. The general merchant in the smaller town or village is handicapped the year 'round by getting too well acquainted with a superficial view of his store and his stock. This remark may require a little explanation for those who are devoting practically all their time to waiting on customers, with brief and hurried trips to town for trading and purchasing. The simplest explanation is found in recalling—if such experience was ever had—the first impression gained on entering one's place of business after an absence of a week or more. Otherwise it is worth vastly more than the week's absence to gain this experience, providing the owner possess the degree of thoughtful study and inclination to evolve new ideas which should be possessed by every business man from the bank president down.

The result of such an experience causes a merchant to view his store and stock in the same light as they are viewed by his customers. The first thing that catches his eye is the apparent brightness and semi-strange appearance of everything fixed for display. He forthwith decides that his store is considerably more attractive than he had known it before, and his first impulse is to set to work and make it more so. What prevented him from arriving at this decision long ago? The fact that he had grown too accustomed to every detail of his stock. Constantly beside it, viewing it hundreds of times each day, its apparant attractiveness had departed, and each week the lingering stock looked to him to possess less attraction and less value.

The merchant who has not had this experience had best make up for its worth by frequent decided changes in his stock, altering the appearance of his store as much as possible at least once a month. This can readily be accomplished by little effort in a general store where the great variety admits of drapings and displays sufficiently attractive to completely reverse former views, while at the same time causing displays which bring the goods prominently before the public, and cause them to be seen in as attractive a light as possible, thereby inducing their sale.

The dealer who adopts and follows up this method is sure to increase his sales, increase his custom and increase his own worth as a man of business, because every change he makes in his store brings forth an idea, and in succession, every idea brings forth another, provided it is given a moment's attention. Such a policy could not be adopted at a more favourable time; for digging into the recesses of a general stock now will reveal many articles which can be attractively displayed and very likely sold to good advantage. The display alone is worth much at present, for it greatly assists in inviting custom and in causing customers to have more confidence in the quality of their purchases.

To win confidence is to hold and increase trade. One of the greatest aids to this is the attractive appearance of everything in the store.

Shattered Nerves

It is a miserable thing to lose one's nerve, and yet it requires "nerves of steel" to withstand the strain of the "strenuous life" many of us are living under twentieth century conditions. Unfortunately few of us are equipped with nerves of steel, and so the aid of science must be invoked and, as usual, science comes to the rescue.

Ferrol (the Iron-Oil Food), is a scientific and therefore perfect emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, and will, without fail, restore the shattered nerves to a normal and healthy condition.

If taken in time, it will prevent loss of nerve and all the misery that loss entails.

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Tells How He Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters by Using Pe-ru-na.

MR. ISAAC BROCK, BORN IN BUNCOMBE CO., N. C., MARCH 1, 1788.

His age is 114 years, vouched for by authentic record. He says: "I attribute my extreme old age to the use of Pe-ru-na."

Born before the United States was formed.
Saw 22 Presidents elected.
Pe-ru-na has protected him from all sudden changes.
Veteran of four wars.
Shod a horse when 99 years old.
Always conquered the grip with Pe-ru-na.
Witness in a land suit at the age of 110 years.
Believes Pe-ru-na the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal diseases.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 114 years. For many years he resided at Bosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

A short time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco and sat for his picture. In his hand he held a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson, which has been carried by him ever since. Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 114 years ago.

Surely a few words from this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 114 years of experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1903. A still more pretentious biography of this, the oldest living man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1903, and also the Chicago-Times Herald of same date.

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says:

"After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so.

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 114 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States.

"I have always been a very healthy man, but of course subject to the little affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhoea.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine.

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease.

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Peruna was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Peruna for la grippe and found it to be just the thing."

Yours truly,

Isaac Brock.

For a free book on catarrh, address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

TARIFF LEGISLATION IN N. Z.

Trade Bill Adopted by the House of Representatives on Nov. 18.

Wellington, N. Z., Nov. 21.—The Preferential Trade Bill, adopted Nov. 18, by the House of Representatives, places a duty of 20 per cent. on the following goods, now free from duty, when from foreign countries outside the British Empire: Bicycle parts, gas engines, oil engines, gum boots, iron and steel cordage, sheet, bolt and bar iron, printing paper, railroad and tramway rails, sail cloth, canvas and duck and surgical and dental instruments.

The bill doubles the present duty on cement and adds 50 per cent. to the duties on the following goods, when from non-British territory: Basketware, bicycles, boots, candles, carriages, chinaware, clocks, cordage, cream of tartar, earthenware, stoneware, fancy goods, toys, firearms, potted fish, furniture, cabinetware, glass and glassware, hardware, ironmongery, hops, nails, lamps, pianos, paper hangings, paper, platedware and pumps.

The duty on tea grown within the British dominions is removed.

The bill comes in force immediately after it passes the Upper House of the Legislative Council, which, it is expected, will be to-day.

Besides providing increased duties on the foreign goods stated, the bill provides for reciprocity with foreign countries making concessions to New Zealand products.

It is estimated that the increased duties will yield $850,000 to $400,000, against which is the remission of the tea duty, amounting to $200,000.

The public is little interested in the measure. The opposition in Parliament is mainly on the ground of rushing through important proposals during the last hours of the session.

SAT NIGHT AND DAY IN A CHAIR

Till Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured His Rheumatism.

William Doeg, of Strong Township, Hale and Hearty After Four Years of Torture—The Story of his Sickness and his Cure.

Sundridge, Nov. 20. — (Special.) — After four years of torture, during which he was scarcely an hour free from pain, Wm. Doeg, a farmer, living on Con. 3, Strong Township, and well known here is a hale and hearty man. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. Speaking of his cure Mr. Doeg says:

"The trouble started in my back and the pain got so bad I could not lie down to take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair.

"The pain would sometimes move to other parts of my body, and when in my knees I was unable to walk.

"I was treated for Rheumatism by several doctors, and also tried different medicines without receiving any benefit. I feared I would never again be free from pain.

"My attention was called to cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills and I started to use them. Before I had finished the second box I was a new man, entirely free from pain. It has not come back since."

Uric acid in the blood is the cause of Rheumatism. If the Kidneys are working right they take all the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidney's work right.

As to the Panama Canal.

Washington, Nov. 21.—At yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet matters relating to the situation in Panama were discussed. President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay have decided, and the decision meets the approval of the Cabinet, that the existing Government of Panama must ratify the canal treaty before action looking to its ratification by the Senate is taken.

Not Afraid to Endorse it.

THE ITALIAN VISIT.

King Victor's Stay in England Marked With Cordiality.

ITS EFFECT ON THE NATIONS.

Will Do Much Toward Preserving Mutual Friendship in Western Europe—Interesting Deputations Received by His Italian Majesty—Italy's Desire is For a World-Wide Peace—The Leaving.

London, Nov. 21.—The visit of the Italian sovereigns to England practically terminated last night with a banquet to the monarchs and their suites in St. George's Hall, Windsor Castle. In spite of the fact that 86 persons were present the banquet was a quiet and almost a family affair. There were no speeches.

In view of the announcement of the result of the conference Thursday between the Italian Foreign Minister, Signor Tittoni, and British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Lord Lansdowne, it is generally conceded that the visit of Their Italian Majesties will substantially aid the solidarity of the great powers and do much toward preserving mutual friendship in western Europe.

The visit has been marked throughout by the cordiality of the English people toward the Italian sovereigns. Whenever they appeared in public King Victor Emmanuel spoke in English, and all during his stay made a markedly friendly impression on every one of the deputations which he received in audience.

Queen Helena has been the object of general admiration, her personal beauty and kindliness closely corresponding to those traits of Queen Alexandra, which have endeared her to the English people.

Yesterday's recreation of the sovereigns of the two countries consisted of a pleasant drive in Virginia Water. A lunch followed in the picturesque pavilion erected at the water's edge, at which the Princesses were also present.

King Victor Emmanuel received four delegations at Windsor Castle yesterday afternoon, including delegates from the Peace Society, the Numismatic Society (who presented to His Majesty a gold medal struck in honor of his visit), the Electrical Engineers, who were recently entertained by King Victor Emmanuel at Rome, and a deputation from the city of London. The King entered into the spirit and purpose of each delegation, and talked entertainingly of the growth of Italian commerce and shipping. He said Italy's desire was for a world-wide peace, and he showed considerable familiarity with electrical affairs. He appeared, however, to be the most keenly interested in the delegates of the Numismatic Society, as he is the greatest collector of coins among the royal personages of Europe. He told the Numismatists that he already had 50,000 coins in his collection, which he hoped soon to increase to 70,000. He described enthusiastically his forthcoming catalogue of coins, a copy of which he promised to send to the London Society.

The arrangements for the departure of Their Majesties, at 9 o'clock this morning, are practically identical with those obtained at the time of their arrival. The Life Guards will escort King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena to the railroad station, where King Edward's special train will convey them to Portsmouth. They will spend to-night aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert at Cherbourg, from which place they will leave for Italy Sunday morning.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Funeral of the Late Frank Burch.

Newmarket, Nov. 21.—The funeral of the late Frank Burch, the unfortunate fireman who lost his life at the explosion at the United Factories on Wednesday morning, took place to Newmarket Cemetery yesterday. An immense concourse of friends assembled to pay the last mark of respect to the deceased fireman. The employes of the United Factories attended in a body, as did those of the Office Specialty Works. The floral offerings were very beautiful, the casket being literally covered.

The body of John Agnew, the other fireman, was taken on Thursday to Cookstown, his former home, and the funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

How Iron-ox Tablets Cured a Toronto Lady of Nine Years' Dyspepsia.

January 15, 1903.

Having been troubled with indigestion in the worst form for nine years, I can honestly say that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with it since using Iron-ox Tablets, which is six months ago. Any person wishing any information I will gladly give it. I have recommended them to several persons and they say the same as I do.

No Risk to the Sick

I Furnish the Book.

I Take all Risk.

You spend two cents—you write me. That's all. Send me no money—Take no risk whatever. Just get the book.

I'll then direct you to a druggist near by you—your neighbour perhaps. I'll arrange with that druggist to let you have six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month on trial. Then if it succeeds you will stand the cost—$5.50—won't you?

Anyway I have made this offer for five years. And for five years my restorative shew that 38 out of each 40 who accepted my offer have paid. They need not have paid. Do you think they would had it failed?

The one in each 40 was not dishonest, either. With him I failed—and I admitted the failure, too.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

can't cure Cancer—no medicine can. There must be some failures.

But then the loss is mine. Invariably I ask the druggist to bill the cost to me.

Neither is this philanthropy.

I am not giving something for nothing.

I can afford to treat these few at my expense.

The 38 cured ones tell others of my success. Quite naturally they recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative to ailing friends.

And THIS is my gain.

This accounts partly for my having the largest medical practice of any physician in America.

Thousands are writing me because of the help I have brought to their friends. And you in turn, will tell a sick friend, when I have also helped you.

Even the fortieth one—when I failed—is my friend, for I did for him the utmost that medicine could do.

He too, says to his neighbours, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative, if it fails it is free.

How I Can Do This.

I treat the nerves. The nerves that give power, and strength to the vital organs. Others—even specialists—treat the organs themselves, not the nerves that control these organs. That is treating the effect—not the cause.

THIS is my discovery.

For thirty years, in hospitals and at bedsides, I searched for what I at last found. In this way my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—was perfected.

My books, shown below, tell of my achievements. An Achievement is of no value until the people are permitted to benefit by it.

Send for the book you need.

One of Bill Nye's Jokes.

When Bill Nye one day happened on the modest sign of Major Pond, the lecturer manager, in a window of the Everett House, in New York, he said to a friend who accompanied him: "Here's the man that incites the lecturers. Let's go in and see if we can't induce him to lead a better life." Entering, Nye removed his hat and ran his hand over the hairless expanse of his head and after staring about for a moment said, "This is Major Pond, I believe." "Yes, sir. What can I do for you?" answered the major. "I want to get a job on the platform," returned Nye. "Ah, yes," said the major slowly. "Have you had experience?" "Well, I've been before the public for a couple of years." "Yes? May I ask in what capacity?" "I've been with Barnum's flat concealed in the bottom of a cabinet and exhibited my head as the largest ostrich egg in captivity."

THE BOARD OF HEALTH AND THE TOWN WELLS

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Considerable feeling is being aroused in the town by the action of the Board of Health in peremptorily ordering the closing of a large number of wells which have heretofore been considered as giving very excellent water. The Municipal Law, Sec. 550, provides that municipal councils may pass by-laws for cleansing public and private wells, and for closing them, for procuring an analysis of well water, for compelling the use of waterworks water within certain areas to be defined by by-law, and for prohibiting the use of spring or well water within such areas for drinking and domestic purposes.

Our council has passed no such by-law. In the absence of such the by-law set out in the Public Health Act is in force in every municipality, Section 13 of that by-law reads as follows:

"All wells in this municipality which are in use whether such wells are public or private, shall be cleaned out before the first day of July in each year, and in case the Board of Health certifies that any well should be filled up, such well shall be forthwith filled up by the owner of the premises."

Now it is evident that the Board of Health is supposed to perform their duties wisely, prudently and without unnecessary hardship to the people. It is very right that the Board should have very strong powers, but it is always expected that such power will be very gently exercised. The greater the power the gentler the hand should be exercised.

Our Board of Health seems to have forgotten this and a number of citizens who, for forty or fifty years, have used their well water with great satisfaction and without sickness of any kind raising a suspicion against their wells were amazed to get from the Board of Health peremptory orders to close their wells forthwith.

They were not first told to clean the wells; they were not informed that evil results had been found to follow the use of the water, nay, they were not even informed that the water had been analysed and found bad—they were simply ordered by this high handed board "to close their wells forthwith."

A number of them on getting this order sent samples of their well water and of the city water to the well-known analyst, Dr. Pyne, of Toronto, and he returned the analysis showing the city water to be bad—he coupled it with the worst of the samples.

Regarding the analysis of these waters they are all different and there seems to be no standard to determine what is good water and what is bad.

Where a family has used water, and all the neighbours have used water for many years and no evil results have followed one would suppose the water was not bad. We have no epidemic of sickness from using well water in the north part of the town. Recently several children in one family died of typhoid fever and it was ascertained that the family used city water. There are four cases of typhoid fever now in town and three of the families use city water and the other water from a driven well and city water. It might be argued from these cases that city water was bad, perhaps that would not be a fair inference but certainly it is not fair to infer well water is bad which has been used with impunity, and when an analyst simply says that water which has certain forms of bacteria is "doubtful" that does not prove the water bad.

And when a learned analyst says:—"Just such waters may give rise to epidemics of enteric fever if the excreta from a typhoid patient by any chance found entrance," he only says what any old woman might say—and say as well.

This bacteria business is a maggot on the brain—more mischievous there than in the water.

I suppose there is not a well in Peterborough that has not some form of bacteria—the human body is full of them. The doctors are in the dark about the whole business. There are two on the Board of Health—one Dyer of Purple, one Farmer and one Shoe Merchant, good honest men, but some of them have looked at a drop of water through a microscope and the horrors they saw have inspired them to order the closing of wells "forthwith."

It is a very serious matter. It means throwing away what is highly valued—what cost money and it means great expense and plumbing and yearly visits of plumbers—a worse evil than the bacillus.

The Board is a valuable institution, and, rightly guided, a great help to society, but it must go slow and not be carried away with theoretic men who appear to be more afraid of a bacillus than they are of the devil. Let the wells be cleaned out, let the impurities on the surface be cleaned away, and, if after all sensible efforts to keep the wells clean fail, then close such as are shown to be dangerous. I would suggest that no well should be ordered to be closed without first being cleaned again and tested. Then plenty of time should be given that people may get in the necessary connection with sewers and to get their plumbing done, and it may be that houses may have to be made warmer to resist frost. The bacillus has been here a long time. Adam's colon was, no doubt, as full of the colonoid bacilli as that of the chairman of the Board of Health to-day. He lived to a good old age, then died, we are told; and so will the chairman, but let not the chairman shorten all our lives by worrying unduly about the good well water.

Yours truly,

MEDICUS.

AN ANNEXATION MASS MEETING

To be Held on Tuesday Night to Consider Municipal Union.

His Worship Mayor Roger has called a public meeting for Tuesday night, November 24th, in the council chamber, to discuss the subject of the union of the municipality of Ashburnham and Peterborough. The meeting opens at eight o'clock, and all interested are invited to be present and give expression to their views on the subject.

WILL GIVE A DANCE ON DECEMBER 7TH.

Social Function by the Albany Club Will be Held in the Opera House.

One of the momentous social events of the near future will be the dance to be given in the opera house on the evening of December 7th, by the Albany Club. Invitations have already been sent out and include persons from Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and other places outside of Peterborough.

The club's orchestra, which is ununder the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, will give a delightful programme of special music, during the reception, which will take place from 8 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Refreshments will be served in the comfortable rooms of the club, the proximity of which will be very handy. They cover the entire second floor of the opera house block, and during the evening will be thrown open to the public.

UNION RALLY ON MONDAY.

Prominent Sabbath School Worker Coming to Peterborough.

It is a matter of congratulation that Peterborough people are to be given an opportunity of hearing Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, the great International Field worker in Sunday School interests. Mrs. Bryner and Mr. J. A. Jackson, who is also well and favourably known in connection with Sunday School work, will speak at meetings in Murray street Baptist church on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Bryner's afternoon subject is "How I Prepare my Lesson," and her evening subject, "Profit of Systematic Bible Study."

Mr. Jackson's subjects are, "Trained Teachers—How Can We Get Them?" And, "The Bible."

These meetings promise to be intensely interesting. They are open to everybody. Sunday School workers and Christian parents should make special efforts to hear Mrs. Bryner as a similar opportunity may not soon occur again.

Liberal offerings are asked for at both sessions.

OBITUARY.

Deplored Death of Mrs. Henry Long—The Funeral on Monday.

The sad death of Mrs. Long, formerly Mary Gray, relict of the late Henry Long, of Peterborough, occurred this morning. The deceased, who was a member of St. John's church, came to town some four years ago from Hill-Deveren, Wiltshire, Eng., and was aged 80 years. The following are her children still living: Charles Long, Strathcona, Alberta; Mrs. W. Hinchcliffe, James Long, Harry Long and Mrs. J. D. Tully, all of Peterborough.

The funeral which will be private, will be held on Monday morning, at 11 o'clock, from the residence of her son, James, 22 Sheridan street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Carol Singing.

The men of the George street choir propose carol singing on Christmas Eve. This custom is generally observed in England, and Peterborough will have a taste of Old Country life in the singing of the waits on Christmas eve. The choir have received a copy of a very kind resolution of thanks and appreciation from the congregation of the Bethel church for the help rendered them in their recent anniversary services.

Secure Your Tickets.

SONS OF SCOTIA RALLY.

A Field Night Initiating new Members — New Officers for 1904—Oyster Supper, Speeches and Songs.

Last evening Camp Clan Alpine Sons of Scotland, had a record-breaking event, in the addition of new members and the reorganization of offices. Through the energy of official organizer Burns, new life has been infused into the order in town, and a good addition made to the membership of the Camp.

After the initiation of the new members, the following officers were elected for 1904:

Chief... ... ...J. MacPherson
Chieftain... ... ...A. Greig
Chaplain... ... ...J. Wallace
Rec.-Sec... ... ...C. Cameron
Fin.-Sec... ... ...A. Conner
Treasurer... ... ...J. M. Brooks
Marshall... ... ...A. Paton
Standard Bearer ... ...J. Mathieson
Senior Guard... ... ...Dr. McKercher
Junior Guard... ... ...J. M.Cunningham
Physician... ... ...Dr. McClelland

The members then adjourned to the dining room of the Munro House, where an oyster supper was awaiting them. The tables were made very inviting and the bill of fare was well served and heartily enjoyed by all.

Then followed an interesting hour in toasts, speeches and song. Among those who addressed the jovial meeting was Mr. J. MacPherson, the newly elected Chief; Mr. Burns, Mr. Jas. Bogue, Mr. A. Greig, Mr. Scott, Mr. Anderson and Mr. J. M. Brooks. Songs were given by Mr. Burns, the organizer, Mr. Lyon, Mr. Greig and Mr. Scott.

Before adjourning Organizer Burns addressed some pointed remarks to the members, encouraging them to be active in increasing the membership roll. He was reluctant to leave them at present as he had intended to remain for several weeks, but an urgent call to Orillia compelled him to go. He promised to return again and further assist in increasing the membership.

After a vote of thanks to Mr. Burns the meeting broke up, singing "Auld Lang Syne."

THE AFTERMATH OF KNOX-BELLAND RACE.

Continuation of the Evidence in the Court Yesterday.

Plaintiff, Whatever the Merit of His Case, Sued the Wrong Man.

The case of J. A. Knox, of Orillia, against Dr. Bradd and the Ontario Bank, which was begun yesterday morning was concluded in the course of the afternoon. The following is a continuation of the evidence from the report in yesterday's Examiner:

Harry Rush, teller in the Ontario Bank was the first witness called during the after-lunch proceedings. He said that a sum amounting to $300 was deposited in the bank in September, and added that an agreement between Knox and Bradd was handed to him personally for safe keeping. Witness produced the agreement in question, of which the following is a copy:

"We, the undersigned, agree to deposit $200 in the Ontario Bank, Peterborough (that is $100 each), to be assigned either to Dr. Bradd or J. A. Knox, by the referee of the foot race between D. Belland and Walter Knox or whoever is declared the winner by the said referee. If Belland is declared winner the above bet goes to Dr. Bradd. If Walter Knox is declared winner the above bet goes to J. A. Knox. The decision of the referee to be final.

(Signed) J. A. KNOX,
(Signed) F. J. BRADD.

Peterborough, September 24th, 1903."

Continuing, the witness said he did not know is the $200, which was put to Mr. Rountree's personal credit, had been withdrawn.

On being examined by Mr. Hatton, witness stated that Rountree was the only person who had any power to withdraw the deposit.

Dr. Bradd was next called and sworn. He identified the filed agreement as the one made between Knox and himself. As to the transaction witness said that he had the privilege of appointing the referee and Knox of naming the starter. He did not know why the money was placed to the credit of Mr. Rountree. Mr. Brooks and Mr. Stevens could throw more light on the matter. Witness got his money back a week or ten days after the race, and if proved that Rountree was dishonest in his judgment, witness had no objection whatever to plaintiff getting his money back. Before the race he had no idea as to what would be the decision of the referee; in fact from before the day previous to the signing of the agreement until after the race had been run, witness had not, to his memory, spoken to the referee. He was, during that period, away in Chicago. Witness also said that he had another $250 out on the race, which as yet he had not got back.

Arthur Rountree was recalled and stated that he saw Belland on the day after the race, but he emphatically denied an assertion that he paid some money over to Belland. Witness said that it was Belland who had defrauded the people. He could run 100 yards any day in 10 seconds, while on the occasion which gave rise to the dispute, he took 11 4-5 seconds to cover the distance, or 1 4-5 seconds behind his former record. He had never seen the agreement between Bradd and Knox before, nor had he ever heard it read.

To Mr. Hatton witness stated that Stevens asked him to act as referee. Witness repeated that he believed Belland had run to lose. He had seen a paper in writing under Belland's name, stating that he had sold the race. He had not Belland's declaration with him but thought he had it at home. It stated, he said, that a man named Hennessy, of Orillia, had given him, (Belland) $300 not to run up to his usual form.

The next witness was Walter Knox, the runner, and brother to the plaintiff. He deposed that on the night of the race Belland acknowledged to him that he (Belland) was fairly beaten and was not kicking. He stated that the referee, according to amateur rules, could only give his decision on the judges' disagreeing. The race on witness' part was, he said, an honest effort. After the race witness spoke to Dr. Bradd, who stated that he could not give him the money as it was not his.

On examination by Mr. Hatton witness said that he posed as an amateur runner. His brother, the complainant, was not present. He did not know where Belland was. He admitted having worked for Mr. Stevens some months ago and said that the latter had gone about trying to get on a race with "his farmer boy," meaning Knox, with Belland together with a fifteen yard handicap. Witness acknowledged obtaining from Brooks certain money betted by Orillia persons for whom he had acted.

This concluded the evidence.

In summing up his case, Mr. Gunn, plaintiff's solicitor, looking at the deal in the light of a gambling transaction, showed that a footrace was undoubtedly legal. Thus the money was either a bet or a prize. At the time when the agreement was drawn up Rountree was suggested as a possible referee. Knox, he said, acted in good faith, believing a just decision would be given. Dr. Bradd may have done so. Rountree, Brooks, or Dr. Bradd could not possibly be expected to say that there was a fraud. That had to be pieced together from the evidence. Brooks' statement to Mr. Graham said the counsel, proves that fraud existed. Brooks is the only one who denies Mr. Graham's statement. Why should the latter, argued Mr. Gunn, deliberately make up such a composition of untruth? It is just a matter of believing either Brooks or Graham, and which continued he, is to be credited with speaking the truth after all that later transpired, is considered. If Mr. Graham, said the counsel, correctly asserted that Brooks said that any money he would bet on the race would be held by himself as stake-holder and that it would not leave his hand, then it was proved that there had been a plot, and on Dr. Bradd's given consent, on this being established, Knox was entitled to the money. The Ontario Bank only acted, he said, as trustee. They could not be sued for the money. In concluding his argument, Mr. Gunn again explicitly enunciated Knox's claim.

His Honour Judge Weller announced that in his mind it had not been proved that Rountree had played dishonestly. If he had made an error in judgment, that was not to be dealt with in court. His decision, according to the agreement was final, and there the matter stopped.

Plaintiff, J. A. Knox, had to pay the costs of the case.

PROF. HUTTON'S BRILLIANT LECTURE ON HERODOTUS.

Wit and Wisdom of "The Father of History" Ably Presented.

A Delightful Banquet in Honour of Prof. Hutton.

The Y.M.C.A. Hall was well filled last night, many persons taking the opportunity to hear Professor Hutton, Principal of Toronto University, deliver a lecture of most absorbing interest on "The Wit and Wisdom of Herodotus." For this treat those who went are indebted to the C.D.A., a local bachelor club, of limited membership, which has come to the knowledge of the citizens generally by the social functions which, the members provide from time to time.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Mr. E. S. Clarry, who acted as chairman during the evening made a few remarks regarding the organization of which he was Secretary-Treasurer, concluding by calling upon Miss Georgie Dennistoun for a piano solo, which was given a good rendition. This was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Lillian Moore, which was very heartily received.

The chairman next introduced Prof. Hutton, who for the benefit of some members of the audience remarked that in dealing with his subject he would not be giving an autobiography of some inhabitant of the Stony Lake neighbourhood. Herodotus, said the lecturer, was born at Halicarnassus in Asia Minor, in the year 484 B.C., and was both a historian and a poet. By some he is called the "Father of History." History he said, is a statement of facts of passed events or persons. "Truth lies at the bottom of a well and the longer you look for it the deeper will he the well." Thus the historian has to piece together things which seem to fit. They later give a general impression, which, however, may be entirely different from the truth. Thus Herodotus had a most difficult task. He in his writings remarks that it was not his business to believe what he heard, but to report it. Herodotus travelled a great deal and gives with never failing vivacity a description of what he saw and heard, of the people with whom he came into contact and their different customs. His work is true on the whole. It is not a dry chronicle of facts, such as dates of accessions, parliaments, wars and the like. When he describes a war he does not give the full details and the exact casualty list, he looks at it from the political side and gives the "inside" reasons for the war. On the whole he is correct, but sometimes in order that he may make clearer some passage he lapses into fiction, gives verbatim reports of conversations which he never heard and accounts of places which he probably never visited. Sometimes when he forgets the name of some god he says he will not mention it because of certain religious principles. However the name of the god to which he refers can be found a score of times in his pages. Notwithstanding all this there is nowhere discovered in all his writing a deliberate lie put purposely for deception. He thought frankly and naturally and wrote just what he thought. In conclusion Prof. Hutton dwelt upon the benefit to be derived from his works and remarked that a German philosopher recently said that he who read Herodotus had read all history.

A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Hampden Burnham, seconded by Sheriff Hall, was graciously responded to by Prof. Hutton.

THE COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.

As a fitting climax to the lecture of the evening, the members of the C.D.A., with a number of prominent citizens, participated in a banquet in Long's palm rooms, at which the guest of the evening was Professor Hutton. Mr. Jas. Hamilton, the genial president of the club, occupied the post of toast master, and surrounding the heavily-laden table were the members of the club and a number of citizens: Prof. Hutton, to the right of the President, and on his left Hon. J. R. Stratton. Others present were: Mayor Roger, J. Hughes-Charles, K. Eardley Wilmot, P. Campbell, Ald. R. F. McWilliams, W. J. Francis, H. R. H. Konner, H. Burnham, John Crane, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Amys, J. Laurence, Geo. Revell, Milne Hamilton, Dickson Davidson, Harry Rush, A. H. Stratton and E. R. Jarvis. Mr. E. S. Clarry occupied the position of vice chairman.

After the excellent repast furnished by Mr. H. Long, had been done ample justice to, the toastmaster proposed the health of His Majesty the King, which was enthusiastically responded to in the usual manner. The toast to "Our Guest," was proposed by Mr. Milne Hamilton in a happy speech, in which he spoke of the pleasure it had given the C.D.A., to have the professor accept the invitation to come to Peterborough to lecture, and especially to favour the club with his presence at the banquet. He was sure that he but expressed the feelings of all who heard him when he said that Prof. Hutton's lecture had been a literary treat, and hoped that in the not distant future the town would again be honoured with a visit from the distinguished lecturer of the evening. The toast was heartily honoured.

Professor Hutton, upon replying, said that he was quite accustomed to travelling throughout the country, speaking, but the C.D.A. was the first to tender him a banquet, and he fully appreciated the action of the club. Referring to a township in New Ontario, named after himself, he asked the C.D.A. to use its influence to secure the devoting to the needs of University College the great wealth of minerals contained in the township named above. He mentioned that a woman's residence was very badly needed. He thanked the C.D.A. for the honour of asking him to attend and address them, and hoped to renew the pleasant associations in the future.

Mr. Laurence then favoured the company with a Scotch solo, rendered in his usual artistic style. In response to an enthusiastically demanded encore Mr. Laurence sang a second solo.

Mr. Hampden Burnham proposed the toast of the "Political Institutions of Canada," and named as responder to the toast Hon. J. R. Stratton, who, he said, had done much for the town of Peterborough, and his constituency. He further said that the constituents of Mr. Stratton felt that the course of abuse to which he had been subjected had about reached the limit, and he felt, as he was sure all Mr. Stratton's constituents felt, that it was time the Conservative party brought forward some policy that would be more creditable to it than that of abuse and affidavit producing, which had recently characterized it. He also paid a high tribute to Prof. Hutton, and said the C.D.A. was to be commended for giving Peterborough the literary treat which the professor's lecture had proven.

Mr. Stratton said he appreciated the happy manner in which the proposer of the toast had introduced it, and also appreciated the broad-minded and generous remarks of the proposer in reference to himself, and also his public-spirited reference to public affairs. He referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present to assist in doing honour to the guest of the evening, who was the worthy president of one of the greatest universities on the continent, a gentleman whoses services to higher education had been of great value to the province. Prof. Hutton was a brilliant scholar, and held in the highest esteem by both his colleagues and the students. Mr. Stratton remarked that in Morley's Life of Gladstone, it was recorded that the latter speaking of Greek heroes, said it was true that Moses was a great man, but he was not to be compared with Agamemnon. Mr. Gladstone loved Greece and its great men, and Mr. Stratton had no doubt that Prof. Hutton entertained the same feeling, and while he may regard Moses as a great man, yet he doubtless thinks Herodotus greater. Referring to Toronto University, Mr. Stratton said that that great institution, and its interests, had not by any means suffered by his becoming a member of the Government. During the past five years Toronto University had received greater encouragement and assistance than ever before at the hands of the Government. The question of its maintenance had been elevated above party politics, both political parties had come to a recognition of its claims, and under such conditions it was much easier for a Government to act effectively. Mr. Stratton thanked the C.D.A. for the opportunity of being present. He understood that while it was organized as a social club, he was glad to see that the higher element was not forgotten, and that the club recognized that the head as well as the heels should receive consideration. The first venture upon a higher ground had been so successful as to forecast a future of usefulness which he hoped would be permanent.

Mr. H. R. H. Konner took occasion to propose the toast of the C.D.A., to which society he said the town owed a great deal for bringing to it such an eminent educationist as Prof. Hutton. He recalled his earlier college days, when he was a student under Prof. Hutton, and said he was glad of an opportunity of renewing old acquaintances so pleasantly formed.

Mr. Revell, as a charter member of the C.D.A., said he was pleased to respond on behalf of the society, the members of which appreciated the remarks that had been passed regarding it by the speakers of the evening. It was a pleasure to meet the friends of the the society in such happy associations, and the members of the C.D.A. would look back upon this evening as one of the most pleasant in their experience.

Mr. F. D. Kerr then proposed the toast, "Our Municipal Institutions," and in doing so paid a tribute to the efficient service rendered the town by Mayor Roger during his term of office.

His Worship in responding, thanked the C.D.A., on behalf of the town, for the enterprise and literary appreciation displayed, in securing Prof. Hutton to deliver his lecture, to which he and many others had listened to with great interest and profit.

Ald. McWilliams, upon being called upon to speak also in response to this toast, expressed his pleasure in hearing once more Prof. Hutton, paying a high tribute to his ability as a lecturer. He was also pleased to know that the University had been accorded an additional support by the Government, which, he believed, the latter was in perfect sympathy with. He also complimented the C. D.A. for the excellent lecture given under its auspices.

This completed the toast list and, after singing the National Anthem, the gathering dispersed.

As a result of the lecture and banquet of last night, the C.D.A. has attained additional prominence and ranks as one of the factors in the standing in the community, and now intellectual life of Peterborough.

PEACEMAKERS AT WORK.

Two Points Only to Be Overcome in Chicago Railway Strike.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Only two points prevented a peaceable adjustment of the Chicago City Railway strike yesterday, and the indications are that these obstacles will be finally overcome, and that a settlement will be reached to-day.

Mayor Harrison and his aldermanic peace commission, after laboring for three days, succeeded yesterday in getting a representative of each contending party to meet in conference. Col. E. B. Bliss, general counsel for the City Railway Company, was authorized by President Hamilton to act for the company, and Clarence S. Darrow, counsel for the union, was given authority to act for the strikers.

The result of the conference will be submitted to the directors of the road to-day for final action. The decision of the Board of Directors will then be sent to Mayor Harrison and the Aldermanic Committee, who will submit it to the executive board of the strikers union.

After the conference between Col. Bliss and Mr. Darrow it was learned that the company had made two proposals to the union, as follows:

First, that the company shall have the right to discipline and discharge its employes as it shall chose, but this shall not be construed to mean any discrimination is made against union men or non-union men.

Second. that the company shall formulate the methods by which grievances of its employes shall be adjusted in the future.

Mr. Darrow submitted the company's proposal to the union, after which he said that the strikers had accepted the proposals of the company with immaterial modifications.

In their turn the men submitted a proposal on the routing of cars. This is the matter that will come before the Board of Directors of the company to-day for consideration.

Making Old Furniture.

Much work is done in New York city in the reproduction of colonial and English furniture, but the best of it costs more to do here than it does abroad. Large quantities of modern "antiques" are also made in Philadelphia and are extensively sold as genuine. The cleverest reproducers in the world are the French, who copy the minutest details with perfect accuracy. Old wood from sheds and barns is used for the backs and interior of articles of furniture, and imitations of old fashioned locks are soaked in water and made to be thickly covered with rust. Bird shot is fired into the reproductions to make them appear worm eaten, and an ancient look is imparted to wood by prolonged polishing and hand rubbing.

RIOTING AT CHICAGO.

Police Drew Revolvers and Charged on the Mob—Police Reinforcements Came in the Nick of Time.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Despite the united efforts of Mayor Harrison and the Aldermanic Mediation Committee to bring about a peaceable adjustment of the Chicago City Railroad strike, there was little change in the situation last night.

A proposition from the company stating upon what terms it will settle the strike, will be considered by the strikers this morning.

A serious riot occurred last evening at 39th street and Wentworth avenue. A wrecking wagon, manned by a non-union crew and guarded by six special policemen, passed 37th street and Wentworth avenue. A crowd quickly gathered and followed it. When 38th street was reached 200 men were around the wagon, which they were threatening to destroy and offering violence to the men. Just in the nick of time two cars carrying 18 regular policemen came up. The crowd drew back and allowed the wagon to pass.

Soon after the wagon and car carrying the officers had left 38th street, two cars came up from the opposite direction. As they were crossing 38th street the mob let fly a shower of stones, demolishing the car windows and causing four passengers on the first car to flee for their lives. The mob then swarmed upon the cars and begun to beat the train crews, when the two cars with the policemen and the crew of the wrecking wagon came hurrying back. The mob, which had greatly increased by this time, was in an ugly temper and refused to move. The police drew their revolvers and clubs and charged at once. The mob used stones, while the police swung their clubs with vigor. There was a warm fight, which lasted about two minutes, and then the mob broke and fled in all directions. A number of those engaged in the rioting were arrested.

WHEN BABY CRIES.

When a baby cries almost continually it is a certain sign that there is something the matter with its stomach or bowels and the mother should at once give it a dose of Baby's Own Tablets, which sweeten the sour little stomach, promote digestion and gently relax the bowels. Mrs. Fred McIntosh, Wabigoon, Ont., who has had experience, says: "When my little boy was two months old he began to cry and kept it up almost continually day and night for several weeks. I gave him medicine but it did not seem to ease him a bit. I had not at this time used Baby's Own Tablets but the poor little fellow was suffering so much that I sent for a box. He obtained ease almost from the first dose, and in a few days was quite well. Since then he has grown splendidly and is a bright, laughing, good natured baby. I hold the Tablets in the highest regard and cheerfully recommend them to all mothers.

This is the verdict of all mothers who have used the Tablets. They are good for children of all ages and always cure all their minor ailments. Sold by medicine dealers or sent by mail at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Average Man.

The factor which is overlooked by those who fear the ascendency of any quixotic notion is the existence of the average man. This individual is not a striking personality, but he holds the balance of power. Before any extravagant idea can establish itself it must convert the average man. He is very susceptible and takes a suggestion so readily that it seems to prophesy the complete overthrow of the existing order of things. But was ever a conversion absolute? The best theologians say no. A great deal of the old Adam is always left over. When the average man takes up with a quixotic notion, only so much of it is practically wrought out as he is able to comprehend. The old Adam of common sense continually asserts itself. The natural corrective of quixotism is Sancho Panzaism. The solemn knight, with his head full of visionary plans, is followed by a squire who is as faithful as his nature will permit. Sancho has no theories and makes no demands on the world. He leaves that sort of thing to his master. He has the fatalism which belongs to ignorant good nature and the tolerance which is found in easy going persons who have neither ideals nor nerves. He has no illusions, though he has all the credulity of ignorance.—

THROTTLING OF MORGAN.

Rockefeller's Heavy Hand Has Fallen Upon His Throat.

New York, Nov. 21.—The Journal says: John D. Rockefeller's heavy hand fell upon the throat of J. Pierpont Morgan Thursday and shook loose from the clutches of the master manipulator of steel stocks more than $12,000,000 of bond conversion profits.

The contract with J. P. Morgan & Co. to convert $250,000,000 preferred stock into bonds was cancelled.

This action was taken quietly, but the effect was volcanic. It marks the passing of Morgan. He is eliminated as a ruling power in the steel company and his dominance in Wall street is over.

He must hereafter report to Rockefeller. He was cut off from making $12,000,000. He may be called on to restore the millions his syndicate swept into the coffers by buying steel stock at starving prices and turning each certificate into a bond, reaping an average profit of $15 a hundred, or about $25,000,000.

SIR H. M. DURAND.

The New British Ambassador Appointed to the United States.

Rt. Hon. Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, G.C.M.G., K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., P.C., the newly-appointed British Ambassador to Washington, is now in Madrid preparing to bid farewell to the Spanish Court, to which he has been accredited since 1900. Sir Henry's diplomatic experience has been chiefly gained in the east. Born in 1850, son of the late Major-General Sir Henry Durand, he was educated in England, and called to the Bar before entering the Bengal civil service in 1873. He was political secretary to Sir Frederick (now Lord) Roberts in the memorable Cabul campaign of 1879 and in 1884 was appointed Foreign Secretary in the Indian Council, a post which he held for ten years. He conducted the mission to the Ameer of Afghanistan in '92, and in '94 went as British Minister to Persia, whence he was promoted Minister to Spain. Sir Henry has the reputation of being an excellent lawyer, and while Minister to Persia was regarded at St. Petersburg as the most astute British diplomat ever sent to Teheran. The Standard suggests that Lord Lansdowne has been guided in this choice by the personal knowledge he gained in India of the Ambassador's qualifications. Sir Henry is an author as well as a diplomat. He has written a successful novel, "Helen Treveryan," a life of his father, and a book on the Afghan war of 1879.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

(Liquozone was formerly known in Canada as Fowley's Liquified Ozone.)

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ that Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we publish an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill. We do that to convince you that liquid oxygen does kill germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Liquozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. It is the only way known—the only way one can conceive of—to destroy the cause of any germ disease.

Kills With Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue.

Oxygen is life to an animal—the very source of vitality. It is the essential part of air. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying. It is Nature's greatest tonic. But germs are vegetables, and this excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquozone charges the blood with such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live where that blood goes. We spend 14 days in making each bottle.

We Paid $100,000

for the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. Before making the purchase we tested the product for years through physicians in the most difficult germ diseases. We proved that Liquozone does what nothing else in the world can accomplish, and that the results are unvarying.

A discovery that could command such a price is something you should know, if you need it. We are doing our part by supplying the first bottle free. Will you do your part by requesting it?

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Asthma, Abscess—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Croup, Constipation, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Pneumonia, Pleurisy—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Scrofula—Syphilis, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Eczema—Erysipelas, Fevers—Gall Stones, Goitre—Gout, Gonorrhea—Gleet, Tuberculosis, Tumors—Ulcers, Varicocele, Women's Diseases.

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on your local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay your druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

HIS ADROIT APPEAL.

Mr. Chamberlain Makes Most of the Situation in Wales.

WELSH TIN-PLATE INDUSTRY.

A Dream of United Empire Attracts Attention Away From Local Sores and Broadens the Situation—The Duty of the Inhabitants of British Empire—Sir Wilfrid's Laurier's Affection for Canada.

London, Nov. 21.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Chamberlain addressed a vast audience of business and working men at Cardiff yesterday. The district being vitally interested in the tin plate industry, he chose it as an illustration. The people of this country were tired of lying down to be trampled upon. The trade you have lost you have lost and will never get back. When the McKinley tariff was imposed the whole manufacture of tin plates in America was 550 tons. In a few years it increased to 400,000 tons. To-day England shipped to America 65,000 tons instead of 300,000. For every 1,000 tons of rails imported into England, bringing a saving of £250, there was a loss of £2,000 in wages. A hostile tariff scientifically directed does not kill trade which should properly remain with you. It shows what you lose with foreigners, owing to the tariff. You may retrieve a large portion of an increase in trade with your kinsmen colonies.

Amid great cheering, the speaker said: "Above all, let us draw closer to our friends. Let us draw closer the ties without whose aid and assistance we will be in the straits. Indeed, of those who have made us offers of advantage, no other country can give us what the colonies can give us, and it is for us to meet their requests in the spirit in which they dictated them—not a peddling or huckstering spirit, which would be as discreditable to us as their action is creditable to them. They are not animated merely by selfish interest; they see, as we ought, that our future in history depends on the extent we can weld the different parts of the Empire together. Commercial intercourse is always the necessary complement to a closer political relation. What Washington did for the United States, making it a self-contained Empire of 80,000,000 souls; what Bismarck did for Germany, it is our duty to do for the British Empire. We can begin with an Empire of 60,000,000 of the British race and hundreds of millions of native races, and to bring them together is our task."

Paupers for Canada.

A lot of able-bodied paupers are being sent to work on the farm labor colony, at Lingford, and trained in agricultural work, with a view to emigration to Canada. Their board costs 7 shillings a week.

Sir Wilfrid's Oratory.

The Advertiser says Sir Wilfrid Laurier possesses a great imagination, befitting an orator; his head finely poised; his manner in repose amiable, but when moved he can tear an argument to tatters or bring tears to the eyes of his auditors. His affection is for Canada first, second and always.

Pro-British and Snobbish.

The Freeman's Journal, referring to those favoring colonial representation in the House of Lords, says no community of British colonies is so pro-British and so snobbish as that of Canada.

Causes Much Concern.

The Newfoundland correspondent of The Times cables Senator Lodge's declaration respecting the securing of St. Pierre, causing much concern, as the beginning of the intrigue will cause England further difficulty by the revival in advance of the fisheries question.

Burns Hustled Bryan.

Before leaving for Cardiff, to hear Chamberlain's speech, W. J. Bryan was shown around London by John Burns, M.P. The borough council's dwellings delighted Bryan. Burns walked his visitor at such a rate that Bryan exclaimed: "Talk about hustle! One thing is sure, I have never hustled like this before."

John Raynor Arthur, son of General Arthur, ex-Governor of Upper Canada, died at Guildford, aged 72 years, yesterday.

"IMPOSSIBLE, for you to enjoy the happiness of motherhood," says the doctor. Sometimes he qualifies the statement, and says: "Impossible without an operation." Yet both these "impossibles" have been made possibles by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Many times the hindrances to motherhood are to be found in womanly diseases or weaknesses, which are perfectly and permanently cured by "Favorite Prescription." This great medicine for women cures irregularity and dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I wish to add my testimony to hundreds of others as to the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Ida M. De Ford, of Latona, Hubbard Co., Minn. "Have doctored with a great many physicians—some specialists; have twice been in a hospital for treatment. My case has been regarded as a hopeless one, and they knew not what the trouble was. Heart was bad; stomach all out of order; tired out; severe pains in all parts of the body; sinking spells, and nearly every ailment a woman could have. I took many a bottle of 'patent medicines' without effect. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and ten months afterward I gave birth to a ten-pound boy. All physicians had stated as a fact that I never could bear a child. Both the baby and myself were strong, and I got along splendidly—thanks to your medicine."

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM AND ADDED TEN POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

Mr. Ed. J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

Election Appeals.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Yesterday the North Perth and North Norfolk appeals were argued before the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall. After hearing the argument the court reserved its decision, which may be expected to-day or Monday.

Work Only Five Days.

Belleville, Nov. 21.—Most of the men employed in the G.T.R. shops, this city, have been notified that till further orders they will work but five days per week.

Closeted With the Premier.

Toronto, Nov. 21.—R. J. Drummond, a member of the Reorganization Committee of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company; H. C. Hamilton, solicitor to the company, and Joseph de T. Junkin, a Philadelphia attorney, representing a number of the creditors, had a conference with Premier Ross yesterday. After the conference, which lasted half an hour, they announced that there was nothing to give out, except that they discussed with the Premier the plans of reorganization.

Yukon Sun Burned Out.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 21.—A despatch from Dawson says that the office of The Yukon Sun was wrecked by an explosion of gasoline Thursday night. Fire consumed the building and plant. Loss $25,000. Men at work did not have time to get their coats and hats, but rushed outside with the temperature at 35 degrees below zero.

Death List Now 20.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 21.—The number of deaths in the Big Four collision near Menert Thursday is now put at 20, including two which occurred after the injured had been removed from the wreck.

Severe Fighting Again.

San Domingo, Nov. 21.—The French cruiser Jurien de la Graviere arrived here yesterday and landed guards for the protection of the consulate. Severe fighting has begun.

FIDO WAS IN BAD FIX.

Caught in the Revolving Door at the Post-Office.

The turnstile at the entrance to the London, Ont., postoffice was the scene of considerable excitement the other day. A well-known butcher had just entered the postoffice. He must have wanted to cash a cheque before the savings department closed, for he went up the steps and bumped into the turnstile as if the success of his business depended upon it.

He apparently did not notice that his little dog followed him up the steps, but he did a moment later. The dog had a lie-around-all-day look about him, and did not realize that if he wanted to follow his master through the turnstile he would have to do it in a hurry to go in through the cellar. He did look a little bewildered at the flopping of the rubber stripe on the door, but he had no doubt thought the door was only some huge fan to keep the busy post-office officials cool. As it came flopping around as people came in and went out, the brown hair on the back of the dog commenced to stiffen. He jumped at a conclusion and at the door at the same time, and some one who was coming out had the same conviction as the dog did. Just as the latter jumped the man who was coming out gave the door a vigorous shove. It went about two inches and then stopped. The meditative friend of the kennel had been caught in the works, and commenced to make his predicament known immediately, too, for a steam calliope wasn't to be compared with the notes the dog got rid of for a minute. Fido did not like the idea of being fanned by a fan of that sort, and the people inside did not like the idea of Fido being fanned, either. Among them was the dog's owner. He is known as an ingenious man, and in an instant hit upon a scheme. It must be remembered that Fido is a stout dog, and could not come out of the space in which he was confined without a struggle.

"Ask him how old Ann is, and he'll wilt," suggested one of those looking on. But the man who owned him knew better than that. He wanted to save the dog.

"Going up to him he merely said: "Fido, aren't you ashamed to make a public exhibition of yourself?" This made the dog feel small, and he was soon able to extricate himself.

Holds Niagara in Check.

The coffer dam of the Electrical Development Company of Ontario at Niagara Falls is nearing completion. All the heavy, dangerous work in the rapid water was a thing of the past, the workingmen now being engaged near the shore. The construction shaft had been completed to its full depth of 160 feet; the construction tunnel was now about 850 feet under the Falls, and half way out to where the construction of the main tunnel would commence. The contractor for the wheel pit had a coffer dam completed entirely around his work, the ground cleared, and buildings and machinery installed ready to commence work in the wheel pit, which will be continued night and day until completed.

One of the most magnificent sights to be seen is from the coffer dam, which is an engineering work almost without parallel in the world. It dams back the whole force of the Niagara River in the most tempestuous part of the rapids, about 2,000 feet above the brink of the Falls. Engineers from all over the United States are visiting this work, and have expressed their admiration of its solidity and also of the engineering skill shown in its construction.

The Whole Family Can Enjoy It.

Unless you hear it you cannot possibly conceive its most wonderful power. Whatever your age or mood—old or young, grave or gay—you will find that the Berliner Gram-o-phone will humour your caprice. It talks, sings, reproduces piano, violin, banjo, cornet or trombone; full brass band or orchestra, church choir or chime bells. It will play for you to dance to. It will sing hymns or repeat sermons. "A child can operate it." It is not only a source of pleasure, but of profit. It teaches you to appreciate and familiarizes you with the latest and best in music. All this in your own home and at a merely nominal cost. It would cost a fortune in time and money to hear in person one-tenth of the great artists who have made records for the Gram-o-phone—their voices and styles are yours, true to life, on the Gram-o-phone. Every tone and note perfect.

HOW TO GET ONE. Fill out the Coupon and send it to us with one dollar, and we will ship the Gram-o-phone to you. Enclose two dollars extra if you want spun brass horn. Send your order for extra records at the same time and save extra expressage. Almost any vocal or instrumental music you wish can be had—or we'll send complete list of records.

EASY PAYMENT PLAN

Nothing equal to the BERLINER GRAM-O-PHONE has ever been invented—it is the only talking machine "made in Canada"—it is the only talking machine guaranteed for five years. $1.00 brings you one. Fill out the Coupon, MAIL IT TO-DAY AND AVOID DELAY. Write for Catalogue and List of Records.

Prices, $15 to $45.

ORGANIZATION OF T. A. S. HOCKEY CLUB

Mr. Fred. McFadden is Elected President.

A Largely Attended Meeting—Great Enthusiasm Displayed—Excellent Staff Officers.

The annual meeting called for last evening of the members of the T.A.S. for the purpose of discussing hockey prospects for the coming winter was one of the largest ever held in connection with athletics in the history of the Society. The meeting was remarkable for the enthusiasm displayed, and also for the spirited discussion which took place during the evening. Hockey permeated the atmosphere, and the different speakers in the course of their remarks congratulated last year's team on its creditable record both off and on the ice, and emphasized their determination to have a team this year which would keep up the good record both as regards hockey and also as representing the society.

The material available for a fast team this year helped to swell the enthusiasm of those present, and whilst no definite understanding was reached regarding entering the Trent Valley League, still the meeting was one in its determination to have a team this season.

Mr. Wm. Crowley, President of the Society, occupied the chair and called the meeting to order. Hev. Dr. O'Brien opened proceedings by delivering an enthusiastic and also a congratulatory address. He urged them to organize and to get into the game with a vim, Hockey was a clean sport, and assisted materially in the development of muscle and strength. It was a laudable honour, he assured them, to play on the team, which would certainly be a representative one as far as the T.A.S. was concerned. The reverend gentleman's remarks were loudly applauded.

Mr. J. P. Shevlin also addressed the meeting, throwing out many valuable suggestions, and encouraging the younger element to participate in the sport.

Mr. D. J. Devine, on whom a tribute was conferred in his election for a second term as secretary-treasurer, presented an excellent report for the year, and was warmly congratulated on the very efficient manner in which he had performed his duties.

After several other gentlemen had delivered short addresses the election of officers was proceeded with as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses — His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Fathers McColl, J. O'Brien, T. J. Crowley, North Bay; C. J. Phelan, Young's Point; Dr. McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun, Mr. and Mrs. D. O'Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Coughlin, Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. McGrath.

Hon. President—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—F. McFadden.
1st Vice-President—Fred Derocher.
2nd Vice-President—W. Grady.
Secretary-Treasurer — D. J. Devine.
Manager—John McCabe.
Executive Committee—Messrs. A. J. Sharpe, Ed. Hickey, R. J. Begley.

The election of a captain was laid over until later on.

During the evening a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the press of the town for the encouragement given the team during the past hockey season.

The club is to be congratulated on the excellent staff of officers elected and the enthusiasm displayed at last night's meeting augurs well for the success of the team the coming season.

POLICE COURT.

Fred VanNorman got Almost 3 Years for Theft—The Other Cases.

At the Police Court this morning Robert Sheridan was fined $2 and costs, in all amounting to $4.35 for for imbibing too much of the stuff that cheers.

Fred VanNorman was convicted of breaking into Mr. F. M. Cobb's store on Simcoe street, while the latter was out hunting, and of stealing a quantity of goods. He got 729 days imprisonment in the Central.

Barney Burton, who stole some spoons and forks from the same store, was found guilty, but allowed to go on suspended sentence.

John Richardson wept many tears of bitter grief when sentenced to one month's imprisonment for retaining tools which he knew to be stolen goods.

YOU MUST HAVE GOOD DIGESTION
To be a Business Success—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Give it to You—What They Have Done for Others.
Good health is better than great riches, for good health means energy, force, cheerfulness, and all those other essentials of the successful business man.
And the first essential of good health is good digestion. Without good digestion, the different parts of the body must be weak and starved. And with a weak, starved body, good health and good spirits are out of the question.
And in these days indigestion is everywhere. The hurried methods of living are to blame for this. There is scarce a stomach but needs help. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the help they need. They help others; they will help you. Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont., says:
"I have taken two boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and words cannot express the great good they have done me. I now feel like a new man, and this after suffering for two years from Dyspepsia, for which I tried in vain to find a cure."

CURLING.

Sarnia curlers opened the season yesterday there by defeating two Petrolea rinks by 4 points. This should be a spur for Peterborough.

* * *

A meeting of the Peterborough curlers will be held in the curling rink on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, when all interested in the game are asked to put in an appearance. The membership will be closed and the arrangement of the rinks will take place, besides the transaction of other general business.

BASKET-BALL.

On account of the excursion to Toronto, there has been some change in the schedule for to-night. The 8 o'clock game will be the same and it is expected the Arrows and Harriers will put up some good basketball. The second game will be between two teams from the other players.

The game between the Alerts and Athletics (White) is expected to be played on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock

THIRTY ITALIANS MET DEATH BY FIRE.

Labourers Caught in a Death Trap of a Shanty.

Shanty Burned Like Tinder, and the Flames Were on the Men Before Any of Them Were Aroused—Then Began a Struggle for the Outside and Life—Panic Added to Horror.

Johnstown, Pa., Nov. 23.—While over 100 Italian railroad laborers were asleep in a shanty near Lilly, Pa., on the Pennsylvania Railroad, early Saturday, the building caught fire and before they could escape 27 were burned to death and a score or more were seriously injured.

The men were employed by McMenamin & Sims, on the Pennsylvania Railroad improvements between Lilly and Portage. The shanty was about 100 feet long and one storey in height. One end was devoted to cooking and eating, while in the other end the men slept in bunks. There was only one door at each end and the windows were few and small.

The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stove in the kitchen end. The building burned like tinder and the flames were upon the men before any of them was aroused. The men fought and scrambled for the doors, and the weaker were crushed down and trampled upon. Others were roasted to death.

Those who strove for the door were in the wildest sort of panic. They fought and kicked, and among those who escaped there are many who bear marks of violence. A few got out of the small windows minus clothes and with their bodies cut from broken glass.

Many had their savings of years in their trunks, which they left behind them in the building. Remembering this fact, as soon as they got outside they fought just as fiercely to get back. A few succeeded, but for the sake of their hoarded treasure they gave up their lives.

In the ruins some of the corpses were close beside the hooped bands of their trunks, and melted gold and silver, which had been kept in those receptacles, indicated that they had fallen and died with their treasure in their arms. The bodies were all practically burned to pieces.

An Italian who looked at them after the fire, and who knew every man in the shanty, was unable to identify a single one.

Total Dead Number 30.

Two of the Italians who were burned in the lodging shanty fire at Lilly Saturday morning, died at a hospital in this city yesterday. This brings the total death list up to 30. Ten others victims of the disaster at the hospital here are in a very serious condition, four of whom will die. Coroner Mill will begin an investigation to-day.

TEN MINERS KILLED.

Bodies Were Terribly Burned When Found by Rescuing Party.

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 23.—"Hill Farm Mine," the ill-fated, Saturday night added ten more victims to its black record. At 6.30 o'clock a terrific explosion rent the interior of the mine, and 10 miners, who were working in the vicinity, were thrown in all directions. Only nine succeeded in reaching the pit mouth alive. The other ten were found lying in all shapes horribly burned when the rescuing party reached them shortly after 10 o'clock.

Killed by Infernal Machine.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Nov. 23.—Charles McCormack, superintendent, and Melvin H. Beck, a miner, were killed shortly before noon Saturday by an explosion in the Vindicator Mine, caused by an infernal machine. Four hundred militiamen have been placed on guard around the company's properties. Superintendent McCormack and Miner Beck were descending into the mine in the cage. When the cage reached the sixth level the explosion occurred.

This Boiler Killed Four.

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 23.—August Mortima and August Loshnar, miners, were killed, and Erwin Kime and Henry Lester, sectionmen, fatally injured, by a defective boiler exploding at the Carbon Coal Company in Albec township Saturday.

Thawed Dynamite.

Halifax, Nov. 23.—A despatch from Port Medway, N.S., says that while thawing dynamite on the construction line of the Halifax and Southwestern Railway Saturday an explosion occurred, resulting in the death of Asa Weagle and the serious injury of three others, workmen.

Railway Wreck in Switzerland.

Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 23.—The Berne-Lausanne express was wrecked Saturday afternoon near Lausanne by coming into collision with a switching engine, killing five persons. Many others were injured.

THE STAGE UPSET.

Horses Ran Away and a Woman Passenger Injured.

Brighton, Nov. 23.—What might have resulted in a fatal accident happened to the Campbellford stage while on its trip north to Campbellford Saturday afternoon. The driver got out at Orland postoffice to deliver the mail, when the horses became frightened and ran away. About 100 yards up the road from the office is a large iron bridge about twenty feet high going across the street. The stage upset and went over the side of the bridge, a large pole sticking out from the side of the bridge was driven clear through the side of the stage, just missing a lady passenger. The harness broke and liberated the horses, and the stage plunged to the bottom of the embankment. The only passenger, a lady, name unknown, was seriously bruised and the stage was completely wrecked.

Killed at Leamington.

Leamington, Nov. 23.—Thos. Whitehead, a hunter from Ohio, met death near Leamington on Friday night, as a result of the careless use of firearms. Whitehead, in company with Leslie Gow of Leamington, was on his way home, when both barrels of Gow's gun were discharged into Whitehead's thigh, making a large wound. He bled to death before a physician could be secured.

Two Italians Killed.

Strathroy, Nov. 23.—Two Italians, who were working on the Grand Trunk at Wanstead, were returning from Wyoming Saturday night on a hand-car. The car was struck by a west-bound train, both men killed and the bodies badly mangled.

Dead When Picked Up.

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Saturday night about 7.30 Samuel Ball, 48 Northcote avenue, was killed, by either falling from or while alighting from a Queen street car going west. The accident happened between Northcote and Beaconsfield avenues. Two men saw him as he fell to the ground, and carried him into the drug store in the Gladstone House, where it was found life was extinct. Deceased leaves a widow and three children.

Farmer's Miraculous Escape.

Strathroy, Nov. 23.—A farmer named Joseph Ramey, from Caradoc Township, while returning home Saturday evening and driving a team of horses across the G.T.R. tracks, was struck by the eastbound express at the public crossing west of the station about 9 o'clock. Both horses were killed, and Ramey miraculously escaped by jumping.

THE REPORT IS UNTRUE.

Barr Colonists Not Starving as Stated in Yankee Papers.

Boston, Nov. 23.—The Transcript publishes Saturday a letter from E. W. Thomson, its Ottawa correspondent, who is touring the Canadian Northwest, written from Lloydminster, N.W.T., which declares that the Barr Colony, composed of 130 immigrants from London and its environs, is in danger of serious disaster from lack of food. Lloydminster is 195 miles from a railroad station and traffic is likely to be interrupted by snow at any time. He says:

"There is not in Lloydminster two weeks' supply of bacon, beef, flour, meal, candles, or any staple necessary of life. The 130 immigrants are living mostly in 55 tents, two of these large, and maintained as immigration sheds by the Ottawa Government."

Impossible.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—W. D. Scott, Commissioner of Immigration, takes no stock in a story published in a Boston paper alleging that the Barr settlers are in danger of starving this winter. Mr. Scott says such a contingency is impossible, and thinks the story was the product of a fertile imagination probably some one trying to make a dollar out of an American paper only too anxious to publish stuff reflecting on Canada.

WHAT STRIKERS WANT.

Peace Negotiations in the Chicago Railway Strike Hang Fire.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The strike on the Chicago City Railway is still unsettled. Peace negotiations, which have been in progress for nearly a week, were continued yesterday to the consideration by the Board of Directors of the road, of a proposition submitted to the company Saturday night by the strikers.

This proposition, it is said, provides for the arbitration of the grievances of the union. What action the directors took on this demand is not known, as their answer will not be given to the union until this morning.

There was a marked increase in the patronage yesterday on the four lines being operated, and only three arrests made.

A monster mass meeting was held to plan assistance for the strikers, nearly every union in Chicago was represented, and it is estimated that fully 15,000 people were present at the meeting. Resolutions were adopted asking Mayor Carter H. Harrison to withdraw the police from the cars of the Chicago City Railway, and declaring for immediate municipal ownership of all the street car lines in the city.

NEWS OF TO-DAY.

An Index to Prominent Paragraphs in this Issue.

Trouble in the Winnipeg police force is threatened.

As a result of the good offices of Hon. W. S. Fielding and Premier Murray the threatened strike at Sydney, C. B., has been averted.

The Italian King and Queen were given a most cordial send-off from Windsor Castle on Saturday.

The steamer Erin, which was reported lost, has been brought safely into port by the tug Ainsworth.

The steamer Discovery with 50 or 60 passengers from Nome, is believed to be lost.

Chamberlain held a most enthusiastic meeting at Newport, when he made a stirring appeal.

By an explosion in a coal mine at Connellsville, Pa., ten miners were killed.

An accident befell the Campbellford-Brighton stage on Saturday. The carriage upset and a lady passenger was injured.

A safe in Hogg & Lytle's seed warehouse, Port Hope, was blown open on Saturday, but only $7 in silver was secured.

Mr. D. W. Dumble received the sad intelligence this morning of the sudden death in Cobourg of his brother, Mr. John H. Dumble.

The Peterborough Rugby team went to Toronto on Saturday to play the Victorias of that city, and were defeated, the score being 14—10.

Negotiations looking to a settlement of the Chicago Street Car strike, are hanging fire, but there are an increasing number of cars being operated.

Canadian stock breeders say the difficulty in securing satisfactory terms with the St. Louis World's Fair, is because of the fact that United States breeders are afraid of Canadian competition.

The Boston Transcript's article to the effect that Barr Colonists were in danger of starvation, is untrue, according to the statement of Mr. W. D. Scott, Commissioner of Immigration.

A shanty near Lilly, Pa., in which 100 Italian labourers were asleep caught fire and before they could be rescued 27 were burned to death. A score more were seriously injured.

UNION

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1903.

SHALL WE UNITE?

A paragraph appeared in Saturday's issue announcing a meeting of the ratepayers to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, to discuss the question of the municipal union of Ashburnham and Peterborough, at present one in many ways, but consisting of separate municipalities. It is to be hoped that there will be a good attendance, and that the meeting will result in giving a decided impetus to the movement for union. It seems that this question should no longer be pattered with. There is no question of doubt that the union of the two places will come some time, and now is the best time, before the situation becomes additionally complicated, making the amalgamation details more difficult to satisfactorily adjust.

As the city of Peterborough, the place resulting from the proposed union, we shall have a more important place in the Dominion, a circumstance which cannot help being attended with largely beneficial material results. It is hardly necessary to remind the citizens of both places of the great truth of the trite saying that in union there is strength. The two municipalities, with their resources, population and influence combined, will have a position of importance which neither can have separately. The two places are in many senses one now—one largely for commercial purpose, with the same water, fire and electric light system, practically the same educational system, and practically a common social interest. In a general sense the interests of the village and the town are identical and there seems to be no good reason why they should continue to keep apart in a municipal sense. All the great public interests will be managed more economically under a single government—all public matters can then be more economically dealt with, on the same principle that articles of any kind can be purchased more satisfactorily by buying at wholesale, instead of retail, rates. Those who oppose union from fear of increased village taxation are reminded that Peterborough built her sewer system, and a large part of her permanent pavements were constructed, under a 17 mills rate. If Ashburnham has to undertake the same work as she will have soon to do, it will be found impossible to hold down the rate to anything like 17 mills. If for the moment Peterborough is paying a little higher rate, she is paying it for value received, for services and improvements of which the citizens are getting the benefit. In the event of union Peterborough's water system will be Ashburnham's, and the same with other public services, like the fire service, etc., etc. It is to be hoped that the meeting on Tuesday night will be largely attended, and prove productive of promoting the best interests of both town and village.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgea, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

PREVENT DESTRUCTION OF OUR FOREST WEALTH.

Ravages Made in Our Timber Areas by Forest Fires.

Measures Taken by the Ontario Government to Prevent Their Occurrence and Spread.

(Insurance and Finance Chronicle.)

Whoever travels through Canada cannot fail to be painfully impressed by the enormous extent of areas desolated by fire that have burnt up timber of incalculable value. A more melancholy sight cannot be imagined than hundreds of acres covered by blackened stumps of what once were trees, noble in appearance and value as merchandise whose remains now disfigure the landscape and obstruct the cultivation of the soil. Up to recent years the value of Canada's forests was not appreciated. The Indians and the the early inhabitants took precautions against forest fires, not to preserve the timber, but to protect their homes and save the animals on which they subsisted from destruction, or being driven away. In 1783 one half the Province of Nova Scotia was burnt over owing to fires lighted by new settlers. One fire lighted by an old soldier extended 50 miles in five days.

In 1878 the Government of Ontario passed an act which was intended to prevent these fires by forest rangers being appointed to look after the movements of those by whose carelessness fires arose. In 1885 a more effective system was established which has been gradually developed until it is now maintained at a large cost partly borne by the Government and partly by the lumbermen. Those holding a license to cut timber are now compelled to employ rangers whose duty it is to watch out for fires and take all possible steps for their extinction. In spite of these precautions there were forest fires in Ontario in 1887 which damaged 200,000,000 feet of timber. In 1888 160,000,000 feet were damaged, of which 15,000,000 feet were a total loss. In 1891 95,100,000 feet were damaged. In 1892 a heavy loss of pine occurred from fire in the Rainy River district. In 1895 40,500,000 feet of timber were damaged; in 1896 61,000,000 feet, and so on through successive years. Last year there were 40 forest fires in Ontario which damaged 10,000,000 feet of timber. The six instances above named show an aggregate of 572,000,000 feet of merchantable timber damaged by fire in Ontario, a large portion of which was a total loss. Besides this fearful waste of property there was heavy loss inflicted upon farmers, saw-mill proprietors, storekeepers, and others whose trade is largely dependent upon lumbering operations. The loss to Canada has been enormous by destroying one of our most valuable national assets.

In this province a system prevails similar in its object and main lines to that in Ontario. In Quebec the fire-rangers are chiefly nominated by the lumbermen. These officers have to report to the Government monthly not yearly as in Ontario, but their number is complained of as being too small. In this province a fire that endangers timber cannot be lawfully "set" in one area between 1st May and 15th September, and in a second district between 15th June and 15th September. Even permits to "set" fires are not legalized. There are now 60,862 square miles of timber lands in the Province of Quebec that are under license to lumbermen. In Ontario there are 250 men employed in forest and fire ranging service, a number greatly in excess of those in Quebec.

In Nova Scotia a protective service has not been organized but is reported to be under consideration. In 1902 there were 800,000,000 feet of lumber produced in Nova Scotia, one half of which was exported. In British Columbia, in the Fernie district alone, 200,000,000 feet of timber were destroyed in the last four years.

The revenue derived from the forests owned by the provinces of Ontario and Quebec amounts annually to over $2,500,000, from which some idea may be formed of the enormous value of Canada's forest wealth, and how extremely important it is to protect such properties from destruction by fire.

To those interested in forestry—which embraces all interested in the trade of Canada, for from our forests is derived a large portion of the national income—we commend a perusal of the 4th Annual Report of the Canadian Forestry Association. The question of establishing a school of Forestry in Canada, like to that of Germany, is coming to the front as the need for it has long been felt.

Feline Aristocrats.

The Siamese is said to be the most delicate and expensive of all cats. It is called the royal cat because, according to Science Siftings, it has long been bred in the family of the king of Siam It is a short haired cat, which looks curiously like a dog. Its coat is pug dog color and very short, firm and silky—more like a dog's than a cat's. It has black paws and nose and a twist in its tail.

ILLUSTRATION POULTRY BREEDING STATIONS.

Three Successful Stations in Operation in Canada.

Description of Their Construction—The Practical Results Have Been Gratifying.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has in operation in Canada three poultry breeding stations, three chicken rearing stations, and ten chicken fattening stations—sixteen in all.

The poultry breeding stations are located at Holmesville and Bowmanville, Ont., and Bondville, Que. At each of these stations a modern poultry house is erected and about 125 utility-type Barred Plymouth Rock pullets are kept. At Holmesville and Bowmanville double poultry houses are built. These houses are 80 feet long and 16 feet wide and contain ten breeding pens of Barred Plymouth Rocks. The roosting quarters are separated from the exercising pens and are planned to withstand the cold; the fowls are kept warm at night. The single poultry house is erected at Bondville Que., and is 100 feet long and 12 feet wide. During cold nights the roosting quarters are closed by a cheap burlap-covered frame. The fowls are kept warm at night. On account of the cold winter weather throughout Canada a warm roosting pen should be built in every single poultry house.

It is the intention of the Department of Agriculture to develop the utility-type strain of Barred Plymouth Rocks and to distribute them to the farmers at a nominal price. Last year about 800 Barred Plymouth Rocks were sold to the farmers. The demand for Plymouth Rocks has greatly increased this year.

The poultry breeding stations are equipped with incubators, brooders, and movable houses. One incubator will generally hatch as many chickens as 20 sitting hens. The most satisfactory method of rearing 200 or more chickens a year is with these movable houses and indoor brooders. The house and brooder are cheap in construction and can be built at home. It is profitable for almost every farmer near a large city to raise and fatten from 200 to 500 chickens a year.

The chicken rearing stations are operated at Chicoutimi, Que., Andover, N. B. and Vernon River Bridge, P.E.I. They carry on the same work as the poultry breeding stations except that the eggs for hatching are bought from farmers who possess good flocks of Barred Plymouth Rocks. There are no specially selected Plymouth Rock pullets at these stations.

The chicken fattening stations are located at Sandwich, Ont., Stanford, Que., Rogersville, N. B., East Amherst and North-east Margaree, N.S., Alberton, Glenfinnan, Montague Bridge, Mount Stewart and Eldon, P. E. I. These illustration stations purchase chickens from the farmers for fattening. The stations have an equipment of fattening crates, shaping boards, etc. The chickens are fatted for 24 days in the crates and at the completion of that time are starved 36 hours, killed by dislocation of the neck, pressed into a square shape and packed into boxes.

This year it is the intention of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, to sell fatted farmers' chickens on all the principal Canadian markets, and to show the consumers the improved quality of crate-fed chickens. Up to the present time no chickens have been exported by the Department to Great Britain. The price received per pound is from 10 to 13 cents, plucked weight. This course will be pursued so that farmers in any part of Canada fattening their chickens can sell them to dealers who recognize the value of fatted chickens and pay an increased price per pound for them.

It would be to the advantage of the farmers living near the fattening stations to visit the stations and learn the modern methods of killing, plucking and shaping chickens. The men in charge of the stations will give information regarding the disposal of the fatted chickens.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture carried on illustration chicken fattening for three years at Renfrew, Ont. When the work commenced, Mr. John Frood, the operator of the station, was requested to interest the farmers about Renfrew in chicken fattening and to inform them of the high prices paid in Montreal for fatted chickens. Mr. Frood loaned two farmers the fattening crates and showed them how to to feed their chickens. These chickens were sold in Montreal at 11 cents per pound plucked weight, and one of the farmers wrote the Department that he was well pleased with the price he obtained. This year the farmer erected a poultry house costing $200, and is engaging in the business extensively. He speaks very favourably of the fattening work. He has chickens in the fattening crates and is shipping regularly to Montreal. It is learned that the second farmer and three others are forwarding chickens to Montreal. One of them realized for his shipment 75 cents per chicken; another 65 cents per chick. Three years ago, these farmers' chickens, unfatted, could not have been sold for more than 50 cents per pair. It was then difficult to buy first class chickens. A great number of Leghorns and scrub chickens were raised by the farmers. This year almost every farmer owns a first-class flock of barred Plymouth Rocks.

Since the chicken fattening business is established at Renfrew, and promises to develop into an important industry, the Department of Agriculture decided not to operate the station another year. The work will be transferred elsewhere. The Renfrew poultry business received a great impetus on account of the operation of the illustration fattening station; the farmers are pleased with the increased returns received from their fatted chickens and are in a good way to realize a substantial poultry revenue. What has been accomplished in Renfrew can be repeated in other parts of Canada.

Not Afraid to Endorse It.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

BROUGHT ERIN INTO PORT.

Capt. "Jack" Sullivan Succeeds in Finding the Steamer Erin and the Crew Which Abandoned Her.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 23.—Captain Sullivan, through a blinding snowstorm, found the missing steamer Erin anchored off Mamainse Point Friday afternoon, with the tug Ainsworth, which had gone up Lake Superior to search, and he brought her into port Saturday morning.

The Ainsworth got up to the Erin at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Two hours and a half before the Erin's crew had taken to the boats and landed and were then enjoying the hospitality of John Rosseau, a lone fisherman on that shore. Capt. "Pat" and his crew received the gallant little band on the tug with an exuberance of joy. The day before Mate Abe Colvin of Port Dalhousie, said to his seafaring fellows, "I'll bet Capt. Jack will find us," and when the Ainsworth hove in sight the men on shore agreed that Capt. "Jack" must be on her.

The steamer gave evidence of having had a hard time on the lake. She was covered with several inches of ice; provisions were exhausted and the furniture broken. The crew had many narrow escapes from death. The Erin left Fort William eleven days ago, with the schooner Danforth in tow. She had been taking shelter in harbors on the north shore until Thursday, when her machinery broke down in the lake and the trouble began.

Tuesday night the big anchor was put out above Batchawana Bay, but the chain soon gave way, and the boat drifted about the lake hoplessly till Friday, at 2 a.m., when she anchored off Mamainse.

Steamer Sunk in Collision.

Amherstburg, Nov. 23.—The steamer Gladstone, down with barley and corn, collided with the steamer Sacramento, up at Bar Point at 10.30 Friday night. The Gladstone was struck well up towards the bow and sank in twenty feet of water inside of fifteen minutes. The crew was taken off of her by the tug Home Rule. Wreckers have been sent for.

LOSS OF STR. DISCOVERY.

She Carried About 60 Passengers From Nome in October.

Seattle, Wn., Nov. 23.—A special to The Post Intelligencer from Juneau, Alaska, says passengers of the steamer Excelsior confirm the loss of the steamer Discovery. The Discovery sailed from Nome the latter part of October, and has been sighted but once since. Severe storms have prevailed over the route she would have traveled to this port. She carried probably 50 or 60 passengers, the list of whom is with the steamer's agent in Nome.

Came in With Cargo Afire.

New York, Nov. 23.—With the signals "cargo on fire" dying, the Old Dominion steamship Monroe, from Norfolk, steamed rapidly up the harbor Saturday afternoon and hurriedly landed her passengers. As soon as the hatch was taken off the fireboat New Yorker, with her enormous pumps, sent water into the hold, and at 8 o'clock the fire was under complete control.

Steamer Scuttled by Ice.

Marinette, Wis., Nov. 23.—The steamer Baldwin, bound from Green Bay to Buffalo, sank Friday night off Long Tail Point in Green Bay, 10 miles north of this city. In trying to force her way through ice packs, her bottom was pierced, and she sank in about eight fathoms of water. The crew was rescued.

Thirteen Unaccounted For.

Point Arenas, Cal., Nov. 23.—The steamer Scotia has arrived here with five of the crew of the French barque Francoise Koppe, which was wrecked Friday night, near Point Reyes. Thirteen of the crew are unaccounted for. The Francoise Koppe was bound from Newcastle, Australia, to San Francisco, and was 70 days out.

NUMEROUS LIVES LOST.

Many Shipwrecks in the North Sea Are Reported.

Berlin, Nov. 23.—Communication by telegraph, particularly west of Hanover, has been interrupted by a general storm. All of Western Europe is at present only indirectly connected with Berlin.

At Frankfort-on-the-Main, all street car traffic has been stopped and trees have been uprooted. A new four-storey building with the surrounding scaffolding has been demolished at Chemnitz.

A tug sunk at Emden and a fireman was drowned. Several lighters were sunk on the River Ems, and it is believed that numerous lives have been lost.

Several passengers were seriously injured by the derailing of a train at Sechausen.

Many shipwrecks in the North Sea are reported.

The Hamburg-American Liner Deutschland broke adrift at Cuxhaven and sustained extensive damage.

A STIRRING APPEAL.

Chamberlain Rouses Enthusiasm at Newport Meeting.

BRITAIN AND HER COLONIES

"Not Her Colonies, But Our Daughter States, With a Future Greater Than That of Our Earlier Stages," Says Former Colonial Secretary—Canada Showed No Fear in Tariff Emergencies.

London, Nov. 23.—(C. A. P.)—Escorted by enthusiastic crowds, the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain on Saturday addressed a thronged meeting of workingmen at Trafalgar Hall, Newport. England, he said, had become "the dust heap of Europe and America." Two-thirds of the dumped steel that came to Newport was carried in foreign ships. His preferential policy would stop this and save the now unsafe colonial markets. Canada was not afraid of fighting a tariff war, as was illustrated in the German case, and we were not so poor or so weak that we had to accept whatever foreigners are pleased to give us. Every evidence confirmed his belief in the patriotism of "our children across the seas." They were now comparatively in their infancy, but when they had grown to manhood they might prove to be giants in comparison with their parents. Those of us who could look forward into the future saw, without their aid and assistance, we would sink from our high place among the nations and our glorious history come to an end.

When the colonies came to us and said: "As Yorkshire and Lancashire are bound to Middlesex and Surrey, so let Australia, Canada and South Africa be bound to the United Kingdom," he did not think the people of this country should turn their backs on them:

In the words of the poet:
Britons' myriad voices call;
"Let your sons be welded all
Into one Imperial whole.
One with Britain, heart and soul;
One life, one flag, one fleet, one throne;
Britons hold your own!"

This was greeted with tremendous cheering.

He was given a lunch at Park Hall, Cardiff, where prior to the meeting he said that people talked of the past of Great Britain and her colonies. They were not her colonies, but "our daughter states with a future greater than our earlier stages." The future of England lay "with those sturdy children of our loins in whom we showed ourselves ever ready as they for sacrifices to the greater interests coming into view."

Five thousand dollars was subscribed to abolish dumping.

Auction of Autographs.

At an auction sale of autographs in London on Saturday a manuscript containing a speech made by the great free trader, John Bright, sold for one shilling, the original manuscript of the United States National Hymn for $60 and an autograph letter of John Wesley for a guinea.

Free Trade Vital Necessity.

Prof. Marshall, the famous economist of Cambridge, says that free trade is a more vital necessity for England now than when first adopted.

Delegates representing 150 co-operative societies in the south of England on Saturday declared against food taxes and in favor of free trade.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means body and brain get all the good, nourishous food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

AFRAID OF CANADA

Secret of St. Louis Live Stock Exhibition Regulations.

THEIR IMPOSSIBLE ATTITUDE

Officials of the Big Fair Unwilling to Meet Representatives of the Live Stock Interests of Canada Until the Latter Decide Whether or Not They Will Exhibit at St. Louis—Regrettable Conditions.

Ottawa, Nov. 23.—It is understood here that the officials of the St. Louis Exposition are unwilling to meet representatives of the live stock interests of Canada until the latter decide whether or not they will exhibit at St. Louis. This attitude is hardly likely to bring about any change of front on the part of the breeders and stockmen of Canada. The likelihood is that they will issue an ultimatum refusing to send stock to St. Louis unless there is a decided modification of the regulations under which Canadian animals are admitted into the United States, as well as of the conditions upon which the prize lists are based. Breeders in Canada freely express the opinion that those engaged in similar pursuits in the United States are afraid of Canadian competition. This fear, they say, is based upon the success which Canadian live stock exhibits achieved at the expositions in Philadelphia, Chicago and Buffalo successively. The making of a regulation that Canadian live stock for St. Louis shall pay duty if sold there; the apportionment of the lowest prizes to the classes of animals in the raising of which Canadians excel, and the selection as judges of some gentlemen supposed to be strongly baised against Canadian exhibits, are conditions which Canadian stock breeders say are impossible to face. Hence, if there are no concessions on the part of the United States, it is hardly likely that any live stock from the Dominion will be shown at St. Louis.

NO STRIKE AT SYDNEY.

Steel Workers Wages Will Be Arranged—Efforts of Hon. W. S. Fielding and Premier Murray Were Successful.

Halifax, Nov. 23.—As a result of the good offices of Hon. W. S. Fielding and Premier Murray the threatened strike at Sydney has been averted. Messrs. Fielding and Murray returned to Halifax Saturday night, well pleased with the outlook. A conference was held with Grand Secretary Moffatt of the P. W. A. and Mr. Plummer, managing director of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company. The P. W. A. will present a revised schedule of wages, which Mr. Plummer will accept. The P. W. A. practically accept the reductions with some modifications. Messrs. Fielding and Murray are being congratulated on the settlement of the difficulty, which threatened to tie up the whole steel works and seriously affect the coal and other industries of the Province.

Mr. Fielding leaves for Ottawa this morning to attend a Council meeting.

35 Men Laid Off.

Sydney, C.B., Nov. 23.—The Steel Company laid off 35 more men Saturday, all Americans, holding good positions in the mechanical department. There is nothing new in the situation between the P.W.A. and the company.

OUR TACTFUL KING.

Send-Off of Italy's King of a Most Cordial Nature.

London, Nov. 23.—Much ceremonial attended the departure Saturday from Windsor of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy. The crowds gave the visitors a most cordial send-off. As the train was moving away from the station, King Edward stepped forward, stretched out both hands and clasped the hands of King Victor Emmanuel, who leaned out of the window. The band then played the Italian national anthem and King Edward stood at the salute until the train was out of sight. Royal salutes from the warships greeted the Italian King and Queen on their arrival at Portsmouth. Their Majesties immediately embarked on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, which steamed out of the harbor for Cherbourg, France, amid the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" and a final salute of 21 guns.

London, Nov. 23.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says that during the conference at Windsor on Thursday last between King Victor Emmanuel and King Edward a permanent Anglo-arbitration treaty was approved by both monarchs.

China Hopeless to Resist.

London, Nov. 23.—According to the Tien Tsin correspondent of The Daily Mail, China has become hopeless of resisting Russia. The Pekin Government, the correspondent says, is in despair, confronted as it is with the need of action, which the divided opinion of the ministers render it impotent to take. The movements of the troops continue.

Turkish Troops Besieged.

Salonica, European Turkey, Nov. 23.—An entire battalion of troops was despatched from Seres, in Macedonia, yesterday, to reinforce a Turkish command which had been besieged for two days in the mountains near Spalovo by a band of 350 insurgents. Thirty of the Turkish soldiers have already been killed.

French Marquis Dead.

Paris, Nov. 23.—Marquis de Caoriss, the celebrated French diplomatist, is dead. He was born in 1850.

Famous Composer's Sad Death.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—Estranged from the members of his family, Hart P. Danks, the noted author of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and other famous songs, died alone and practically friendless in a furnished room at 1210 Race street early Saturday morning. He composed in all about one thousand pieces.

MURDER CASES.

Sentence of Firth Will Be Carried Out—Cases for Review.

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—The case of Alfred James Ernest Frith, sentenced to be hanged at Victoria on the 27th inst. for the murder of Chief Storekeeper Bailey at Esquimalt, in June last, was before the Cabinet yesterday. Frith was an employe of the Government dockyard, but was dismissed for dissipated habits. He blamed Bailey for his dismissal, and threatened to get even with him. On the day of the murder he was seen going into the stores buildings, and later on Bailey was found dead with a bullet wound in the back of his head. The defence at first set up the theory that Frith shot Bailey in self-defence, but, afterwards abondoned this, and urged that the accused was insane when he committed the dead. This contention was not substantiated, however. A curious feature was that the jury recommended Frith to mercy, and afterwards stated that if they had known death was the punishment they would have brought in a different verdict. The Cabinet, after considering all the circumstances, decided to allow the law to take its course. There are six other persons sentenced to death in Canada whose cases are awaiting review. The following are the names and dates of the executions: Ernest Cashull, Calgary, 15th December; Kakleel Barham (Syrian), Cornwall, 18th December; Kanjo Maida (Japanese), Nanaimo, December 11th; Sam Chun, Ah Gum and Gum Tie, Clinton, B.C., December 4th.

Shooting in Vancouver, B.C.

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 21.—A Dutchman named Goss shot an Italian jeweler named Bertucci, while the latter was working in his store late last evening. The injured man was shot in the ear and the back of the head. The bullet came out, and it is not thought the wound is dangerous. The cause of the trouble is unknown. After the shooting, Goss ran off, and has not been caught.

A Very Good Rule.

It is well known that the majority of human ills arise from constipation of the bowels and on this account many people make it a rule to see that the bowels move once every day. If you are subject to constipation you can be cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These Pills not only make the bowels active, but by their action on the liver ensure a regular flow of bile, nature's own cathartic and so remove the cause of serious disease.

Jim Hill and the C.P.R.

New York, Nov. 23.—James J. Hill denies that his co-operation with the Canadian Northern in the establishment of the so-called "bullet" service between St. Paul and Winnipeg indicates an intention on his part to fight the Canadian Pacific. Canadian Pacific people, on the contrary, say that if Mr. Hill is not looking for a fight he is certainly in a fair way to get one. They take the ground that Mr. Hill is now, and always has been, the aggressor.

Carried to the Sea.

Oporto, Nov. 23.—A chemist named Belchoir, with two companions, members of well-known families, made a balloon ascension from here yesterday. Their balloon, after reaching a considerable height, was caught by a current of air and carried to sea, and it is feared that its occupants were drowned.

Leave at Country's Expense.

Colon, Nov. 23.—A proclamation published on the street corners of Colon yesterday invites all malcontents to leave the country at the expense of the country. Generals Harria and Bustamente returned to Colon yesterday morning on board the Canada.

Threatened Murder.

Peterboro, Nov. 23.—Edgar H. Crockford, arrested in Toronto on instructions of the Chief of Police here on a charge of sending a letter to Mrs. (Rev.) Wm. Tindel Lorymer of Sorel, Que., threatening to murder her husband, a Baptist minister, spent last summer here working as a carpenter.

Winter Service Opens.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 23.—The winter steamship service to Halifax was opened on Saturday by the arrival of the Allan Liner Pretorian with the weekly mails and passengers, and the Dominion Liner Canada with passengers.

Winnipeg Police Resign.

Winnipeg, Nov. 23.—Nine members of the city police force have resigned as a protest against the appointment of Patrolman Robertson, late of Toronto, as sergeant, superseding several older members of the force.

The Flax Plant.

Linen is obtained from the flax plant, a small, delicate annual with a tiny blue flower. The plant is pulled by hand in the summer, the seeds, known in commerce as linseed, being removed and the straw subjected to various processes to separate the fibrous part which constitutes the linen. First it is steeped in water and then passed through a drying and heating process on revolving wheels until all foreign matter is removed. It is then ready for manufacture.

Flax has been used from remote ages as a textile fabric, especially in Egypt. Mummy cloths are often found to be of exceedingly fine texture. The chief linen producing countries of the present day are Ireland, France, Belgium and Germany. The flax fiber is round and irregular, is very durable and is capable of extensive bleaching. Plain linen has a simple weave, with the weft threads alternately interspersing the warp ones. When woven with a pattern it is usually called damask.

As a clothing material linen should not be worn next the skin because it is a very good conductor of heat.

Jute and hemp are from plants which are used in manufacturing only very rough materials. In form they resemble very coarse, inferior flax.

MR. JOHN FANNING'S DEPLORABLE DEATH.

After Only one Week's Illness—Funeral To-morrow Afternoon.

The death of Mr. John Fanning, which took place at the Nicholls Hospital between 12 and 1 o'clock on Sunday morning, removes from the ranks of citizenship a gentleman who, having spent practically the whole of his life in Peterborough, won in a great degree the esteem of the public from his stable qualities of character. The news of his death after an illness of only one week in duration, was received with the most sincere regret by all who knew him. He was born in Otonabee 49 years ago, but spent most of his life in town, and for the past eight years has been in the employ of Robert Fair & Co. On Sunday Nov. 15th, the deceased was taken to the Nicholls Hospital suffering from pneumonia the contraction of which it is to be regretted proved fatal. He was connected in Peterborough with the Canadian Order of Foresters, the Woodmen of the World, the Oddfellows and Masons. He was unmarried and leaves behind him seven sisters and three brothers, whose names are, Mrs. Wm. Bullon, town; Mrs. Walter Packenham, Ashburnham; Mrs. Selby Driver, Newmarket; Mrs. Richard Hoard, Young's Point, and Miss Sarah, Miss Hattie and Miss Annie, of Peterborough. The brothers are Mr. James and Mr. Robert Fanning, of Peterborough and Mr. Wm. Fanning, of Sault Ste. Marie. The late Mr. Fanning was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fanning, of Otonabee.

Mr. Fair when seen by the Examiner stated that the deceased had been in his employ for almost eight years, during which time he made many friends, and to his personal knowledge, no enemies. He lead a life of strick integrity and was a conscientious member of All Saint's church. Mr. Fair had always placed the most implicit confidence in him, and feels that he has suffered a severe loss. By his death will be created a vacancy which will be hard to fill. His store will be closed to-morrow afternoon in order that the employees may have an opportunity of attending the funeral.

The deceased will be buried Tuesday afternoon, the cortege leaving his late residence, 267 Hunter street, at 3 o'clock and will be under the auspices of the Oddfellows.

MRS. FAIR'S CONDITION EXTREMELY CRITICAL.

Has Lapsed Into Surgical Delirium as a Result of Fall From Carriage.

Mr. Robert Fair returned this morning from Millbrook, where he had spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Wm. Fair, who is in a dangerous condition. SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. JOHN HENRY DUMBLE.

A Brother of Mr. D. W. Dumble Passes Away in Cobourg.

A Prominent Citizen of That Town and Closely Associated With Historical Events and Great Enterprises.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, as will be his many friends when they learn the sad fact, was greatly shocked this morning by receiving a despatch from Cobourg announcing the sudden death of his brother, Mr. John Henry Dumble, Master in Chancery and Police Magistrate of Cobourg. The intelligence was all the more startling because the late Mr. Dumble paid a visit to his brother here no earlier than Thursday last. Though he was not at that time in the most robust health, yet no fear was felt of the sad happening of this morning, for he walked about the town with his brother, visiting the several points of industrial interest. Therefor the message of his death—probably due to heart failure—received this morning was a very great surprise and shock.

The late Mr. Dumble was born in Ireland 74 years ago and came to Canada with his father's family in 1814. He was engaged with his father, who was an officer in the Royal Engineers, in the delimitation of the Maine boundary in 1844. At that time, of the age of only 17 years, he was entrusted with the duties of topographical engineer of the British section of the delimitation commission, sketching in the topography of the district traversed. Lieut. Pope, afterwards a General in the United States Army, occupied a similar position on the United States section of the commission. After the completion of the boundary delimitation, Mr. Dumble and his father were engaged until the completion of the work, in surveying what is known as Major Robinson's route, for an Imperial railway—in 1846—a route which was subsequently selected for the Intercolonial Railway. On the completion of this survey the father and son returned to Cobourg where the family had meanwhile resided, and the subject of this sketch entered college and pursued his studies for a time. Later he became engineer for the section of the Grand Trunk Railway between Shannonville and Cobourg. Before that he had been engaged under Mr. Keefer in taking soundings for the Victoria Bridge, Montreal. He was also Chief Engineer for the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway for many years. It is thus seen that Mr. Dumble has been actively and vitally associated with the greatest of our public works and with the making of history.

Not wishing to undertake the travelling involving long absence from home, which the engineering service demanded, Mr. Dumble, at the age of 32 years, entered upon the study of law with the late Hon. Jas. Cockburn, with whom, after the completion of his studies, he was many years in partnership. He practiced for many years, and at the time of his death held the offices of local Master in Chancery and Police Magistrate of Cobourg. In politics Mr. Dumble was a Liberal and at the time contested the riding of West Northumberland, but was unsuccessful by a small majority.

In social life Mr. Dumble was genial. He was a man of decided judgment, and had the courage of his convictions. He was an all-round good and public-spirited citizen, and his advice and counsel were much sought. He was also a member of the Masonic fraternity. In religion he was associated with the Church of England, being a member of the congregation of St. Peter's. Mr. Dumble was twice married. By his first wife he leaves two daughters and one son, Capt. Dumble of the Royal Engineers, now in England. His second wife survives him, together with two daughters and one son.

OBITUARY.

Mr. James Gibson Died This Morning After a Year's Illness.

Jas. Gibson, after an illness of about one year, died this morning about ten o'clock, at his late residence 544 Park street, at the age of 75 years, the last two and a half of which have been spent in Peterborough, previous to which he lived in Coldsprings.

The late Mr. Gibson leaves to mourn his loss a wife, three daughters and a son, the latter living in Texas. The daughters are Mrs. Raymond, of Wisconsin; Mrs. Jas. Wall, of Peterborough, and Miss Lizzie, who lives at home. One daughter died less than a year ago in Enismore.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Peter's cathedral to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

STOLEN ARTICLES HAVE BEEN FOUND.

Belief That Many Persons Have Purchased Stolen Goods.

Chief Ruzzel secured a warrant this morning to search the rooms of the Cavanagh Hotel where the following articles identified as having belonged to Mr. F. M. Cobb, were found in different rooms of the hotel: Six pairs of lace curtains, new pair of pants, four pairs of slippers, one door bell, one bracelet and other jewellery, coat and vest buttons, one brooch, spectacle cases, etc. It is not known who is responsible for taking these articles, to the Cavanagh House, though, of course the proprietor and manager of the hotel have no more knowledge as to how these articles came to be there than they would know of the belongings of an ordinary guest.

It is believed that a number of farmers in this county have purchased from VanNorman, (now under arrest charged with theft from F. M. Cobb) pairs of pants for 60c. All thought to have purchased goods from this same man are warned that unless they are returned they will be liable to prosecution for receiving and retaining stolen goods.

THREATENED TO MURDER A BAPTIST MINISTER.

The Alleged Writer of a Letter was Arrested in Toronto.

Edgar H. Crockford, a carpenter by trade, has been arrested in Toronto, charged with writing a letter to Mrs. (Rev.) Wm. Tindel Lorymer, of Sorel P. Q., in which, it is alleged, he threatened to shoot her husband, Rev. W. T. Lorymer, a Baptist minister, who, during August last, filled Rev. Mr. Bastow's pulpit while the latter was absent on his holidays. It is a case of a modern Othello for the man's jealous imaginations have so worked upon him that he almost positively believes that Rev. Mr. Lorymer, who knew prisoner in Parry Sound, was instrumental to his wife leaving him and living with her mother in that town. Crockford, although responsible for his actions, is believed to be suffering with some mania. At Parry Sound he was but lightly esteemed, partly because of the cruel manner in which, it is said, he threatened his wife on the latter leaving him. He began to imagine things for which there was absolutely no foundation. Continual brooding led to suppositions developing into actual belief, illustrating the well-known lines of Shakespeare:

"Trifles light as air
Are to the jealous confirmation strong
As proof of Holy Spirit."

Crockford was arrested on instructions from Chief Ruzzel. His wife, for some time early in the summer, to support her two children, worked as a cook in Peterborough and later at Burleigh Falls.

About August Crockford came to town and later issued a writ claiming damages, he charging Rev. Mr. Lorymer with the alienations of his wife's affections. However the writ was not pushed, Crockford, it is said, later apologizing.

The affair is most regrettable for Rev. Mr. Lorymer is highly respected and known to be a God-fearing man. It is hoped that everybody will await the outcome of the legal proceedings before either public or private opinion is expressed.

THE LORD BISHOP OF ONTARIO PREACHED

In St. John's Anglican Church Yesterday Morning

To a Large Congregation—Bond Slaves of Jesus Christ, Subject Matter of the Sermon.

Notwithstanding the bleak day and the somewhat heavy fall of snow which lay on the ground, His Lordship Bishop Mills, of Kingston, who preached in St. John's Church yesterday morning, was greeted by a large congregation which, it is felt, was greatly impressed by the very thoughtful sermon and the excellence of the preacher's delivery. The discourse was one from which, undoubtedly, many profited, while the speaker's confident voice at once attracted the attention of everybody in the church. He took his text from Romans: Chapter 1; verse 1,— Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of God.

His Lordship, in beginning, explained that it was a matter of common note that in nearly all of his epistles St. Paul prefaces them in a manner similar to the above verse, stamping on the minds of those to whom he wrote the relationship which existed between his Maker and himself, a connection upon which he loved to dwell either directly or indirectly. An instance of the latter is to be found in his Epistle to the Galatians where he speaks of having in his body the brand of the Lord Jesus Christ. By this St. Paul wished to point out that he was the bond slave of Christ, for in those days the slave who bore the brand of a certain man, belonged to him alone. It has been thought, continued the preacher, that the brand which he speaks of was marks suffered by him for his Master's sake when he was persecuted. There was another thought on this question. When God revealed Himself to Saul of Tarsus as he was journeying along to cast into prison all followers of Jesus Christ, whom he regarded as an imposter and whom he thought to be dead; then as a bright light shone forth and darkness came over him for three days; it was believed that some disease attacked his eyes for even after he had recovered his sight he always dictated his letters or epistles to a second to write.

In the text he is addressing the Roman Christians who, as well as any, knew what slavery meant. They knew the strength and authority of a master, and so he uses these words to show the bondage of a man to his conscience, God and Saviour. We, as well as St. Paul, said Bishop Mills, are bondslaves of Jesus Christ. Thus He lives and is not dead, for the dead cannot command us and in no way have they any authority over us. It may be said that nobody thinks Him dead. Do we, however, all conscientiously believe it? When we pray, instead of looking to Him seated on His heavenly throne, do we not rather picture Him on the cross. We should think of Him inanimate on the cross, but we should also remember that He burst His bonds asunder and rose in triumph from the grave. We were not saved by His death, but by His life, and He lives on the throne, where our eyes, thoughts and prayers should always be directed. The preacher believed that many prayers are unanswered because the persons praying beseech the inanimate and not the animate, and thus, he said, thousands of professing Christians who know about Him do not know Him personally, and are literally never face to face with him. We should remember that we can go nowhere nor can we do anything without Him, for He is ever with us to guard us. If we take this into our hearts it will inspire and strengthen us to meet every trouble and duty. His Lordship next directed the thoughts of his listeners into a different channel, for he said, if Jesus Christ owns us, then we, and it is not generally realized, do not own ourselves. We are His because He created us and gave up peace. We are His because He keeps us from day to day and year to year. We are His because when He takes the breath from our bodies we are dead. Thus we should live to glorify God with our whole being and, as bondslaves, do His work to prepare for another kingdom in the sunshine of His presence.

Mr. Donald C. McGregor, concert baritone.

Miss Jessie Irving, humourous and dramatic reciter.

Mr. Gliddon's full orchestra.

Read these press notices:—

Greenock, (Scotland) Journal says: "The most notable item on the programme was the contralto vocalist. This excellent singer created quite a furore. Her first two items, "Queen of the Earth" and "Dark Lochnagar," were given with a power and feeling beyond description. No one could listen unmoved to this grand voice. It fairly chrilled the hearts of her listeners."

"Miss Jessie Irving is certainly one of the cleverest elocutionists that ever read before a Hamilton audience. She combines with an attractive personality, excellent histrionic ability, and a resonant voice of musical quality. Her pronunciation was perfect."—Hamilton, Ontario, Times.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING NEWS.

THE VICTORIAS HAD THE LUCK

And Peterborough was Defeated by the Score of 14—10.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Peterborough's hopes of winning the Intermediate O.R.F.U. championship were effectually dashed to the ground on Saturday at Toronto, when the local team went down to defeat before the Victorias, who are now champions of the Union.

The game was an exceedingly interesting one, and both teams gave evidence of ability to play good Rugby. The Victorias, however, were working at a great advantage over the visitors, because of the fact that the grounds upon which the game was played were very small, and, in fact, were not regulation size. To the smallness of the grounds, the local team practically owes its defeat and not to the fact that the home team was a much better aggregation. The regulation grounds give 25 yards behind the goal line, between it and the dead line, but Jessie Ketchum park, upon which the game was played, was so short that not more than half that distance was available, the ends being cut off by a high board fence, fringed by a row of maple trees, and by the vagaries of fate the visitors suffered more from this than the home team. The three points gained by the Victorias in the first half would not have been gained on larger grounds, and a touch down, which was converted, in the second half, secured by the Toronto team, was purely an accident, due to the same cause.

The game, which was a fast and clean exhibition, was witnessed by about 500 persons, a goodly number of whom were Peterborough people. The excursion to Toronto, conducted by the Peterborough club, was well patronized, about 175 being on board, a great many of those attending the game.

The teams were very evenly matched, but the Peterboroughs were not playing up to their usual standard, and had they played the game they did aginst the Victorias in Peterborough, they would, with the valuable assistance of Burnham, have won on Saturday. The Victorias were equally as heavy as the defeated team, and worked together rather better than did the visitors, who seemed to find a difficulty in getting their combination to work, and their kicking was deficient.

The play was confined to the Peterboroughs' territory for the greater part of the game, by the excellent punting and tackling of the Victorias. The result, however, was hardly what was expected, as at half time the score stood 9—3 in Peterborough's favour, and although they were kicking with the wind during this half, this was a very slight advantage, as the day was comparatively calm. In the second half, however, the Victorias rushed matters and a converted touch and a rouge put them in the lead, which lead they maintained and added to the final score being 14—10 in their favour.

Some exceedingly brilliant individual plays were made by the players, but the team work was for some reason not as effective as it has been in previous games. Capt. Crowley distinguished himself by making a number of splendid runs, his tackling also being an important factor. Of Burnham, it is but necessary to say that he played his usual game. His punting was not equalled by any player on either team, and his presence on the line-up gave a confidence to the members of the local team. He led a number of effective rushes, each of which gained considerable ground. The work of "Chris." Graham, was, however, the conspicuous feature of the game. He tackled with more effectiveness than any other of the 23 men on the field, and his dodging was of the stellar variety. He also made some good runs, and his work all through was worthy of the highest commendation. Cameron on the wing also proved himself a very valuable player, and tackled exceptionally well. Eugene Hurtubise proved himself a very valuable man, but his fame had evidently preceded him as he was checked very closely. Noble was another star on the wing line. Meagher and Dillon also played well as did Rickey, following up quickly and tackling effectively. For the Victorias, Gowans the captain and centre half-back was the orifliant player. He punted on every occasion, when a punt was the proper play to make. Tooze at full-back was another valuable man for the Victorias. On several occasions he saved points for the team, and made the most spectacular play of the day, dodging practically the whole Peterborough team, and punted, in very close quarters. The whole back division of the Victorias is composed of men, who play the game almost to perfection and work in combination most effectively.

The line-up of the two teams follows:—

Peterborough.	Victorias.
Back.
Ford	Tooze
Full Backs.
Lee	Robertson
Burnham	Cotton
Crowley	Gowans
Quarter.
Graham	J Yeaman
Wings.
Hurtubise	Browne
Craig	Shepherd
Cameron	Whale
Meagher	McWhirter
Dillon	A Yeaman
Noble	Pitcher
Rickey	York

the officials being: Referee, Hugh Hayes, umpire, F. E. Robins, both of Hamilton West End Pleasure Club; time-keepers, Fred Whitcroft, and Dr. Peacock.

THE GAME.

Peterborough won the toss, and kicked with the wind, which was very light for the first half. The Victorias started out strong, and on a punt ran the ball to the goal line. Lee relieved, however, and the sphere travelled to less dangerous ground. It was quickly returned, though, and Burnham was forced to rouge, chiefly because of the fact that there was not sufficient room to punt. Another rouge was forced in a few minutes on Ford for the same reason, making the score 2—0 against the Peterboroughs. The Vics. had more trouble securing their next point, and in the interval the visitors got in some good work, in which Rickey, Crowley and Graham participated, the latter making a most spectacular run, dodging nearly the whole Vics' team. Shepherd also distinguished himself by a good run, punting over the goal line, Ford securing and rouging, making the score 3—0. This ended the scoring for the Victorias in this half; Peterborough waking up played a superior game, in gup, played a far superior game, kicking on every occasion and working well in combination. Their first score was a rouge on Tooze, followed quickly by a kick over the dead line by Crowley, making the score 3—2. Some excellent combination by the back division, and a good play by Cameron brought the ball within the 25 yard line, and a punt by Burnham over the dead line, tied the score. With the play confined entirely to the Vics' territory the Peterboroughs secured a touch-down on a mass play. Lee converted it easily, making the score 9—3, at which point it remained at half-time.

THE VICTORIAS' TURN.

The wind had freshened considerably during the progress of the game and in the second half it helped the Victorias considerably. The visitors however took the first point on a touch in goal, making the score 10—3, and was the last point scored by the visitors. The Vics during this half played the better game, and the ball was almost constantly in the Peterborough end, and but for the good work of Burnham and the other members of the back division the score would have been much larger. Two kicks over the dead line in quick succession brought the score up to 10—5. The Vics' back line was now playing a superb game and let nothing get away from them. The incident which lost the visitors the game, however, was a touch down which should never have been secured, and would not have been had the grounds been the regulation size. A punt was made over the goal line, Ford took care of the ball, but in the rough ground behind the goal line, lost it, and a touch down resulted. Gowans converted it, making the score 11—10. Ford and York were given three minutes in which to watch the game from the side. The Peterboroughs still kept up a game fight, but the day was lost, as three points were added, a touch in goal, a rouge and kick over the dead line netting one each, were secured, making the final score 14—10.

The Peterborough team, although they did not succeed in landing the championship, have made a very creditable showing in view of the difficulties under which they have had to work, the chief of which was the loss of MacPherson and Burnham. The remaining members of the team, together with the officers of the club, have worked hard and long for the ultimate success of the team, and that the championship did not come to Peterborough is not the fault of those connected with the team, either as players or officers.

The record of the team for the season is as follows:

Oct. 15, at Peterborough — Peterborough 9, Wellesleys 8.

Oct. 31, at Peterborough — Peterborough 1, Victorias 3.

Nov. 7, at Toronto,—Peterborough 15, Wellesleys 11.

Nov. 21, at Toronto — Peterborough 10, Victorias 14.

The Globe in commenting on the game says: "Peterborough put up a brave fight and but for a little bad luck would have won. They were all over the Vics. in the first, when playing with the wind in their favour and looked like very easy winners. Peterborough scored two points early in the contest on long punts of Burnham, and then made a touch on Cotton's muff close to the line. The goal was kicked. Another single was added to the score, bringing their total up to nine. The Victorias only made three points on Gowan's kicks to the dead ball line. In the last period the Vics worked like Trojans and the Electric City team could not stop their onslaughts. With the score 10 to 5 Gowans punted over the line. Ford fumbled and Brown fell on it for a try, which Gowans converted, putting the Vics. one point ahead. They afterwards got three points owing to Gowans' great punts, the final tally being 14 10. For the Vics' Gowans punted and ran finely. Cotton was a good second, and Tooze played exceptionally well at full back. Yeaman at quarter, passed neatly and made few mistakes. All the wings followed up fast and tackled well. Burnham was Peterborough's star. Graham, Rickey and Hurtubise did good work."

NOTES OF THE GAME.

About 175 loyal supporters of the team accompanied it to Toronto on the excursion conducted by the team, and from which they realized a substantial financial return.

The boys enjoyed the hospitality of the Grand Union Hotel, the attention there received being all that could be desired.

The Victorias are a very well balanced team, with an excellent half back line, and play a good game.

Had the Peterboroughs played the game throughout that they did during the last ten minutes of the first half, the tale would have been told differently.

Hugh Hayes, the referee, gave universal satisfaction, his decisions being as nearly correct as it is possible to make them.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough Hockey Club will meet for organization to-morrow night in the Rink at eight o'clock.

H. RUSH, Assistant-Sec.

* * * *

A despatch from Belleville to the Toronto Globe runs as follows: Big as was the boom in hockey here last season, it promises to be still bigger during the coming season, because it is felt that Belleville will have a great chance of winning the championship. Last year's team, argue the enthusiasts, was good enough to have won the coveted distinction, and, as five of the seven have been retained and there are five new men—most of them of first-class ability—to choose from the team will be stronger than ever. The two who have been lost to the club are Wallace, the famous point, who is completing his collegiate course at McGill, and Marks, the swift wing man, who was disqualified by the O. H. A. Their places will be filled by others certainly not less capable. Genial Harry Burrell having retired from the management, his place has been taken by Mr. John Trualsch, who is an all-round sportsman, with plenty of time to spare for his duties, and who thoroughly knows the game and how to handle his men. The organization of the team has already been projected, and all things will be in perfect order when the whistle is blown for the first match of the series.

TURF.

WINTER ICE RACES.

The Central Canada Racing Association has a first-class programme for this winter, and the week starting Monday, February 1st, has been selected as the dates for carrying it out. A steady attention to horsemen and a faithful carrying out of the advertised programme has done much for this association, as it has so increased the interests of both horse owners and the general public that they have been able to increase their purses from $1,000 in 1899, when they first took hold of the track, to $6 000, which they hang up for competition this winter. Such liberal inducements are sure to attract a large crowd of horsemen, and the ability to increase the purse values after five years in control speaks volumes for the general management of the club. The track will be erected as nearly as possible in the same position as last year on the Ottawa river and will be put in shape in sufficient time for horsemen to have a good chance to condition their horses.

A new departure is made this year in the shape of two stake events of $1,000 each, one for 2.40 pacers and one for 2.40 trotters. Entries to these events will close on December 15th, when horses must be named and a payment of 2 per cent. made, second payment of 1 per cent. December 31st, third payment 1 per cent. Jan 15th, fourth payment 1 per cent. Jan 29th, and 5 per cent. extra will be deducted from all winners. In the different events turf records and records made on ice track of the Central Canada Racing Association at Ottawa since 1900, will govern. Two seconds will be allowed trotters in all mixed races.

The full programme is as follows:

First day, Monday, Feb. 1st, 1904—2.25 trot and pace, $400; 2.15 trot and pace, $400.

Second day, Tuesday, Feb. 2nd—2.40 pace, stake $1,000; 2.20 trot, $400.

Third day, Wednesday, Feb 3rd—2.40 trot, stake $1,000; 2.08 trot and pace, $400.

Fourth day, Thursday, Feb. 4th—2.18 pace, $400; 2.23 trot and pace, $400.

Fifth day, Friday, Feb. 5th.—2.30 trot $400; free-for all, $500.

Sixth day, Saturday, Feb. 6th—2.28 trot and pace, $400; ½-mile, $400; consolation, $200.

In addition to the above a race for gentlemen's road horses will be given during the meet. Three prizes will be offered. Programmes, conditions and entry blanks will be issued and forwarded to horsemen at once.—Ottawa Journal

OLD MOTHER EARTH.

HARDLY ANY TWO SCIENTISTS AGREE AS TO ITS AGE.

Some Speculation About the Tiny Atom In the Boundless Universe Upon Which We Dwell—Theories About the Interior of Our Globe.

Hardly any two scientists agree as to the age of the earth—that is, as to the length of time which has elapsed since the earth's crust became solid. Considering the very slow rate at which rocks are deposited by water and the immense thickness of the beds of these "stratified" rocks, as they are called, it seems that at least 1,000,000,000 years have passed since the globe evolved in its present shape out of the whirling mass of incandescent matter which it must once have been.

But Lord Kelvin, arguing from the known rate of loss of heat, declared that not more than 100,000,000 years is the limit of time which has passed by since firm rocks appeared and life began upon the earth. More recently Professor Tait declared that a tenth of Lord Kelvin's estimate might be nearer the truth. All geologists, however, declare that the latter estimate is too low.

We know with the utmost exactitude how heavy our little world is. If you put down the figure 6 and follow it by twenty-one naughts, you have it within a very few million tons. Roughly speaking, this implies that the earth is five and one-half times as heavy as a globe of water of the same size.

But, in spite of this accurate knowledge of the earth's weight, we have no real idea of what is the condition of things inside our planet. Thousands of experiments made in all parts of the world show that the temperature rises on an average about a degree for every sixty feet below the surface. If this rate of increase continues regularly toward the center, that part of the globe must be at a heat so appalling that imagination is unable to grasp it. When this fact of increase of temperature with depth first became ascertained geologists got the idea that we were living upon a furious furnace, of which volcanoes were the escape pipes.

Now we know better than that. We have found, among other things, that an earthquake in Japan is able to register itself in England. This actually happened in the case of the disaster in north Japan some years ago, when 30,000 people lost their lives. A tremor of this kind could not pass unless the earth had a rigidity approaching that of steel, and observations of tides and the attractions exercised upon us by sun and moon have made it pretty certain that our world is just about as hard and solid as so much steel.

This does away with the liquid interior theory and makes it fairly certain that the earth is solid all through, with perhaps occasional accumulations of fluid rock here and there in parts where for some reason or other the pressure is not so great as it is in others.

It also upsets the old theory of volcanoes, and the modern idea with regard to these mountains of death and destruction is that water from the surface finds its way through a few miles below the surface, and then, being suddenly turned into steam, causes an explosion, or series of explosions, like boiler burstings on a gigantic scale.

Every schoolboy knows that the shape of the earth is an oblate spheroid—that is to say, that it is flattened a little like an orange at the two poles. The polar diameter of the earth is actually twenty-seven miles less than its diameter at the equator. But it is as yet not absolutely ascertained whether the flattening is similar at both poles. Some arctic explorers appear to be of the opinion that the flattening is greater at the north than at the south pole.

Another rather startling fact is that the equator is not a perfect circle. If you could drop a plumb line from Ireland through to New Zealand it would be somewhat longer than another which cut the earth at right angles to it. The difference has not yet been ascertained with absolute accuracy.

We are accustomed to talk of sea level as an invariable quantity. It is positively startling to find how very far from level the sea is; not, of course, merely from the passing influence of tides and winds, but there are great and permanent elevations in the sea—positive mountains, in fact. It is calculated that in the bay of Bengal the water lies at a level exceeding that of the Indian ocean by fully 300 feet and that of the Pacific ocean along the coast of South America may be heaped up as much as 2,000 feet higher than the water in the opposite Atlantic. These water mountains depend upon the attraction of great mountain masses, the bay of Bengal upon the Himalayas and the south Pacific upon the American Andes.

The height of our highest mountains has been measured to within an inch or two, and we have accurate information on the subject of the great depths of the sea, but we do not yet know with any certainty how deep is the atmospheric envelope of the earth. At one time twenty-seven miles was given as the limit. This was increased to forty, and soon even this estimate was extended to 100.

Our only means of measurement is by the meteors, which spring into an incandescent blaze through friction when they strike our atmosphere. As man cannot live at a much greater height than five miles, it may be that we shall never learn exactly how thick is the atmospheric ocean at the bottom of which we crawl.

DAYS OF THE CRIMP

THE TRAFFICKING IN HUMAN FLESH IN QUEBEC'S OLD DAYS.

Ancient Canadian City Was Noted for Its Crimping in the Middle Days of the Nineteenth Century—In 1860 There Were Seventy Dens Run on the River Front—An Item From an Old Journal.

Like many other enterprises, noble or otherwise, the crimping business in Quebec began in a small way. In the early days of the nineteenth century. With the then comparatively few arrivals from sea, the opportunities offering for extensive trafficking in human flesh, which became yearly thereafter more inviting were lacking. With increasing activity in the construction of wooden ships, calling for crews, and augmented fleets of arriving ships, the ranks of the sailor-stealers filled up in a surprising manner.

Among the first of the guild were Dominick Dempsey and James McFay and tales of their reckless daring are still related. That they suffered from arrest and imprisonment occasionally is on record, but the laws governing such cases as theirs were less severe than they afterward became, and they in consequence got free in a much easier fashion than they deserved.

From 1830 and onward the crimps became more numerous, until in 1860 it is estimated that about seventy dens were being run along the river front—not all of course operated in a large way, but all dangerous in their methods. With success and escape from severe punishment, such as they richly merited, how and why is today a problem hard to solve, they even went east in small vessels, and preyed upon the outports of the lower St. Lawrence to the great danger of ships anchored in open roadsteads taking in deal cargoes. Here is an item from an old journal on this subject:

"Captain Wood, of the barque Three Sisters, arrived this morning from below in a sail boat. The captain reports that while anchored at Sault au Cochon discharging ballast, a cutter was seen to heave too off the harbour, but no suspicions were entertained of her errand. During the night following, however, the crew of the barque overpowered and gagged the night-watchman, one Tremblay, living in the vicinity, and lowering a boat, left the ship. As the boat was seen drifting toward the shore in the morning there is no doubt that the crew boarded the cutter, which was no longer in sight, leaving the ship without a sailor. The master was obliged to engage men from the shore to assist the mates for the present, and set off himself for Quebec to capture the deserters if possible. It is to be hoped that the rascals who connived at their escape may also be caught and severely punished."

The crew were not captured, neither were the rascally crimps, as subsequent allusions show. The wily gentlemen had covered their tracks and hidden their prizes so cunningly that no traces of them could be discovered. That crew were no doubt enjoying the hospitality of the crimp in safe retreat, while the skipper they had wronged raged without.

Among the most notorious of the guild the name of James Ward stands out in unsavory prominence, and his career is even yet spoken of with unstinted admiration in the haunts where in life he flourished. That he was a man of considerable ability is not to be denied, and had he devoted his powers to the prosecution of an honorable calling he would most likely have risen to success. As it was, he, in his later years, did attain to a moderate degree of respectable living in Savannah, and to a flattering obituary in due time in a local journal.

That he was sly, treacherous and unscrupulous is beyond doubt: that the mariners of his day was the result of a certain kindliness of disposition in the early days of his terrible career, is probably true. To the sailor man of the Atlantic, Jim Ward was long a hero, and his praises sounded in a hundred fo'c'sls.

A native of Belfast, Ward, when a sailor boy, arrived in Quebec, in 1830, and, being himself immediately crimped, he studied, while in the den of his captor, the system of which he was himself an object lesson, becoming in later years the acknowledged, if uncrowned, king of the profession he had adopted, and a terror to arriving skippers with slippery crews.

Unfortunately for his reputation as the friend of sailors the truth leaked out that, apart from the ruffianly manner with which, as years went on, he was accustomed to treat his captives, he was moreover guilty of a double game, and one more abhorrent to the sailor than the blows and kicks of the crimp and his runners—and this was the way of it.

By the laws of shipping a seaman signing an agreement to make the round trip was entitled to be paid off in full on the return of the vessel to England only. By desertion in Canadian waters he not only forfeited his rights to the wages agreed upon for the run home, but empowered the master of the ship he had abandoned to seize his pay in the hands of the owners of any ship upon which he eventually sailed the return voyage, a circumstance the angry skipper was unlikely to forget. The difficulty lay in following up the shifty tars, when their name was legion, and changeable as well: but Ward knew all about them—knew the false names under which he had shipped by others, and for a consideration gave the information to the captains, who were not slow to act. The rage of the wretched sailor, who found awaiting him at the end of his voyage a legal garnishee to his credit in the place of the expected and much needed coin may be imagined, and Ward's agency in such matters became much suspicioned and discussed in the dog watches, culminating in the possession by the crimp in several ugly scars, which he carried for even after.

"JIM" WARD.
The crimp who was long a hero among his fellows.

The business of the crimp being based upon rascality and carried out as such, there was a perfect understanding between the skipper and shipper that all their transactions would be accompanied by cheatery and violence, of custom and necessity. Ward was, of all men, void of squeamishness in matters of business, and that he would over-reach a captain every time was simply understood by both. It is said, though the story may not be true, that a departing ship being in sore need of a sailor, he came alongside during the night with the corpse of an inmate, who had imbibed of his firewater too unwisely, and who being hoisted to the deck as a simple drunk, was in the morning discovered to have crossed over a darker river than that which laved the ship, hours before.

The truth of this transaction is doubtful, but that he enticed the tramps, who in his day infested the city, into his lair, and filling them to insensibility with whiskey, trisked them out in sea garb, and shipped them as mariners, is beyond dispute. How the mate and the respectable members of the crew treated the betrayed hobos during the voyage is not recorded, and may be safely left to the imagination.

But while Ward enjoyed a world-wide reputation as a leader in the realms of the crimps, he had his rivals, men of no mean ability; and of these Thomas O'Leary came prominently to the front. He did not possess that plausibility which distinguished Jim Ward, but he was made of sterner stuff and more despotic in his actions.

For pure, undiluted cruelty, his name stands out, unsurpassed, in the annals of those revolting deeds, which made the Quebec crimp known in every shipping port.

A Mere Man's Idea.

"First impressions are proverbially dangerous guides unless one happens to be of the sex which always has the gift of making its first impressions rhyme with the issue," says a recent writer. But a woman always awaits the issue before she confides her real first impressions to the outside world. She may "say things" which the male outsider may mistake for her first impressions, but they are not her real first impressions. They come only after the event. This, however, is a profitless digression.

A Man to Know.

One of the chief joys in life is to know men by whom you can swear, to know a man here and there over the world of whom you can say: "Wherever he is tonight, there he is helpful, truthful, sincere, wise, intelligent—an educated gentleman; educated in every facutly of his being, in those things which go to make the body a thing of delight and beauty; educated in conscience, so that even as the eye seeks the light his conscience seeks the right; educated fully and completely."

BY AIR AND ELECTRICITY.

New Method of Signalling Adopted in Parts of England—Power Supplied Direct to Points Required.

A system of electro-pneumatic signalling has been installed by the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway company at the new Bolton station, now approaching completion.

The system employed depends for its action upon a combination of air and electricity. The points and signals, instead of being operated by means of rods and wires, necessitating considerable manual power, are operated by air motors, one of which is connected to each pair of points and each signal.

The motors are driven by compressed air at a pressure of about 70 pounds per square inch, and are placed in all cases as close as possible to the points or signals which they operate.

Each cylinder is provided with valves to control the inlets from the air main, and those valves are opened and closed by means of electro-magnets actuated by electric currents from the signal-box. Thus the power is applied directly at the point at which its services are required, and is subject to the central control of the signalman. This control is exercised by means of a frame of miniature levers.

Ample measures are provided by means of auxiliary electrical circuits to guard against a signal being lowered unless the points which it controls are actually in their correct position, and in the case of facing points to ensure that they are also securely bolted in that position.

An ingenious feature is what is known as the "check-locking" arrangement. This ensures that until the movement of a point or signal has been fully completed the lever in the signal-box which is concerned is checked when about three-quarters of its stroke is accomplished.

As soon as the signal or point movement, as the case may be, is properly completed, the "check-lock" is electrically removed and the signalman is enabled to pull the lever fully over. Until he has done so the mechanical locking in the frame prevents the movement of any contingent point or signal levers, which are thus held locked, until the movement of any necessary points has actually been completed.

The Ideal Home.

"Home is the sacred refuge of our life." A refuge from the world outside a place where people may speak the truth and not offend. Contradict each other to their hearts' content; quarrel and make it up a dozen times a day; rub against each others angles, and love each other all the better for the friction. Where one may refuse to laugh at another's jokes and not be sat upon. Where one can be told he is making an ass of himself and still continue the process. Where one can tell another to shut up, and where the other does not shut up, but does not mind the telling. Where even sharp speeches do not wound. Where the essence of home life is such that one can say what one likes and do what one likes without being misunderstood.

Where the quarrels are never really, quarrels, only make-believe, because the members of the fmaily are all so proud of each other.

Where each is sacred to the other and all their faults are as nothing, because they each love the other so. Where tolerance and wide charity constitute the beauty and strength of the family circle.

And under it all, where mother and father jointly, live lives that exemplify the higher life—knowledge, love, truth, beauty, goodness, faith, which alone give vitality to the mechanism of existence.

Where sympathy is so broad and deep that each member of this family knows and feels that no human life, however humdrum and uninteresting it may appear to a looker-on, is really commonplace. Where each knows such charity as gives the privilege to judge truly of human life.

The Blood Royal.

A volume has just been published entitled "The Blood Royal of England," by the Marquis of Ruvigny, containing the names of all the known legitimate descendants of the Kings Edward IV. and Henry VII. of England and James III. of Scotland. It contains 620 pages, and gives the names of 11,723 living persons who have royal blood in their veins! And even this lengthy list is incomplete, the author admitting that there are several families whose descendants he has been unable to trace.

All ranks of life—kings, nobles and common people—are represented in this work. Many of the higher nobility of Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Bohemia, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Russia are here, and, on the other hand, there are the names of thousands of commoners—Smiths, Browns, Jones' and Robinsons—some of them pursuing the humblest of avocations. The compiler is surely well justified in claiming that this is the largest pedigree ever published.—London Daily Mail.

Easy Enough.

"Johnnie," asked a gentleman of a little kindergarten pupil, "do you know how to make a Maltese cross?"

"Yes, sir; I sho' do."

"Well, tell me how you do it."

"Why, you just step on her tail,"—Exchange.

The Patient Ones.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "sits down an' does a day's loafin' an' calls it bein' patient an' resigned."

A RUNAWAY PRINCESS

By Curran Richard Greenley

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"It is useless, your highness, to protest against the things that are." The baroness smoothed down her laces with plump little hands upon which gleamed innumerable rings. Marie Amalie Constantia Louise—"and all the rest of it," as she said to herself, Princess of Doldrums, arose from her low chair with a most unroyal impatience. Swish, swish, went the silken skirts over the polished floor, and the Baroness von Griefenstein wisely kept silence.

Marie Amalie stood at the window and drummed a tattoo upon the pane. Below, the little fountain tossed its laughing waters and the cuirassiers' band poured forth the national air. Marie Amalie was tired of fountains that played in the sunlight, tired of the national hymn, sick to the soul of the duchy of Doldrums and all it contained—all because a few short weeks before the baroness had taken her young charge with her train to the hunting schloss and then spent a glad, never to be forgotten day.

Somehow—nobody knows, for such things have a way of managing themselves—the equerries and the princess' maids drifted two by two down the forest alleys in the languorous afternoon. The baroness nodded in her chair, and Marie Amalie found herself alone.

When Marr Davent rode from the gasthaus that morning he drew long breaths of the forest freshness. For miles beneath the arching lindens of the duke's forest he rode at a walk, the reins hanging loose on the bay's neck, singing snatches of college glees and thinking of the faroff country whither he would soon be going.

He raised his eyes and looked down the linden reaches—looked and woke, so near that the bay reared in sudden fright. Then Davent slipped from the saddle and stood, hat in hand, as Marie Amalie came toward him through the green twilight.

She did not attempt to excuse herself to herself, and to no one else did that imperious young woman vouchsafe rhyme or reason for her deeds. It was temptation, pure and simple, at a time when the girl was sore imbittered against the traditional shackles. A prisoned thing, bound and dumb in her jewels and laces, she had known the shame of the old roue's approval when he came to view her, as one would the points of a prize mare, and pronounced her fit to be Duchess of Grafsland. "Fit!" Marie Amalie ground her white teeth together at the remembrance of it. But she smiled with level brows into the brown eyes of Davent as the handsome head was bowed before her, and then trouble began for the Baroness Griefenstein.

Two hours later they parted under the lindens, he believing her some nobleman's daughter in the train of the young princess; she knowing all the facts about him. Marie Amalie came up the linden walk, thinking deeply. An American, it suited her exactly. She thought of the yacht that lay even now at Havre; thought, too, of the doddering old Duke of Grafsland, who had buried his second wife not a year before, the pale, pretty princess out of the north, who had been sold to him, as they were selling her.

Marie Amalie went softly up the marble steps, through the portico and down the hall, her footsteps making no sound in the thick carpet. She drew back the portiere that hung in straight, heavy folds. There was a smothered cry from within, a rustle of paper, but before the baroness could close the drawer a white hand closed firmly upon her wrists.

"What are you doing here among the private papers of Duke Fritz?"

The baroness sank down, gasping, speechless, as Marie Amalie towered over her. Then the girl made a hasty examination of the drawer. The key was in the lock. A fragment of wax that adhered to the keyhole told the secret of the baroness' access to the papers of the young duke who had killed himself in that very room years before, when the Baroness Griefenstein had been a famous court beauty and Marie Amalie but a child in the cradle.

Only a bundle of yellowed letters, written in the delicate Italian script affected by the women of that generation. Marie held them thoughtfully; then, with sudden impulse, retied the faded ribbon about them, locked the drawer and placed the key in her bosom. The letters she kept in her hand. With a slow smile around the mischievous red mouth, she passed through the portiere out into the sunlight. She held the key to the situation.

The Baroness Griefenstein was a sensible woman. She knew herself at the mercy of the girl whom heretofore she had ruled relentlessly. Therefore, through the weeks that followed she temporized, telling herself that it was only for a time. In a month the girl would be safely married. There were various expeditions to the forest, evening walks, when only the baroness guarded the pretty princess. The young American still lingered at the gasthaus and rode his bay through the duke's forest.

Meanwhile the women came and went, intent upon the preparations for the marriage. All around the luxurious room were scattered the silks and laces, jewels strewed the tables. And in their midst Marie Amalie at the window her eyes upon the forest, heedless of it all. A horseman rode down the winding road and turned in the saddle for a long look at the palace. Some day he would ride from her forever to his land of "hearts content" over the sea, leaving her to the desolate pomp of the Duchess of Grafsland. She turned to the baroness, and their eyes met. The baroness shivered. The crisis that she had been dreading had come. Marie Amalie leaned down, hushing her voice to a whisper, "I will do it, and you must help me." And the baroness knew that she would keep that word.

The old duke, her father, could hardly believe his eyes and ears when Marie Amalie dutifully accepted her betrothal presents from the old Duke of Grafsland and even bent her white brow to his kiss. Through all the festivities that followed she moved, a queenly figure, but there was a wicked light in the brown eyes, a mutinous curve to the red lips, and the days of the Baroness Griefenstein were not days of pleasure.

The Princess Marie Amalie lay in her darkened room. Once the doctor would have let in the light, but she protested, and finally he left her alone with a sleeping draft. As he measured it, going to the window with his back to the bed, a white hand flashed out toward the little case that held his drugs. Only an instant, but as the door closed behind him Marie Amalie laughed low to herself.

The baroness was on the point of rebellion, when Marie Amalie before her protesting eyes poured a generous dose into the chocolate and bade her swallow it.

"I am afraid. It will mean imprisonment, banishment."

"Take it" (the sweet voice was like steel); "take it quietly. The letters shall be yours when I am safe." The baroness drained the chocolate with quivering lips.

Davent waiting with a closed carriage at the postern gate heard the click of the sentry's heels as the baroness came through the gateway. A long black cloak came down to her feet, but the tawny gray hair and the password were sufficient for the sentry.

Without a word they entered the carriage and were driven through the night, past the gates, where the baroness gave the word, aboard the express, by grace of the promptly produced passports. When the morning broke they were well away to Havre.

The princess had issued orders that on no account were her maids to enter her room until summoned. But as the morning wore away and no sound came from beyond the closed doors they braved her anger and entered to find the princess' bed empty, unused, and in a chair by the window the Baroness Griefenstein, with an empty chocolate cup at her elbow, lost in a drugged stupor.

There was much hurrying to and fro in the duchy of Doldrums, but of their Princess Marie Amalie there was never a trace.

The man on the stage who does the trick of escaping from firmly tied ropes, submits to the bonds with a smile. He knows he can get out of the ropes that are being knotted. Put the same man in the woods and let Indian captors bind him to a tree for torture and he would struggle to the last against the bonds.

When the stomach is diseased there are bonds being woven every hour about the organs dependent on the stomach—heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc. The folly of mankind is to passively submit to the fastening of these bonds with no effort to escape until the pain they cause arouses fear.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys and other organs, when these diseases, as is often the case, have their origin in the diseased stomach.

"For a long time I was suffering and was hardly able to get about," writes Mr Andrew J. Jennings, of Thomas, Tucker Co., W. Va., Box 304. "Was bothered with kidney trouble and my whole system was out of order; had no appetite. A friend of mine told me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so and the first bottle restored my appetite. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and some of the 'Pleasant Pellets' and feel like a new person."

A Mean Trick.

A lawyer defending a promissory note went to lunch, leaving his books and citations on the table in the court room. The opposing counsel sneaked back into the room and changed the places of all his bookmarks. In the afternoon the lawyer, taking up his books, referred the court to his authorities. His lordship noted every volume and page carefully and took the case under consideration. In rendering his opinion he said:

"I was inclined after hearing argument of counsel for defendant to nonsuit plaintiff, but I find, after referring to the authorities quoted by counsel, none of them bear on this case, and I am led to think that the gentleman has been willfully trying to insult the court. He has referred me to an action of an Irishman who sued the proprietor of a monkey for damages for biting him, to a case of arson, one of burglary, two of petty larceny and three divorce cases, none of which bears on an action to recover on a promissory note. Perhaps the grossest insult to the court is referring to 'Duckworth versus Bookyman,' an action charging defendant with breach of promise. Judgment for plaintiff with costs."

The lawyer never knew what the matter was and to this day thinks the judge was out of his mind.—Pearson's Weekly.

"When we were poor," remarked the prosperous man reflectively, "we looked forward to the time when we could have a summer home.

"Well?"

"Well, when we got rich enough to have one, we didn't like going to the same place every summer because it was monotonous, and we looked forward to the time when we could have another for variety."

"Well?"

"Well, we got another, and then we began to long for a winter place, so that we wouldn't have to be so much in the big house in the city."

"Well?"

"Well, we've got them all now."

"And are you happy?"

"I suppose so. At least, I suppose my wife is. She keeps them all shut up and spends most of her time in Europe, but she knows she has them."—Chicago Post.

LOBSTER PROPAGATION.

Splendid Success of a Nova Scotia Experiment—Canada Practically Controls World's Supply of Lobsters.

Canada to-day practically controls the world's supply of lobsters, and if the experiments, which are being successfully conducted in Cape Breton coast waters to prevent the extinction of the crustaceans, are generally adopted, the control will remain in the hands of the Canadian packers. The lobster catch of the Dominion is now worth annually about $3,250,000 and to this total Nova Scotia alone contributes over $2,000,000. Experts of the Canadian Department of Fisheries have given the lobster preservation question serious study, and have adopted a scheme devised by Mr. H. E. Baker, one of the leading packers of Nova Scotia, which provides for the propagation of lobsters by natural process.

The scheme was as follows: A large pound or water enclosure was constructed at Fourchu on the Cape Breton coast, enclosing an era of 65,000 square feet of ocean, which gives a suitable environment. The seed lobsters were bought from the fishermen at a price in advance of what they would bring were they sold for canning purposes. These seed lobsters, with their eggs attached, were placed in the pound and kept there during the months of May, June and July, while the fishing operations were going on. At the close of the season, when the traps were all ashore, the lobsters, whose eggs at this time were within a few days of being hatched into young fry, were liberated along the coast to hatch their eggs in a natural way. At least 500,000,000 eggs were thus saved, which under the conditions heretofore prevailing, would have been destroyed. If only two per cent. of these eggs mature, 10,000,000 lobsters will be added to the lobster grounds of Cape Breton, against a total of 7,000,000 taken during the season.

These pounds at Fourchu have been built at a cost of about $5,000. They are surrounded by strongly-built breastworks of logs and spruce. On the eastern or ocean side the breastworks are about three feet above high-water mark. The piers are fifteen feet high and 165 feet long on the eastern side. On the western side the breastwork is above the high-water level and is surrounded by woven wire. The northern side is about the same. On the southern side is the seashore. The pound is divided into three sections, the partitions consisting of strongly-built piers and wire netting of a two-inch mesh. The bottom of the pound consists of sand, gravel and rock. At spring tide there is from eight to ten feet of water in the pounds at high, and from three to five feet at low water. The apertures at the sides of the pounds are 1½ to 2 inches wide and through these a continuous supply of pure salt water ebbs and flows from the ocean.

The lobsters are fed on herring, which are cut into small pieces, about an inch square, and thrown into the pound every third day. Seaweed and kelp are also thrown into the pound at intervals and are much relished by the lobsters. Perfect cleanliness is absolutely necessary, together with pure salt water for the successful impounding of the lobsters. Every day during the season the dead lobsters are removed. The average of dead for the season was as follows, monthly, May 2½ per cent.; June, 3½ per cent.; July, 4 per cent. The lobsters were distributed along the coast of Richmond, Cape Breton and Victoria Counties. The condition of the lobsters at the time that they were liberated could not be improved on. In a word, they were perfect.

Now that this experiment has proved to be a complete success, it is likely that the plan will be adopted in Halifax, Guysboro, Shelburne, Yarmouth and other parts of Nova Scotia, where the lobster fishery is prosecuted.

Christmas Shopping at Sanderson's.

Bright and early comes the interesting annual announcement of a grand Christmas Gift Opening at Sanderson's jewellery store. Shoppers are reminded that but few weeks remain before the great Christmas rush begins. And, now, that the holiday goods are unpacked and on display, early buyers will find it a great convenience to select now. The pleasure of shopping will be of a much more agreeable kind if attended to now than if delayed during the crowded days of December. And, with a stock so complete, so attractive, and so suitable for gifts as Sanderson's, it will pay people to "take Time by the forelock." See advertisement in another column.

CHAT ON EDUCATION

PRINCIPAL OF UPPER CANADA COLLEGE ON SCHOOL TRAINING.

English and Canadian—The Principal's Impressions After a Year's Teaching the Canadian "Tom Brown"—Utility and Culture—The Classics—Religious Side of School Life—Where Canada Is Superior.

Principal Auden's outlook upon education in Canada combines the fresh viewpoint of the traveler with that of the actual citizen. He came here a stranger, has already gone from coast to coast, has assumed the leadership of Canada's chief Public School, and spent the best part of one year in practical experience with Canadian youth, says The Toronto News.

A pedagogue is commonly said to be recognize at sight. Principal Auden would pass quite as readily for an Anglican Canon or a man of letters. His habitual cast is gravity—not of the scowling, trudite sort that inspired the portrayal of Goldsmith's schoolmaster, but the sedate poise that marks a man conscious of a great life-work. Naturally, he is chief in this country of a class becoming all too rare in these days of feminine pedagogy in Public Schools.

His Point of View.

He is not an orator. Neither is he an experimental faddist. He stands as an academic descendent of Arnold of Rugby. His point of view is that of the cultured Englishman; his atmosphere that of the English Public School after the manner of Eton, Winchester and Rugby. Such schools existed in England when Upper Canada College was the site of an Indian camp. Less than a century has seen the development of an educational system in this country embodying many of the best traditions of England. "Tom Brown" is also a Canadian. And to the man whose life-work is to educate the Canadian Tom Brown, educational problems in this young land are replete with original interest.

Residential vs. Day Schools.

Principal Auden believes that Canada needs more residential schools. The absorption of parents in commercial pursuits naturally minimizes culture in the home. Boys are left largely to their own devices, to promiscuous contact with lads not of their own age, and to the perilous influences of the street. This begets mannishness and loud manners. Canadian parents are often absent from their families on business matters and home-building in the West. The day school cannot efficiently look after such boys. Moreover, the day school tends to machine methods and the obliteration of a teacher's personality, whereas the boarding school substitutes the constant personal influence of a house-master who devotes his whole time to his pupils.

Utility and Culture.

As to utilitarian vs. culture studies, Mr. Auden observes a tendency among us to exalt the former. This is natural in a new country where commerce takes precedence of culture. Boys are imbued with the instinct of vocation-hunting before they are able to spell the words of a common letter. This leads to a desire for specialization at an early age, and tends to sacrifice the all-round development necessary for safe citizenship. Culture, however, is on the increase. Parents are finding more time to tutor their own children. Canadian homes are getting an atmosphere in which good literature, art and manners are becoming characteristic.

A knowledge of practical science, the Principal considers, is necessary for every boy. Science has recently become a main factor in civilization. A man can scarcely be called a modern citizen who does not know the rudiments of physic, chemistry and electricity. This is a new development. Manual training he regards as a good thing to engage a boy's surplus activities, but believes it far less necessary here than in England, where boys have not the natural handiness that distinguishes Canadian youth. He also observes that Canadian boys are more imbued with the spirit of practical progress, a useful stimulus in the class-room. The inherent danger of this, however, consists in the tendency to crowd curriculums with courses of study, to rush pupils through schools too rapidly, and to make examinations the end rather than the means of a sound education—which the Principal considers has nothing to do with either typewriting or stenography.

English and the Classics.

The vexed question of Classics vs. English as a means of culture has much engaged the attention of Principal Auden. As an Englishman, he naturally cleaves to the classes. He regards Latin and Greek as essential parts of a true education. Latin he commends no less for its disciplinary value than as a means of comprehending the structure of English. Latin makes a boy think no less than mathematics. It is the world's model of concise structure, consistent grammar and logical syntax. A boy should learn his grammar in the Latin, which is the mother of English grammar. The understood necessity of this explains why Latin figures as a daily item in the U.C.C. time-table in all but one form. Greek is considered as an indispensable model for style, and the recognized great source of literary appreciation. It should be taught with a minimum of grammar, as freely as possible, not at all as a means of mental discipline. The Principal regards Homer as more necessary to a school boy than Milton, if studied in the original. He observes that the tendency here is to teach English more than classics. This he explains as due to the lack of English literature in the home. The school is called upon to supply the lack. This defect he expects to disappear with the growth of culture and a consequent probable return to classics, as has recently been the case in Germany, Russia and the United States.

A Seeming Paradox.

At first blush it seems a paradox that an English master should give two dead languages precedence over the language of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Tennyson, as a source of English culture. But it must be remembered that decent English is second nature to an English boy. He knows his Shakespeare independent of the school master, reads better books, scans a larger percentage of dignified newspapers and listens to more standard English speeches. In this country we are yet subject to rustic dialect, bad patois, Americanisms and foreign languages. Therefore, English as a definite object of study is tenfold more necessary here than in England. Principal Auden wisely believes that great models of poetry and prose should not be subjected to the indignity of grammatical analysis; neither should English words be laboriously parsed.

Bible Should Be Taught.

As to religious instruction, the Principal believes that the Bible should be taught in the schools. He also contends that the best gospel of all is the personal, every-day religion of a teacher's life and character. Regarding women as teachers, he believes that they are a shining success with young pupils, but fundamentally lacking the gift necessary to enforce discipline among boys above the elementary forms.

As students of French and German they excel, but as teachers of these languages, are rather prone to miss the deeper meaning of a translation. Their appointment here to the very best posts in the modern language courses of collegiate institute stands as an agreeable contrast to the English practice of paying a man three or four times as much as a woman for doing the same work.

Another obvious superiority of the Canadian over the English educational system is the establishment of agricultural colleges. Such institutions as the O. A. C. would be a sheer impossibility in England, where agriculture is largely traditional and, in fact, fast becoming obsolete.

AN HOUR IN THE WOODS.

A City Father's Outing With His Boy on Saturday Afternoon.

The boy didn't know what to do with himself. I didn't know what to do with myself. It was a lovely afternoon. I decided that a lesson in nature study wouldn't do either of us any harm, so off to the woods we went.

I had been there before in spring and summer, but not in late autumn. The trees were there with some touches of autumn glory lingering in the faded leaves, but the air was still, and there seemed few birds about. But only for a little, for after climbing the slippery hillside we dropped in on a sociable party of song sparrows who had not yet gone south. But they were shy and wary, and the boy and I did not get much more than a glimpse of them. Not so with the white-breasted nuthatch, however, and the boy watched interestedly as I showed him the bird traveling gravely head downward on the tree trunks looking for insects. Further on we caught a flash of blue as a shy bluejay dashed squalling into a thicket. We walked a little further to where the ever-greens that had been favorite haunts of the redstarts in summer time grew in verdure untarnished by Artist Autumn's brown paint pot and busy brush, and slid down through the dead leaves to the foot of the ravine, where a downy woodpecker beat his feeble tattoo on a dead tree, and here I showed the boy how the little woodpecker held his tail feathers against the bark to give his busy bill the better leverage. Now we were homeward bound, and after a space the familiar "chich-a-dee-dee" saluted us and we got into a whole family of the busy little blackcaps feeding industriously and calling cheerily to each other right under our very noses. The boy was delighted, for the birds came within three feet of us as we stood breathlessly silent beneath the cedars watching their restless flitting. I showed him one bird diving into the curled up leaf that some grub had selected for his winter quarters, little dreaming when he did it that a little black-capped chickadee would some day find him out, pull him from his lair, eat him, and then wipe his bill on a twig while two admiring mortals looked on. Among the chickadees we saw one kinglet—they often travel together in the fall and winter—and then we left them to finish their suppers unobserved. There were only one or two things yet to show the boy before the city claimed us. One was the bank of sand which the bank swallows had pierced in a hundred places during the summer and had reared their families therein, and it was not surprising to find that what the summer-loving swallows had left had been appropriated by that extremely adjustable individual, the English sparrow. Along the lake shore a great gull brooded, and a little further along a grebe swam, diving for an unconscionable length of time when a noisy locomotive snorted by. Then the street cars and home, the lesson in natural history was ended.—H. D. C. in Toronto Star.

A Goldwin Smith Anecdote.

Dean Pigon in his new book, "Odds and Ends," gives a sketch of a boy that is rather difficult to recognize as the erudite Dr. Goldwin Smith, D.C.L.: "Goldwin was apparently wrapt in thought one morning at breakfast, and one would suppose he was contemplating writing a brilliant essay. His father, somewhat impatient of his silence, said, 'A penny for your thoughts, Goldwin.' To this challenge I heard Goldwin reply, 'I was just thinking what an awful thing it must be for a giraffe to have a sore throat; what an amount of gargle it would have to swallow, and what length of bandage it would require.'"

Windsor House, Gravenhurst, Burned.

Gravenhurst, Nov. 21.—The Windsor House here was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning about 7 o'clock. The proprietor, D. B. Lafranier, went down to the basement, where the fire started, the electric lights went out suddenly, and he could not find his way out, and was finally rescued, almost suffocated by smoke and nearly dead. The loss is about $10,000, said to be fully covered by insurance.

Stabbers in Canada.

Lockport, N. Y., Nov. 21.—William Jacobs, a Tuscarora Indian chief of the Lewiston reservation, was probably fatally stabbed last night in a fight with three other Indians. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Hurley Chew, his squaw; Elborta Chew and Philip Chew. They cannot be found in the reservation, and it is believed they have crossed the river into Canada.

HOPEFUL FOR THE "SOO."

Encouraging Progress of the Committee.

Mr. Thomas J. Drummond Says Some of Toronto's Largest Shareholders Have Come In the Plan.

"We are meeting with great encouragement," said Mr. Thomas J. Drummond, one of the reorganization committee of the Lake Superior Consolidated Company, who is at the King Edward, with Mr. J. D. F. Junkin, the solicitor of the committee. "More than fifty millions, or over half of the stock, has been deposited, and more have signified their intention of coming into the plan. Here in Toronto, the largest shareholders have agreed to come in, but there are a good many who do not appreciate the necessity of acting promptly. It is proposed to incorporate a new company, with a capital stock of $40,000,000, one class of stock only being issued. There will also be an issue of forty year 5 per cent. gold bonds, secured by a first mortgage upon the stocks, bonds and other securities which will fall into the new company's hands when the Speyers are paid off. This bond issue will amount to $10,000,000. The new company also proposes to issue 5 per cent. 20-year gold income bonds to the amount of $3,000,000, making the total bonds and stock of the new company $53,000,000. Thus the new company will have a total capital of less than half that of the old organization. According to the plan which has been adopted by the reorganization committee, each stockholder of the old company has the privilege of exchanging his stock in the old company for stock in the new, on the following ratio: For two shares of preference stock in the old company, one share of stock in the new; and for four shares of common stock in the old, one share of stock in the new. Stockholders making such exchange are called upon to pay $3 on each share of the old stock surrendered, and for this payment they will be entitled to receive income bonds at par for the amount so paid. But this opportunity will positively expire on Dec. 1st, and those who do not take over their stock and pay the assessments on the same by that date will lose all right of participation in the benefits of the reorganization, should it be effected."

"How about the creditors?"

"There are a good many in Canada, but they are slow to protect their own interests by filing their claims, having the same approved, and rank along with the underwriters, receiving paid-up bonds against their claims. December 1st will also be the last day for the creditors to file claims."

"Have you any news from England?"

"Nothing to-day, but the latest reports indicate good progress there, too. Of course the more properties sold there the better for us here."

Mr. B. J. Clergue, Mr. W. Coyne, assistant to President Shields, and Mr. H. C. Hamilton were also in the city yesterday in consultation, and paid a visit to the Parliament buildings.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union, will be held in the Ontario Agricultural College on Monday and Tuesday, December 7th and 8th, starting at 1.30 p.m. on the 7th.

Experiments in Agriculture and Horticulture have this year been conducted on nearly 4,000 farms throughout Ontario. The results of the carefully conducted work will be summarized and presented at the annual meeting, to which all interested in agriculture are invited.

The programme shows that addresses will be delivered by Prof. C. C. James, Toronto; W. J. Spillman, Washington, D.C.; Dr. James Mills, Agricultural College, Guelph; Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, Cornell University, Ithica, N.Y.; Prof. G. E. Day, Agricultural College, Guelph; Dr. W. H. Muldrew, Dean Macdonald Institute, Guelph; G. H. Clark, Department of Agriculture, of Ottawa, and others.

Ladies' sessions under the auspices of the Women's Institutes, will be held in the Macdonald Institute on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Monday evening a public meeting of interest to all will be held in the College Convocation Hall.

Arrangements have been made for singe fare to Guelph for the Experimental Union Meeting and the Provincial Winter Fair. The excursion rates start on Saturday, December 5th. For full particulars in reference to the programme and the excursion rates, write to O. A. Zavits, Secretary, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont.

A GIRL'S HEART

London, Ont., November 19.—Lottie Brown, the fourteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Brown, is now a patient in the general hospital, although she will not remain for more than a day or two.

The case of the girl has aroused considerable interest among the medical men of the city and will doubtless come in for some attention in the medical journals of the continent. Lottie has not been in good health for a long time, her lungs being affected, but under the care of a medical man, she has been making some improvement of late. The right lung, it has been found, has become of a fibrous nature, as a result of the illness and has contracted considerably.

The contraction of the lung caused a cavity in the right side of the chest, and this has brought about a swelling of the left lung until the cavity has been filled. Through the action of the left lung the heart has been forced over until it is on the right side of the body.

The case is one of the most remarkable heard of in this section for years, and for the benefit of the students of the university the girl consented to go to the hospital for a day or two in order that they could investigate it.

A local physician who has seen the girl says that she is now enjoying better health than she has for many months. He says that the equal of the case might not be heard of again in the Dominion.

MR. E. W. RATHBUN DIED SUDDENLY

President of the Rathbun Company Died at Deseronto.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Deseronto, Nov. 24. — E. W. Rathbun, head of the Rathbun Company, and president of the Bay of Quinte Railway, died suddenly of heart failure shortly after nine o'clock this morning at his home here. Mr. Rathbun had been suffering from heart trouble for some six months, and had not taekn an active part in the business of the company. He is survived by a widow and four sons and three daughters. The sons are E. Walter Rathbun, now general manager of the Rathbun Company, Harold M., Adrian, and Marvin, and the daughters are Mrs. C. A. Masten, of Toronto, and Misses Pansy and Mayrie at home.

Edward Wilkes Rathbun was the eldest son of the late Hugo B. Rathbun, founder of Deseronto, and was born at Auburn, N.Y., in 1842. He was educated in New York and in 1861 joined his father, who had been carrying on lumber operations at Deseronto. He later became president of the Rathbun Company, which office he held until his death. He was also President of the Bay of Quinte Railway Company, and has been Mayor of Deseronto. The Rathbun Company, under his management has branched out into various lines of industries, including the roller process flour mill, of which this company was the pioneers. He was married twice, his second wife being a daughter of Hon. John McMerrich.

EXCELLENT SUNDAY SCHOOL ADDRESSES

Delivered Yesterday in the Murray Street Baptist Church.

Mrs. Bryner of Peoria, Ill., and Mr. J. A. Jackson, General Secretary of the Ontario Association, Speak to Sunday School Workers.

Those interested in Sunday school work in Peterborough may consider themselves singularly fortunate in having an opportunity of hearing Mrs. Bryner, of Peoria, Ill., International field worker of the Sunday School Association, and Mr. J. A. Jackson, Secretary of the Ontario Sunday School Association, address meetings in Murray street church yesterday. In the afternoon a most successful meeting was held, at which there was a good attendance. Mr. Jackson spoke on "Trained Teachers and How to Get Them." By the use of a chart he explained the system of normal training and the advisability of its adoption. His address was a very helpful one and was fully enjoyed by the large number of workers who heard it.

Mrs. Bryner, who is one of the best informed women on Sunday school problems, and the handling of children in the world, spoke on "How I Prepare My Sunday School Lesson." Using a blackboard she outlined the different steps to be taken in the intelligent preparation of Sunday school lessons.

There was a large number of persons at the evening meeting over which Rev. J. A. Wilson presided.

Mr. J. A. Jackson spoke on "The Bible." Sir Isaac Newton, said the speaker, once remarked that if all books were to be gathered together in a great convention, all would fall before the Bible. It is the only book which reaches the high and low and can teach both the honoured and degraded. The scientific man when asked what the Bible is, would answer the question in a scientific manner. He takes his facts, compounds them and then arrives at his conclusion which is that the Bible is one of the sacred books of mankind. He assures us there are at least six other Bibles—the Brahmin Bible, the Buddhist Bible, the Persian Bible, two Chinese Bibles and the Mohammedan Bible. There are also others such as the sacred books of the Mormons and the Christian Scientists. These Bibles either sprung from the teachings of some famous religious man or else are founded on myths. Our Bible is compounded of both — the New Testament, the former, and the old, the latter. The religious man when asked what the Bible is, would firmly answer that it is the word of the living God. Concluding Mr. Jackson advocated a different manner in teaching the Bible to Sunday school children. He strongly believed that children would profit more if they were to be allowed to commit Bible passages to memory.

Mrs. Bryner spoke on "The Child we Teach." Her oration was truly excellent. For almost an hour she held her listeners almost spellbound, hanging on to every word she uttered. She illustrated most vividly how the child in the Sunday school and in the home should be taught. Everyone was different, consequently had to be treated separately.

The meeting closed with devotional exercises.

After the evening addresses a meeting for the organization of a Primary and Junior Union was held, and such an organization effected. The plan is to form a union of all teachers in the junior and primary departments in all city Sunday schools for the purpose of studying together the lessons. The project was enthusiastically taken up and the union formed, with the following officers:—

President—Miss A. Williamson.
Vice-President—Mrs. Sherwood.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss I. Fisher.

The first meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 1st, in the Y.M.C.A., when all interested in junior work are asked to attend.

ST. ANDREW'S YOUNG MEN'S GUILD CONCERT.

Read Glasgow and London Press Notices of Tina Crawford.

Read Glasgow and London press notices of Tina Crawford:

Glasgow Record. — Miss Tina Crawford reigns supreme as our greatest contralto vocalist. She sang magnificently and held her audience spell bound with her splendid rendering of "Queen of the Earth" and "The Lost Chord." The last item was a musical treat.

The London Times says: — Next appeared Miss Tina Crawford, a contralto vocalist who possesses a remarkably brilliant voice, singing no less than eight times. Miss Crawford is to be envied the possession of such a glorious voice, which fairly enchanted her hearers, who showed their appreciation by calling her to the front again and again. No doubt Miss Crawford is the finest contralto we have heard for a long time.

The Brantford Courier says of Miss Jessie Irving: — Last evening Miss Irving, elocutionist, made her first appearance in Brantford, before a very large audience. Miss Irving's selections were well chosen and very cleverly rendered. She easily ranks among the best in humorous and dramatic elocution.

Mr. Donald C. McGregor, concert baritone, is so favourably known in Peterborough that his appearance is a guarantee of an excellent programme.

A LECTURE ON "THE HABITANT."

Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan Delighted Large T. A. S. Hall Last Night.

Last evening the lecture room of St. Peter's T. A. S. was crowded to the the doors to hear Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan of Lindsay, deliver an address on Dr. Drummond's poems. It is safe to say that the address was one of the richest intellectual treats ever provided by the literary section of the T.A.S.

The lecturer prefaced his remarks by paying a warm tribute to Dr. Drummond, and the address of the evening was interspersed with many of his best productions which were recited by Rev. Father O'Sullivan in a very clever manner. The simplicity of the habitant, his deep love of nature and his many noble characteristics were beautifully portrayed, and altogether the address was a literary treat of the highest order. A more extended report of the address will appear in to-morrow's issue.

A vote of thanks was moved to the lecturer by Messrs. T. J. Begley and Wm. Rudkins and Revs. Father McColl and Dr. O'Brien also made eulogistic reference to the treat which Rev. Father O'Sullivan had given them.

An excellent musical programme was also presented, consisting of selections by the T. A. S. orchestra, recitation by Mr. James Dorris, vocal solo by Miss Mary Moher and instrumental duet by Misses Dorris.

VERY REV. DEAN O'CONNOR

Will Celebrate the 50th Anniversary of His Entry Into the Priesthood on December 17th.

On December 17 the Very Rev. Dean O'Connor, of Marysville, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his entry into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church. John Stephen O'Connor was born in Peterborough, February 17, 1828, his birth place being at 220 King street, at the corner of Aylmer street, now occupied by his nephew Mr. J. P. Shevlin, and was the first child born of white parents in that section of the country. His father was one of the pioneers of Peterborough. Young O'Connor was an apt pupil and he graduated from the Peterborough Grammar School in May, 1849. After that he attended Regipolis College, Kingston, where, after graduation he was professor of mathematics until the fall of 1852. For a year after that date he attended the Grand Seminary, Montreal, leaving there a week before Christmas, 1853. At this time he was appointed assistant priest at St. Mary's Cathedral, which position he held for nearly three years, having been transferred to the parish of Cornwall, removing in November 1866, to Alexandria. His next move was in June 1879 to Perth. He went to Chesterville in May, 1889, where he remained in charge of the parish until his removal to Marysville on March 15, 1899, where he has been since.

The Rev. Dean O'Connor is a popular citizen of Marysville, having made hosts of friends outside his own congregation. In his fifty years' pastorate he has brought his great learning and piety to bear for the welfare of his people, and his escutcheon to-day is without a blot.

It is not often one lives to celebrate his fiftieth year in his chosen profession, and it is to be hoped the many friends of the aged prelate will unite in fittingly observing his golden wedding to the church of his forefathers.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all.

POLICY AND NO POLICY.

In the consideration of public affairs in this province it would seem that the fitness of the Government to retain office, the manner in which it has discharged its administrative duties, and the fitness of the Opposition to manage our affairs, would respectively receive, attention. But that has not been the case with the generality of Opposition journals. They have made the Ontario Government the object of bitter attack, not upon its policy and practice as applied to the administration of the affairs of Ontario, but the attack has become largely a personal assault upon individual Ministers, subjecting them to a perpetual stream of abuse. The latter do not shrink from the severest fair criticism either of their personal or official acts. But when such criticism takes wholly the form of abuse, based on innuendo and hypothetical conjecture, by the journals and members of a party whose political sins are not of the fewest nor most venial, it is time that the leaders of that party woke to the fact that such a course brings reaction and obscures the real issue upon which the people will decide the fitness of one party or the other to manage their affairs. It is, to use a colloquialism of the day, "up to" the Opposition leaders and journals to show, if they can do so, where the Ontario Government has failed in its administration of our public affairs. Where is there another Government which has compiled such a creditable record of substantial achievement as the present Government has done in the four years it has been entrusted with the duty of Government? When Mr. Ross assumed the reins of power he adopted a progressive policy—a policy of development—and as far as time has permitted that policy has been vigorously carried out. Development has invaded the newer portions of Ontario. The Government's encouragement to railway construction, in part viciously opposed by the leader of the Opposition, has yielded great results without cost to the people, while at the same time previously dormant resources have received additional value. The tremendous operations at the "Soo" are due to the public-spirited management of the Government, and though through, it is suspected, financial phrandering, there is a temporary suspension of operations, yet this seems to be a blessing in disguise, for it is leading to the employment of about forty millions of Canadian and British capital to be used in procuring the resumption of operations. Through the action of the Government we have a fuller knowledge of our great resources in the north. The Government's vigourous policy has built the Government railway to the Temiskaming district stimulating settlement and increasing the market for the products of the older settled portions of Ontario. Connection will be made with the new Transcontinental line, and the benefit to Ontario in the way of securing trade will be simply incalculable. Surveys have been actively pushed and very large areas of splendid land have been opened for settlement, which is rapidly pouring in, and all this winter work is being pushed on colonization roads in the interests of new settlers. It would take too much space to enter into details of all that the Government has accomplished in four years but it will suffice to say that the Government has has a full grasp of its responsibilities, and has given attention to all the prominent interests of the people. It has provided for the agricultural interests by the legislation in regard to cold storage, beet root sugar, good roads, etc., in regard to conservation of the timber of the Crown domain, and, in fine, with every interest of the people, in respect of which the Government has been charged with responsibility.

In accomplishing this the Government has in many cases met with the bitter opposition of the Opposition, and also in the face of its politically corrupt methods, which have made the work of the Government proportionately difficult. Such a record in all the details which exist, the Opposition can well expend their criticism upon, and the Government and its friends will have no fear of the result. And if the Conservative party in Ontario — either or both wings of it—wish to make a comparison of political methods, the Liberal party has no reason to fear the result of such a comparison. And when Mr. Whitney and his lieutenants can devise a better policy than that of the Liberal Government, and can satisfy the people with a guarantee of its effective application, he may have some hope of success in his appeal to the electors. But so long as he continues the same course his party has pursued for a score of years, that of appeals to prejudice and passion, through petty party cries, paltry side issues and vituperation, he will fail to convince the people that he measures up to the standard of statesmanship demanded of a Premier of the Province of Ontario.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Members up on Exhibition on Monday Afternoon.

A meeting of the local Board of Health was held in the committee room yesterday afternoon when nothing effective was done. There were present Mr. Robt. Neill, chairman, and Messrs. W. Eyres, A. Parker, G. Schneider, Mayor Roger, Dr. McNulty and Chief Rassel, sanitary inspector, and Dr. Bingham, medical health officer.

A letter published in the Examiner, regarding the quality of city water was discussed. After about twenty minutes- discussion it was resolved that no action be taken in the matter.

The isolation hospital problem aroused nothing more than brisk comment.

The board then adjourned until Monday afternoon next at . o'clock.

POLICE COURT.

A young man was arrested yesterday on the charge of breaking into a house and stealing. It is alleged that he was behind in his board bill and that his creditors seized his overcoat. He then left, and it is said that while the people with whom he had been staying were away he broke into the house by crawling through the cellar window and recovered his overcoat, as he found the weather was rather cold.

The prisoner was bailed out for $200 and will appear before the Police Magistrate on Monday, Nov. 30th.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth street, Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

Isidore Proulx Ill.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Mr. Isidore Proulx, M.P. for Prescott, lies in the Catholic General Hospital in a precarious condition. He had suffered from gangrene of the left leg for some time, and it got so serious his doctor decided on amputation as the only possible chance for life. The leg was amputated on Saturday and while there is hope the chances are against Mr. Proulx.

A MAN CAN'T WORK

When He is Suffering With Piles.

Just a little pain may so distract a man's mind that it will cost him hundreds of dollars. Life is a battle. To succeed one needs all his energies and all his brain force to apply to the question at hand Even a corn will make him irritable, cross, angry—and an angry man seldom succeeds. The trifling pain of a corn is a pleasant feeling beside the agonizing ache of piles. That is a pain which seems to pervade the the whole body. It communicates itself to all the parts near the seat of the trouble, and brings on a heavy, dragging feeling in the perineum. Those who have never so suffered do not know what it means. It racks the nerves, prevents sleep, prevents concentrated thought, and makes a man lose flesh as fast as he would with a virulent fever.

And yet piles are looked upon as a little thing. They are neglected—allowed to run on from month to month and year to year By and by comes a dangerous surgical operation. Maybe it cures—maybe it kills.

There is only one sure, safe and quick cure for piles. It is the Pyramid Pile Cure. It is a recent discovery, and its properties are such that it cleanses, soothes and heals the inflamed parts, reduces the inflammation at once, and with continued treatment removes all swelling and all trace of the disease. It puts the membranes in a healthy, active condition and cures completely and permanently.

From Samuel Victor, Detroit, Mich. "I have not written you sooner because the first box of the Pyramid Pile Cure I used helped me so much I wanted to wait until I was completely cured, and so it was after using three boxes of your Pyramid Pile Cure, I am entirely cured of the terrible disease from which I have suffered for six months, and now I am using Pyramid File Pills, which help me very much.'

From B. H. Palmer, Windsor, Cal. "I have been troubled for fifteen years with piles, and have tried different salves and ointments, but never came across anything like your Pyramid Pile Cure. I used two 50 cent boxes three months ago, and they have made a complete cure, and I am recommending them to everyone I know to be afflicted. Thanks for the cure."

From Thomas A. Nixon, 854 North Bambrey street, Philadelphia. "It is now time that I should let you know that I am cured of bleeding piles. If you only knew how I have suffered from them for the last nine years in pain. Last April I went to the drug-store, and bought a 50 cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure, and I found at last a good cure. I had spent dollars trying to get cured of my piles; all others have failed to cure me, and now I am happy to have a good sleep and be able to work also."

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists generally. If yours doesn't keep it he will get it for you if you ask him. Book on the cause and cure of piles sent free. Address Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

BLAIRTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Owing to Cordova Mines being shut down, some parties who were employed there, have moved to Blairton.

Mr. John Arnold and family have moved here from the north.

Mr .John Dodge and family have moved to Western Ontario to a good position.

A large number of stumps have been pulled around here this fall, some being so large that they could not be moved by teams. In some cases J. L. Aunger was called on to administer to them a dose of dynamite, after which they could be moved in a wheelbarrow. One stump, the largest we have seen, on his own place, and pulled by Mr. Smith, was hollow in the middle, Mr. Aunger determined to make sure work of it, dropped an extra charge down among the roots. A snap shot photo of the explosion would have been a great prize, as the stump went up in a thousand pieces of kindling wood.

More than a passing note is due Miss Kyle, our esteemed teacher, first for her liberality in purchasing goods for the Catholic Bazaar, to take place in Marmora in aid of the new church, on the 30th inst., and secondly for the exquisite fancy work she is executing on these goods. Miss Kyle's gift to the church, on account of its neat finish, and as a proof of the ability of the giver, will occupy a high stand among all that is produceable.

D. T. Young and wife, of Rockdale, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Aunger.

Mr. Fred Aunger and wife spent Sunday with Mrs. Aunger's father, Mr. Mason, of Spring brook.

Mr. Robt. Merriam and wife spent Sunday with friends here.

Mr. Joseph Brock was the guest of the Aunger family on Sunday.

Miss M. Bonar has left here to visit friends in Peterborough.

Mr. A. Paterson has purchased a house here from J. L. Aunger.

Some little building is going on here and improvements are being made in village property.

Pandora Range

Does its Work while You do Yours

You do not have to constantly watch the Pandora range when cooking or baking. Arrange the fire, put on your pots and set the damper—the range does the rest.

While dinner is cooking you can do your other work, just the same as the woman in the picture, and know positively that your cooking is being done right.

The Pandora range is entirely new and has many new features and devices for regulating the fire, extracting all the heat possible from the fuel consumed and using it to the best advantage.

Special flue construction forces all the heat around the oven twice and directly under every pot-hole—only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Oven is roomy, ventilated, fitted with thermometer, lined with sheet steel, and is a perfect baker and a perfect cooker at the same time.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

DREAMER OF DREAMS

Senator Hale's Prophetic Eye Sees Canada's Fate.

WILL BE ANNEXED TO U. S.

Within the Time of Some of His Hearers This Will Occur, He Says, Brought About By the Conditions Which Will Be Created By Success of Chamberlain's Adventurous Fiscal Policy.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 24.—Senator Hale of Maine yesterday, in discussing the resolution of Senator Newlands of Nevada, in inviting Cuba to become a part of the United States, made the following statement about Canada, which was listened to with the utmost interest. The Maine statesman deprecated any effort on the part of the United States to invite other countries to join in the sisterhood of states, and then said:

"This great Republic that is becoming a great power in the world ought to be doing something besides interfering with new and emergent and struggling republics. Take the case of Canada.

"I have little doubt that men now listening to me will see the time when Canada will become an integral part of the United States.

"If the plan of the most adventurous of British politicians for a colonial preference is carried out, a tariff war would be inaugurated between Great Britain and the United States, and the English politician will seek to set Canada up as a great rival to us—an agricultural rival.

"Out of that will arise conditions, discussions and considerations that will end in the union of the two peoples. But we do not invite Great Britain to send Canada to us and join the union. She is too large a power."

The utterance of Maine's senior Senator caused very great comment, a number of Senators from states bordering on the Dominion joining with Senator Hale in the hope that Canada would be eventually a part of the United States.

President Fomented Revolt.

Senator Morgan was removed from the chairmanship of the inter-oceanic causes yesterday, and he made a speech criticizing the President, who, he said, overrode the law. He read the correspondence bearing upon the revolution to show, he said, "that the President had known of the uprising in the Isthmus before it began, and stood ready with armed ships to protect those engaged in it." The presence in Assistant Secretary of the Navy Loomis' despatch that it was our desire to maintain peace was the grimmest piece of irony.

"Canadian Relations."

Washington, Nov. 24.—The following are the Republican membership on the Senate Committee agreed to in the Republican caucus yesterday: Canadian Relations—Fulton, chairman; Dryden, Hoar, Hale, Fairbanks.

Priests Expelled by Police.

Marseilles, Nov. 23.—The expulsion of the fathers from the convent of St. Valvaire was achieved Saturday by the police.

Dr. Shoop's

Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs for it is dangerous to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood. My remedy does that even in the most difficult cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met, and in all of my experience, in all of my 2000 tests, I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, for it can't harm you anyway. If it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

CANADA LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Two Continents Prepare For Million Dollar Display of Prize Animals.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—A $1,000,000 display of live stock—probably the greatest the world has ever seen—will be held in Chicago from Nov. 28 to Dec. 5. Five thousand head of the most valuable cattle, horses, sheep, swine and horses obtained on either side of the Atlantic will on eight days compete for prizes aggregating $75,000 at the big pavilion in South Halsted street. The occasion will be the fourth annual international live stock exposition.

Canadian herds will be largely represented. At the close of the exhibit many of the exhibits will be removed at once to Guelph, Ont., to contest for honors in the Canadian Fat Stock Show.

PLAYING THE DUMMY

Premier Balfour As He Appears to View of Sir Edward Grey.

CANADIAN PIG IRON BOUNTY.

Times Says New Fiscal Policy Will Be Elastic—Mr. Ritchie to Be Opposed By Resident of His Own Constituency—Mr. Foster's Quid Pro Quo For Britain's Defence of Canada.

London, Nov. 24.—(C.A.P.)—W. J. Bryan, speaking at the banquet of the National Liberal Club Monday night said that from his American experience, protection was wrong and retaliation implied fear. It reminded him of a man who drank whiskey to prevent snake bites, but soon had snakes inside of him instead of outside. The speech was received with frantic applause.

Sir Edward Grey, speaking at Salisbury yesterday, said that Premier Balfour was playing the dummy, face downwards. Chamberlain knew all there was in that hand. Balfour had retaliation on his lips, but protection in his thoughts, and food taxes up his sleeve.

Elastic Fiscal Policy.

In reply to a letter from W. McLaren asking if the new fiscal policy will prohibit the Canadian bounty fed to pig iron The Times replied: "There will be no cast iron procedure. The essence of the new movement is elastic."

The Dublin Chamber of Commerce by a large majority has called for a Government inquiry into the state of trade as soon as possible.

The Isle of Wight, Kings, Lynn and Croydon unionists revolt against the free fooders. C. Crisp, a resident of Croydon, Hon. C. H. Ritchie's constituency, and noted for his splendid fight with Winston Churchill in the Conservative cause at Oldham, will oppose Ritchie at the next election.

Nation on Canadian Soil.

Hon. George E. Foster, speaking at Oldham, said: "Canada," has said, "defend us with your fleet and we shall build on Canadian soil a nation in 50 years that will stand at your back."

W. T. Stead's new paper on Tolstoi lines will be published on Jan. 4.

Lord Lansdowne has recently had several attacks of his old ailment, sciatica.

Money in Fruit Pulp.

Messrs. Nethard & Lowe, large fruit importers, when interviewed, suggested that more attention should be paid in Canada to the cultivating of black currants and raspberries for the purpose of making pulp. This year black currant pulp sold at £40 per ton, and raspberry pulp almost as well.

It is understood there soon will be published a blue book containing the reports of the various colonial representatives in regard to the fiscal problem. Some of the reports are dated as far back as 1900.

The season has proved unfavorable for rearers of poultry both in England and on the continent, so reliance is placed on the Canadian supply, especially by the turkey importers. The producers are looking for high prices.

BANQUET TO PREMIER ROSS.

Ross Liberal Club Will Honor Him in January—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine on Cruiser Service.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—The Ross Liberal Club held their opening meeting for the season in St. George's Hall last night, and transacted a considerable amount of business. It was decided to tender a complimentary banquet to their Honorary President, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, in January next. The occasion will be in the nature of a popular demonstration, the tickets will be at the low price of $1, and addresses will also be given by Sir William Mulock and other Cabinet Ministers.

The Fastest Cruiser.

Last evening the Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Minister of Marine, who spent the day in the city, was entertained at dinner by Mr. F. B. Polson. Before leaving he paid a compliment to the ability with which a Canadian firm had carried out an important contract. He also declared his intention whenever possible to give Canadian firms the preference in awarding contracts, and announced that in pursuance of that policy he had given another contract, for a fast cruiser for the protection of the upper lake fisheries, to the Polson firm. The contract called for the fastest boat on the lakes, second to none. Incidentally, he mentioned the fixed determination of the Premier to make the Canadian route second to none in the world.

Gen. Wood Fighting.

Manila, Nov. 24.—A fight lasting five days and as the result of which 300 Moros were killed and many others carried off dead and wounded, has taken place in Jolo between Gen. Leonard Wood's command and the insurgents. Major H. L. Scott of the 14th Cavalry and five American privates were wounded.

50 Cents on the Dollar.

Whitby, Nov. 24.—The adjourned meeting of the Gold creditors took place yesterday. A proposition was made of fifty cents on the dollar to all unsecured creditors for an absolute discharge, and this latter proposition was unanimously accepted. The same will be paid within thirty days.

Pope Receives Sir Louis Jette.

Rome, Nov. 24.—Pope Pius yesterday received in private audience Sir Louis Jette, Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, and family.

Robbed of $3,000.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Octave Mandeville, a well known man from Villeray and a former Mayor, was Saturday night relieved of a pocketbook containing money, cheques and jewellery valued at $3,000. Although two suspects were arrested by Detectives Guerin and Leger, the money and valuables are not yet found.

Prices OF THREE WEEKS AGO

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

RUGBY.

The Rough Riders will practice in the rink to-night as announced, the hockey meeting having been postponed.

BASKET-BALL.

Only one game was played in the Y. M. C. A. League on Saturday night, that between the Harriers and Arrows, but there was sufficient excitement and interest furnished in it to give the large crowd of spectators their money's worth. It was a closely contested game, the Arrows developing unexpected strength, and won out by a score of 18 to 15. The teams:

Arrows		Harriers
F. Richardson	forwards	Dobbin
Fitzpatrick		McGuire
Hodgson	centre	Laing
Gillespie	back	Richardson
Galley		Campbell

This win by the Arrows places that team in the lead of the league.

HOCKEY.

The hockey meeting called for to-night is postponed for a few days owing to conflicting meetings.

DIRECT IMPORTERS. 353 and 355 GEORGE STREET.

PETERBOROUGH—THE ELECTRIC CITY

WHY MANUFACTURERS SHOULD FIND IT ADVANTAGEOUS TO LOCATE HERE.

No City in Canada Can Equal it for Easily Obtainable and Economical Electrical Power.

COMING MANUFACTURING CITY OF THE DOMINION.

Excellent Transportation Facilities Make it an Advantageously Situated Shipping Centre.

ABUNDANT SITES ARE AVAILABLE.

Peterborough Offers More Valuable and Bona Fide Inducements to Capital Seeking Investment Than any Other Town or City.

PETERBOROUGH certainly has the right to the title affixed at the head of this article, which deals generally with the place of the town in the fields of electrical development and achievement, since, in the first place, it is the centre of, by all odds, the largest, best equipped, and most complete manufacturing industry in the Dominion devoted to the manufacture of electrical machinery and supplies, that is to say, the works of the Canadian General Electric Company, which has this season covered about an acre, with substantial new additions to their already extensive congeries of structures, which keep in occupation from seven a.m., till ten p.m., a thousand operatives. The high quality of the products of this establishment are known and recognised throughout the breadth of the Dominion.

THE HOME OF ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT.

Peterborough is the proper site for such an industry; for this establishment co-operating with natural conditions with which nature has prodigally endowed the town, has helped in the development of electrical energy, under conditions which provide a present supply of electric power to the extent of 16,500 horse power. This is, so to speak, now on tap, ready for use. Of this amount existing industries are using 7,500 horse power. But by raising dams and making full use of the power possibilities available between here and Lakefield on the line of the Trent Valley canal, this amount of 16,500 can be doubled with no more trouble than doing it, so that we have, counting 16,500 more available, a total of 36,000 horse power, capable of generation, which only needs demand to be speedily made an accomplished fact. With 7,500 now in use we should have 25,500 available for new industries needing it. This is, without including the power at Burleigh Falls, distant from Peterborough as the crow flies, less than 20 miles where the company which is exploiting this water privil ge expect to develop 3,500 horse power. This added to the 25,500 horse power mentioned, will make a total of nearly 30,000 electrical horse power in excess of the 7,500 now in use and giving motive energy to half a dozen industries ranking with the largest in the country, which indicates so far as power is concerned Peterborough's great potentialities of industrial expansion. Then there are, several, so to speak, odds and ends of power privileges which may be utilised—the waterworks dam, now owned by the town, has a reserve power beyond what is needed for operating the pumps, capable of generating 700 horse power and where the canal enters Little Lake there is a drop of 13 feet which will permit the development of considerable power, and at the locks further down the river there is also another source of power. In the calculation of the power possibilities of Peterborough no account is taken of the large water power existing further down the river, in varying distances of from 30 to 40 miles where great power can be utilised if the demand would warrant it. The transmission over these distances is small compared to the great distances electricity is successfully transmitted.

THE CHEAPEST ELECTRICAL POWER IN CANADA.

But the fact of the possession of this large available supply of motive energy is not, by any means the whole of the advantages which Peterborough can offer to the industry seeking a permanent industrial home. Among the factors which determine the desirability of a manufacturing site the price of power is one of the most important, for it is a perpetual necessity, the spirit of industrial operations. It can be confidentially asserted that Peterborough provides the cheapest electrical power in the country. The flat rate for power here, in without doubt the most economical in the province. While one or two other places may give this figure, yet the conditions require that enormous quantities—wholesale—are taken, while in other places which partially approximate to Peterborough's rate, the quantity available is, for practical purposes, impossibly small.

LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES IS $15 PER HORSE POWER,—

SPLENDID TRAFFIC FACILITIES AND SITES

With large quantities of electrical power available at the lowest rates are conjoined other advantages of no little moment. In another part of this article the traffic facilities of Peterborough which are unsurpassed by few, if any, places in Canada, are dealt with somewhat in detail and all which is set down there goes to show that in addition to abundant and economical power Peterborough adds the advantage of first-rate shipping facilities. As remarked elsewhere Peterborough has abundant sites for manufactories in favourable proximity to railway lines or the Trent Valley Canal. There are within the corporation of the town of Peterborough scores upon scores of superb sites, permitting if needed the entrance of railway trains upon the premises of any industrial establishment occupying them. Next year the Village of Ashburnham, now a separate municipality divided at present from the town by a municipal corporation of its own and by the River Otonabee, will become a part of Peterborough, which will in all probability be erected into a city. This will bring under the power of the city a splendid stretch of magnificent manufacturing sites, close to railway lines and the Trent Valley Canal. At one point, the junction of the Grand Junction and Canadian Pacific Railways and the Trent Valley Canal there are acres of sites available for manufacturing purposes.

With all these advantages the town joins a liberal policy of encouragement, generally represented by the provision of free sites and exemption from taxation, but the liberality of the terms which may be offered are defined by no fast and hard rules, the amount of encouragement to be offered being largely determined by the character and importance of the industry seeking location.

GENERAL ADVANTAGES.

Not only does Peterborough present unequalled material advantages as a home for manufacturing industries, but there are complementary considerations involving the merits of the town as a desirable place of residence. The town has all the advantages which modern civilization, in its most advanced form, brings to centres of population. Eleven beautiful church structures represent in a very creditable way, all the orthodox religious denominations, besides the meeting places of other bodies not enrolled on the regular roster of recognized churches. With a first class Collegiate Institute, thoroughly equipped and manned with a splendid staff of teachers, with nine excellent school buildings, not including a first-rate Business College, the educational needs of the town are very adequately met. The town is pleasantly situated in the valley of the beautiful Otonabee, with a beautiful environment of hills giving variety to the landscape. The streets of the town are excellent, nature having provided a porous soil, which rapidly absorbs rain and yield readily to improvement. With many miles of granolithic pavement our streets are in excellent condition. All the residence streets are splendidly embowered by thriving and well grown shade trees, there not being a town in the Dominion more plentifully timbered or better shaded Peterborough is a town of generous space, hundreds of our residences having handsome lawns, and there is hardly a humble home that has not its little stretch of neatly shaven lawn and modest plots of flowers, kept in summer in Hibernian greenness by our excellent system of water works; owned by the town, and furnishing first class water at very reasonable rates. We are most bountifully supplied with parks, there being no fewer than six large and beautiful parks, besides several smaller parks. All these advantages, combined with an excellent bill of health, make the town a very desirable place of residence.

Not only is the town a pleasant place of itself, but its environments furnish a profusion of pleasure resorts. Nine miles north of the town we reach the first waters of the beautiful Kawartha Lakes, studded with charming islands, the sites of beautiful cottages, the summer homes of thousands of our citizens during the heated term, with excellent fishing and all the summer delights that constitute the equipment of a first-rate summer resort. North-west of the town is situated another charming summer resort, Chemong Park, a nice, quiet and domesticated summer home, where a large population of our citizens and visiting tourists find health and pleasure. A franchise has been granted to a strong and responsible company for the construction of a street and radial railway, which will traverse the town and reach outlying points, making access to our summer resorts, easy, and creating facilities for commercial and social interchange, which will add to the pleasure and convenience of our citizens in no small degree.

Down the river for twenty miles, its beautiful banks are lined with little sylvian beauty spots, white with tents of summer campers, and Jubilee Point, Idyl Wyld and Gore's Landing on Rice Lake, make delightful homes for tourists and rest-seekers in the season. Altogether Peterborough in its splendid power possibilities, at the minimum of cost, in its splendid traffic facilities, in its abundant and excellent sites for manufacturing establishments, in its residence attractions, in its beautiful summer surroundings, presents innumerable attractions which invite the advantageous location of industries and provide opportunities for healthy and happy homes to the attendent population.

ELECTRICAL POWER AT PETERBOROUGH.

Amount Available and the Source From Which it is Obtained.

Perhaps no other feature enters into conditions the combination of which makes Peterborough the most advantageously situated town for the establishment of manufacturing industries in Canada to-day as that of cheap and easily obtainable electrical power. Nature has dealt wonderfully generously with this town, and the value of nature's gift has been fully appreciated, and the application of science has enabled her gift to be utilized to such an extent that Peterborough has become known throughout the Dominion as "The Electric City," and an investigation of the conditions warrant the application of this epithet. By the more perfect knowledge of the possibilities of electricity, and its ready adaptability to almost every form of industrial life, the immense value to this town of the practically limitless water power, within easily accessible distances, is being recognized, and as a result, these water powers are being developed and transformed into electric energy, with which the wheels of industry are being turned, so as to bring dividends into the pockets of the capitalists, whose foresight and business acumen have enabled them to recognize the advantages of establishing industries in a town where cheap power was available, and prosperity and contentment to the thousands of wage earners, the profitable employment of whom, the advantages have made possible.

To say that the supply of power available is practically limitless, may, to some unacquainted with the conditions, seem an extravagant statement, but its truth is at once recognized by one who has studied the situation, and possessing the correct information with reference to the source of power supply. The fact has been impressed most convincingly by an expert report on a recent investigation of the nature of the lakes from which the water running through the Trent Valley has its source. This investigation has made the fact more than ever evident that there are power sources hitherto undreamed of, and that with the utilization of nature's boundless possibilities, power can be transmitted to Peterborough in quantities and at prices, which will have the inevitable effect of making this town, already the premium town of the Dominion, without a peer, in the list of manufacturing cities of Canada.

The immediate source of the power supply is the River Otonabee, the connecting link between the chain of Kawartha Lakes and Lake Ontario, and the river upon which is destined to be situated the electrical power hub of Ontario, if not of the Dominion. The multitudinous sources of the Otonabee River are a series of lakes of varying sizes situated in the northern part of this and adjoining counties. The nature of these lakes is such that there is not the remotest danger of the source of power becoming depleted, and there is practically power for all time to come.

As to the quantity of power available, there is a wide divergence of opinion, but after an investigation conducted with a view of obtaining an estimate as nearly correct as possible, it has been found that the true conditions are of a most gratifying nature, because of the fact that it has been absolutely determined that there is more power available, and capable of development, than the great majority of persons have any conception of. The Examiner has found that the quantity of power at present being generated, or capable of development, and easily accessible to the town, is 19,750 horse power. This power is divided up among the different dams according to the following table:

	Amt. of Power	Head
Cereal Co's new dam	5,000 H.P.	24
Auburn Co's dam	2,000 H.P.	15
Water works dam	1,000 H.P.	9
C. G. E. dam	2,000 H.P.	15
No. 5 Otonabee Power Co	2,500 H.P.	15
No 4 dam	1,000 H.P.	12
No. 3 dam	1,000 H.P.	12
No. 2 dam	750 H.P.	10
Burleigh Falls dam	3,500 H.P.	24

Cereal Co.	2,000 H.P.
Auburn Co.	1,000 H.P.
(When the dam has been made water tight.)
Water works	500 H.P.
C. G. E. Co.	none available
No. 5 dam, O.P. Co.	1,000 H.P.
No. 4 dam	1,000 H.P.
No. 3 dam	none available
No. 2 dam	750 H.P.
Burleigh Falls	3,500 H.P.
Total surplus power available—	9,750 H.P.

It is an acknowledged fact that at certain seasons of the year, particularly in the spring, an immense surplus of water flows through the dams, from which no power is obtained. The question of conserving this water to supply an increased continuous flow is being dealt with, and a report of a Government engineer, who has recently returned from a tour of the lakes forming the source of the Otonabee river, gives the pleasing information that with a very small expenditure a largely increased flow may be obtained, and the belief is confidently expressed that the present available power will be doubled. The practical result, in figures, of this increase in power, would be as below:

Amount of power now possible	19,750 H.P.
Total amount with proposed conservations of the northern waters	39,5000 H.P.
Amount now being used	10,000 H.P.
Surplus available for commercial use	29,500 H.P.

THE QUESTION OF COST.

A very practical consideration in this subject is that of the cost, because no matter what the quantity of available power might be, unless it can be bought at a reasonable price, the quantity is a matter of little practical value. It is right here that Peterborough's advantage asserts itself strongly. A comparison of prices discloses the fact that no town or city in Ontario, as far as can be learned, offers power at prices which compare with those of Peterborough. This is particularly true, when the price for comparatively small quantities is quoted. A very superficial perusal of the subjoined table shows the great advantage Peterborough possesses:

PETERBOROUGH—PRICE PER HORSE POWER PER YEAR, IN ANY QUANTITY FROM 20 H. P. UPWARDS—$15.00 PER H. P. PER YEAR.

Montreal—	$18 to $100 per H.P. per yr.
Ottawa—	$15 to $25 per H.P. per yr.
Hamilton—	$15 to $25 per H.P. per yr.
Belleville—	$25 per H. P. per yr.
Trenton—	$15 to $25 per H.P. per yr.
Toronto—	to $80 per H.P. per yr.

Thus it will be seen that there is no place where any considerable quantity of power is sold more cheaply than here, and in small quantities no town or company can begin to reach the prices quoted here. Hamilton, which makes a stiff claim as being the "electrical hub of Canada," has to take second place to Peterborough. It is reported on good authority that the Deering division of the International Harvester Company, has a contract for some thousands of horse power of electrical energy at $18 per horse power per year, for a ten hour a day service.

There is one place, and only one, where power is cheaper than in Peterborough. Bracebridge, with a municipal power plant, has 160 h. p., which they ask $12.50 per year for. This price, however, is lower than any company can supply it at, and the municipality is losing money on the transaction. The quantity of power available there is so small that it really is no comparison to Peterborough.

EASY POWER TRANSMISSION.

By the development of the science of applied electricity, achievements which a few years ago were considered impossible, or at least, impracticable, are now facts of every day accomplishment. The belief that electrical power could not be transmitted any distance, was quite generally believed, but the fallacy of this belief is now being demonstrated, and by the use of step generators, producing a high voltage, the energy is transmitted long distances with practically no loss whatever. By the application of this facility for transmission, electricity from a number of water power locations can be brought to Peterborough, and sold almost as cheaply as that generated here. It is asserted that power from Burleigh Falls, 22 miles away, can be transmitted to Peterborough, and sold in successful competition with that generated here, the expense of the pole line being offset by the fact that no dam will have to be built.

By the above facts it will be seen that in the matter of power, and in all other considerations, Peterborough offers advantages which no other town or city in Ontario can duplicate.

PETERBOROUGH'S SUPERIOR TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

The Excellent Shipping Conveniences They Provide for Manufacturing Establishments.

In the matter of location of a manufacturing industry, the prime consideration is that of traffic facilities, which of course involves the question of freight rates; the better the facilities, the cheaper, necessarily, will be the freight rates. The matter of low freights is especially important to manufacturers in the present age, when the keenness of competition reduces profits to the lowest possible point, and the smaller the amount having to be written off the operations for expenses, the greater the margin of profit. To illustrate the immense influence of even a trifling reduction of freight rates upon the course of commerce, it is only necessary to mention this fact. The removal, by the Dominion Government, of canal tolls on the Welland and St. Lawrence canals system, brought about a reduction of a cent a bushel in the carrying price of wheat. This, per se, trifling drop in price, brought about a tremendous change, whose ultimate influence, it is difficult to estimate. The direct result was to divert 80 per cent. of the wheat traffic of New York to the Canadian canals, and such was the state of panic created that the people of New York State at the recent elections, voted in favour of the proposition to expend the enormous sum of one hundred million dollars on the work of improving the Erie Canal, to compete with the Canadian canals, whose superior traffic facilities have cut so deeply into the commerce of our neighbours.

PETERBOROUGH'S PREEMINENCE.

It is safe to say that there are few places in Canada, to-day that possess traffic facilities superior to those of Peterborough, and when works now under construction are in operation, it is also safe to say, no town in the Dominion, taking also into consideration, these items of cheap and abundant motive power, and proximity to raw material, will possess advantages in the matter of cheap freights, good sites for manufacturing industries, and general facilities, equal to those of Peterborough.

In the matter of railway communication, Peterborough is very happily situated. The town is the centre of a six-pointed star, whose rays, represented by railway lines, branch in six directions. The Canadian Pacific Railway, from east to west, gives direct connection one way with Montreal and the east, and the other way with Toronto and the west. Two lines of the Grand Trunk extend south-west and south-east respectively connecting this town with the main line of the Grand Trunk Rail-

Burglars Blew Up the Safe in a Port Hope Seed House.

Port Hope, Nov. 23.—About 2 o'clock Saturday morning burglars blew open the safe at Hogg & Lytle's seed house on John street.

Nitro-glycerine or dynamite was the explosive used. Bags of beans had been piled up against the safe, but did not save it from being badly shattered. The windows and doors were partially demolished by the explosion.

The culprits succeeded in getting only about seven dollars in silver. A number of stamps were overlooked.

Frank Garlat, the head bookkeeper for the firm, took home with him the night before about $1,500, which the burglars no doubt thought was in the safe.

IMMENSE YIELD OF BARLEY.

Year's Experience in Pea Raising Has Been More Encouraging, as the Injury From Weevil Appears to Be Diminished—Midge Was Bad in the Clover—1903 Will Be Known as Plum Year.

Toronto, Nov. 24.—Following is the report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries for the crops of Ontario, from returns sent in under date of November 2nd. The final estimates of the yields of crops for 1903 are based on threshing returns forwarded by over 2,000 special correspondents:

Fall Wheat—The favorable accounts regarding fall wheat given in the August bulletin have been fully sustained by the reports received since threshing. The yield per acre is large, and the quality of the grain is, as a rule, first-class, except a small percentage sprouted in the field during the wet weather prevailing during a portion of the harvest. Several correspondents describe the grain as being well up in weight, some of it going from 62 to 64 pounds to the bushel. Taking both yield and quality into consideration, the crop of 1903 may be considered as one of the best in the history of fall wheat in this Province.

The New Fall Wheat—There has been a greatly increased area of wheat sown this fall, more particularly in the Lake Erie district and other localities where the Hessian fly did so much injury during the previous three or four years. The seed-bed was generally reported as being in good condition, which gave the crop a good start, and as correspondents wrote at the end of October, the young wheat was presenting a fine appearance in most places, although here and there some fields were showing need of rain. While sowing ranged from the 20th August to the end of the first week of October, the bulk of the crop was put in somewhat later than usual. Some injury from the Hessian fly was reported, but not so much as in the previous three or four years. Forty varieties of fall wheat are mentioned as being sown, Dawson's Golden Chaff being the most popular, and Red Clawson coming next.

Spring Wheat Decreasing.

Spring Wheat—This crop appears to be steadily decreasing in favor with Ontario farmers, judging by the shrinkage in area during the past four years. The quality of this year's grain is said to be from fair to good. A few complaints have been made of rust, but the crop generally may be counted as above the average, although not so good relatively as fall wheat.

The falling off in wheat growing, both fall and spring, may be readily shown by the following statement:

	Fall Wheat.	Spring Wheat.
1893...	913,954 acres	356,721 acres
1900...1,068,640	"	376,905 "
1901...	911,587 "	358,048 "
1902...	748,592 "	303,115 "
1903...	665,028 "	248,518 "

Barley—There has been an immense yield of barley, nearly all of it plump and of excellent feeding value, although a considerable portion of the grain was discolored by rain at harvest. However, the matter of color is not now so important as it was a few years ago, when most of the barley was raised for malting purposes.

Oats—As large yield of oats is reported, but while most of the crop will be of excellent quality, a portion of it is said to be rather light in weight. Some rust on late oats is complained of, the straw is hardly as long as usual, and there was also considerable "lodging" during harvest owing to heavy rains. Notwithstanding these drawbacks, the oat crop may be listed as a success.

Rye—This crop is comparatively little raised for grain, but where grown for that purpose it has done very well this season.

Pea Results Encouraging.

Peas—Of late years this crop has suffered greatly from the pea weevil or "bug," and its acreage in 1903 was reduced by one-half as compared with that of five years ago. During that time what is known as the flat or grass pea has been largely substituted for the common field or round pea, as the former variety was regarded as bug-proof. The grass pea, however, has failed to give good satisfaction, and the round pea is again being more freely sown. While some correspondents report a good crop, many complain that the wet weather made too much straw at the expense of the pods. The results of this year's experience, taken altogether, are rather encouraging, as injury from the weevil appears to have been much less than in the previous year or two.

Corn—August remarks as to the unevenness of the corn crop are emphasized in the reports just to hand. Descriptions of both yield and quality range from "poor" to "good." Early planted corn did much better than that got in later. Unfortunately, the dry condition of the soil at seeding, and the poor quality of much of the seed, necessitated considerable re-planting, and consequently late corn, some of which is soft where grown for the grain, or was caught with the frost where raised for fodder or the silo. However, the greater part of the corn was well saved, as the fall was on the whole a very favorable one to the crop.

Tobacco—Correspondents say very little about tobacco, the growing of which is confined mainly to some of the western counties of the Lake Erie district and a few localities in the southeastern portion of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties. Seeding was rather late, and the cool, wet weather kept growth back; but the fine early autumn weather was most favorable, and the condition of the crop at harvesting was ranked by correspondents at from fair to good.

Beans—This crop is variously described. It suffered from rain when growing and when being pulled, and there was a tendency to run too much to straw. Not only was harvesting delayed by rain, but some of the crop was also discolored from this cause. Notwithstanding these complaints, several correspondents speak well of the crop, and its general condition may be classed as fair.

Buckwheat—The acreage given to buckwheat is comparatively small but where grown this year the crop has turned out to be a good one on the whole, accounts of both yield and quality running from "fair" to "splendid."

The Midge in the Clover.

Clover Seed—The second crop of clover made vigorous growth, but in most cases ran to stalk at the expense of head. The midge was also in evidence in nearly every section of the Province, and wrought injury to clover seed variously estimated at from 25 to 75 per cent. Many fields intended for seed were cut for hay.

ARCHITECTURE.

E. M. STOREY, Architect, Etc., 178 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont.

Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases, work promptly done.

This ailment is one of the most severe of skin diseases, and, besides being very obstinate and difficult to cure, is the cause of much distress, and, indeed, keen suffering on account of the dreadful itching and burning sensations.

Eczema or Salt Rheum.

Eczema may develop on any part of the body, but is most likely to affect the scalp, face, ears and neck, the legs below the knees. In other cases it is scattered over the body, attacking several parts at the same time, and is likely to develop into psoriasis or chronic eczema, which seems to fasten itself upon the whole system.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so pure and clean, so soothing and healing and leaves the skin so smooth and clear that it is a pleasure to use it. Though best known on account of its extraordinary control over the most torturing of itching skin diseases, it should ever be remembered that it will not injure the most delicate skin, but on the contrary is a food for the skin and a skin beautifier of unusual power.

A moment's consideration of the scores of uses to which this preparation can be put will convince you of its usefulness in the home, not for the old or young alone, but for every member of the family. In fact if the family medicine chest were to contain but one remedy it is doubtful if there could be found anything of greater usefulness than Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Eczema or Salt Rheum.

Mrs. Ann McDonald, Kingsville, Ont., states:—"For about three years I was a great sufferer from eczema. At times the patches of raw, flaming flesh would extend from my waist to my neck and from the knees to the ankles. The intense itching almost drove me crazy, and though I tried all the local physicians they could not even relieve the suffering. The flesh would crack open, and I don't believe anyone ever suffered more than I did. I was told of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but did not believe that it could help me. After the fifth application of this preparation I began to feel the benefit of its soothing, healing effects and now attribute a cure to the persistent use of this wonderful remedy. It is truly worth its weight in gold, and I never tire of recommending it to other sufferers."

Mr. C. H. McConnell, Engineer in Fleury's Foundry, Aurora, Ont., states:—"I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison, and this developed into eczema, the most dreadful of skin diseases.

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until the flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment, It has cured me and I recommend it because I know there is nothing so good for itching skin."

PROVINCIAL CROPS.

and others were turned into pasture.

Potatoes — When correspondents wrote for the August bulletin the yield of potatoes promised to be one of the largest ever recorded in Ontario. Unfortunately rot developed at the time of digging in almost every section of the Province, more especially on heavy soils and on low-lying lands, the western and central counties suffering more from this cause than those counties lying farther east and north. The extent of the rot, as given by our correspondents, varies from 10 to 60 per cent.

The Root Crops.

Turnips—In those sections of the country where turnips are most largely grown the crop has turned out well. In many quarters, however, there are complaints of lice doing much injury to the plants.

Mangel Wurzels—Many complaints were made of poor seeding on account of drouth, and a considerable quantity of mangel land was resown to turnips. Nevertheless the crop caught up as the season advanced.

Carrots—Correspondents have but little to say about this crop but that little would indicate that they have turned out well comparatively.

Sugar Beets—Reports regarding sugar beets describe them as being from fair to good in yield and quality. They appear to be steadily growing in favor as food for live stock.

Fall Plowing—The reports relating to fall plowing are most divergent. A considerable number of correspondents speak of the work as being well advanced, while an equally large number say that fall plowing is not as far ahead as usual.

Abundance of Plums.

Fruit—Fruit growers will likely remember 1903 as the plum year. This fruit was so abundant that many growers found it difficult to handle the crop in time for market. The quality of the plums was also good. There was a fair yield of apples, but in various parts of the Province complaints were made of the scarcity of barrels, and on this account buyers were more particular than ever in the selection of this fruit, and thousands of bushels of apples that in former years would have passed for shipment to Great Britain were this season rejected by them. The tent caterpillar and codling moth were not so bad as in recent years. Pears yielded well in most places, but some blight is reported. Peaches were plentiful, but serious complaints are made regarding the ravages of the San Jose Scale among these and other fruit trees. Cherries bore bountifully, but some references are still made by correspondents to the danger threatening cherry and plum trees by black-knot. Grapes were fair in yield, but suffered somewhat from hail storms, and wind storms also helped to thin out apples and other orchard fruits. Small fruits of nearly every variety were abundant. Scarcity of labor was another great drawback to the prover handling.

Pastures and Live Stock—Summer and fall pastures have been all that could be desired, although a few correspondents speak of the fields as beginning to get bare for lack of rain. Both beef and dairy cattle are reported as being in tip-top condition, and in about the usual numbers, but sheep, while in the very best of form, are becoming fewer every year. Hogs, on the other hand, are steadily increasing in numbers, and are being turned off for the packing houses "all the year round," to quote a favorable phrase of correspondents in this connection. The only serious mention of disease among live stock is an outbreak of hog cholera in the Township of Harwich, in Kent, and this has been confined to the original locality.

Pastures Were Excellent.

The Dairy—The season has been a most favorable one for the dairy. Pastures were excellent, the flow of milk was large and uninterrupted, the weather was comparatively cool, there was a large quantity of both butter and cheese made, and both articles commanded good prices, with the honors in favor of cheese. In fact the high price paid for cheese during the latter part of the season caused a considerable quantity of milk to be diverted from butter to cheese making, and several correspondents state that it was likely that the cheese making season would run further into November than has been the custom of late. 1902 was a good cheese year, but 1903 has been even better; in fact the past season has been the most profitable cheese year that Ontario has ever known. Grade Durhams are the breed still to be most generally found as dairy cows, more especially in the western half of the Province, but in the cheese counties along the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers Holsteins and Ayrshires, with their grades, are equally popular with the Shorthorns, Jerseys and their grades come next in popularity.

Poultry—Judging by the remarks of correspondents, poultry do not receive the same thought and care that is bestowed upon the other animals on the farm. Nevertheless, there appears to be a growing interest in the selection, feeding, housing, and general care of fowl. Although the summer was not favorable for chickens, it being too wet and cool for the most part, good prices for both eggs and poultry have greatly encouraged raisers.

Bees and Honey—A good yield of honey is reported from the western and central parts of the Province, but in the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties apiarists have not done so well, owing to unfavorable weather.

Improvements on the Farm.

Farm Improvements—Only a fair amount of underdraining was done in 1903, not because farmers have lost confidence in its benefits, but chiefly because good ditchers, and farm laborers generally, have been so scarce. Rail and other wooden fences are being rapidly replaced by woven wire fences of various designs, but barbed wire is now seldom asked for on an Ontario farm. A considerable number of new houses, barns, and other farm buildings were erected during the year, but still a larger amount of work has been done in the way of putting stone, brick, or cement basements under existing barns, thus greatly improving the stabling. Cement floors are also becoming more common in this connection.

Labor and Wages—Correspondents are agreed as to the great scarcity of farm labor, but they are much divided as to how to meet the difficulty. The exodus to the north and northwest still continues, which means the loss to the Province of many of its most stalwart and experienced young men, and their places here are being taken by Old Country youths who suffer in comparison, although some of them give satisfaction. Wages show no tendency to lower, and some correspondents insist that it is impossible to pay current rates and make a profit.

Threshing and Marketing.

Threshing is more advanced than usual, being practically completed in most parts of the Province, although in a few sections winter threshing is still in vogue. Progress in marketing is hard to describe, nearly every farmer being a law unto himself regarding the disposal of his grain. Some report that more wheat has been sold than was marketed at the same date for some years past, while others in the same localities state that very little wheat or other cereals have been sent to market, as it is now more profitable to feed all kinds of grain to live stock. It would seem th lf the advantages of turning grain into beef or bacon are such as to render farmers much more independent of the grain market than formerly in the disposal of their wheat, barley, and other grains; although a decided rise in the price of any of these cereals would soon bring out a surprisingly large supply of that particular grain.

Crop Acreage and Yields Var 1903.

The following are the final estimates of the product of the 1903 crop computed from returns of actual yield made by threshers and an extra staff of correspondents:

Fall wheat, 665,028 acres, 17,242,763 bushels; or 25.9 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 20,233,669 bushels.

Spring wheat, 248,518 acres, 4,949,233 bushels; or 19.9 bushels per acre. The yield for 1902 was 6,048,024 bushels.

Barley, 709,839 acres, 24,878,817 bushels; or 34.8 per acre.

Oats, 2,645,965 acres, 110,228,103 bushels; or 41.7 per acre.

Rye, 179,277 acres, 2,970,786 bushels; or 16.6 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 8,509,832 bushels.

Peas, 407,133 acres, 8,924,650 bushels; or 21.9 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 7,664,679 bushels, and the average yield per acre 14.4.

Buckwheat, 95,487 acres, 2,049,169 bushels; or 21.5 per acre.

Beans, 53,039 acres, 978,246 bushels; or 18.4 per acre. The yield for 1902 was 670,633 bushels.

Potatoes, 139,011 acres, 16,676,447 bushels; or 120 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 12,942,502.

Mangel Wurzels, 80,918 acres, 41,768,289 bushels; or 516 per acre. The crop for 1902 was 39,140,924 bushels.

Carrots, 7,805 acres, 2,612,778 bushels; or 335 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 3,227,161 bushels.

Turnips, 134,469 acres, 69,316,341 bushels; or 515 per acre. The yield of 1902 was 71,740,204.

Corn for Husking, (in the ear) 378,924 acres, 29,287,888 bushels; or 77.3 per acre. The crop of 1902 was 20,512,194 bushels.

Corn for silo and fodder, (green) 209,727 acres, 2,564,400 tons; or 12.33 tons per acre. The crop for 1902 was 2,611,334 tons.

Hay and clover, 2,783,565 acres, 4,336,562 tons; or 156 tons per acre. The crop of 1902 was 4,955,438 tons.

Apples, 43,659,413 bushels; or 6.15 per tree of bearing age.

Tobacco, 2,423,031 pounds. The yield of 1902 was 3,070,717 pounds.

Plasters and Liniments No Good.

This was the experience of Mr. Benjamin Stewart, Moonville, N.B.

TWO-THIRDS OF A BOX OF

Doan's Kidney Pills

CURED HIM.

He tells of his experience in the following words: "For four months I was troubled with a lame back and all this time was unable to turn in bed without help. I tried plasters and liniments of all kinds but with no effect. At last I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and by the time I had used two-thirds of a box my back was as well and as strong as ever and has kept so ever since."

Backache, Frequent Thirst, Scanty, Cloudy, Thick or Highly Colored Urine, Puffing under the Eyes, Swelling of the Feet and Ankles, are all symptoms of kidney trouble that Doan's Kidney Pills will cure.

Mr. James Battle Nominated.

Welland, Nov. 24.—The Conservative convention held here yesterday to nominate a candidate, was largely attended. James Battle of Thorold, was nominated on the first ballot, but stated he would not accept for a few days. Mr. R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., and Mr. E. A. Lancaster, M.P., addressed the meeting.

Japs Go After Russians.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 24.—The semi-official Russian agency has received from Tokio a report to the effect that Japanese warships have been despatched to prevent the Russian war vessels Tsarovitch and Bayan reaching Port Arthur to join the Russian squadron there.

Infant Killed by Boy.

Port Arthur, Nov. 24.—The two-year-old son of M. Leiterman, a farmer of Oliver, was accidentally killed by an eight-year-old boy discharging a shot gun.

To Make New Route.

Montreal, Nov. 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Atlantic Steamship Company yesterday announced the establishment of a new line to be run during the winter months from New Orleans to various continental ports. A specialty will be made of the cotton trade.

George Casey Very Ill.

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—Geo. E. Casey, ex-M.P., recently appointed to the Parliamentary library, is in the Protestant Hospital very ill with pneumonia. He was reported as very low yesterday with grave doubts as to the outcome.

Campaign Speakers This Week.

Won't Let 'Em Go to Jail.

Walkerville, Nov. 23.—The four ex-county hotelkeepers who were fined $60 each for selling intoxicants to Indians declare that they will go to jail rather than pay the fines, half of which go to the Indians who informed. License Inspector Poland, however, asserts that the alternative of imprisonment is for those who cannot pay, and will issue writs to compel payment.

Health is a magnet which irresistibly draws the man to the woman in life's mating time. A great many women covet beauty and are constantly seeking means to beautify themselves. Let a woman first seek perfect health.

There can be no general good health for women while there is disease of the delicate womanly organism.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN
WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhœa, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I used four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mountjoy, Lancaster Co., Pa., "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Everyone who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June I was so poor in health that at times I could not walk. To-day I am cured. I tell everybody that Dr. Pierce's medicines cured me."

CATARRH.

What This Disease is and How it May Be Cured.

Originating in the System it Can Be Cured Only by Treating the Blood.

Remedies Applied Externally Only Dry up or Suppress its External Manifestations and Throw it Back on the System to Return When They are Discontinued or Find Vent at Some Other Point Perhaps in More Important and Vital Parts.

Catarrh is a conditional disorder usually manifesting itself in or finding vent through the outside or covering skin or most frequently by way of the inside or lining skin which is called mucous membrane.

When catarrh affects the outside or covering skin it is called "eczema." The location of a spot or patch of eczema or skin catarrh may be at most any point covered by integument, by which name the outside skin is known.

Eczema or catarrh of the integument usually takes a descriptive name from its regional manifestation as palmar eczema if on the palm of the hand, facial eczema if on the face, etc., these names being extended to every part of the body covered by the integument. This is said to be the regional name of eczema.

Eczema also takes a descriptive name from the character of its manifestation. With eczema there is an infiltration of the skin showing the catarrhal nature of the disease, just as in a catarrh of a mucous membrane there is an infiltration of its tissues. This fluid with which the eczematous skin is loaded oozes out and drying on the surface forms scabs, crusts, scales, etc. Thus eczema gets another name known as its "lesional name," from its external appearance, as "squamous eczema" where it seems covered with scales, etc.

Then eczema takes a third descriptive name due to its intensity and duration, as acute for a short but very severe attack; sub acute for a milder attack, and chronic for long-drawn out or lingering eczema, etc.

Thus one little patch of eczema may have several descriptive names attached to it, the regional name, the lesional name and the name descriptive of its intensity. A patch of scaly eczema on the face might be described as "chronic squamous facial eczema," and any other patch at any other location might receive as many but different descriptive names.

So it is with catarrh in a mucous membrane or the inside or lining skin. If in the lining of the nose it is called "nasal catarrh"; if in the lining of some of the pelvic organs of women it is known as "leucorrhea" or more frequently as "female weakness."

Bear in mind that this is all catarrh, a systematic disease, finding vent in either the outside or covering skin (integument) or the inside or lining skin (mucous membrane) and you will not get confused but readily see why one remedy can cure these seemingly separate ailments.

The difference in the integument and catarrh of the mucous membrane is because of a slight difference in their structure.

There is the same infiltration and thickening in both cases but the glandular supply being different there is apt to be more discharge from catarrh of a mucous membrane and owing to the distinct nerve supply of the outside skin much more irritation as burning and itching in eczema or catarrh of the integument.

It is, however, all catarrh; an afflicted woman may have leucorrhea, bronchitis, nasal catarrh and eczema and it would be only systematic catarrh finding vent in all of these ways or four places at once.

If we can cure catarrh in the system we do away with all manifestations of it. Cure it in the system and it needs no vent. There is nothing to come out. This is the correct and scientific way of treating catarrh.

For catarrh of the outside skin (eczema); for catarrh of the mucous membrane of the nose (nasal catarrh) necessitating blowing, hawking, and spitting; for catarrh in the lining of the eustachian tubes causing deafness and head noises; for catarrh of the wind pipes leading to the lungs (bronchitis) giving rise to chronic coughs; for catarrh of the pelvic mucous surfaces, called leucorrhea and female weakness for all kinds of catarrh, lurking in any nook or corner of the system or manifesting itself in any tissue, organ or structure, there is no known remedy that equals Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. An internal remedy, operating through the blood, they search out and cure catarrh in any part or tissue of the body and cure catarrh just as readily in one form as another, therefore they are as applicable and serviceable for eczema and leucorrhea as for bronchitis or for nasal catarrh.

The Rev. L. E. Palmer, Baptist Clergyman, of Ceresco, Mich., makes statement of interest to all catarrh and grip sufferers. He says: Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have certainly been a blessing to me. I have used them freely this fall and winter and have found them a safeguard against La Grippe and Catarrhal troubles from which I had suffered for years. I feel that I can freely and conscientiously recommend them.

Dr. J. J. Reitiger, of Covington, KY., says: I suffered from catarrh in my head and throat every fall, with stoppage of the nose and irritation in the throat affecting my voice and often extending to the stomach causing catarrh of the stomach. I bought a fifty-cent package of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets at my druggists, carried them in my pocket and used them faithfully, and the way in which they cleared my head and throat was certainly remarkable. I had no catarrh last winter and spring and consider myself free from any catarrhal trouble.

Being in tablet form they are convenient to carry and take; being sold at all drug stores for 50c a box they are easy to procure and inexpensive; being a systematic remedy, they are equally good for all catarrhs; being of established merit, they are reliable and satisfactory. Use them and you will become their advocate and friend.

PETERBOROUGH'S SUPERION TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

way, and the ports of Port Hope and Belleville respectively. Another line, the Midland branch of the G.T.R., runs northwesterly to Midland, one of the finest ports on the waters of the upper lakes, with a magnificent harbour, and the site of great smelting works. Another shorter line runs north-west to Lakefield, the terminus of lake navigation of the Kawartha Lakes, to which a thousand miles of shore line, rich in natural resources, are tributary. Lakefield is also the point of debouchement of which is practically completed, for navigation purposes, from Peterborough northward, giving a navigable stretch of about one hundred miles, and from Peterborough southward there is navigation now in use for another fifty miles

Thus, it will be seen, that we have on the east and south three ways of traffic communication; by rail with Montreal and the eastern provinces, by the main line of the C.P.R. and by the Grand Trunk. We have similar means of communication with Toronto and the west and we have direct communication with Midland, and by the great lakes with the boundless North-west.

From these several railway lines local services pass to all our large manufacturing industries, which are thus enabled to unload and load their raw material and finished products at their very doors. And a glance at the map or diagram of the town accompanying this article shows that the numerous sites for factories which are still available, can be similarly served without difficulty.

EASILY ACCESSIBLE RESOURCES.

Besides Peterborough being situated upon the River Otonabee, is the most important town on the route of the Trent Valley Canal, whose construction, so far, not only admits of the development of a practically unlimited supply of water power available for development in turn of that increasingly popular and easily destributed motive power, electrical energy.

Apart from these considerations of the tremendous traffic possibility the completed waterway will furnish, it may be pointed out that in its existing condition it furnishes traffic facilities capable of contributing to the profitable maintence of large industries, for which Peterborough can furnish abundant sites and power facilities. To show this it is only necessary to advert generally to the extent of navigation possible, and the general resources of the district tributary to the Trent Water system at the present moment.

As remarked above there are at present about 150 miles of the Trent Waterway accessable to steamers from Peterborough. This represents, counting tributary streams and lakes, almost a and having within eight or ten miles of its wharves an area of over six million acres, rich in forest and mineral products, the raw material of important industries.

The quantity of forest products available in this area is enormous. In addition to the pine timber, which has, in the past, given such an impetus to manufactures centered in Peterborough and constitutes practically the beginning of our industrial and commercial importance, there are abundant quantities of hardwood, representing possibilities of various industries of which furniture manufacturing may be regarded as a type. There are such hardwoods in great quantity and variety—ash, elm, birch, maple hemlock, etc. There is black birch, a wood much used in furniture manufacturing, elm also used in certain lines of furniture. Ash, another useful wood and in demand, is abundant. Ash and birch may be counted in quantity by the million feet board measure.

Besides, the territory to the north-east of this waterway and penetrated by the streams tributary to it,

POSSESSES MINERAL RESOURCES.

Of great extent and value only waiting favourable opportunities of enterprise and capital for extensive and profitable development.

Nor is the local traffic of this waterway as at present tributary to Peterborough as its centre, a hundredth part of the advantage in the way of traffic facilities its completion will represent. For many manufacturing industries the bulky nature of the materials used, demand, to secure the maximum of profit, the minimum of freight charge—which is represented by water carriage. A little comparison will illustrate this. Assuming that the freight values about to be quoted are similar to those of four or five years ago, the advantages of water freight become conspicuous. From Montreal to Peterborough, a distance of 330 miles, the rates per ton were as follows on these articles: Grain per ton at the rate of $2.60; sugar, by the carload, $2.00 per ton; pig iron by the carload, $2 per ton; bar steel, $2.60 to $3.35 per ton. This roughly estimated would be

PER RAIL CHARGE

(with two parallel and competing lines of railway) an average of $2.50 per ton, or about 5-6 of a cent per ton weight per mile of distance. By contrast; the highest rate charged on these or other articles for carriage a distance of 500 miles by the Erie canal was 70 cents per ton, Another instance: At the time in mind, four or five years ago, the freight charge on a ton of coal from Black Rock to Peterborough (by rail, of course) was $1.25 per ton, while by water from Black Rock to Belleville the charge was only 90 cents per ton or 35 cents more per ton by rail for a distance 20 miles less.

Thus the Trent waterway, opened and operated from end to end, would give this town and other towns on its route great advantages. And it must be completed, and will be completed before long, because it is a necessity in the interests of transportation and national development. All the existing and projected avenues of transportation in Canada will soon be inadequate to move the immense grain products of our great Northwest. Of these one of the most important will be the Trent waterway. When, as shown above, a reduction of a cent in the carrying price of wheat diverted 50 per cent of the grain traffic from New York via the Erie Canal to Montreal via Canadian canals, and created consternation among our neighbours the coup de grace will be given by the Trent waterway when completed and operated. This route is 250 miles shorter than the Welland route via Welland Canals, a saving of a day in time, a great item in this rushing age.

The canal, when completed, will give Peterborough traffic facilities unsurpassed by those of any town or minor city, or many of the larger cities and will supplement her facilities by rail which are unsurpassed by any place in this great country—facilities which have determined the establishment of many large industries here and which present similar advantages to other industries, in addition to the cheapest electrical power in the Dominion, abundance of excellent sites, and liberal treatment at the hands of the corporation and citizens.

ital might be advantagiously directed. Speaking generally, there is hardly any form of manufacturing for which Peterborough is not adapted. The widely varying nature of the many industrial establishments which are now operating successfully here is ample evidence of this fact. The largest, and most highly specialized plants of their kind in existence in Canada are located here, and in almost every instance have met with such signal success that enlargements of their plants are either at present under way, or are contemplated. This business activity is, of course, primarily due to the excellent trade conditions which are at present prevailing throughout Canada, but, it is also a fact that while industries located in less advantageously situated centres, are experiencing a satisfactory business, those in Peterborough, by reason of the economical operation of their plants, made possible by cheap power and the other advantages, are on the top wave of prosperity, because, they benefit not only by the generally prevalent prosperity, but by the additional, and more valuable benefit of a location particularly well adapted to the economical operation of industrial manufacturing establishments, which benefit would, doubtless be more fully appreciated should the period of "good times," which the country has experienced for some years, give place to one of business depression, when the operating expenses are always the first to receive consideration in the event of a retrenchment being necessary.

POWER BUT ONE OF THE ADVANTAGES.

The advantage of cheap power, which is dealt with in a special article, is but one of the numerous advantages which Peterborough offers, although it is one of the most important. If not altogether so. This invaluable benefit of being able to procure power, in almost any quantity required, and at a price which makes that charged in other cities where cheap power is claimed, look abnormally large, is one which is applicable to any branch of manufacturing, and constitutes the chief claim why certain "industries should find it to their advantage to locate here." There are other industries again to which the questions of power is not the all important one, because the quantities they might use would be comparatively small, and to these the transportation problem might be the one upon which their attention might be particularly directed. This question, too, is dealt with fully in a separate article.

ADMIRABLY ADAPTED FOR STEEL MANUFACTURE

As has been said, it is hard to conceive of any industry for which the conditions of Canada are adapted at all, and for the product of which there is a demand, choosing a location more advantageous than this town. There are some, however, to which special attention should be paid, because of the peculiar fitness of the town for them. The advantages that might be offered by the town to one of these was suggested by the announcement that a steel manufacturing concern from England was in search of a Canadian location, for a branch plant, which would give employment to 2,000 men. Upon an investigation into the conditions under which the establishment of such a plant might be successful, it was shown most conclusively that Peterborough might reasonably claim to be in a position to offer advantages unequalled in Canada. One of the important problems for such a concern to consider would be that of power, and, as is shown in a sub-joined article, Peterborough can offer power in almost unlimited quantities and at a price which is not equalled by any place in Canada where other conditions of an essential nature are available. By the expenditure of a very small amount of money, there will be ready for use here electric energy to the extent of 30,000 horse power, which would be at least double the quantity that would be required for a steel plant employing 2,000 hands.

IRON ORE EASILY PROCURABLE.

The shipping facilities would be another important consideration in deciding where such a plant would be located, and the availability of raw materials which enter into the manufacture of steel. With the completion of the Trent Valley Canal to Georgian Bay, which will doubtless soon be an accomplished fact, pig iron could be very cheaply shipped from the blast furnaces at Midland, where both Canadian and imported ores are converted into pig iron, or should the company decide to blast the ores here, the canal barges could be utilized to convey the ores to the blast furnaces. The discovery of iron ore in the County of Hastings, too gives Peterborough an additional advantage, because of its accessibility to the mines. Pig iron could also be procured from Deseronto, where blast furnaces are now producing iron. The shipment from there could be made by the Trent Valley Canal. The Snowdon Iron Mines in Haliburton County are now connected with the Victoria branch of the G. T. R., and are also within a short distance of a navigable point on the Burnt River, which is a part of the Trent Valley Canal System. The different railway lines running out of the town give facilities for shipping out the product of the mills. There are a number of sites where such a plant could be easily reached by railways, and would also be conveniently situated for water shipment.

UTILIZATION OF FOREST WEALTH.

Charcoal pig iron is recognized by all iron makers to be far superior to that made by the use of coke, and should the blast furnaces be located here, the great hardwood wealth of the northern country could be drawn upon for the supply of wood for the manufacture of charcoal, the bye-production of which would more than pay for its manufacture. The above are a few of the advantages which are especially adapted to this particular industry. The general advantages which are offered to every industry, of course, would be applicable to that of steel manufacture.

THE FURNITURE MANUFACTORY.

A branch of manufacturing peculiarly adapted to Canada is that of furniture making, and Canadian furniture is making a name for itself in the markets of the world. There is no place in Canada where the establishment of a furniture factory would be attended with more numerous circumstances tending towards its successful operation than in Peterborough, the peculiar advantage being that within the bordens of Peterborough County there is to be found a supply of hardwood, sufficently extensive to provide material for the operation of a large furniture manufacturing plant for many years. The adjoining counties are also well timbered, and power and sites are available. Being situated on the shortest and most direct line to Montreal, an exporting business could be conducted advantageously from here, and, as it is to the foreign trade that Canadian furniture makers must look for the increase in business, the fact that exporting from here will be inexpensive, and easily accomplished, should not be lost sight of by those who see in this branch of business a profitable field for investment.

GOOD CHANCE FOR WOODEN-WARE

Not only would a furniture factory be one to which the conditions here would be well adapted, but all forms of wooden-ware manufacture, such as tubs, pails, office fixtures, wagons, and, in fact, any and every commodity in the manufacture of which wood of any description enters into, can be made here at less cost than at any other point in Canada. The recent establishment of a large saw-mill, and the equipping now of a planing mill and sash and door factory are proof that there is a field for that class of manufacture, and that the industries could well be located here. For those enumerated above, and many other kindred industries Peterborough offers an opportunity seldom met with.

UTILIZATION OF FARMERS' PRODUCTS.

In a brief summary of the industries for which this town is adapted, the fact that it is the centre of one of the most prosperous farming communities in Canada, and the utilization of the products of the field might well engage the attention of capitalists, in addition to those of the products of the forest and mine.

One of the largest and most successful pork-packing establishments in Canada is at present located here, and, in view of the fact that there is in the United Kingdom, a steadily increasing demand for Canadian bacon, which demand is certain to be largely increased by the present agitation there in favour of the extension of preference to the Colonies, (which is in itself an education that will result in a greatly increased trade) the establishment of other plants for the preparation of the bacon for the English trade, should prove exceedingly profitable investments. The supply of hogs for such an establishment could be very easily grown within a radius of a few miles of the town, obviating the expense incidental to the shipping in of the animals. In the exporting, the product could be very easily transported to the sea-board by the most direct and shortest line.

Flour mills form another branch of manufacture, the location of which in Peterborough has apparently been attended with highly satisfactory results, and, as the product is practically all exported, the existing mills could be duplicated without the business of those now here being detrementally influenced to any appreciable extent. The most certain indication that the mills now here have been successful is the fact that enlargements are either being contemplated or executed.

In the scope of this necessarily brief article it is impossible to deal with all the various forms of manufacture that might be economically established and operated here, it is impossible to do more than suggest a few representative industries; the list might be extended almost indefinitely, and as many points advanced in favour of their location here, but it should be sufficient to say that any natural industry can be accommodated here, and the town is prepared to offer a greater number of bona fide advantages than any other town in Canada.

NINE PERSONS HURT BY GAS EXPLOSION.

Sunday School in Kipper Wrecked Last Night.

Several Children Among the Victims—Some Will Probably Die—Thirteen Miners Killed in an Explosion of Gas at Bonanza, Ark.—Marvellous Escape of 162 Others in the Mine—Other Accidents.

London, Nov. 25.—The Presbyterian Church at Kipper, a small village on the Buffalo and Goderich Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, about eleven miles from Clinton, was wrecked last night by an acetylene gas explosion.

A tea meeting and entertainment for the benefit of the children had been in progress in the Sabbath school for about an hour, when the gasometer burst.

Several hundred persons were present, and a scene of the wildest excitement prevailed.

After the removal of the wreckage, it was found that nine persons, mostly children, had received injuries, which, in several cases, are expected to prove fatal.

The clergyman in charge of the church, Rev. Mr. McLennan, was among the wounded. He is about 40 years of age, and has a wife and family of three small children, and is very well known and highly respected.

THIRTEEN MINERS KILLED.

Fatal Explosion in Mine No. 90 at Bonanza, Arkansas.

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 25.—Thirteen miners were killed and great damage was done by an accidental explosion of gas yesterday in coal mine No 20 at Bonanza, Ark., twelve miles from this city. At nightfall only six of the victims had been recovered. When the explosion occurred there were about 175 men in the various shafts. All escaped without injury, except the thirteen who were employed in entry "K," the scene of the explosion. The force of the explosion was terrific, and timbers were torn from the walls of the passages for several hundred yards at the mouth of entry "K." The passages were so completely obstructed that the work of rescuing the entombed men was tedious in the extreme, and several hours were consumed before the first body was found.

It is thought that the gas was accidentally ignited by a miner's lamp. The miners who escaped with the aid of others, summoned from nearby shafts, immediately set about clearing the passages in the vain hope that some of the entombed men might have survived the explosion.

Fell 1,000 Feet to Death.

Dubois, Penna., Nov. 25.—While three miners were in an elevator cage at Mine No. 2, of the Buffalo and Susquehanna Coal Co., about noon yesterday, control of the machinery was lost, and the cage and men were precipitated to the bottom, a distance of 1,000 feet. The men were killed almost instantly. They were married and leave families.

A SAILOR DROWNED.

Toronto Man Lost His Life in Gale in Lake St. Clair.

Chatham, Nov. 25.—When the steamer Lillie Smith reached here Monday night with a load of lumber she was minus one of her crew. The lost seaman was Ed. McVittie of Toronto, nephew of Capt. Williscroft and only son and sole support of a widowed mother. How he got overboard is not known to the crew, but any cry he might have made would have been drowned by the roar of the gale, on Lake St. Clair.

Gardener Burned to Death.

Brampton, Nov. 25.—On Saturday, John Burns, market gardener, had been to Streetsville with a load of produce and started to return to his home at Churchville. His rig arrived home all right, but his family were horrified to find that Burns was dead. His clothing had taken fire and he had received injuries to which he had succumbed. It is supposed that he had been smoking and put the pipe in his pocket and then fallen asleep.

SCALPED BY STRAW CUTTER.

Distressing Accident to a Little Girl Near Woodstock Monday.

Woodstock, Nov. 25.—A distressing accident occurred on the farm of Herman Thornton, one mile south of Folden's Corners, in West Oxford township, Monday afternoon, when Mr. Thornton's seven-year-old daughter got her hair caught in the revolving cogs of a straw cutter and had a portion of the scalp torn off. The injury is a serious one, yet the physician anticipates no serious results.

Flood Destroys Indian Town.

London, Nov. 25.—A telegram has been received at the Indian Office from the Viceroy of India, Lord Curzon, saying that, according to reports received at Madras, a recent flood in the Palar River destroyed half of the town of Vanizansbadi. Two hundred persons were drowned.

THE REBELS SUCCESSFUL.

City of San Domingo Bombarded By the Rebels.

San Domingo, Republic of San Domingo, Nov. 25.—The peace negotiations have been suspended, owing to the impossibility of an understanding between the Government officials and the leader of the rebellion. Firing on the city was resumed at 8 o'clock Monday night, resulting in further damage to houses here, and the bombardment was continued yesterday morning. The Government refuses to surrender the capital, and the situation is growing worse.

San Domingo Surrendered.

Cape Haytien, Nov. 25.—Despatches received here from Puerto Plata say that the City of San Domingo was surrendered to the revolutionists yesterday morning, and that President Wos y Gil and his Ministers took refuge on board a German warship. The despatches further say that great enthusiasm prevails throughout the country.

Desperate Fighting.

London, Nov. 25.—A despatch to a news agency reports desperate fighting at Warmbad, Great Manaqualand, German Southwestern Africa. The rebels captured the town, killing four Germans. Subsequently the German field force of 150 men succeeded, after a severe struggle, in expelling the rebels and re-occupying the town.

Chinese Ready For War.

London, Nov. 25.—Private advices from Pekin are to the effect that Gen. Yuan Shi Kai, Governor of Chi Lo Province, has informed the Emperor that he is prepared to declare war against the Russians in Manchuria. General Ma is said to be ready to march into Shan Hai Kwan at the head of 6,000 men.

SUGAR BEET GROWERS.

Convention of Growers and Others Interested in Waterloo's Capital.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Berlin is the Mecca of the sugar beet growers of Ontario, and their feet are turned thitherward. The Ontario Sugar Company has called a convention. The invitations were sent to the beet growers and grocers of Ontario to visit their sugar plant, and see pure granulated sugar manufactured from Canadian grown beets. The invitations have been heartily responded to, and the convention opened at 2 o'clock yesterday in the Berlin street railway's pavilion near the sugar factory, in Grand River Park. The beet sugar men were welcomed by Mayor Eden, and the afternoon taken up by the giving of addresses by C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; Dr. James Mills, Ontario College, Guelph; Prof. Harcourt, Guelph; George C. Creelman, Toronto, and others.

IP SULTAN PROVES OBDURATE.

Then Austria and Russia Will Proceed to Enforce Demands.

London, Nov. 25.—A despatch to The Central News from Vienna says it is authoritatively announced there that if Turkey does not accept forthwith the Austro-Russian demands the two powers will proceed with their own forces to establish order in Macedonia. All the signatory powers of the treaty of Berlin, it is added, will first be asked to co-operate.

Still Practising Barbarity.

London, Nov. 25.—The correspondent of The Times at Sofia reports that, while negotiations are dragging at Constantinople, there is no remission of the severities practiced upon the unfortunate population of Macedonia, under the guise of a search for arms, but it even worse than during the insurrection.

SHOT HER OWN SON.

Wife of Sergt.-Major Galloway Arrested on This Serious Charge.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Galloway, the wife of Sergeant-Major Galloway, of Stanley Barracks, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging her with shooting at her son, a boy of thirteen or fourteen years of age, with a revolver, with intent to do bodily harm. It is alleged that the offence occurred when Mrs. Galloway was in a condition which rendered her not responsible for her actions, and that the proceedings have been taken as a precautionary measure. The bullet from the revolver went through the boy's cheek.

WITH THE FRUIT GROWERS.

Many Experts Assemble For Discussion at Leamington.

Leamington, Nov. 25.—The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association's annual meeting opened here yesterday morning, and already representatives of this important industry from all parts of the Province, as well as experts from Ontario and the adjoining States, are arriving to take part. In the afternoon the directors held a meeting, at which each presented a report on the work done in his district during the year, and the Secretary, George C. Creelman, presented his report on the general work of the Association.

Italian Royalty at Home.

Pisa, Italy, Nov. 24.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena arrived here early yesterday, and proceeded to the royal residence at Rossore.

Kaiser Orders Recognition.

Berlin, Nov. 24.—Emperor William has directed the German authorities to officially recognize the Republic of Panama.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did." —Miss GUILA GANNON, 350 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all.

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF THE HABITANT.

Eloquent Lecture on the French Canadian Farmer

By Father O'Sullivan in the T. A. S. Lecture Hall—Dr. Drummond's Simple yet Interesting Subject.

Owing to the fact that a special article in yesterday's Examiner covered two pages, considerable matter was left over until to-day, it being impossible to cope with everything, among the latter being a lengthy report of a lecture on "The Habitant" delivered by Rev. Father O'Sullivan, of Lindsay, in the T.A.S. lecture room, which was crowded to the doors. The speaker began by stating that he had been requested by a school girl a few days ago to purchase a ticket for the course of lectures to be given at the Lindsay Collegiate institute this winter. The speaker said to her, "Will there be anything of special interest?" "Oh yes," she replied. "Dr. Drummond is going to speak." When we consider, continued Father O'Sullivan, the fact that the other contributors to the programme enjoy more than provincial reputation, this was a very nice compliment to Dr. Drummond. However, I have not decided in my own mind yet, for it is very hard to read the mind of a woman, or of a girl for that matter, whether this particular young lady was voicing her own personal appreciation of Dr. Drummond or merely playing on my sympathy. Certainly there is very much about Dr. Drummond, personally, and about his poetry that appeals to us. Our conception of a poet is perhaps that of a man living at some time in the past, separate from his fellowmen, living a life of a recluse and not much in sympathy with the material world about him. And we generally picture him to our mind, with his hair falling down over his shoulders, his head resting on one hand and a dreamy upward look in his eyes. But Dr. Drummond is quite the antithesis of this. He is a man living in our time and in our own country, a man whom some of you perhaps have had the opportunity of meeting. I had that pleasure last winter, and I can assure you that his hair is cut in the approved fashion, that he is quite fond of society, and, what is very rare in a poet, quite as entertaining and interesting a conversationalist as he is a writer. Again Dr. Drummond is thoroughly Canadian in his sympathy and sentiments. The spirit of freshness and of freedom that pervades our Canadian lakes and rivers, the very odour of our pine and hemlock forests and of our autumn woods, breezes through his poetry and proclaims better than any avowal of his, how much he loves the land of his adoption. Another thing about Dr. Drummond that would make him very popular with this audience is the fact that he is an Irishman, born in the County Leitrim not far from the Bay of Donegal. There is no doubt that much of the humour and pathos, love for nature and sympathy for everything human may be traced to his Irish parentage and to the impressions made upon him when as a boy he wandered over the heather-clad hills of his native country, and mingled with the simple fisher-folk of Donegal. How much he loves the land of his birth, we may gather from a little poem, entitled "Child Thoughts," which the speaker read aloud.

So much for the man — now for his poetry.

The first thing that strikes you is the simplicity and naivete of his style. There is nothing very sublime in his poetry—no grand flights of fancy, no brilliant metaphors, but, on the other hand there is no straining after effects, no far-fetched sentiment, no laboured expressions, no vague romances of thought that perplex the reader. Everything is clear and luminous, and if you read a line twice it is not to understand its meaning, but to more fully enjoy the beauty of its poetic thought. Then his subjects are in keeping with his style. He writes not of kings and of princes but of the simple country folk, and this fact will gain for him the sympathy of all who feel with the poet Grey—

"Let not ambition wreck their useful toil,
Their homely joys, their destiny obscure;
Nor grant we hear, with a disdainful smile,
The short and simple annals of the poor."

After all the peasantry are the nearest to nature's heart, and are the best exponents of the nation's traditions. But if I were asked to account for the wonderful popularity of Dr. Drummond's poetry, I would say that it is due, first, to his choice of subjects, and, secondly, to his manner of treating it. He has written of the Habitant, the French-Canadian farmer, and as a thorough master of his subject. He knows his history, national traditions, the popular legends, his very nature, and he has painted him with a sympathetic hand. He has made him speak, not in his own language, but as he would express his thoughts to an English speaking person, not understanding the French tongue. How well he has succeeded we may conclude by the compliment paid him by the Poet Laureate of Quebec, who terms him "a pathfinder in a new land of song."

"The Habitant" is for us a very interesting character. We may know well enough the French people of the towns and cities, but the majority of us know little or nothing of the Habitant. Never since the days of Confederation was the French Canadian brought more before our notice. This is due partly to the fact that many of the cleverest speakers of the Federal Parliament are French Canadians. One of their number is premier of this Dominion. They are a power to be reckoned with, not only in Quebec, but also throughout the newly settled districts of Ontario. General Murray, speaking of this people in 1776, said that if they should ever emigrate it would be an irreparable loss to the Empire. Lord Elgin, speaking of the French Regime, calls it the heroic days of Canadian history. Truly the history of no country presents a period so full of romance and chivalry, redounding more to the glory of our faith than the early days of Canada. Here we find side by side with the uncouth manners and pagan savagery of the Indian tribes, all the valour and chivalry, culture and piety of old France. Christian soldiers, like Champlain, forming a body guard for the Franciscan and Jesuit missionaries, and esteeming more the salvation of a soul than the conquest of an empire; daring adventurers like Cartier; Christian statesmen, like Maisonneuve, the founder of Montreal; kingly Governors, like Frontenac, the man of iron will, bearing himself in his rude council chamber at Quebec, with all the grace and dignity that made him an ornament to the most splendid court in Europe; noble ladies, like Madame Bourgeois, Madame D'Youville, Madelaine Vercheres, who with her little garrison protected her home against the Iroquois, till relieved by the sound of Carignon. These ladies and gentlemen are some of the characters that have cast a halo over the early days of our country's history. It is of the descendants of this noble race in whose veins still courses the conquering blood of Normandy and Brittany that Dr. Drummond writes. This is certainly an interesting subject for us. We must not forget that we owe at least indirectly, much of the liberty we enjoy to the French Canadians of Quebec. They deserve much credit for having preserved their faith and their language. Some wrongly imagine that the use of the French language as the language of Parliament was guaranteed by the Treaty of Paris, after the capitulation of Quebec. Such is not the case. That the French tongue is today spoken in the Provincial and Federal Parliaments, is due to the zeal of the French Canadian clergy and people. At the time of the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1840 the use of the French language as an official one was vetoed by an Act of the Imperial Parliament, but during the first session, a French member, Lafontaine, had the courage to deliver his first address in his native tongue, and that act was afterwards repealed, and ever since the French tongue has been the official language of the Provincial Parliament and has an equal standing with English at Ottawa. Tardivel, the editor of "La Verite" of Quebec, proved beyond peradventure in an essay read before the Catholic Union at Montreal, that the language spoken by the people of Quebec is not a patois, but the original French spoken at the time of Louis XIV. The majority of French Canadian mothers were educated by the Ursulines and Congregation sisters who had been brought with them from old France. This accounts for the language having been preserved so well by the French Canadian people. There is no doubt that the language of Champlain, of Brebeuve and Bourgette will ever remain the official tongue at least in the Provincial Legislature.

This is the people that Dr. Drummond has described to us and he has painted them as they are—simple, yet intelligent, religious and patriotic, fond of their homes and families with a heart full of native poetry, lovers of the old time and long ago. He has described them to us in every phase of their life. The little batisse with the "double joint in his body;" the daring lumberman with the ceinture flechi and bottes sauvages. The Canadianerant imagines he hears far from his home the bell of the village church. The adventurers of the north country, the well to do farmer, proud of his lands, and his marriageable daughters, and last of all the old Habitant, sitting in the chimney corner, dreaming of the scenes of his youthful manhood; and now well he has done it let his poems tell.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food taken into the stomach which from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry out his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

IMMENSE RESOURCES OF OUR COUNTRY.

They Should Make a Conspicuous Exhibit at the World's Fair.

It is now conceded that the part Canada intends to take at the St. Louis World's Fair of 1904 will surpass anything which has been undertaken hitherto by the Dominion. There is not the slightest doubt that our country will be to the front in the matter of natural resources, forestry, fisheries and pulp industries, when the matter of awards and prizes is discussed by the jury of awards.

Canada for years has been plodding along quietly developing its strength, and seemed rather small in the eyes of her neighbours to the south. Within the past two or three years, however, there is a change of aspect in the eyes of the public men and a change of tone in the American press. Our resources and possibilities are now being realized even to the extent of their being a factor in competition with those of the United States. For years the United States have prided themselves on their great resources of wheat and meat supplies, and of the advantages of their settlers' lands. The growth of Manitoba and the immense wheat fields of that province in the last five or six years, with the millions of acres carrying rich and fertile soil, still unbroken, have shown the possibility of a grain producing country that would soon outrival and leave in the rear the great grain-producing area of the United States.

And while our neighbours have been almost dazed at this development in Manitoba, the great wheat fields of millions and millions of acres in the Northwest Territories have been opened, and the influx of settlers, not only from the United States, but also from Great Britain, and the continent, has come in earnestly only to raise to a greater estimation our resources and possibilities.

The great advantages of cattle raising in the western part of the Territories has led a great number of Americans to cast their lot and future welfare in these parts for the purpose of, producing meat, which it is now admitted can be done is well in their own country, if not more cheaply.

Mr. Hutchinson, Exposition Commissioner at Ottawa, has requested all Canadian exhibitors to file their applications for space at Ottawa before December 1st. It is to be hoped that this will be strictly adhered to and that next year's display shall not be surpassed. Let us show the universe that our country has achieved a position and status of which every Canadian has a good right to be proud.

ST. CATHARINES WELL.

In St. Catharines, the Garden City of Canada, eleven miles from Niagara Falls, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, is situated the historic "St. Catharines' well," about which is woven many a romantic Indian legend, and whose curative properties are known far and wide throughout North America. The water of this famous saline well is considerably denser than sea water, but clear, sparkling and odourless, and is remarkable for its penetrative qualities.

These waters are a great specific for such diseases as rheumatism, gout, scrofula, neuralgen, liver troubles, skin diseases and cases of nervous prostration, or as a tonic pure and simple. The treatment is conducted on the broadest possible lines, the idea being to assist nature as much as possible. The use of the water is the chief medicinal agent, accompanied by static electricity, massage, exercise and rest. Treatment is in charge of the House Physician. The baths are in a separate building, connected with the main building by a glass covered corridor.

Full information, descriptive matter, and all particulars may be had on application to G T. Bell, G. P. & T. A., Grand Trunk Railway System, Montreal, Canada.

DWYRE'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Messrs. Neil Quinlan and William Dalton were in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. Percy Dalton was the guest of Miss Kitty Allen on Sunday.

Mrs. William Quinlan has returned home from Indian River, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. John O'Leary.

We are pleased to see all our local sportsmen back safe again after their two weeks hunting at Gull lake.

Mr. Thos. Dalton is trying to purchase the Dalton farm; if he does he will have quite a large run for his stock.

Mr. Louis Ross has recently returned home from Bracebridge, where he has been visiting his two sisters.

Some of the farmers are now busy cutting their winter's supply of wood before the deep snow comes.

We understand that quite a number of our young men left here last week for the shanties. We wish them every success.

A FREE FOOD RALLY

Fighting Speech by the Duke of Devonshire.

ABOUT RETALIATION PLAN.

Favored in Special Cases and Under Safeguards—It is Declared That Mr. Chamberlain's Scheme Would Entail Enormous Loss to the Consumer—No Taxation of Food—Voice of the Meeting.

London, Nov. 25.—The Duke of Devonshire presided and was the principal speaker at a great demonstration in Queen's Hall here last night, under the auspices of the Free Food League. It was the Duke's first public speech since his resignation as Lord President of the Council, and the first really important meeting of the Free Fooders as an offset to the active propaganda of the Tariff Reform League. The hall was packed and the prominent personages were given a tremendous reception The Duke of Devonshire was given a great welcome.

He said: "There might be difference of opinion concerning the extent to which retaliation might legitimately go. Some members of the League were not altogether opposed to some form of protection, but they were all united and prepared to resist to the utmost the imposition of any protective taxation on food, or protective duties generally. He, himself, claimed the right to oppose anything in the nature of a return to protection."

Prolonged cheering followed this statement of the Duke.

At Become a Party Question.

Continuing, the speaker said that while the fiscal policy was not yet a party question there was nothing which the advocates of the scheme, which emanated from the brain of a single eminent statesman, would like better than a general election which would turn on this question alone. The Duke said the meeting was one of Unionists desiring to urge on the Government the danger of taking a certain course and the expediency of resisting a certain course. It was not the policy of the Unionist Government which was before the country. The public liked a clear issue, and such an issue had been placed before them by Mr. Chamberlain who left the Government in order that he might be free.

Cheers and hisses followed this mention of Mr. Chamberlain.

Proposed Retaliatory Powers.

The Duke urged that the policy of the Government must be more clearly defined. At present it was indefinite. He had tendered his resignation because he could not as the representative of the Government in the House of Lords express unqualified confidence in the policy of the Cabinet concerning which he had grave misgivings, and insufficient knowledge. Had he been assured that a moderate use of the proposed power of retaliation would be made by the Premier he might still be a member of the Government. With certain limitations much might be said of the policy of retaliation, but it would only make matters worse. In addition to the existing hostile tariffs against themselves they built up walls which would prohibit and restrict the importation of goods which, for their own advantage, they took from other nations.

Opposes Food Taxes.

The Duke said he was opposed to the taxation of food because he thought that such taxation was the keynote of the entire policy to which he took exception. Should the price of food be raised some compensation must be given to the workingmen. He recognized the great services of Joseph Chamberlain. He was prepared to prove that Mr. Chamberlain's Glasgow budget would entail a tremendous loss to the consumer, while the workingman's expenses would be increased 10 per cent. He believed that no greater fallacy has ever been produced than that the prohibition or restriction of imports from abroad would increase the profitable employment of capital and labor at home. The country was prospering everywhere, yet Mr. Chamberlain asserted that only stagnation existed.

Alluding to Mr. Chamberlain's charge, that he (the Duke of Devonshire) was "a drag on the wheels of progress," the speaker said he was content to act as a drag on the engine which was running down grade against all signals.

Lord Goschen moved, and Lord George Hamilton seconded, the following resolution, which was passed by an overwhelming vote:

"This meeting, while prepared to consider in a friendly spirit any measures the Government may submit to Parliament in special cases for mitigating the effects of hostile tariffs, is of the opinion that strenuous opposition should be offered to any fiscal policy involving the protective taxation of food and the establishment of a general preferential or protective system."

What Canada Will Get.

London, Nov. 25.—(C.A.P.)—The Duke of Devonshire, supported by six peers and thirty members of Parliament, declared last night in Queen's Hall against any semblance of protection. Moderate retaliation, he could see, should sometimes be exercised. Food taxation was the keystone of the whole policy. He objected to any preference in any shape or form. The revenue might gain eight millions a year by the Glasgow budget and provide a subsidy of two and a half millions for the colonies.

Canada would get 3 shillings 2 pence per head, Australia one shilling 11 pence, New Zealand 6 shillings, 8 half-penny, South Afrita the magnificent sum of 3 pence per head of the white population.

He could find no trace of any definite offer on the part of the colonies. He was content to go down to posterity as the brake motor.

His speech was repeatedly interrupted by Chamberlainites.

Lord Goschen wanted strenuous opposition offered to the taxation of food and general preferential tariff. While England was considering protection the United States was favoring a lower tariff.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach did not speak.

As a Bone Developer

The period during which the bones of a human being grow, develop and harden, is a most critical one. If the nourishment taken by a child does not contain the proper constituents for bone development, the natural result is loose joints, bow-legs, hip disease or rickets.

Ferrol, being a perfect Emulsion of Iron, Phosphorus and Cod Liver Oil, furnishes in convenient and palatable form the exact elements required for the proper development of the bone.

The Iron and Phosphorus amalgamated with the Oil makes an ideal combination, not only for the development of the bones, but for the nourishment and building up of the whole system.

There is nothing like Ferrol for babies and growing children, and they like it.

CONGRESSMAN LIVINGSTON

Says Pe-ru-na is a Splendid Catarrhal Tonic.

COLONEL L. I. LIVINGSTON.

Colonel L. I. Livingston, Member of the Industrial Commission and the leading Democratic member of the Committee on Appropriations in the House of Representatives, whose home is at Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I take pleasure in joining with General Wheeler, Congressman Brewer and others in recommending Peruna as an excellent tonic and a catarrh cure."—Col. L. I. Livingston.

Catarrh Cured.

All phases of catarrh, acute or chronic, are promptly and permanently cured It is through its operation upon the nervous system that Peruna has attained such a world-wide reputation as a sure and reliable remedy for all phases of catarrh wherever located.

Mr. Jas. O. Morin, 1179 Ontario street Montreal, Canada, writes:

"Peruna is certainly a great catarrh remedy. It cured me of catarrh of the head and I gladly indorse it. Canadians are peculiarly afflicted with this disease and for years the doctors have tried to overcome it with elixirs, powders and pills, but Peruna has solved the question and since the medicine has been established here hundreds of people have been cured of catarrh."—Jas. O. Morin.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice free.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

First Edition of 20,000 Copies of His Pamphlet on the Market.

London, Nov. 25.—(C. A. P.)—The circular annulling arrangements for traffic of the Canadian Northern and Great Northern and North Pacific Railways for through business from Manitoba points was received in London yesterday. Shippers who were interviewed claim that it is altogether a matter for Winnipeg merchants whether they will have competition or not.

The Liverpool Daily Post asks: Are Chamberlain and Balfour in favor of retaliation against the dumping of Canadian [illegible] and iron and steel?

The first edition of 20,000 copies of the onslaught of John Burns, M. P., on Mr. Chamberlain's policy was sold out two days ago. The pamphlet cost a penny.

OBJECT TO THE BILL

Municipalities Against the Assessment Changes.

WANT WITHDRAWAL OF BILL

Result of Three Hours' Discussion in the Executive Committee of the Ontario Municipal Association—Some Very Strong Language Used in Describing the Bill by Its Opponents—To Interview Cabinet.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—"That this executive, having further considered the proposed assessment bill, find no reason to vary the conclusion arrived at, at the annual meeting of the association in Guelph, and that we urge the Government to withdraw the bill."

After three hours' discussion, in which terms stronger than the foregoing resolution, proposed by Mayor Slater of Niagara Falls, and Ald. Leitch of Brantford, were used by several members, the executive of the Ontario Municipal Association placed on record its strong disapproval of the assessment bill, introduced at the last session of the Legislature, and laid over till next session.

The bill was variously described as a conglomeration of absurdities, a monstrous and cumbrous affair, which no one could understand, a joke and a libel on the intelligence of the people.

The executive met at the Queen's Hotel, to decide on what action should be taken, in view of the meeting of the Assessment Commission to-day. Not one voice was raised in opposition to the resolution, the only division of opinion being in the choice of terms necessary to describe the hostility of the municipalities to the measure.

The executive will go in a body to the Parliament Buildings this morning, and demand the withdrawal of the bill. It was arranged that all should have a say, in order that it might not be held that the opposition came from Toronto, Hamilton, and a few other places.

THIS WOMAN STOLE HORSES.

Brandy Trick Played Once Too Often Tricked Her.

Bowmanville, Nov. 25.—Chief Jarvis arrested a woman horse thief here last evening, who gave her name as Mrs. Ryan, alias Mrs. Jones of Prescott, who is about 45 years of age.

She stole a horse at Napanee, drove to Colborne and then back to Belleville and disposed of it. She got another horse at Belleville and drove to Cobourg and sold it there. Then she took the train to Port Hope, where she was put off.

She walked to Bowmanville and went to the Balmoral Hall, where Chief Jarvis discovered her about half an hour after he got the message to look out for such a person.

It has been her habit to put up at the best hotels and to suddenly take sick and require brandy, saying her husband would settle in the morning for the 10c. drink.

She did the same thing here last night, which enabled Chief Jarvis to detect her. He telephoned to Napanee at once and received word that the police would be here for her in the morning.

SYDNEY, C. B., HEARS BORDEN.

Addresses a Large Gathering on Current Political Topics.

Sydney, C.B., Nov. 25.—R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, addressed 1,200 persons in the Rosslin rink last night. Mr. Borden dealt principally with the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme and the fiscal policy of the Conservative party. He advocated the extension of the Intercolonial Railway to Georgian Bay, claiming the Grand Trunk Pacific line would not benefit the Maritime Provinces. The Conservatives were in favor of high tariff and protection to Canadian industries. He blamed the Liberals for allowing the steel industry in Canada to go down. Addresses were also made by C. E. Tanner, M.P.P., A. C. Bell, M.P., and Dr. McKay, the Conservative candidate for Cape Breton.

ONTARIO TIMBER LIMITS SOLD.

Michigan Lumber Company Purchases 200,000,000 Feet of Timber.

Menominee, Mich., Nov. 25.—Fred and Frank Carney, heavy stock holders in the Witbeck Lumber Company, have closed a deal for the purchase of two hundred million feet of pine timber on Spanish River, Ontario, from Ferguson Bros. & McFadden. The consideration is a half-million dollars.

The sawmill of the Witbeck Company, which is one of the oldest on Menominee River, will be moved next fall to Massey, Ont., where it will cut this timber. The purchase will keep the mill going for nearly twenty years.

Nine Policemen Fired.

Winnipeg, Nov. 25.—A special meeting of the police commissioners was held Monday night to consider the resignations of the nine policemen, and it was decided to dismiss them immediately. When they came in from their beats they were asked to hand in their uniforms, and were told that their services were no longer required on the force.

A Serious Charge.

Windsor, Nov. 25.—George Langlois, hostler at the Essex House, was arrested in Detroit Monday charged by J. Baxter, of this city, with having attempted criminally to assault the latter's five-year-old daughter, Ella. Langlois returned to Windsor without extradition

Chicago Strike Over.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The Chicago street car strike is settled.

Not Afraid to Endorse It.

People have learned to have such confidence in Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for every form of piles that they do not hesitate to endorse it at every opportunity. As a result Dr. Chase's Ointment is probably recommended by more persons than any preparation on the market today. There is no guesswork about its effects—relief is prompt and cure certain.

The Glow of Health.

When the blood is rich and pure there is a healthful glow to the complexion which speaks of the vigor and vitality of the system. There is no more certain way for pale, weak people to attain the glow of health than by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure which forms new, rich red blood and creates new nerve force.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

THOSE WHO MAY VOTE TO-MORROW.

In Peterborough all Electors who Vote in Municipal Elections are Entitled to a Vote.

As there appears to be some doubt in the minds of a great many as to who may vote on the question of the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham to-morrow, it should be made plain that in Peterborough all who are eligible to vote at municipal elections may vote on the question of union, while in Ashburnham only freeholders are entitled to a vote. It is highly desirable that a full vote shall be given, and all electors are urged to register their opinions on the question, whether for or against it. The vote to-morrow, should it be one adverse to union, will settle the matter for a good many years to come, and electors should recognise their responsibility and register their vote.

The following are the different polling booths and the Returning Officers:—

Ward No. One.

Polling Sub-division No. 1—At M. H. Halpin's store, corner Perry and George streets; Angus Williams, to be deputy returning officer.

Polling Sub-division No. 2.—At Lewis Spry's shop; Stewart street; Joseph Lundy to be deputy returning officer.

A BAGGAGE MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Mr. Wm. Bradley, of the G. T. R. Dies Very Suddenly.

Shocking Affair at Port Hope—Was a Married Man and Leaves a Family.

Mr. Wm. Bradley, a baggageman in the employ of the G.T.R., was found dead in his bed at the Queen's Hotel, Port Hope, this morning. His home is in Toronto and he has been working between that city and Port Hope. He was only recently transferred to that line, being formerly on the Belleville run. The facts of the case are yet practically unknown, but it is said that he is a married man and leaves a family. He was aged about 60 years and had been in the employ of the G.T.R. for a number of years. His death was probably due to heart failure. It is reported that when he retired for the night he was apparently in the best of health, which makes the case all the more shocking. The deceased, who was well known along the G.T.R. line, will probably be buried in Toronto.

A VERY PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Mary Akey Married this Afternoon to Mr Charles Hopkins.

An exceedingly pretty wedding took place this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Henry Akey, 471 Sherbrooke street, when his daughter, Mary, was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. Hopkins, of North Monaghan, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. L. Armitage, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr Joseph Akey, in the absence from town of her father, looked charming in a gown of navy blue ladies' cloth, trimmed with white satin, and a white silk waist. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Jennie Hopkins, sister of the groom, was attired similarly to the bride, and carried pink carnations. Mr. Chas. Akey, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

After the ceremony the party sat down to a delightful wedding dejeuner, after which the happy couple left on the 5.10 C.P.R train for a tour of Toronto and other western cities. On their return they will reside for the winter at 471 Sherbrooke street.

The bride, who is a member of All Saints church, is a very popular young lady, the proof of which was the very handsome array of beautiful presents, of which she was made the recipient.

MARRIED YESTERDAY.

Wedding of Mr. Francis Fitzgerald and Miss Elizabeth Powers at Otonabee.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Powers of Otonabee, to Mr. Francis Fitzgerald, son of Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald of the same township, was celebrated at St. Peter's cathedral, at eight o'clock yesterday morning. Miss Loretto Powers, sister of the bride, fulfilled the duties of bridesmaid, and Mr. Thos. Fitzgerald, a brother of the groom, those of best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will reside in Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. Michael Clancy and Miss Charlotte Watson of Town.

At six o'clock yesterday morning at St. Peter's cathedral, the wedding was celebrated of Miss Charlotte Watson, daughter of the late Wm. Watson, and Mr. Michael Joseph Clancy, son of Mr. William Clancy, both of Peterborough.

Miss Annie Watson acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. T. J. Perdue assisted the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Clancy left for Toronto for their honeymoon, but will reside in town.

THE SOCIAL WORLD.

Interesting Personal Items Gathered by Reporters.

The Canadian Statesmen says referring to the Sunday evening service in the Methodist church, Bowmanville, last Sunday, "Mr Reg. Norman Jolliffe, Peterborough, a former member of the choir, rendered with good effect the solo, "Angel Hands," which delighted all."

Miss H. C. Wright, graduate of Scio College, and formerly physical director, in the Walker School, Buffalo, N.Y., will be at the Oriental parlours on Tuesday evening, to meet those interested in physical development. Miss Wright will organize a class in physical culture for young ladies and children. 5d122

WHITE STAR BOAT IS REPORTED LOST.

Steamer "Cedric" Said to Have Sank in Mid-Atlantic.

Collided With Lambert and Holt Liner All Hands Said to be Lost.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Liverpool, Nov. 25.—A rumour the source of which cannot be traced is current to-day, that the White Star Liner "Cedric" has been in collision with a Lampert & Holt liner in mid-Atlantic, and that the Cedric sank with all hands on board. The rumour is nowhere credited, but friends of those aboard the Cedric are anxiously awaiting news of her arrival in New York. The Cedric is due in New York to-morrow.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE JOHN FANNING

Took Place Yesterday Afternoon and was Largely Attended.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late John Fanning took place from the family residence, Hunter street, to Little Lake cemetery. It was very largely attended, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. L. Armitage who paid a high tribute to the sterling worth of the late Mr. Fanning. The two lodges of I.O.O.F., Peterborough and Otonabee, of which Order deceased was a member, attended the funeral in a body, the bearers being Messrs. L. Wallis, W. Gibbs, R. F. Morrow, F. Raines, J. Brownlee, and J. Kidd. The casket was covered with beautiful floral offerings, a tribute to the memory of the deceased.

The store of Robert Fair & Co., in which Mr. Fanning was employed for nearly eight years, was closed during the afternoon, the large staff of employees attending the funeral.

IN FAVOUR OF THE UNION.

"Ashburnham" Gives Reasons why a Union Should be Effected.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear sir,—I write to say that I am much in favour of annexation with Peterborough, as I see much required to bring our village up to what it ought to be:

1. Sewerage.
2. Better roads.
3. Electric railway.
4. Electric fire alarm.
5. Course of creek changed.
6. Extended water and light.
7. Better police service, etc.

These are things we can get by uniting, at a smaller cost than by remaining as we are.

Yours truly,
ASHBURNHAM.

ALL HOTEL BARS MUST BE CLOSED

All Day To-morrow Police Court Action if not Shut.

Chief Rossel said this morning that, as the vote regarding the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham was to be cast to-morrow, after closing to-night all hotel bars were to remain closed until Friday morning. It is a matter of great importance and the police will adhere to the very letter of the law.

LONDON MAN ARRESTED IN TOWN YESTERDAY.

Malc McDearmaid Falls Into the Clutches of the Police for Theft.

The local police have arrested Malcolm McDearmaid, who is wanted in London, Ont., for theft. The arrest was effected yesterday afternoon at Mount St. Joseph, where the prisoner was engaged in doing some plumbing. It appears that McDearmaid stole a watch and chain, which he afterwards disposed of, from one of the lodgers in a boarding house kept by a certain Mrs. Currel. This was in September. After the theft the accused disappeared, but was finally traced to Peterborough, where he was arrested on instructions from the London police.

Detective Nickel arrived in town this morning and will take the prisoner back to London on the 5.10 C.P.R. train.

Next Monday night, in George St. Church, hear Dr. Drummond, author of the charming stories of the "Habitant." The treat of this season for 25c.

ENTERPRISE OF TOWN LIVERYMAN.

Mr. R. H. Leary has Purchased two Beautiful Double Spring Sleighs

Mr. R. H. Leary with his characteristic enterprise, has purchased, and added to his already splendid livery equipment, two handsome double livery sleighs, which have just been received from Montreal. The sleighs are among the finest ever seen in this town, and are fitted up with springs which ensure additional comfort, and are a novelty only incorporated in the most expensive sleighs. They are upholstered in red plush, and finished in carmine and green, making a very beautiful effect. In stormy weather the tops can be put on, but they may be removed when desired. Mr. Leary naturally feels rather proud of this beautiful addition to his equipment, which it is safe to say will give an added pleasure to many a party this winter.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the City League Executive will be held to-night in the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to be present.

HOCKEY.

At a meeting of the Peterborough Hockey and Skating Rink Co.'s Directors held last night Mr. W. White was appointed caretaker of the rink for the coming season.

* * * *

They must have a regular old eye-opener of a rink in Brockville, according to accounts. It was built by the senior member of the firm of Cossitt Bros., a man nearly eighty years of age, at a cost of $16,000. In size it is next to the arena in Montreal, being 94x200 feet, and more magnificent in its fittings. There are galleries and dressing rooms and a splendid system of ventilation and freezing, having two rows of windows above. In summer it can be used for band concerts and large public gatherings.—Belleville Intelligencer.

CURLING.

At the curling meeting held in the rink last night there were present: Mr. R. Neill, President, in the chair, and Messrs. G. S. Matthews, Ferguson, Brightman, Blade, Tooley, Frost, Winch, Giroux, Cox, Dixon, Jeffries, H. LeBrun, W. J. Thompson, S. Ray, D. Cameron, R. M. Waddell, E. B. Edwards, R. Kerr, G. L. Hay.

Mr. G. S. Matthews reported that the clubs in this district had been written to in reference to home and home games.

Messrs. R. Kerr, G. H. Giroux, E. B. Edwards, Ferguson and Winch were nominated as a committee to look after new members.

The following skips were elected: C. M. Brown, J. Jeffries, W. G. Morrow, Jno. Crane, J. H. Connal, G. H. Giroux, E. B. Edwards, G. E. Whiten, G. L. Hay, R. Kerr, W. G. Ferguson, D. Davidson, R. Neill, R.J. Frost, J. S. Knapman, T. Rutherford, A. Blade, C. Rutherford, S. Ray, Dr. Greer, S. Clegg, R. M. Waddell, D. Cameron, T. Brightman, J. A. Cameron, W. J. Thompson, T. F. Matthews.

It was moved and seconded that each get a new member and that this new member be allowed to play in the skip's rink if so desired.

The meeting adjourned for one week.

HUNTERS' LICENSES.

Number Issued This Year in Excess of Those of Last Year.

The number of hunters' licenses issued this year by Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Deputy Game Warden, exceed those of last year by 16. The number this year was 131, as compared with 115 in 1902. This year 8 American licenses were given, and 2 in 1902. In settlers' permits, however, the record for last year surpasses that of 1903, the number issued this year being 69, while in 1902 84 were given.

OBITUARY.

Mrs Dr S. P. Ford Died in Norwood on Tuesday.

The many friends of Dr. S. P. Ford, of Norwood, formerly of Peterborough, will learn with sincere regret of the death yesterday of Mrs Ford.

The deceased lady was prominent in all church work and her death will be a severe loss to the community. She was 62 years of age, and leaves her husband and one son to mourn her loss. One married daughter died a few years ago.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, Ridge street, Norwood on Friday, Nov. 27th at 1.30 o'clock, to the Methodist church, where the service will be held.

COUNTY COUNCIL IN NOVEMBER SESSION.

County Legislators Met to Close up Business for the Year.

The special November session of the County Council was commenced on Tuesday afternoon, November 24th instant, at 2.45 o'clock, for the purpose of winding up the unsettled business of the year. Present, The Warden, Richard Crowe, Esq., and Commissioners W. T. Curtis, W. T. Buck, E. A. Peck, T. Johnston, Robt. Shaw, John Monogue, G. W. Fitzgerald, T. M. Hunter and D. Moloney.

The Warden congratulated the members on their prompt attendance and expressed himself as pleased at meeting them again. He had summoned them to this session for the purpose of completing the unfinished business of the year.

The clerk read the minutes of the last meeting of the previous session.

On motion of Coun. Hunter, seconded by Coun. Fitzgerald, the minutes were confirmed.

Coun. Fitzgerald took occasion to remark informally on the large number of names of persons who appeared in the Auditors' Report as having been paid the sum of $25 granted to the South African volunteers from this county. He had no idea the number was so large.

The resolution of the council authorising the grant, was read by the clerk, and the circumstances explained.

There being no other business ready to bring before the council, on motion of Messrs. Hunter and Fitzgerald, the meeting adjourned until ten o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Read what is said of the talent for St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild concert:

St Catharines Journal. — The hall was crowded to the doors last night with a large and cultured audience attracted by the appearance of Donald C. MacGregor, baritone. He has a pure baritone voice, strong and velvety in every note, and it is little wonder that he has established for himself the enviable reputation of being Canada's greatest baritone. The enthusiastic and persistent encores which greeted all his work shows how well his really excellent voice was appreciated.

The Govan Press says: — Miss Crawford highly delighted her audience last night with her singing of Scottish ballads. Never have we heard a more brilliant contralto on the concert platform. Miss Crawford responded to many encores.

Glasgow Daily Mail. — An exceptionally melodious voice heard to great advantage. Miss Crawford was recalled again and again.

Strathroy Age. — Miss Jessie Irving, the talented young elocutionist, carried the immense audience by storm. Her dramatic powers were exceptionally brought out in the rendition of "Alexander."

And Mr. Gliddon's full orchestra of twenty pieces.

MEETINGS TO DISCUSS MUNICIPAL UNION

Held in Peterborough and Ashburnham Last Night.

Citizens Who Attended Were Practically Unanimous in Favour of the Union. The Vote to be Taken To-morrow—Those who May Vote.

A meeting of citizens to discuss the question of the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham, was held in the council chamber last night, Mr. Hughes-Charles and Mayor G. M. Roger were on the platform, and about twenty-five gentlemen were present.

The chair was taken by Mayor Roger, who, in calling the meeting to order, explained the historical steps leading up to the vote to be taken on the subject to-morrow. He reviewed the matter, stating that a vote had been taken on the question some years ago, when the ratepayers in both municipalities voted in favour of the union. He said that at that time the two councils were unable to come to an agreement, and the union was not consummated. The matter had been discussed off and on ever since, and the time had come when the matter was again up for discussion. The Mayor then stated the basis of union, and read the following reports of committees appointed to deal with the question:

Peterborough, March 17, 1903.

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council appointed to confer with the Council of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two municipalities, appointed a sub-committee which had a conference with the members of the Village Council, at which it was agreed that both committees should report in favour of the union of the municipalities, to take effect on Jan. 1st, 1904, the united municipalities to take over the assets and assume the liabilities of the present Town and Village, and the Village to form one ward for all such purposes as wards now serve in the Town or may hereafter serve in the united municipalities, and, in the event of a vote being taken upon the question in the Town, it shall be taken upon a date to be agreed upon between the Town and Village Councils, so as to have the vote taken upon the question in the two municipalities on the same day, this to be without prejudice to any public works undertaken by either municipality in the meantime.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. SHORTLY,
Chairman.

The following is an extract from a report of the committee of the whole council, adopted Oct. 20th, 1903:

5. "Your committee recommends the adoption of the report of the sub-committee of this committee which was appointed to confer with the council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to municipal union and which report is attached to this one, and also that a vote of all the electors qualified to vote at municipal elections be taken on the question on a date to be fixed by the mayor."

The following is a copy of the report of the sub-committee referred to in the above extract:

"To the Committee of the Whole Council:

Gentlemen,—Your sub-committee appointed to confer with the council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two municipalities beg leave to report that on October 8th, inst. they had another conference with the council of the village at which it was decided to recommend as follows:

"That failing the settling of the question of a sewerage system for Ashburnham before the taking of a public vote on union there, that it be made one of the terms of union that an outfall sewer be constructed in Ashburnham from Elizabeth street southward to a septic tank and outfall on the shore of the Little Lake to be completed within two years from the date of union, at an estimated cost of $10,000, and that the vote on the question of union shall be held on the 26th of October, or such other date as may be agreed on by the mayor and reeve.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) G. M. ROGER,
Chairman.

He said that the council had thought the matter should again be submitted to the ratepayers to express their opinion on it, and had selected Thursday, November 26th, as the date on which all those eligible to vote at municipal elections might vote on it. He said for the guidance of speakers, that the population of Peterborough is 11,807, while that of Ashburnham is 1,781. The assessment of Peterborough is $5,038,305, and that of Ashburnham $500,778. The present debt of Peterborough for all purposes is $599,009, and of Ashburnham $19,500; the rate of taxation in the former is 19 mills, and in the latter 18 mills.

Mr. William Langford, who was a member of the council when the last vote was taken, then addressed the meeting, giving reasons why the union would be beneficial. Mr. Langford said:

The tendency in the larger cities, where municipal government is studied more closely, is to unite contiguous towns or smaller communities with the larger and place all under one management. We have seen this done in Montreal and Toronto, and even New York, large as it was, is now Greater New York and comprises Brooklyn and other large cities. In business matters the tendency is the same, for larger stores are taking the places of smaller ones, the consolidation of several kinds or classes of business under one management being found advantageous.

Ashburnham and Peterborough are one place in all respects except municipally. The village and town adjoin each other, and so closely that in the northern part of the village a portion of the town is wedged in and separates one part of the village from the rest. As regards business relations they are one, and the municipalities could be managed more economically as one than they can while separated.
